Heavy institutional buying was believed responsible for the bullish tone displayed by United States governments. Both Liberties and short term Treasury issues were very active. Liberty 3 1-2s duplicated its year's high and every bond in the group advanced with Treasury issues showing the largest gains. Treasury 4s rose 14-32nds.

The renewed buying interest displayed in New York traction companies' obligations was attributed to a report which was later denied officially, that an agreement had been reached for merger of the lines into one system. Interborough Rapid Transit 6s rose 3 points, Manhattan first 4s, 7, and Brooklyn Manhattan Transit 6s were up nearly 2.

Declines of 1 to 3 points were sprinkled through the list of corporate domestic issues and established many at new lows for the year. The decline was sufficiently marked to set a new 1930 minimum in the average for 30 bonds.

LEGAL NOTICES

LEGAL NOTICE

TO ALL PERSONS WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:

This is to give you notice that at a special meeting of the Court of Common Council of the City of Norwich, in the State of Connecticut, held Thursday, December 11th, 1930, the following was proposed and offered as an Ordinance of said City, and consideration thereof and action thereon were, as required by law, postponed until the regular meeting of the Court of Common Council to be held on the 5th day of January, 1931, at eight o'clock P. M. in the Council Chamber, when a public hearing will be had thereon:

"An ordinance amending an ordinance of the city of Norwich adopted December 1st, 1924, concerning traffic, etc.

Be it ordained by the Court of Common Council of the City of Norwich:

Section 1.—Section 42 of an ordinance of the City of Norwich relative to traffic, parking and rates to be charged by public conveyances, passed and adopted at a meeting of the said Court of Common Council held December 1st, 1924, as amended April 7th, 1930, is hereby further amended to read as follows:

"Section 42.—No person shall operate or drive any vehicle on Main Street between its junction with Broadway and Shetucket Street and its junction with Washington Square, except in a westerly direction; nor on Water Street between its junction with Commerce Street and its junction with Shetucket Street, except in an easterly direction; nor on Willow Street between Broadway and Chestnut Street, except in an easterly direction; nor on Broadway between its junction with Union Square and its junction with Union Street at the upper end of the Little Plain, except in a northerly direction; nor on Union Street between its junction with Broadway at the upper end of the Little Plain and its junction with Union Square, except in a southerly direction; nor on Market Street between Main and Water Streets, except in a southerly direction, Market Street being hereby made a one way street from Main Street to Water Street; nor on Shetucket Street between Main Street and Water Street, except in a northerly direction, Shetucket Street being hereby made a one way street from Water Street to Main Street."

Section 2.—An ordinance of the City of Norwich relative to traffic, parking and rates to be charged by public conveyances passed and adopted at a meeting of said Court of Common Council held December 1st, 1924, is hereby further amended by adding thereto the following section:

"Section 52—No person shall park any vehicle on the north side of Church Street for any period of time."

Dated at Norwich, Connecticut, this 11th day of December, 1930.

Attest:

WESTON C. PULLEN,
City Clerk and Clerk of the Court of Common Council of Norwich, Connecticut

AT A COURT OF PROBATE HELD at Norwich, within and for the District of Norwich, on the 15th day of December A. D. 1930.

Present, NELSON J. AYLING, Judge.

Estate of Sarah L. Crompton, late of Norwich, in said District, deceased.

Arthur E. Story, of Norwich, Conn., appeared in Court and filed a petition praying, for the reasons therein set forth, that an instrument purporting to be the last will and testament of said decedent, with codicil thereto, be admitted to probate.

Whereupon, it is Ordered, That said petition be heard and determined at the Probate Court Room in the City of Norwich, in said District, on the 18th day of December A. D. 1930, at 12 o'clock noon, and that notice of the pendency of said petition, and of said hearing thereon, be given by the publication of this order one time in some newspaper having a circulation in said District at least three days prior to the date of said hearing and that return be made to this Court.

NELSON J. AYLING, Judge.

The above and foregoing is a true copy of record.

Attest, HELEN M. DRESCHER, Clerk.

Radio For Czech Schools

PRAGUE—(AP)—Radio sets are to be installed in 13,000 primary schools of Czecho-Slovakia at a cost of approximately $1,800,000. The ministry of education has created a radio section which will have charge of the installation. Preliminary plans call for broadcasting special school programs twice daily.

POETRY

Leisurely Lane

Is there no road now to Leisurely Lane?
We travelled it long ago;
A place for the lagging of leisurely steps, sweet and shady and slow.
There were rims of restful hills beyond,
and fields of dreamful wheat,
With shadows of clouds across them blown, and poppies asleep at our feet.

There lads and maids on a Sunday met,
and strolled them two and two;
The leaves they laced in a roof o'er-head and only the sun peered through.
And there was time to gather a rose,
and time for the wood-bird's call,
And plenty of time to sit by a stream and harken its ripple and fall.

Is there no road now to Leisurely Lane?
(God knows we have hurried afar)
There was once a lamp through the brooding dusk, and over the free
a star;
There was once a breath of the clover bloom (sweet Heaven, we have hurried so long!)
And there was a gate by a white rose clasped, and out of the dusk a song.

That song—the echo is strange and sweet, the voice it is weak and old;
It hath no part with this fierce, wild rush, and this hard, mad fight for gold.
It hath no part with this clamor and din, and the jarring of wheel and stone!
Oh, listen, my heart, and forget—forget that we reap the bread we have sown!
Is there no road now to Leisurely Lane
—where, lingering, one by one,
The summoning bells of twilight time over the meadows blown
May find us strolling our homeward way, glad of the evening star?
Is there no road now to Leisurely Lane?
God knows we have hurried afar!

—By Virginia Woodward Cloud.

My Shadow And I

I saw my shadow on the earth— the wind
Ruffled my hair and made it flutter
there,
It was a transient thing that could but share
Existence with the fleetness of its kind.
"What have you here," I asked of it,
"to bind
You to the earth you now caress in rare,
Brief palpitations? There is room to spare
Yet you stay not—nor permanence can find."
"Am I like that?" I asked, "And must
I wend
My way a space—the sport of sun and cloud—
Then, like my shadow, be forever gone?"
Before my fast approaching fate I bend,
Thoughtful, that though the clay, a shadow-shroud,
Shall pass—my soul shall still bear bravely on.

NEW LONDON CITY COUNCIL GETS QUESTIONNAIRE FROM SENATE

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Dec. 15—At the meeting of the city council this evening a questionnaire was received from U. S. Senator Walsh, chairman of the appropriations committee, requesting information as to what assistance the federal government might render in the unemployment situation. He asked as to the absolute needs of the city and queried as to what its purpose was in relation to new construction and roads. The questionnaire was of a general nature and was referred to the city manager for reply.

Eleven applications for building permits were granted, three of them for dwellings.

Contracts for repairs on the Saltonstall school and the Allen Hook and Ladder Co. were awarded to the Arthur Jackson Co. the lowest bidder.

Contracts for 70 desks for the Jennings school were awarded to local bidders, $5 each.

The city manager was directed to reject a bid of $251.50 for Christmas lighting equipment from the electric company of Groton. The lights cost the city about $800.

The Colonial Oil Co., quit-claimed a piece of land on the corner of Ocean avenue and Bank street to the city for the improvement of the corner. It will improve traffic conditions there and the quit-claim was accepted.

City Engineer Watters reported on the surveying and grading of Gardner avenue extension and it was accepted by the council as a city street.

City Manager Granted $530,000

The city manager asked for and was granted appropriations of $530,000 until such time as the budget is approved. That is a temporary appropriation.

The finance committee is to meet two weeks from tonight to consider various matters of street lighting, renewing the contract for street lighting, the contract of Arthur Rudd for the bathhouses at Ocean Beach and the unemployment situation.

No Money for Tree

The matters of a Christmas tree on State street was brought up and Mayor Morgan said he would give the city a fir tree from his estate in the country, if the city would cut it down and take it in; but there is no money for that purpose.

Edward Soltz asked to be supplied with city water at his residence in Waterford on Clark Lane. He offered to pay the water rental as charged in New London and 10 per cent of the cost of connecting with the main which supplies the piggery.

The public utilities committee gave notice of extension of time to March 1 for the equipment of taxicabs with meters which will register all time and distances traveled.

Questions of amendment to the charter are to be considerd by the finance committee and director of law, so that a bill may be presented to the legislature in January.

Suggests Mrs. Speirs

A vacancy existing in the planning board was proposed to be filled by the reappointment of Emily C. Speirs. Councilor Scott made the motion, but Councilor Fox objected, saying he had no objection to Mrs. Speirs' reappointment, but it was understood by the council that all nominations to office should be brought before the committee before they were proposed to the council. Councilor Scott withdrew his nomination and the matter was referred to committee.

The removal of a tree on John street was asked by Julius and Mrs. Mary A. Cash. Referred to the public works committee. A garage has been erected on the land and the tree obstructs the entrance to it.

The council was invited to attend the annual meeting of the Northwest Hose Co. and accepted the invitation.

Aplications were made for a half dozen electric signs on Bank street and elsewhere; referred to the city manager with power.

Declines to Change

The city declined to change its charity fund from the office of the charity comissioner to the chamber of commerce, which is functioning in the same manner as the city.

Three Motorists Arrested

The state police made three arrests yesterday of automobile drivers who violated the state motor vehicle laws. Earl Vaughan, 494 Vauxhall street, New London, was arested in Waterford by Officer James Dygert charged with driving without a license and speeding. William White, 37 Franklin street, was arrested in Ledyard by Officer Arthur Kaith charged with driving without a license and Stillman Sanford, Hartford, was arrested in Bozrah by Officer Clarence Hoxie charged with failing to grant right of way.

Two Norwich Drivers Offend

In the police court today two drivers were charged with violation of the city's parking laws. William S. Buchart, 29 Rose street, Norwich, was charged with parking his automobile on the wrong side of the street, as was Samuel Grills, 34 West Broad street, Westerly. Neither driver appeared in court and his bonds of $2 were forfeited. Another driver, John Kolwas, 207 Central avenue, Norwich, who was arrested charged with parking in restricted area on Bank street, was released after being cautioned to heed the regulations in the future. Buchart and Grills drove to Green street Sunday night and deliberately parked their car beside the curb, near the corner of Golden street, instead of parking on the proper side of street, or driving their cars to a public parking space within 75 feet of where the autos were parked. The drivers were arrested by Automobile Patrol Officer George Cockell. Kolwas was ignorant of being a violator of the law and a bond was not exacted from him. He was arrested by Patrolman John Sullivan.

Several drivers of automobiles were in Groton town court today on various charges of violation of the state motor vehicle laws. Jack Gallagher, Philadelphia, was charged with reckless driving. He failed to appear for trial and his bond of $50 was forfeited. Gallagher was arrested last week by State Police Officer Arthur Whitmarsh. The former was driving on Poquonoc road and attempted to pass a truck, going in the same direction. In doing so the auto collided with a car driven by Putnam Burhoe, Poquonoc road, which was being driven in the opposite direction.

William H. Weeman, Groton, was charged with driving while his license was under suspension, he having been arrested last week. It came out that Weeman's license, which had been suspended, was returned to him by the motor vehicle department the day the day the driver was arrested, so the charge was nolled.

Frank Chiapperini, Groton, was charged with driving while his license was under suspension. He was fined $25 and costs, the latter amounting to $12.55. Chiapperini was arested last week.

This Driver Foolhardy

William Gillenius, U. S. coast guard, was charged with reckles driving and the case was continued a week. Gillenius was arested several days ago when he is alle-ed to have crossed the railroad tracks when a train was approaching after the crossing tender had signaled the driver to stop.

Joseph H. Willingham, Groton, was charged with driving without a license. The case was continued two weeks.

Got Off With Costs

George Malleck, New London, was charged with driving a truck that was not equiped with a reflector. The count was nolled, upon Mallack paying the costs of the court, $4.55.

Joseph Benerick, U. S. coast guard, was charged with intoxication. The charge was nolled upon payment of costs of court, $5.80 and Bernerick was delivered into the custody of a shore patrol, who accompanied the sailor back to the state pier for military discipline.

PROSPECT OF ICE HARVEST WOULD HELP UNEMPLOYED

Freezing weather having set in and ice having formed on ponds the past 48 hours, there is a prospect of the unemployed situation being slightly relieved for with continued low temperature prevailing for several days, and the indication is for a period of freezing, ice dealers will begin harvesting at any time when the ice attains a thicknes of nine or more inches. There are several ponds in this vicinity from which ice will be ahrvested and with this work started it is believed that at least 100 men will be gvien employment for several weeks, or until such time as the houses have ben filled.

The task of repairing the road-bed of Montauk avenue, which was recently torn up for several blocks because of construction work being performed by the Connecticut Power company, has been completed.

Aple vendors on State street, continue to receive liberal patronage for pedestrians purchase freley of two of the city's unemployed.

GIBSON GOES BACK TO JAIL—CASE GOES OVER TO WED.

James R. Gibson, former member of the United States coast guard, married and residing with his wife and two children at the Golden Spur, East Lyme, was given a hearing in the police court this morning, charged with forgery. The case was continued until Wednesday and in default of bail of $1,000 Gibson was remanded to jail. Gibson was arrested early Sunday morning at his home, following his having negotiated a fraudulent check and attempting to cash another. Both checks, one drawn on the New London City National bank for $68 and the other for $75, were stolen from the store of the Capitol Furniture Co., Bank street, and signed by the manager, Harry Slosberg. The check for $68 was negotiated at the jewelry store of Sol. Ockooneff, State street jeweler, where a watch was purchased for $15 and Gibson received the balance in cash. Last Saturday, Gibson tendered the other check at Hart's Fur shop, State street, but he made a hasty departure when the manager of the store telephoned to the furniture company for the purpose of ascertaining the validity of the check. The check for $68 was made payable to and endorsed in the name of Roy E. Miller and the check for $75 was made payable to and endorsed by Roy E. Hicks.

Commissioner of Motor Vehicles Robbins B. Stoeckel today ordered the suspension of the drivers' licenses of Jack Piscatella, 39 Truman street, and Michael Barnick, submarine base. Commissioner Stoeckel also ordered the return of the driver's license of Irving H. Setser, Fort Wright, N. Y.

Inviting Burglars

Two business houses were discovered unsecured by the police Sunday night. Both the front and rear doors of a dairy, corner of Connecticut avenue and Prest street were found unlocked, by Automobile Patrol Officer Elwood Bailey. The officer secured one entrance, but the other was allowed to remain unlocked the entire night for no method of securing it could be devised. Patrolman Arthur Feeley discovered the entrance to the store of the Thames News Co., corner of Union and Golden streets, unlocked. An employe of the company was summoned and made the store secure.

SIMONE PAYS $400 AND COSTS ON LIQUOR CHARGES

Tony Simone, 50 Moore avenue, was in the police court this morning, charged on two counts with violation of the liquor law, keeping with intent to sell and illegal possession. He pleaded guilty on both counts and on each a fine of $200 and costs was imposed. Simone was arrested Saturday night when a raiding force in charge of Sergeant John Courtney went to the house and acting on a search warrant issued by Judge Daniel M. Cronin. About 30 cases of beer and two pint bottles, each containing a small amount of whiskey was seized. The raid was one of four conducted during the night, but the Simone residence was the only resort visited where a search revealed liquor.

A man charged with intoxication was given suspension of judgment.

Basil Karisiewicz, 22 Cliff street, was charged with breach of the peace. The charge was nolled and Karisiewicz was placed on probation.

MRS. SORENSEN'S BODY TO BE FORWARDED TO DENMARK

Mrs. Marie K. Sorensen, 80, widow of Christen Sorensen, died this morning at her residence at Gales Ferry, after a lingering illness. She is survived by seven children, Soren Sorensen and Mrs. A. T. Miller, of Gales Ferry; Miss Louise Sorensen, Montreal; Mrs. C. W. Johnson, Los Angeles, Cal.; Mrs. C. Peterson, San Pedro, Cal.; Miss Hattie Sorensen, Denmark; Mrs. A. Larsen, Boston, and Mrs. Jessie Johnson, of British Columbia. Mrs. Sorensen was born in Denmark but had resided in this country 22 years. The body will be forwarded to Denmark for funeral and burial.

MONTVILLE

The fast Montville Aces quintet, who won their opening basketball game from the U. S. Marines Wednesday, will swing into action again this (Tuesday) evening in the Montville Community house with Sheffield A. C. of New London, comprised of former high school stars of that vicinity. The local players are out to chalk up another victory, and a hard fought game is expected. The local quintet has been practicing hard for the coming season under the supervision of Coach Morosky. The attendance at the first game was rather small and without the support of the home fans it will be impossible for the management to bring high class teams to Montville.

Last Call For Personal Tax

Collector Harry Watts held a busy session Monday, the last day to collect personal taxes in the town of Montville. Delinquent persons will pay $3 instead of $2 and out of about 1300 persons in the town on the personal tax list over 1100 had paid up to Monday noon.

Schools of the town of Montville will close for the Christmas vacation Friday, Dec. 19th. The term will open Monday, Jan. 5th. The out of town teachers will spend the vacation at their homes.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Palace Theatre

Starting tomorrow and running through Friday at the Palace is the strongest double bill ever presented, headed by the great success of the season, Love in the Rough, Robert Montgomery, featured player, and Dorothy Jordan, who appears opposite him, make their bow as a romantic team in "Love in the Rough," a musical comedy picturization of the play, "Spring Fever."

Altogether, it is an auspicious debut for thee popular young players. The picture is a highly entertaining vehicle and they present a delightful twosome as the hero and heroine of a charming little golf romance.

The story centers about Kelly, shipping clerk in Water's Department store, whose prowess as a golfer leads his employer to invite him to his fashionable golf club as a guest and coach. Here he meets Marilyn, daughter of a millionaire. Despite all sorts of amusing complications, the wide-awake Kelly manages to win the girl before returning to the business world as an executive. On the same bill is the finest story of the underworld, The Pay Off, a story from the pen of one of the greatest American writers. All the power, all the thrills of the dramatic stage at its best, are incorporated in the drama, "The Pay-Off."

Lowell Sherman, who directed the production, and also plays a leading role, is said to have scored an even greater triumph than in his first director-actor effort, "Lawful Larceny."

As the leader of a band of thieves, who operate under the guise of dress-suits and gentlemanly bearing, he handles a delicate plot in such masterful manner that the production is in no sense an "underworld" story.

Today for the last times the great picture, Abraham Lincoln, the story of the "Man Who Now Belongs to the Ages."

Broadway Theatre

Proof that modern audiences still thoroughly enjoy human interest stories, especially when packed with drama, tender romance, and chuckling comedy, is evidenced by the enthusiastic reception accorded everywhere to "Man to Man," the Warner Bros. and Vitaphone production which comes to the Broadway theatre tomorrow for a three-day stay.

The all-star cast is headed by Grant Mitchell, Lucille Powers, and Phillips Holmes. Others prominently cast are George Marion, Otis Harlan, Russell Simpson, Dwight Frye and Bill Banker.

The picture was adapted by Joseph Jackson from the widely read "Saturday Evening Post" story by Ben Ames Williams. Allan Dwan directed.

The action takes place in a small town in the south when "Barber John," beloved of the old-time citizens, and stamped as a jail bird by the new, returns to start life again in his home town after serving a lone prison sentence. The son, marked by the father's past record, blames the parent for his embarrassment. The manner in which both fight for each other in time of trouble and learn to love each other provides a story of compelling interest. The sweetheart love theme is provided by the boy and girl of the home town played respectively by Phillips Holmes and Lucille Powers.

"Just Imagine" with El Brendel finishes its run with tonight's performance.

A FINE RECORD OF FAIR DEALING

FAIR adjustment and prompt payment of losses are of course prime functions of insurance.

Every day Stock Fire Insurance adjusters meet people who have suffered misfortune. Whether or not the adjuster be greeted cordially, he must use tact and exercise fairness in the handling of each loss. The good reputation of his company is ever at stake under such circumstances.

A Million Fire Loss Reports

On an average, a million fire loss reports are filed annually with Stock Fire Insurance companies—not including an almost equal number of loss claims under other forms of insurance which these companies write—such as hail, windstorm, automobile, earthquake, and the like.

That more than 99 percent of fire loss claims—from the most disastrous conflagration to the smallest blaze—are adjusted without controversy is a splendid tribute to the fairness of property owners and the companies.

STOCK FIRE INSURANCE adjusters and officials appreciate the value of good will in the adjusting of losses as much as they do in the acquisition of business.

They are sincerely desirous of settling claims in keeping with the rights of all concerned.

To such fair-dealing, Stock Fire Insurance owes a large measure of the public confidence which it enjoys.

GREENEVILLE

An enjoyable social was given by the C. E. society Friday evening in the assembly hall of the Third Baptist church. The programme consisted of games, one of which was the African dodger, illustrated by Henry Sebastian. After the games were played refreshments were served. The committee in charge comprised Henry Sebastian, Miss Doris Lund, Miss Elinor Howard and Christopher Wunderlick.

FUNERAL

Patrick O'Connell

The funeral of Patrick O'Connell was held from his residence, 500 Boswell avenue, Monday morning at 8.15 o'clock followed by requiem mass at St. Mary's church at 9 o'clock celebrated by the pastor, Rev. George J. Donahue. The musical programme of the mass was in charge of the organist, Mrs. M. J. Farrell. Chopin's Funeral March was played as the body was borne into the church and at the offertory Pie Jesu was sung. Mrs. Farrell rendered Jesus Saviour of My Soul as a waiting hymn. Abide With Me was played at the recessional. Burial took place in the family lot in St. Mary's cemetery. The bearers were Edmund O'Connell, Raymond Gauthier, Francis Dion, Arthur and Joseph L'Heureaux and Louis Dion. The floral remembrances were both numerous and beautiful. Among the large attendance at the services were mourners from Manchester, Bridgeport, East Hampton, Pawtucket, Wauregan, New London, Westerly, Taunton, Mass., and Willimantic. Undertakers J. J. Lyons and Co. had charge of the funeral arrangements.

TAFTVILLE

DEATH OF J. B. BISSONNETTE OCCURS IN CENTRAL FALLS

John B. Bissonnette died Monday morning at a hospital in Central Falls, R. I., where he had been a patient for several months. He would have been 69 years old today (Tuesday). Mr. Bissonnette was for many years a resident of Taftville, where he was well and favorably known, and where he had a wide circle of friends. Born in L'Ange Guardian (now Ben Roberts), P. Q., Can., he came to this village when a young man and entered the employ of the Ponemah mills, remaining with that concern for 31 years. He was a man of cheery disposition and sterling character and his loss will be keenly felt by all who knew him. Surviving are his wife, four daughters, Mrs. Philip Poirier of Taftville, Mrs. Edward Lafleur and Miss Albina Bissonnette of Central Falls, and Noella, who is a nun of the Order of the Precious Blood in China, and two sons, Orville of Taftville and Oveldo of Central Falls, R. I.

TWO DESTROYERS ASSIGNED TO THE COAST GUARD

The destroyers Badger and Wood recently transferred from the navy to the coast guard will be assigned to Division 1 of the coast guard destroyer force, vessels of which are based at New London, following completion of overhaul at the Philadelphia navy yard. The destroyers will replace two old coast guard destroyers which have been placed out of commission. Overhaul work on the Badger and Wood is about 30 per cent completed.

The destroyers Hunt and Herndon, also at the Philadelphia navy yard being overhauled, will replace two other coast guard destroyers which are out of repair. The Hunt, overhaul work on which is about 90 per cent completed, will be based at New York, and will be flagship of the division there. The Herndon, following overhaul, which is about 60 per cent completed, will be stationed at Boston.

The former navy destroyer Upshur, which was recently transferred to the coast guard to replace the Downes will go to New York about Jan. 1. The Upshur is now at the Philadelphia navy yard, where minor changes in her equipment is being made. The officers and men formerly on the Downes are not on the Upshur.

City Pinochle League Playing

The schedule for this (Tuesday) evening's meeting of the City Pinochle league was announced Monday evening as follows:

First half, Thermos vs. Eagles; West Side vs. Lafayette club; Swedish club vs. Italian club; Icy Hots vs. Duwells.

Second half, Thermos vs. West Side; Eagles vs. Lafayette club; Swedish club vs. Icy Hots; Italian club vs. Duwells.

High scores in last week's play were: Hansen of the Swedish club, 8,112; Swatzburg of the Eagles club, 7,940.

PUTS UNEMPLOYMENT BLAME ON MACHINE AGE OVER-PRODUCTION

Fred Holdsworth of this city, who was the candidate for lieutenant governor on the socialist party ticket last month, was the speaker at the meeting of St. Andrew's Episcopal church Men's club in the guild room of the church with The Cause and Prevention of Unemployment as his subject. The surplus of products in a machine-age he said was at the root of the trouble and he offered a number of suggestions for its cure.

Charles Erwin presided in the absence of the club president, James Lockhart, and the meeting opened with the singing of America, Fred C. Geer being at the piano. On the entertainment programme were solos by A. Demute and George Hollingsworth, and a debate with John McNeal on the affirmative, Frederick Johnson on the negative and Raymond Evans as judge. Refreshments were served.

Address by Mr. Holdsworth

In his address Mr. Holdsworth said:

It gives me a great deal of pleasure to appear before you once more as the speaker of the evening and I shall endeavor to make my subject as interesting as possible. I think that we are all interested and very much so in the great problem of unemployment because we don't know what day we shall have to face this terrible problem of modern civilization.

Unemployment my friends is the daily fear that haunts us from the cradle to the grave. It hangs over us just like the guillotine does over the French criminal threatening to cut us off from everything that life holds for us.

They boast about the freedom you enjoy in this great and glorious country but there is nothing glorious about it if you don't have a job and the only freedom you have is the freedom to starve. So don't fall for this bunk anymore unless you have a job.

We are faced today with something that we have never faced before as a nation and that is what is known as technological unemployment. This is unemployment that is caused by the introduction of labor saving machinery and has displaced thousands of workers.

Everybody you meet today is asking each other when is business going to pick up. But let me tell you this and get this clear that business is not going to pick up and the reason is factories start up but cannot employ those displaced. You will drift along about the same way you have been doing for the last two years unless something drastically is done along the lines which I will hereafter take up. The people have got to get rid of that childlike faith that prosperity is around the corner or there is some great man like Moses or Christ that is going to lead them out of the wilderness of unemployment and into the promised land of a steady job.

They have got to stand up like men and women and demand their share of the wealth that there is in plenty which means that they have got to have a job or its equivalent.

We have millions of people who want bread and millions of bushels of wheat that want buyers. We have shoe factories that are closed for want of orders and millions of people who want shoes. We have millions of people who want clothes and scores of clothing factories and textile factories that are shut down for want of orders.

It is estimated that if we had the same methods for collecting statistics on the unemployed as they have in England we would find that we have between 10 and 12 million unemployed men and women, boys and girls over the age of 16.

Unemployment Cause

Now what is the cause of unemployment.

The fundamental cause of unemployment is the basic fact that the average worker only receives in wages about one-third of what he produces. Thereby he can only buy back one-third of that which he produces thus creating a surplus of two-thirds of his products which must be disposed of in foreign countries, in plant extensions, or in developing new industries such as hydro electric developments, irrigation projects, radios, talkies, and so forth. When your foreign markets begin to fail and there are no more industries to be developed at home then your two-thirds surplus is thrown back on your home market which then becomes glutted with goods that they cannot dispose of and they immediately begin to curtail production and start to shut down and then we have what is known as hard times.

Technological Unemployment

You will very often see this term used in your daily papers and it means the displacement of men by machines. I will now read you a few extracts from an article by Jim Maurer, president P. F. L.

Human labor is being replaced by the machines in almost every field of industry. High speed machines, produce in a given time far more than the human workers can produce, but, they are not consumers and do not create a market for their own product as the human workers do. The workers displaced by the machine cannot buy; and the machine keeps on producing but not consuming! The workers not displaced are unable to buy as large a proportion of their products as before.

Since the World war, the use of labor-displacing machinery has gone forward with leaps and bounds. The labor-displacing robots are busy piling up huge profits for the masters who own them; while more than five million human workers are begging for work.

The mechanical firing apparatus installed by some of the railroads has thrown out 17,000 firemen. Since 1920 railroads have decreased their working force 235,000. About 70 per cent of the output of the baking industry may be classed as machine products. Poorly paid machine tenders supplant the skilled bakers, who lost not only their jobs, but their trades.

Now with a teletype setter at the receiving end of a telegraph wire, type can be set automatically at thousands of places by one operator. This invention will soon not only throw thousands of linotype operators out of work, but many editors, copy-readers and reporters will join the ranks of the unemployed. In an Ohio mill recently, 250 out of 400 puddlers were laid off, because a mechanical puddler with the aid of 150 human beings could, in a given time, turn out 500 tons more iron than was formerly turned out by 400 puddlers and helpers.

An expert cigarette maker could make 2,200 cigarettes a day. One machine with three unskilled operators now produces and boxes 160,000 cigarettes a day.

Cigarmakers are disappearing because the robots are taking their jobs. The labor cost of the machine-made cigars is one-fourth of the hand-made. But cigars cost more than ever.

Two workers out of three are actually displaced by the machine in street cleaning.

The coming of the machine age should be a blessing to the human race. It would be, if the machine were used in the interest of all the people instead of the few who own the machines. In other words, if the machine saved labor instead of wages.

The ticket-taking turnstile machines in subways, elevated trains and amusement parks, threw many thousands of ticket-takers out of work; while the automatic-car doors relieved thousands of brakemen of their jobs and at the same time greatly inconvenienced the traveling public. Glass-blowing machines left very few of the old school of mechanics.

Card-sorting machines to analyze statistics, tickets, reports, etc., are tabulated by machines in a manner that no human bookkeeper or statistician can equal for accuracy or speed. And many more white-collar high school or college graduates are looking for jobs. The calculating machine performs calculations in a fraction of the time needed by a bookkeeper. Besides, the machine never goes on a strike, but neither does the bookkeeper, for that matter, and now many of them are wondering what it's all about.

Effect on Public

The automobile industry came as a god-send to the workers that were forced out of other jobs, because it absorbed many job-seekers. But now we find the robot in the auto factories, and 30 men, with the aid of new methods and machine, turn out more work than a hundred did not so very long ago.

Modern rail mills, are now filled with machines that are operated by a human being bottled up in a steel cage.

The last word in hosiery machinery tells the same story, increased production, few employes, and reductions in wages for those who have jobs.

Every ditch digging machine, and there are many in use, does the work that formerly required a small army of laborers.

In the operation of blast furnaces, seven to eight men now do the work that formerly required sixty, and the loading of the pig iron is now done by from two to three men, with the result that ninety men, formerly required, lost their jobs.

Modern brick-making machines can now turn out from thirty to forty thousand bricks an hour. Ten men with one machine can now turn out more bricks than 500 could by the old method.

In recent years the machine is also making heavy inroads upon coal mining. Electric-driven machinery wherever profitable is displacing the coal miner.

The unemployment problem and the scrapping of workers over 40 years of age are however not entirely due to the machines.

Mergers and Machines

The merging of various industries, banks and stores, throws thousands of salesmen, office workers and others out of work. All consolidations mean reduction of overhead, laying off of employes, monopoly and increased profits.

So-called scientific management and introduction of the Bedeau or Taylor systems with their stop-watch sleuths spying upon and driving the workers as mercilessly as any chattel slaves were ever driven, play their inhuman part. They are ever demanding speed, speed and then more speed, refusing to employ and weeding out.

Now I have shown you the causes of unemployment which no one can dispute and the question naturally arises, what are we going to do about it? It is very easy to criticize and find fault, but it is far more difficult to construct and build up. We must face this with a strong will and an iron determination that this cancerous sore shall and must be removed from our national body, no matter what interests or individuals it may hurt. We must become unemployed-conscious, conscious of the fact that this is the supreme questin before the nation today; not the "world court," nor the "league of nations," nor tariffs. We must take the attitude towards our public representatives that we want action, not words, deeds, and not promises and, above all, the truth about the situation and not lies and deliberate misstatements which have come out of Washington in the last 13 months and from so-called leaders of industry, who issue statements that prosperity is just around the corner. Statements that are used to bolster up a falling stock market so that they can go in and make a clean-up.

Others Worse Off

Nations which belong to the "world court" and the "league of nations" are suffering from unemployment even worse than we are. "So this is no remedy." Nations which have low tariffs and even no tariffs have got the same problem, "free trade England" being a classical example with more than 2,000,000 unemployed. The bringing back of beer will not solve the problem because you will not be able to get any, unless you have the price to pay for it. We have abundance of other things but you cannot buy them because you have not got a job. You can swim in beer in England, but that does not help them any over there.

We have got to get rid of the idea that this problem can be solved from a capitalistic standpoint. We have got to solve it from a standpoint of common sense and humanity and if it is necessary to take away the control of wealth by the wealthy, then we shall have to do so.

This is the trouble with MacDonald over in England and President Hoover in our own country. Like Micawber, they are sitting on the fence, waiting for something to turn up. They both lack the sand and backbone to tackle this problem and are both absolutely unsuitable to be leaders of a nation, as is evidenced by their message to the congress of their respective peoples. They think more about keeping the income tax at its present level than they do about the ordinary worker having a job.

Solution Suggestions

Now I am going to turn from the standpoint of a critic to that of a man with constructive ideas that will help temporarily to solve this problem:

(1) We need a national constitutional convention to revise and bring up to date a constitution that can meet present-day needs and desires.

(2) A national eight-hour day and a five-day week.

(3) The abolition of all night and overtime work, except where absolutely necessary.

(4) Abolition of child labor under 16.

(5) The laying off of all married women whose husbands are getting wages enough to support them.

(6) The retiring of all men over 60 with suitable pensions; this to apply to all, from the officials down to the floor sweeper, so as to make way for young men (too old at 40 to be a worker, but never too old to be an executive. Average age of Hoover's conference).

(7) The payment of unemployed insurance, the fund to be raised by the state, employers and employes.

(8) Forbidding the use of federal reserve funds to be used in speculating in the stock markets.

(9) A national minimum wage law.

(10) The immediate taking over of all railroads by the government to be operated by a commission composed of representatives of the public, the management and the workers, and the immediate reduction of all freight rates by 50 per cent, the loss to be made up from the income tax.

(11) A national industrial planning board with broad compulsory powers to coordinate and plan production in all lines of industry so as not to produce more than we can consume along the same lines as the war industries board.

(12) The stabilization of prices so as to prevent the selling of commodities below the cost of production.

Surplus of Products

Now I want to impress upon you that it is the surplus of products that is the root of all the trouble and it is this that we, as a nation, must concentrate and work upon to control. This is a difficult and gigantic task, but none the less it will have to be faced. Stuart Chase, who is one of our foremost writers upon economic subjects, points out in an article in an October magazine issue the necessity of a planned system of production. He points out that in the automobile industry in the United States there is a plant capacity that can produce 8,000,000 cars a year, but there are only about 5,000,000 cars sold in the entire world. The plant capacity of our shoe factories is 900,000,000 pairs of shoes a year but we only use about 500,000,000 pairs a year. The plant capacity of our iron and steel mills is 62,000,000 million tons a year but in the most prosperous year they ever had they only sold 56,000,000 tons, and they are now extending their plant capacity by 4,000,000 tons a year. There are three times more textile factories than are actually needed and you have the ridiculous situation of about 1,800 mill agents bidding against each other in New York every time an order for goods is listed. He comes back home and finds out that he has taken the order below the cost of production and then he turns around and cuts wages, calls in the efficiency men and the result is chaos, confusion and bankruptcy, and the whole industry in a disorganized condition. I cite these as a few instances of the necessity of planned production.

Abraham Lincoln once said that "no nation could exist half slave and half free." I go a little further and say that "no nation can exist that has one-fourth of its available workers unemployed." We have got to remove this stigma from our country and see that every human being has a job so that he can enjoy life, liberty and happiness that was in the minds of our forefathers when they drew up the Declaration of Independence. When you have a job assured to you, you will be able to look everyone straight in the eye and say, "You haven't got anything on me." You will then be able to enjoy peace, plenty, and freedom, and for the first time in all history, human beings will at last be free in fact as well as in name.

JUDGMENT AGAINST BARBER FOR $155 DAMAGES

In a suit brought by Rose Jackson of New London against John Eno, a barber of that city, Judge C. B. Waller of the common pleas court has handed down a judgment for Mrs. Jackson for $155.

The plaintiff sued for $2,000, alleging that she went to the defendant's barber shop to secure a permanent wave. One of the employes in the shop is alleged to have negligently used the permanent wave equipment, resulting in the plaintiff's scalp being burned.

ALLOTMENT FOR PAYMENT ON THAMES RIVER WORK

Allotment of $23,000 for payments on existing contracts for the Thames river channel project was announced Monday by the war department at Washington.

Included in the work contracted for is the deepening of the channel between Allyn's Point and Norwich and this is being completed by the firm of Morris & Cummings of New York. Inspectors from the army engineers' office at Providence recently surveyed the section where dredging has been completed.

NORWICH STATE HOSPITAL ASKS FOR APPROPRIATION OF $2,688,622

HARTFORD, Dec. 15.—(AP)—Revealing that over-crowded conditions exist in several wards and that requests have been made for budget appropriation to remedy this situation, as well as for an appropriation to replace the present "dilapidated, unsanitary and over-crowded" buildings at the inebriate farm, the biennial report of the Norwich state hospital was made public today. Estimates of the requirements of the institution during the coming biennium total $2,688,622, more than half of which or $1,762,384 is for maintenance of the patients of the institution.

Requests for appropriations for new buildings include: Ward building for 150 tubercular patients to replace present building, $190,000; ward building and equipment for 150 male patients, $200,000; home and equipment for 75 male employes, $150,000; replacement of buildings at inebriate farm, $150,000; two cottages for assistant physicians and their families, $40,000. Of the remaining $196,238 requested, $24,285 is requested for modernizing and repairing the kitchen and its shops; $35,070 for an engineer and generator for the power house; $30,000 for improvements to the grounds; $20,000 to provide proper insurance of buildings and contents; the remainder being small sums for repairs and equipment for the plant.

The report reveals that the number of inebriates admitted to the farm during the fiscal year 1929-30 was 238, 26 more than in the previous year and the largest number admitted in the 15 years for which figures are shown in the report. A total of 305 inebriates were treated in the farm in 1930, as compared with 263 in 1929, and the average daily population rose from 53 in 1929 to 69 in 1930.

RESIGNS FROM OFFICE IN UNCAS-MERCHANTS BANK

Herbert F. Dawley, vice-president and director of the Uncas-Merchants National bank, who was 79 years old on Sunday, tendered his resignation from his offices in the bank at the regular weekly meeting of the directors on Monday.

Mr. Dawley stated to his fellow directors that he felt he had reached the time of life when he wished to be relieved of the responsibilities of business affairs and the directors accepted his resignation with regret.

Mr. Dawley was elected a director of the Uncas National bank on Feb. 8 1915, and became vice-president of the Uncas-Merchants bank at the time of the consolidation with the Merchants bank in October, 1928.

At the conclusion of the meeting, in recognition of Mr. Dawley's birthday President Henry F. Powers presented him a beautiful basket of flowers from the directors, officers and employes, accompanying the gift with a tribute to the ability and character of Mr. Dawley and pointing to his success in life as an example to the young people of today of what may be achieved through industry and the devotion to high principles as a guide through life.

Each director present extended his good wishes that Mr. Dawley would enjoy many years of well-earned rest and spoke of the pleasure they had found in their business relations with him.

GAVE BIRTHDAY PARTY FOR MISS FRANCES BUSCH

A delightful birthday party was given by the "Our Gang" Sewing circle in honor of Miss Frances Busch at her home "The Elms" in Baltic Friday evening.

Radio selections were enjoyed and a piano duet was given by the Misses Greta Faulkner and Edna Wilcock. Piano solos also were given by Frances Busch, Gertrude Seddon, Elsie Chase, Dorothy Fox and Greta Faulkner. Games and group singing were also enjoyed.

A pleasing luncheon of cake, ice cream and cocoa was served by Mrs. Busch.

Those present were Dorothy Bradlaw, Elsie Chase, Greta Faulkner, Dorothy Fox, Margaret Geigenmiller, Esther Haley, Alice Hinchliffe, Helen Nicholos, Ruth Philipp, Gertrude Seddon, Edna Wilcock, Evelyn Wilcock, Frances Busch and Marie Heibel.

Miss Busch was the recipient of many beautiful gifts.

Operators' Licenses Suspended

According to notices sent to Norwich police headquarters by the state motor vehicle department, the operators' licenses of Harold A. Flood of 213 Broad street, William Jenks of R. F. D. No. 8 and Tony Duke of 27 Tanner avenue, have been suspended.

50TH WEDDING ANNIVERSARY BY UNCASVILLE COUPLE

Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Bugbee of Uncasville celebrated their golden wedding Sunday with a dinner for twenty-five, guests being present from Danielson, Putnam, Jewett City and Uncasville.

The dining room was prettily decorated with yellow roses and chrysanthemums. Mr. and Mrs. Bugbee were united in marriage at Foster, R. I., Dec 12, 1880 by Rev. George Cortiss. They are the parents of six children, three of whom are now living: Merton of Jewett City, Ralph of Uncasville, and Mrs. William A. Smith of Uncasville. There are seven grand children, Mrs. William Gill of Moosup, Clifford Ray and Anna Bugbee of Jewett City, Clifford Joseph Bugbee of Uncasville, Anna Patience and William Anthony Smith of Uncasville.

Mr. and Mrs. Bugbee received the well wishes of all their friends and many beautiful gifts.

HEATER FIRES WOODWORK AT AIRPLANE FACTORY

The fire department was called out at 12.17 o'clock Monday afternoon for a blaze in the quarters occupied by the Knoll-Brayton Co., at No. 195 North Main street. Sparks from a defective heater set the woodwork near the heater on fire. There was but small damage.

At 9:38 o'clock in the morning the department answered a telephone call to extinguish a burning awning at the S. K. Ames Co. store, Franklin square. The awning was destroyed and woodwork nearby was scorched. Engine No. 1, Squad A., and Deputy Chief D. J. Brennan responded. The Max Gordon Corp., owns the building.

COURT RULES ADOPTION OF 18TH AMENDMENT INVALID

Federal Judge William Clark, at Newark, N. J., Rules "That Only By Constitutional Conventions, and Not By State Legislatures, Can Such Amendments, Which Transfer to the U. S. Powers Heretofore Reserved to the States, Be Ratified"—Ruling Will Be Effective Only in Those Districts in Which U. S. District Court Judges Concur in the Findings—Appeal Would Stay the Effect of the Decision Until It Could Be Ruled On By a Higher Court

NEWARK, N. J., Dec. 16—(AP)—The adoption of the eighteenth amendment, Federal Judge William Clark held today, was invalid.

He ruled that only by constitutional conventions and not by state legislatures can such amendments, which transfer to the United States power heretofore reserved to the states, be ratified.

The only immediate effect of his decision, Judge Clark explained, would be in New Jersey and any arrests for the retail sale of intoxicants in that state would have to be made under the state prohibition enforcement act pending appeal of the ruling. Appeal would stay the effect of the decision until it could be ruled on by a higher court.

Philip Forman, federal district attorney for New Jersey, said the decision would affect only Judge Clark's district and that the Volstead act will continue to be enforced in New Jersey until the remaining three judges on the federal bench in this state either decide in agreement with Judge Clark or until a decision of the higher courts is reached on the opinion.

Other judges concurred with Forman's opinion.

The ruling will be effective only in those states in which United States district court judges concur in the findings.

Validity of the manner in which the prohibition amendment was adopted was tested before Judge Clark by a group of attorneys—all members of the New York County Lawyers' association—after a study of two years. The group represented William Sprague, a township clerk in New Jersey who had been indicted for transporting beer. By today's decision the indictment was quashed.

Judge Clark is 38, an heir to millions who served in the ranks of the American expeditory forces during the World war. He is the youngest member of the federal judiciary, but he has been called a leading scholar of the constitution. In a 15,000-word opinion he discussed the proposition that prohibition of intoxicating liquors was a queston of government and a problem in political science. He called upon nearly a hundred authorities in support of his ruling and quoted from their public and private writings at length.

Question Never Before in Court

The jurist declared the question he was deciding has never been presented to any court and said he was not bound by any earlier or higher authority.

In national prohibition cases before the supreme court of the United States the only matters argued concerned the substance of the eighteenth amendment and whether or not an amendment changing the distribution of power between the states and the United States reduced the police powers of the former.

On other issues than that upon which Judge Clark ruled today the federal courts, including the supreme court of the United States, have held the eighteenth amendment to be valid.

Although Judge Clark decided the case on points raised by counsel, he found several instances, he said, in which he was diametrically opposed to their contentions, and his decision contained less than half a dozen of the authorities cited by them in their briefs.

"The traditional method of adopting amendments to the United States constitution," he wrote, "is challenged. Upon the outcome of the challenge depends the disposition of the case at bar. Even if this opinion meets with a cold reception in the appellate courts we hope it will at least have the effect of focusing the country's thought upon the neglected method of considering constitutional amendments in convention.

"We have often wished for some statute akin to that of Mortmain to remove the dead hand of tradition from the domain of ideas."

The court related that in Massachusetts the first constitution was rejected because it had not been framed by a body chosen for that one purpose. He also pointed out that of eight constitutions prior to 1787 which provided for amendments, five required that the process be undertaken in some form of convention.

"This discussion of the assumptions underlying the amending clause of the constitution has been as thorough as the inhibitions of our scholarship and

BANK BANDITS ESCAPE WITH $50,000 IN PITTSBURGH

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 16—(AP)—Banditry here waxed to new heights today in a bold holdup of a North Side bank from which three men obtained $50,000 and escaped. The robbery was the third bank holdup in the district in ten days and with the regular police apparently unable to cope with the situation, many banks were adding private police as a precautionary measure.

Bank officials, including President J. C. Gerwig, employes and customers—15 persons in all—were herded into the main banikng room of the Manchester Savings Bank and Trust company soon after the doors were opened this morning. Cowed by guns, they watched while the robbers forced the assistant treasurer to open the vault containing the money.

Working quickly and threatening death to those who might attempt to frustrate them, the bandits seized many packages of currency and loose bills from the vault.

They fled unhindered in an automobile they had stolen. The machine was found abandoned in the city a few hours later.

DENIES MARRIAGE PROPOSAL UNTIL AFTER DEATH OF WIFE

KANSAS CITY, Kans., Dec. 16—(AP)—Under cross examination, Major Charles A. Shepard insisted on the witness stand late today that he did not propose marriage to Miss Grace Brandon, young stenographer, until approximately four months after the death of the wife he is alleged to have poisoned.

The prosecution which charges Shepard poisoned Mrs. Shepard so he would be free to marry Miss Brandon, had not completed its questioning when court adjourned. Shepard will go on the stand again tomorrow in the murder trial.

LOCATE MAN MISSING SINCE SINKING OF BOAT

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., Dec. 16—(AP)—John S. Haig of Pomona, Calif., reported among three missing after theexcursion boat Eureka II sank off Miami Beach Sunday night, was located here today.

Haig said he was rescued by the boat Dorothea and later came here to look for work.

He said Frank J. Keefe of Providence, R. I., also reported missing, leaped into the sea with him but soon started swimming toward an island. Keefe removed his life belt to prevent it from hampering his swimming, Haig said.

BOY ACCIDENTALLY SHOT DURING TARGET PRACTICE

NEW HAVEN, Dec. 16—(AP)—William McNerney, 12, was accidentally shot and critically wounded today by Joseph Laventowski, 13, a neighbor, while they were engaged in target practice.

The boys had been in the habit of using the second floor of the McNerney home as a shooting gallery. It is believed that Laventowski accidentally fired the gun while his friend was fixing the target. The bullet wounded McNerney in his chest. His name was placed on the danger list at Grace hospital.

DEM. COMMITTEE SPENT $19,491.20 IN STATE ELECTION

HARTFORD, Dec. 16—(AP)—The democratic state central committee expended $19,491.20 in the campaign this fall, which resulted in the election of Wilbur L. Cross as governor, according to the statement filed by Treasurer Fred P. Holt, of the state central committee at the office of the secretary of the state this afternoon. Contributions to the party's campaign funds totaled $19,564, leaving the committee with a balance on hand of $82.80.

Former National Committeeman Thomas J. Spellacy, who gave $2250, was the largest individual contributor to the party, although the contribution of the Bridgeport democratic town committee, $5,000, was the largest single amount contributed. Gov.-elect Cross contributed $2,000, and Daniel J. Leary, candidate for lieutenant governor gave $1,500, Barend Van Gerbig and David A. Wilson, candidate for attorney general, gave $1,000 each.

CRACKSMEN BORED OUT STEEL WALL OF SAFE

NEW YORK, Dec. 16—(AP)—Cracksmen bored their way into a midtown jewelry store through a wall back of the company's main vault and then burned out a large section of the steel safe wall, getting away with large booty, detectives disclosed today.

The burglary, carried out in expert fashion with the most modern tools, occurred between closing time Saturday and reopening yesterday morning. It was stated. Inventory of the loss had not been completed.

The yeggmen left behind two acetylene lamps. The American Diamond and Watch company, victim of the robbery, has its principal store in Maiden Lane. A week or more ago experts in the use of nitro glycerine looted a jeweler's safe, getting away with several thousand dollars' worth of gems.

HELD FOR HIT AND RUN AUTOMOBILE ACCIDENT

NEW HAVEN, Dec. 16—(AP)—Julius Ruckh, 61, of this city, was arrested today in connection with a hit and run automobile accident which resulted in the death Sunday of Mrs. Hulda Keane, 55, of West Haven.

Police said he admitted he was the driver of the machine which struck the woman and Frederick Tims, 65, also of West Haven, as they alighted from a trolley car.

Ruckh was held in $2,000 bonds on charges of idleness, reckless driving, and evading responsibility. A man who was with Ruckh at the time of the accident was also arrested.

AVIATORS FROM MOROCCO TO ASSIST SPANISH GOVT.

SEVILLE, Spain, Dec. 16—(AP)—Spanish aviators from Morocco are returning to Madrid, presumably to assist the government in controlling its restless kingdom.

An escadrille passed over here today en route to the capital but later was forced to return because of bad weather. The journey probably will be resumed tomorrow.

Despite the call for a general strike many laborers returned to work here this afternoon and military precautions were diminished.

Chicago Gangsters Having Hard Time

Members of Three Former Powerful Gangs Are Being Prosecuted

CHICAGO, Dec. 16—(AP)—Three erstwhile powerful gang syndicates felt the lashes of the state and the federal government today.

From the north, south and west sides gangsters were hauled into court—and the clan Capone was hardest hit.

Selection of a jury was begun in municipal court for the vagrancy trial of Jack Guzik, reputed business agent and loop beer collector for the Capone gang, who was recently convicted by the federal government for income tax evasion.

Tony "Mops" Volpe, bodyguard to "Scarface Al," pined away the hours in jail, thinking of gangland's better days and awaiting the government's next step toward deportation. Volpe was arrested on a warrant issued by Secretary of Labor Doak, alleging Volpe was an alien.

Danny Stanton, one of Al's chief gunners, fought extradition to Wisconsin, where he is indicted for the murder of Jack Zuta; and Dago Lawrence Mangano, Capone gambling overseer, was up on a vagrancy charge.

Seven Melrose park bookmakers, reputedly in the Capone alignment, were arrested in a raid.

Bernard O'Donnell, one of the notorious west side triumvirate of brothers—the other two being Miles and Klondike—also was arrested for a vagrancy hearing. He was taken by detectives who met him at the door of another courtroom—just after he had succeeded in having a bond forfeiture in a perjury case set aside.

Anthony "Red" Kissane and John Barry, once mighty members of George "Bugs" Moran's old mob, were arrested in a north side cafe on suspicion of carrying weapons. None were found, but the pair was held anyway.

SEIZURE OF NARCOTICS TO THE VALUE OF $1,000,000

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—(AP)—A net spread by customs officers in New York was opened today to disclose $1,000,000 in narcotics, but the smugglers slipped through its meshes.

The narcotics—1074 pounds concealed in 25 crates of furs—were landed from the steamer Alesia on December 5. Since that time officers with machine guns trained on the pier of Thirty First street in Brooklyn waited in closed motor cars for the drug peddlers to appear.

Apparently, however, they became wary when officers of the Alesia searched that vessel for a legitimate shipment which disappeared from the ship's strong box on the voyage from Constantinople. Deciding they had escaped the trap, the treasury department today announced the capture of the narcotics.

The half ton was reported to be the largest single seizure ever made in this country. Commissioner F. X. A. Edie of the customs bureau and Commissioner Harry J. Anslinger of the narcotics bureau recently planned a campaign against such smugglers and the seizure came from cooperation between the departments.

TO FINANCE $42,000,000 BONDS FOR THE CUBAN GOVERNMENT

HAVANA, Dec. 16.—(AP)—A contract for financing the issue of $42,000,000 bonds of the Cuban government to be used in payment for present stocks of sugar to be segregated under the Chadbourne plan, was signed by President Machado today.

Under the Chadbourne plan the National Sugar Export corporation is authorized to buy 1,500,000 tons of sugar of the surplus on hand from the last crop and sell it over a period of five years, when market conditions warrant the sale. Owners of sugar subscribing to the plan are to be paid in bonds of the issue, subject to today's contract, at the rate of $4 per bag of 325 pounds.

MAN WHO GIVES WIFE ALL HIS PAY INVITES TROUBLE

OMAHA, Neb., Dec. 16—(AP)—The man who gives his wife all his pay, Judge Herbert Rhoades said today, is inviting domestic difficulty.

The statement was made in the divorce trial of Robert M. vs. Lillian A. Dickson.

Dickson, charging cruelty, said he turned all his pay over to his wife and that once, when he did not do so, his wife burned him with an iron.

"My wife," Dickson said, "did not even give me enough for carfare to work."

ELKS HOME IN NORWALK WAS DAMAGED BY FIRE

NORWALK, Dec. 16—(AP)—The Elks home, a two story structure, was extensively damaged tonight when the furnace in the building exploded. Although about 20 persons were in the building at the time, no one was injured. The damage was estimated at about $5,000.

Fire, which followed the explosion was quickly extinguished. The blast shattered the walls in one room, tore up sections of the flooring, damaged a stairway, and ripped several doors off the hinges.

INCREASE REPORTED IN REV. FREIGHT LOADINGS

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16—(AP)—Revenue freight loadings for the week ending December 6, were announced by the American Railway association today, as totalling 787,173 cars.

This was an increase of 85,088 over the preceding week, when loadings were reduced by the Thanksgiving holiday, but a decrease of 146,136 below the same period a year ago.

Miscellaneous freight loadings totaled 269.805 cars, a decline of 50,805 from the same week a year ago.

FAVORS TAX TO TRY TO PROVIDE RELIEF FOR THE JOBLESS

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16. —(AP)— A blanket tax of five cents weekly on employes and ten cents on employers was advocated in the house today by Representative LaGuardia, republican, New York, to provide relief for those out of work.

He said he had prepared a bill to that effect which would include other forms of taxation.

Two Bandits Dead And Three Captured

Result of Relentless Pursuit of Posse in Illinois—Nearly All $15,000 Loot Recovered

SIDELL, Ill., Dec. 16—(AP)—The wild pursuit of five bank robbers by a relentless posse through the border line region of Indiana and Illinois ended dramatically today on a farm near Sidell with two bandits dead and three captured.

The dead were believed by authorities to have committed suicide rather than submit to capture. One of the captives was wounded.

A deputy Sheriff, Joe Walker, who tried to halt the robbers at Dana, Ind., was believed fatally wounded by the volley of machine gun bullets that poured from the bandit car as it sped through that town.

Nearly all of the loot—estimated at $15,000—which the robbers obtained in holding up the Citizens bank of Clinton, Ind., was recovered. The robbers did not have enough time to dispose of it.

Almost from the time they left the bank a posse organized by Sheriff Ernie Boetts was on their heels.

The bandit car broke down 12 miles out of Clinton and they seized another, tossing the owner $500 in gold. The posse drew closer.

At Dana the posse halted only long enough to see that Walker was taken to Terre Haute for medical treatment. When their second car became overheated near Chrisman, Ill., and the robbers commandeered a truck, the posse was close behind. At Scotland, Ill., the bandits took possession of a faster car, but took time to carry their three machine guns from the truck.

When that machine became disabled and they were seeking another, the posse overtook them. One bandit was wounded by the farmer whose car they were trying to steal. Two others fled to a corn field to be found later dead, and the other two were found hiding in farm buildings.

The possibility that one of the dead men might have been Fred Burke, notorious robber and killer, arose when some of those who saw the body said it looked like pictures of the fugitive. Fingerprints were taken to be compared with those of Burke.

The wounded man gave his name as E. H. Hunter and was believed to live in Terre Haute, Ind., or Clinton. An account book found on one of the dead men bore the name of H. D. Wilson of Chicago.

More than $11,000 of the loot was dropped by the robbers as they ran from the barnlot when the posse approached. Almost $2,000 more was found in their pockets.

A check in measurements tonight exploded the theory that one of the dead was Burke. The dead man was smaller than Burke and his teeth were in good condition, whereas Burke's are not.

INCREASE IN SALES OF GENERAL MOTORS CORP.

NEW YORK, Dec. 16—(AP)—November sales of General Motors corporation to dealers in the United States increased sharply over October and also showed an increase over November last year, although sales to consumers showed a decrease in each instance.

The increase in sales to dealers to a total of 48,155 cars in November against only 39,745 in the like month last year marked the first month this year that sales to dealers in the United States exceeded the monthly sales for the corresponding period last year and was explained as largely due to the introduction of new Chevrolet models. October sales to dealers in the United States totaled 22,324, the low point for the year, and the small volume was attributed to preparations for the introduction of the new Chevrolet models.

SERIOUSLY WOUNDED BY NATIONAL GUARDSMEN

DANVILLE, Va., Dec. 16—(AP)—Wounded by national guardsmen early this morning, Lockwood Pickett, 24, of Forest Hills, N. C., remained in a serious condition tonight. Meanwhile, the report of a military board of inquiry which today investigated his shooting by a patrol on duty in the Schoolfield mill strike zone was being prepared to send to Governor Pollard tomorrow.

No announcement regarding its finding was made by the board of three officials appointed by Colonel H. L. Opie, commanding the guardsmen.

Military authorities said Pickett was wounded in attempting to drive his car past a patrol of troops on a street about half a mile from the Dan River mill. They said he was fired on at a distance of 200 yards after he had ignored repeated commands to halt. Officers also reported finding 65 gallons of liquor in the automobile.

NATIVE OF HAMPTON FOUND DEAD IN HIS AUTO

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Dec. 16—(AP)—Phillip Jewett Palmer, 41, of Cambridge, assistant principal of the Arlington high school, was found dead in his automobile at Arlington today, the victim of carbon monoxide. He was the son of the late Myron T. Palmer, of Springfield, founder of Bay Path Institute.

Phillip Palmer was born at Hampton, Conn., in 1889, but came to this city with his parents when four years old.

His mother, a brother, his widow, and a young son at Cambridge, survive.

The funeral will be held at the home of his mother in Springfield Thursday afternoon. Burial will be in the family lot at Hampton, Conn.

RUM LADEN LAUNCH RAN ASHORE DURING PURSUIT

NEW YORK, Dec. 16—(AP)—The American-owned motor launch Rayfish Number 1, was run ashore through a pounding surf and wrecked near Fire Island late today during pursuit by coast guardsmen.

The boat's crew of three was arrested, charged with possession of 300 cases of liquor found on the badly disabled craft, near the Smith's Point station.

The prisoners said they were John Peary, Joseph Powell and Walter Kent, all of 25 South street, which is the address of the Seamen's Church institute.

SUMMARY OF YESTERDAY'S PROCEEDINGS IN CONGRESS

Democrats Accused Republicans of Filibustering the Senate's $60,000,000 Drought Relief Bill—Discussions Ranged From Relief Legislation to Attacks on Secretary Mellon and the Reserve Board—Conference Committees Agreed on $116,000,000 Unemployment Fund Bill

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16—(AP)—The democrats accused the republicans of filibustering the senate's $60,000,000 drought relief bill today, and when the discussion was over, leaders of both parties were recorded in opposition to a Christmas recess until a drought bill has been enacted.

Meanwhile congress talked of many things, the discussion ranging from relief legislation to attacks upon Secretary Mellon and the federal reserve board. The day's voting was confined to committee rooms, except for a group of diplomatic and non-controversial confirmations given by the senate.

The house agriculture committee voted to call Secretary Hyde for a personal elaboration of his objections to the senate drought bill. Democratic efforts to bring the measure before the committee at once were defeated.

The conference committees on the $116,000,000 unemployment fund bill formally agreed and their report will be brought up for discussion on the senate floor tomorrow, with a battle centering on the elimination of the senate amendment depriving President Hoover of discretionary power in expending the money.

The house immigration committee approved a bill to stop all immigration for two years, except for relatives of foreign born now in the country. This would be held to half of the present quotas.

Resolutions were introduced for inquiries into the price of bread, American relations with Cuba and to determine the feasibility of creating a government tribunal to render advisory opinions on questions of anti-trust law violations.

Blaming marginal trading on the New York stock exchange for economic conditions, Senator Heflin introduced a resolution to prohibit this form of transaction and to limit interest on call money to eight per cent.

Representative LaGuardia, republican, New York, called for a tax of ten cents a week on each employer and five cents a week on each employe to provide relief for those without jobs.

Chairman McFadden of the house banking committee opposed the appointment of Eugene Meyer as chairman of the federal reserve, asserting it would put that agency into international finance.

Representative Garner, the democratic leader, said McFadden's statement was an indictment of the administration and then criticized Secretary Mellon's administration of tax refunds, charging he had misled the public.

The interior department appropriation bill was reported to the senate today carrying $69,294,800 or $338,194 more than was provided by the house.

NO REPORT FROM THE EMPLOYMENT COMMISSION

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16—(AP)—President Hoover today informed the senate that the president's emergency commission on employment has made no report on the subject.

The information was sent in reply to a senate resolution asking that such a report be transmitted to it.

"The president's emergency committee," the message said, "has made no report on unemployment. I have received notes and verbal suggestions from Colonel Arthur Woods from time to time, and from the departments in the government on this subject. These were confined to guidance in formulation of the recommendations which I have already laid before congress. Such notes and discussions are necessarily passing and tentative, and they represent that confidential relation of the president with government officers which should be preserved."

WINTRY WEATHER ALONG THE ATLANTIC SEABOARD

(By The Associated Press)

Old Man Winter, accompanied by his right hand man, North wind, strode down the Atlantic seaboard yesterday just to let the world know that he was still boss of the weather in December.

He left behind him a trail of icicles, stinging toes and fingers, chattering teeth, and augmented coal bills.

He breathed on New England and upper New York state, and the cowed mercury in the thermometers slunk below zero. By the time he reached Boston, his severity had melted a little, but it was only 5 above in Boston at 8 a. m., and 10 above in New York. Among 15 cities, all over the country, whose temperatures at that hour were given out by the weather bureau, Boston was the coldest, and New York next. It was 26 degrees colder than normal in New York.

Winter continued his march through the day, but by night he was getting weary nad losing his grip. Slowly, but surely, temperatures were going up. The forecast generally was: "Fair tomorrow and warmer."

OPERATION GIVES SIGHT TO A MAN BORN BLIND

LANSING, Mich., Dec. 16.—(AP)—After living 25 years in darkness, Marvin Jenkins, pianist and radio entertainer, is able to see.

Born blind, Jenkins had expected to remain sightless until his death, but a delicate operation performed last Friday has given him the sight of one eye.

One of the first persons he saw when the bandage was removed was his wife, Carol, to whom he was married three years ago.

The operation was performed in a hospital here by Dr. John O. Wetzel, assisted by Dr. Howard C. Rockwell, both of Lansing. It consisted of removal of a congenital cataract, and required the fitting of an artificial lens to the eye. No effort will be made to restore sight to the other eye. Friends of Jenkins and members of a local luncheon club helped arrange for the operation.

ACTRESS WILDA BENNETT WEDS MAN SHE HAD SUED

WEST LONG BRANCH, N. J., Dec. 16.—(AP)—Wilda Bennett, musical comedy star whose appearances in court have been almost as widely heralded as those she made on the stage, had a third husband today after dropping a $20,000 damage suit she brought against him for injuries in an automobile accident.

Miss Bennett and Anthony Wettach, Elberon sportsman, were married last night by Mayor Samuel L. Baker. Then they left for a honeymoon in Florida.

After the accident last year, which injured Miss Bennett's legs, she withdrew from the stage. She was driving with Wettach when the car left the road. Her damage suit never came to trial.

The actress' first husband was Robert Schable and her second Pepe De Albro, South American cabaret dancer. Both unions ended in divorce.

DISCUSSION OF SOLDIERS' HOME PROJECT POSTPONED

DARIEN, Dec. 16—(AP)—Discussion of a proposed legislative program calling for the expenditure of $2,000,000 for new construction at the Veterans' home, at Noroton, was postponed today by the veterans' home commission because of the absence of two members.

The commission adjourned until January 13, when it hopes to have a full membership present for discussion of the program.

Plans have been prepared calling for the erection of barracks and hospital space which will provide accommodations for 500 veterans in residence and 250 in the hospital units.

SPAIN OUTWARDLY CALM; MARTIAL LAW STILL IN FORCE

MADRID, Dec. 16.—(AP)—Spain was outwardly calm tonight in spite of a revolutionary aftermath in the form of an extensive general strike that affected, during the day, almost every section of the country.

Order was enforced by the presence of 75,000 troops and thousands of civil guards called out yesterday under Premier Damaso Berenguer's proclamation of a state of siege. They clashed in a number of cities today with strikers, but official reports received in Madrid denied that there was bloodshed.

Martial law was still in force, and a strict censorship prevented the circulation, by regular channels, of any news that might serve to alarm the population. Reports that the situation was much more critical than appeared on the surface were denied by officials.

It was known, however, that strikes broke out in Barcelona, center of Catalonian unrest; Cuenca, Orense, Gijon, Saragossa, Lerida, Zamora, Ferrol, Huelva, San Sebastian and Santander. For a time a food shortage was feared in some important cities, but later, through the efforts of troops and policemen who assisted in the protection of re-opened shops, restaurants and bakeries, this condition was alleviated.

Nevertheless, heavy patrols of troops were maintained tonight in the important centers of unrest.

CONDITION OF POINCARE IS SLIGHTLY IMPROVED

PARIS, Dec. 16.—(AP)—Paris sighed with relief tonight on learning officially that the condition of former President Poincare was slightly improved.

Throughout the day there had been conflicting reports on the illness of the war-time president and eminent statesman of the republic, most of them emphasizing the seriousness of his condition.

Awaking to hear that M. Poincare was dead, the population of Paris listened all morning to rumors which finally reached the chamber of deputies, where many politicians and statesmen immediately left for Rue Marbeau to pay their respects to the departed statesman.

A short time later an official denial of M. Poincare's death was printed, and visitors emerging from the little house on the edge of Paris after talking with Mme. Poincare and other members of the household all agreed that his condition was improved. After reading an official communication corroborating these reports, the city was less anxious and felt there was no immediate danger.

GOSS ENDORSED FOR MILITARY COMMITTEE

(Special to The Bulletin)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—Representative Edward W. Goss of Waterbury has been assigned by vote of the house to the military affairs committee. Goss is a member of the New England council and was strongly endorsed for military affairs by Floor Leader Tilson. Appointment to a major committee in the first month of services is almost unprecedented and is regarded here as a high tribute to both Tilson and Goss.

EITHER PEACE THROUGHOUT CUBA OR INTERVENTION

HAVANA, Dec. 16—(AP)—The Cuban government, troubled by political unrest and student agitation, sees its situation in one sentence:

"Peace throughout the republic, or intervention."

Dr. Eugenio Molinet, acting secretary of education, so put the situation today and the government is continuing to take every precaution to insure peace.

PITIFUL CASES OF SUFFERING REVEALED BY WELFARE BUREAU

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Dec. 16—A report of visits into homes in the city by workers of the Welfare Bureau states that there is much suffering and that the city has its full share of the sorry results of the depression period. A worker reports that in a family of six the father is too ill to continue at work for any length of time and the mother, a capable woman, is almost in despair in the eternal struggle to keep the home organized and the children fed, clothed and at school. Fighting against conditions conducive to delinquency is another task that the mother must bear. In another family there are nine children and the father has not found work in months. The mother sews for the children when she is able to secure material. There is hardly sufficient food and what there is of it is not varied, so that the health question creeps into this case. This family needs three quarts of milk daily but for some time had not had any milk at all. One of the children had for footwear a pair of large rubbers tied on to the feet.

Still another home in which misery holds sway is one in which the father had deserted a family of 10 and legal procedures have brought but very small cash payments weekly. An attempt on the part of the mother to work outside by the hour resulted in the neglect of the children whose ages run from three to 18 years. The rent is in arrears many months and the tnement is in sad need or repair. There is also a decided lack of fuel. Delinquency, poor health and unhappiness appears to be the lot of the entire family unless timely assistance is given. These cases are made public through President William A. Dawson and Secretary Miss Elizabeth Anderson of the bureau to bring more forcefully to mind the need of wide co-operation in making the lot of these needy people just a bit brighter.

Police Court Judges Organize

Under the leadership of Judge Frank H. Foss of this city, 25 police court judges of Connecticut organized an association at Hartford Monday, their membership representing almost every large community except Hartford where, it is said, the judges are in sympathy with the movement and will join later. Judge Foss was named president; Raymond A. Johnson of Manchester, vice-president; and James E. Cannon of Windsor Locks, secretary-treasurer. The executive committee consists of E. R. Hampton of Newton; Sheridan T. Whittaker of New Haven and Hadleigh H. Howd of Winsted. On the nominating committee are Judge Foss, Judge Carl T. Anderson of Middletown and Judge William J. Malone of Bristol. Police court judges and judges of juvenile courts are to be included in the association. Annual meetings will be held during November preceding legislative sessions to consider bills affecting the work of the police courts and juvenile courts, although the association will not appear for or against any bills before legislative committees except by vote of the association membership.

C. A. C. President Addresses Rotary

Dr. C. C. McCracken, president of Connecticut Agricultural college discussed The Status of Higher Education in the United States, in an informal address delivered at the weekly luncheon-meeting of the Willimantic Rotary club held in the Nathan Hale hotel this noon. President McCracken reviewed the tendency for a decline in liberal arts and cultural studies in colleges as against a notable advancement of requirements in masters' and professional degrees. He said that Connecticut Agricultural college was attempting to work in a happy combination of liberal and cultural subjects with professional subjects in a broadening process. The speaker said that it was to meet the advanced requirements of masters' and professional degrees that the state college was pursuing the lines adopted under his regime and in this connection he said he was highly pleased upon the admission of C. A. C. into the membership of colleges and secondary schools of the New England association. President McCracken was introduced by Professor Benjamin W. Ellis, a member of the club.

President Louis A. Kingsbury introduced as a guest, Myles E. Standish of the Norwich club. A committee comprising Albert B. Smith, Sherwood B. Potter and John C. Frazier was appointed to attend to the local attendance at the West Haven Rotary club's charter night, Wednesday evening, January 21, and the committee was empowered to select the club's gift to the new organization.

It was voted to hold the annual Windham high school football night early in January with James B. Fullerton and the Boys' and Girls' work committee of which he is chairman to have charge of arrangements. Program Chairman Nelson A. Daniels announced that there would not be any speaking program next week owing to the proximity of Christmas. Vice-President Herbert W. Huber announced the memorial of $1,500 given by the Rotary club to the new hospital in memory of the late past president, James P. Bath and his wife. Raymond A. Parker announced the big charity show to be given Sunday afternoon at the Capitol theatre by the local lodge of Elks and the Warner Brothers theatres for the benefit of the Elks' annual Christmas dinner fund.

The board of directors voted to stage a public mock trial early next year and empowered Program Chairman N. A. Daniels and Secretary Gerard E. Loiselle to further negotiations with the entertainment committee and the playhouse.

The installation of these officers will be held at the netx meeting when Noble Grand Mrs. Johnson will announce her selection for the 10 appointive offices.

Stafford Springs

EDMOND FIDELLI, PRESTON, FINED IN BOROUGH COURT

(Special to The Bulletin)

STAFFORD SPRINGS, Dec. 16. — Edmond Fedelli of Preston was fined $5 and costs of $11.85 in the borough court Tuesday morning, after being found guilty of parking a motor vehicle upon a highway without lights. Fedelli, who is employed as truck driver for the Yantic Grain & Products company, was on his way from Stafford Springs to Norwich Thursday evening when the lights on his truck went out. He drove his car a little to the right, got out and proceeded to ascertain the trouble. While tinkering with his car, a Ford sedan driven by Edwin Lewis, also of Preston, approaching from the north, crashed into Fedelli's truck and was practically demolished. The Lewis car was occupied by Mr. Lewis' wife and daughter, Miss Mary Lewis and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Luther. Luther received a fractured skull and was taken to the Johnson Memorial hospital where he was on the danger list for a few days, but is now recovering. Edwin Lewis, operator of the Ford, charged with reckless driving, was found not guilty. It was raining hard at the time of the accident and Mr. Lewis claimed that an automobile approaching from the opposite direction obscured his vision and it was impossible for him to see the truck in time to avoid the accident. Mr. Lewis was represented by Attorney Edwin S. Higgins of Norwich.

The town of Southbridge, Mass., is planning to build a new highway from that place to the Connecticut state line to connect with a new highway to be built by the state of Connecticut from Eastford to the Massachusetts state line. When this road is completed it is expected that there will be increased motor traffic through Stafford.

The community committee of Girl Scouts has made arrangements for Miss Ruth Hedlund, New England regional director of Girl Scouts, to come to Stafford Springs. All persons interested in scout leadership training are privileged to meet Miss Hedlund and may do so by getting in touch with Mrs. Fred Sykes, chairman of the community committee.

Andrew Natale, who is employed in Mansfield, spent Tuesday with his family on Park street.

APPROPRIATION FOR NEW DANIELSON POSTOFFICE VOTED

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Dec. 16.—In the $1,085,500 treasury-postoffice appropriation bill voted by the senate yesterday there is included an item to meet the cost of a site and for a new postoffice building in Danielson. Danielson has been listed for at least two years past as in line for a postoffice building, and there are various reasons for believing that the construction of it will be underway in the not distant future, the deliberation with which the government moves in such matters considered.

Postmaster E. H. Keach has recently, by request of department officials, submitted a mass of detailed information having to do with the volume of business transacted at the local postoffice within the past five years and estimates of the probable growth of the postal business here for a period of several years to come. Other information he forwarded had to do with the growth of population here and the prospect of continued growth.

Where the postoffice building will be erected is a matter for future decision. The government will have a definite limit on the price it will pay for a site, and wherever the site is it must measure up to certain requirements of the postoffice department. Two or three sites have been frequently mentioned in discussions about the new building, but no definite action has been taken to acquire any location. As to the selection of sites, it is within the power of the government to take over any site it might decide upon through condemnation proceedings, but this power is seldom used.

The business of the local office has increased surprisingly during the last three or four years. Notwithstanding the current depression, this year's business will be larger by several thousand dollars than in any other year in the history of the office. This is already assured.

FUNERAL

Francis Russell

Francis Russell's funeral was held from his home in Wauregan this morning, with services at the Sacred Heart church there at 9 o'clock. Rev. J. H. Quinn, the pastor, was celebrant of the solemn high mass of requiem, Rev. Henry Chabot deacon and Rev. Philip Masicote of Moosup sub-deacon. At the grave in the Sacred Heart cemetery, the committal service was conducted by Rev. Fr. Quinn. The bearers were Joseph Fournier, Joseph Couture, D. Seymour, Salem Maynard, George Bernard and Joseph Dupre, Jr. L. E. Kennedy was in charge of the arrangements.

Louis E. Baker, resident here, was taken to the Day Kimball hospital this morning that x-ray pictures might be taken to determine the extent of injuries he received last night when he was knocked over, in the business section, by a car operated by Postmaster E. H. Keach. The accident appears to have been of the unavoidable type. Mr. Baker has a bad bruise on the head and a wrenched knee, but his injuries are not regarded as dangerous. He was given attention after the accident by Dr. F. P. Todd.

Danielson people who were in Hartford today after registrations for their automobiles for 1931, told of the lines of people that were in the motor vehicle department on similar errands. They found out also that many thousands of registrations already have been taken out, so many, in fact, that it is now impossible to get what are known as small numbers, even with the letter prefixes that are issued for this part of the state. Only what are known as "five number" registrations are now available for this area. Just two weeks remain for operating under the 1930 registrations. Use of the present numbers is absolutely forbidden after Dec. 31.

In this comparatively quiet season of the year for farmers, County Agent Raymond E. Wing is issuing a series of bulletins on Timely Farm Topics. This week's has to do with pointing out the advantages gained in using certified seed potatoes. In summarizing records from a number of growers in the state during 1930, it is forcibly apparent that yields from certified seed lead. Records of 37 growers using certified seed this year show an average production of 328 bushels per acre. Mr. Wing has available detailed information demonstrating how much better it is for the farmer to use certified seed than just ordinary seed, and will gladly supply this information to all persons interested.

The tide of holiday mail matter continued to rise today, though not yet reaching the full volume that may be expected the first of the coming week. Nevertheless, it does appear that more and more persons are heeding the advice to "mail early," especially packages that are destined for distant points in this country and Canada. The local postal arrangements will be such through the rush period as to permit of very rapid handling of all matter, even if there is a deluge of it.

Rats of Windham county sustained some heavy losses in the week-end campaign that was waged against them in late November by farmers and others who cooperated with the Windham County Farmers' association in the anti-rodent campaign. Reports on the effectiveness of this campaign have slowly been coming into the office of the county agent. It will be recalled that poison bait was set out for the rats. Most of the reports received to date show that the effort was successful, but as to the number of rats that were killed a total is not available as yet.

A curious form of Christmas card was noticed in a store here today. These cards are made from old British deeds and other official documents that have been cut to proper size. They are of parchment and the writing on them is legible. There is an insert card to go with them.

Within a few days a giant Christmas tree, brilliantly illuminated, will be in place on Davis park, and about it on the eve of the holiday will gather members of Leo J. L'Homme post, American Legion, and members of its auxiliary, to entertain the children of the borough along lines similar to those followed for years past. A special committee of the post is making the necessary arrangements, and it is certain that all of the children who assemble about the tree will be greatly pleased for being there.

As at Thanksgiving time, there will be special dinners for inmates of institutions in this territory on Christmas. There will be remembrances, too, from kind people who never forget them at Yuletide, for the 19 men and women who are at the Killingly town farm near Dayville.

It was said today that to date, with the month half gone, December has been more free from snow than in any December of recent years. In one way this means a saving in money for the town, as there is no snow removal cost. On the other hand, when snow does come and roads need clearing some men who are now receiving aid from the town can be given work with the snow removal crews, thus relieving the drain on the poor account.

Observes 88th Birthday

At her home on Broad street, Mrs. W. W. Woodward observed her 88th birthday today. Mrs. Woodward, mother of Chief A. Putnam Woodward of Danielson's fire department and of Judge W. Fenner Woodward of the town court, is in comfortable good health. She has been a resident of Danielson for well over half a century.

Below zero temperatures were reported from various sections of the town of Killingly and from Brooklyn this morning. From 2 to 8 degrees below were the readings quoted, the majority of them being 4 and 5 under the zero mark.

Residents of this and nearby communities who wish to have items appear in the local social column of The Sunday Record, which has a large circulation here, may give them to Mrs. John M. Dowe, who conducts the column mentioned.

Sales of Christmas trees are picking up in Danielson and are making their appearance in many homes. Other trees are being obtained from land-owners who have them in plentiful numbers.

Christmas charitable work is being well organized in Danielson, and it now appears that there will be little likelihood of any needy family being overlooked when the distribution of holiday dinners is made next week.

Supt. W. E. Parker of the schools in Killingly and Brooklyn is able to be out again, after having been confined to his home by an attack of illness for two weeks.

Dr. Hugh B. Campbell of Norwich came here today and conducted a chest clinic at the health station in the town hall building.

Mrs. A. W. Logee, teacher in the East Brooklyn school, is off duty temporarily because of illness. Several teachers have been afflicted with attacks of illness recently.

The trial of Manuel Silva, alleged silver bandit held at the county jail in Brooklyn, is scheduled for Wednesday in the superior court.

L. A. HOAR SENTENCED TO TWO YEARS IN JAIL FOR VIOLATING LOAN LAWS

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Dec. 16.—Pleading guilty to two charges of violation of the state banking laws when arraigned before Judge Newell Jennings at a special session of superior criminal court held here today, Lewis A. Hoar, former treasurer of the Moosup Trust company, was sentenced to serve a year in jail on each count, sentence to run concurrently. A count of perjury, an offense alleged to have been committed by him in filing with the state bank commissioner certain reports concerning the internal conditions of the Moosup bank, was nolled by State's Attorney Howard C. Bradford, upon Hoar's admission of guilt in connection with the other two charges.

Hoar appeared at the court office at ten o'clock, accompanied by his attorney, Irving H. Miron, of this city. During the trial of other criminal cases preceding the court's action against him, the former banker remained in the bar library adjoining the court room, where he watched the proceedings and occasionally talked with attorneys who were waiting to present cases.

When called before the bar, Hoar entered the chamber accompanied by his attorney. In reply to Clerk Marjorie Bradford's inquiry, "Do you wish to change your pleas previously entered to these counts?" he said, "I do,—guilty." Attorney Bradford stated that the banker's decision to plead guilty to the second and third counts, alleging the making of loans while treasurer of the Moosup Trust company, exceeding amounts permitted under the state banking laws and regulations, was incentive for the nolleing of the charge of perjury.

Mr. Hoar was arrested a week ago in Warren, R. I., a warrant for his arrest having been served upon him by Deputy Sheriff Lester H. Bliss of Willimantic. Waiving extradition proceedings, Hoar voluntarily returned to Connecticut, and was immediately arraigned before Judge Jennings in superior court. He pleaded not guilty to three charges preferred against him and was granted a week's continuance for the purpose of engaging counsel.

At the time of his arrest, Hoar was charged in a complaint prepared by the state's attorney, with having sworn on Sept. 24, 1930, to a statement of liabilities and assets of the bank in which he claimed there were no outstanding loans being in excess of the limit. According to the complaint, bank examiners discovered that loans of $15,000 to P. S. Massicot, agent, of Plainfield and $9,695.48 to Andrew L. Tuckue of Hartford were made on the date the report was filed. On Oct. 23, 1930, Hoar is alleged to have committed an additional violation of the state banking act governing excessive loans for, according to complaint information on this date, he made a loan of $32,811.65, to Edward L. Bilodeau of Plainfield. This amount, the state charged, was in excess of 20 per cent of the bank's paid-in-capital stock, surplus, undivided profits and reserves, which amounted to $85,552.26. The loan to Bilodeau was secured by collateral which at that time had a market value of only $14,524.76.

Although convicted of the two counts, there has never been any inference that Mr. Hoar benefitted personally from these transactions. The bank in no way has been affected and in reality the former treasurer is merely guilty of technical violations.

JEWETT CITY

MAIN ST. CROSSING MATTER IS STILL UNSETTLED

At a meeting of the warden and burgesses Monday evening, held especially to consider the matter of the closing of the Main street crossing, Judge John T. Barry was present, he having been retained by the borough to investigate.

When, in 1928, a hearing was held in Hartford before the public utilities commission for the purpose of hearing objections from the property owners relative to the elimination of the crossing, and the building of the bridge and viaduct, a borough representative was not among those who attended the meeting. The officials of the town, through their first selectman, Daniel F. Finn, were notified, also a dozen or more property owners. Through some error the borough of Jewett City received no such notification. The project was approved, any objections were met and damages paid, the bridge is completed and the crossing is closed. Now, in the opinion of Judge Barry, absolutely nothing can be done to remove the crossing barrier. It is believed that legal action would not meet with a favorable verdict. It is pointed out that what the borough of Jewett City needs and seemingly is entitled to, is an underpass or overhead bridge for pedestrians only. It is probable that at an early date a meeting of the freemen may be called to authorize some further action by the board of borough government. The fact also remains that a definite handicap is constituted by the fence, several business interests are damaged if not ruined, and hundreds of people are inconvenienced.

Auxiliary Christmas Party

The auxiliary to the American Legion post held its business meeting, installation and a Christmas party in the town hall Monday evening, with 16 present. The president, Mrs. E. M. Gray, presided. It was voted to send $25 to the state Christmas fund to be used for ex-service men in the hospitals, and $2 toward the delegates' expenses to the National Council of Defense. The usual Christmas welfare work will be carried on here. One member was admitted. The district president, Mrs. Grace McNally, of Poquonoc Bridge, and the district secretary, Mrs. Betty Donohue, of New London, were present. The officers were installed by Mrs. McNally. She and Mrs. Donohue addressed the members. A lunch of sandwiches, pickles, cake, cookies, doughnuts, cheese, ice cream and coffee was served. The favors were bonbons and gumdrop candies. A Christmas tree held gifts for each one, Mrs. McNally receiving an especially lovely gift. Mrs. Gray and Mrs. Adelbert Babcock received a vote of thanks for their preparation for so pleasant an evening.

The following stores will be open every evening until 9 o'clock up to and including Christmas eve: Zegeer, Benjamin Franklin, Dearnley, Arremony & Son, Jaskiewicz, Keech, The Little Shoppe, J. C. Hardware, Hourigan Bros., Schwartz. Do your buying at home. The merchants need your support. Your dollar will do much more for you in Jewett City than in larger cities. Small overhead means lower prices. Why pay more out of town?—adv.

The Ladies' society of the Congregational church holds its meeting and a Christmas party in the church parlor this (Wednesday) evening, with Mrs. Harold Tomlinson entertaining. The church calendars are to be received at this time, and each one is to bring a ten-cent gift.

The Baptist Ladies' Aid society meets at the parsonage Thursday afternoon.

The Junior Epworth league meets this (Wednesday) afternoon. The midweek prayer meeting will be held this evening and the Willing Workers are to meet Thursday evening, all at the Methodist parsonage.

Lisbon grange, when it meets Friday evening, is to hold a children's program and Christmas tree, with inexpensive gifts brought by each one attending.

ERNEST LUTHER, PRESTON, IN STAFFORD HOSPITAL

Ernest Luther, of Preston, is in a Stafford Springs hospital following an automobile accident last Thursday. With his wife and daughter Mary and Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Lewis, he was returning after dark from Springfield in a new Ford sedan. Near Stafford Springs a truck ahead was stopped for repairs, the stoplight being obscured, and an approaching machine blinding Mr. Luther, his car ran head-on into the rear of the truck. He was so badly injured that he was taken to the hospital with what was thought to be a fractured skull. The other members of the party were shaken up, cut and bruised. Mr. Luther has had particularly bad luck, for in two years

PUTNAM

LONG TO SERVE 5 YEARS IN PRISON FOR FORGERY

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Dec. 16. — The "Rev." Ralph S. Long, Danielson's itinerant preacher who was picked up by police in Allentown, Pa., a fortnight ago and held on charges of forgery in Connecticut, was presented in superior court this morning before Judge Newell Jennings at a special criminal session. The occasional preacher, when confronted with five charges of falsifying bank orders and a count of forgery, pleaded guilty to the entire sextet of felonies and was sentenced to serve not less than three nor more than five years in the state prison at Wethersfield.

Long was represented by Public Defender Harry E. Back of Danielson, but no defense was offered in his behalf other than the statement by Mr. Back that his criminal inclinations were perhaps inspired by the fact that the self-styled "apostle," experienced but five years of schooling. In view of his mental deficiency the Danielson attorney implored the court for leniency.

State's Attorney H. C. Bradford, in outlining the case, said that Long while in the employ of George E. Paine of Danielson, secured possession of his employer's bank books and drew up orders on various banks in New London, Danielson and Providence and as the result of his negotiations withdrew a total of $1,250.

His trickery was adjudged as clever by Mr. Bradford who said that bank clerks never suspected. At the Peoples Savings bank in Providence, he drew $550, from the New London Savings bank he secured $150, a like amount from the Danielson Trust company and his last transaction carried on with the Brooklyn Savings bank in Danielson netted him $500. On the last deal, the treasurer presented him an envelope containing a cashier's check made payable to Mr. Paine. He opened the packet and forged his employer's endorsement, cashed the check and departed for his home in Allentown, where he purchased a candy store. Suspecting that his sudden wealth was ill-gotten, a brother of Long wrote Mr. Paine and informed him of his kinsman's entry into the Pennsylvania community's business circle. Examining the condition of his various bank accounts, Paine discovered the shortages and subsequently filed the complaint that resulted in the arrest of his former employe.

Attorney Bradford also informed the court that the account juggling activities of Long in Danielson, Providence and New London, by no means constituted his first experience along these lines of endeavor, for information secured in Allentown, purported to show that the prisoner on another occasion had forged endorsements of his father. Sentence was meted out on the first count, judgment on the remaining allegations being suspended. After taking up his seat in the prisoner's docket, Long leaned over to State Policeman Royal V. Scranton of Danielson barracks and smilingly exclaimed, "My brother, what a break!"

POSTMASTER MACDONALD IS RENOMINATED FOR OFFICE

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Dec. 16.—According to a Washington dispatch appearing in Tuesday's edition of The Bulletin, President Herbert Hoover, on Monday, sent the name of Archibald Macdonald to the senate for re-appointment as postmaster at Putnam.

Mr. Macdonald's four-year term as postmaster at the local office expired on Saturday, at which time he rounded out eight years of service in the post office department. He was first appointed to the office by President Harding in November, 1922, and succeeded Alexander Gilman, who served the community in this capacity for several years. Mr. Macdonald was re-appointed in 1926 by President Coolidge.

Previous to becoming postmaster, Mr. Macdonald for 35 years was affiliated with the line maintenance department of the Western Union Telegraph company. He is an ex-mayor of the city and has served Putnam in the legislature and was twice elected by the people of the 28th senatorial district to represent them in the state senate. In all of his capacities, Mr. Macdonald has served with distinction and his renomination by the president for re-appointment to the postmastership is merely a gesture of which he is highly deserving.

The Pomfret Nativity Play

F. D. W., writing to The Bulletin, has the following to say of the Pomfret Nativity play:

"Thirteen or fourteen years ago, the year in fact that the first community Christmas tree was lighted in Madison Square, New York, two women in Pomfret conceived the idea of a community pageant of the nativity to be given each year by the people and for the people of the little town of Pomfret. From that day, with only one exception, the Sunday evening before Christmas the pantomime has been given in the little hall next to the Episcopal church. The crowds that come to see it each year are so large that two performances are given, even then some are unable to get in. No one who has not seen it can realise its artistic and devotional beauty. The play can best be described as a rythmic pantomime. It is given to carefully selected music which follows the action. Simplicity, that is almost crudeness, is the keynote of the performance. There is no orchestra only the appropriate music played on a reed organ and Holy Night sung by a single voice before the curtain rises. There is no scenery, none is needed, but the lighting is wonderfully arranged, the scenes being played either in darkness or in a twilight effect, with radiance shed from the angel and the manger. Miss Esther Gustavson, the dancer, is the Angel Gabriel; it is impossible to conceive of a more perfect performance. Naturally the personnel of the cast has changed since the first performance, although many of the players have taken their parts year after year. This year there will be but one of the original cast. The performers are of many faiths and nationalities, but all seem to feel the solemnity of the occasion and the devotional spirit is marked. It is the kind of thing that once seen, you feel you must see it again and again, and that without it the Christmas season would lose one of its greatest joys.

BROOKLYN

Monday afternoon the Woman's club met with Mrs. Lester B. Williams, the president. This was the Christmas meeting and took the form of a social afternoon. The Christmas roll call was well responded to. A short program was opened with a piano solo, followed by a short story by Richard Harding Davis, "Mr. Travis' First Hunt," well read by Mrs. J. H. Hargraves. The whole company then joined in singing old carols, after which Mrs. Johnson, Windham county's vice president of the Federation of Women's clubs, spoke most interestingly on club work. Then came the exchange of gifts, each member receiving from the president a bouquet of straw flowers which were greatly appreciated. Mrs. Williams was assisted by her mother, Mrs. Russell, and her daughter, Miss Frances Williams, serving a delicious lunch.

Ruby Taylor was a week end guest of K. G. Stetson and family.

John T. Ashworth is able to be at work, after being shut in for a fortnight or so.

Brooklyn people are interested in the art exhibit by Rev. P. J. Cleveland, to be shown at Danielson Public library.

Mr. and Mrs. Chauncey W. Frink, of New Haven, spent Sunday with the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. I. Frink.

Eyron Woodward cut his hand badly Monday while sawing wood with a power saw, at the home of E. M. M. Marlow.

Greetings From Florida

Cards have been received from Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Bennett's party telling of their arrival at Altamonte Springs, Florida.

Brooklyn grange was divided Friday evening, some of the members going over to South Killingly and giving part of the program, while others were in attendance at the forty-fifth anniversary of Little River grange at Hampton.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Tripp were with out of town friends Sunday. Mrs. F. C. Leavens acted as matron during Mrs. Tripp's absence.

To Omit Tree

At the grange meeting next Tuesday evening the program will be in charge of the literary committee. There will be no Christmas tree this year.

NO. GROSVENORDALE

Mrs. Dianne Paradis is reported as greatly improved, after an attack of grip though unable to be up yet.

The Junior Mission band of the Swedish Lutheran church held a Christmas party at the parsonage of Rev. Fritz Soderberg. The hostesses were Misses Signe Almquist, Evelyn Johnson and Irene Johnson.

A cedar chest filled with linen and embroidered accessories has been donated for a whist party in St. Joseph's hall and is given by Garde Ste Therese.

Miss Evelyn Swanson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Emil Swanson, was the guest of honor at a surprise party given at her home by a group of friends. Present were: Abbie Scott, Reynold Peterson, Doris Johnson of Putnam, Irene Johnson, Lloyd Arnold, Blanche Chandler, Wallace Chandler, Chester Chandler, Lorothy Skotchless, Mildred Skotchless, Lois Cassells, Edward Cassells, Beulah Buck and Mary Cassells.

EAST WOODSTOCK

George Bosworth of West Hartford, a former local resident, was in town last week.

Myrtle Neely is the new distributor of the Bulletin and Record, Prisby Wetherell giving up the route last week. Prisby and his pony will be missed on his daily trip.

The annual meeting of the Library association was held at the May Memorial library last Tuesday evening. After reports of the secretary-treasurer and librarian, Dr. E. A. Pike and L. H. Lindeman were re-elected trustees for three years. Finance committee, Miss Ethel E. Upham, chairman. Book committee, H. D. Baker, chairman. Collector, Miss Florence Neely. Since the opening of the library Aug. 19, over 1,000 books have been circulated. It is open once a week.

Novelty Whist

A meeting of the Community club was held last Wednesday evening. A novelty whist was arranged by the committee in charge, Miss Irene Viens, Mrs. J. E. Child, Dr. E. R. Pike, L. H. Lindeman. Prizes won by Mrs. Louise Child, Howard Foskett, Elsie Hibbard and Everett May. The committee served sandwiches and cocoa. The committee appointed for January comprises G. M. Sampson, Mrs. Geo. Westhaver, Spencer Jordan, Mrs. Ethel Barrett.

KEEPING THE DEMOCRATIC PROMISE

When the democratic group of leaders promised that there would be cooperation with the administration it was welcomed as a stand that was believed to be in accord with public sentiment.

When it was later explained by certain members of the group that it meant cooperation only so far as emergency legislation was concerned. It was recognized as coming more nearly to what was to be expected.

But both declarations were taken with a liberal supply of salt, for it was quite contrary to democratic policy, especially since establishing such close relationship with the insurgents.

Congress has now been in session a little over two weeks and the country has had an opportunity to witness a remarkable demonstration of cooperation with the administration. Emergency legislation has been started, the reasons for it having been fully set forth by President Hoover, but it is obstruction rather than cooperation which is being offered by those who so liberally promised aid to the administration. Instead of cooperation that inevitable game of politics is being played. Those who need the benefit of emergency legislation are being told by the obstructors that they can wait. Of course, crocodile tears are being shed in their behalf, but just the opposite of haste is being displayed in providing relief.

"We licked 'em good and plenty today," was the statement of Congressman Garner, democratic house leader, following Monday's session. He had reference to the prevention of a two-thirds vote necessary for the suspension of the rules that would have permitted immediate adoption of the measure giving drought relief to the farmers. "We licked 'em" referred, of course, to the administration forces in the house. Licking 'em meant delaying the measure. The delay means other tactics must be employed but in the meantime the farmers are getting the "licking." They are being told that any old time will do and that no real emergency exists.

What has been done in the house is only a repetition of what has been going on in the senate. There the effort to get the bill through for the relief of unemployment has been encountering all possible trouble. Senator Robinson, another of the promisers of democratic cooperation, is the author of the amendment withholding from the president the authority to switch such appropriations for unemployment as might be necessary. It is, of course, a direct slap at the president and so intended. But while this political game is being played, while the democratic leaders are thinking of 1932, they are telling the unemployed that "There is no need of early action; any time the senate gets ready to do something for you it will be all right. You probably don't need work as much as you think you do but we'll try and do something for you when we get around to it. We've got to play politics and get the president in a hole before we can do anything else. We've got to kick the president, whether you get any help or not."

Thus the great democratic promise of cooperation is being kept, kept in a manner after the Judas kiss.

EXCLUDING FILIPINOS

The bill that would change the immigration laws so that there would be a complete suspension of immigration for the next two years, a move that is contemplated in the interest of giving such employment as develops to residents instead of to those who may come in from other countries, contains the provision that it shall also include Filipinos.

This provision is receiving the opposition of Senator Bingham, who believes that whatever may be done in regard to putting up the immigration bars, or shutting the door entirely, it ought not to involve the Filipinos. His plea is based upon good ground.

It is, of course, true that Filipinos coming to this country would enter into the same situation in regard to employment as aliens, but it is to be realized that the Filipinos are subjects of the United States, already residing under the American flag and living under the government that it directs. They stand in a different position than do the aliens. It is entirely possible that there are those among the aliens who might come to this country who would be more easily assimilated and who might make better citizens, yet there seems to be justification for the feeling that those already living under the Stars and Stripes are entitled to more consideration than those who do not but would like to.

The time may come, if independence is granted to the islands, when they can expect nothing else than being regarded and treated as aliens, but until that time comes, and that has often been advanced as a reason for remaining under the control of the United States, they are entitled to be regarded in a different light and made to understand that living under the American flag really means something to their advantage.

GET HIS NUMBER

While Connecticut is appreciative of the fact that there promises to be less automobile fatalities this year than last, and should be anxious to lend the assistance needed in keeping down the accident record this month, it cannot be overlooked that there are still too many and that it is frequently the case that those who are responsible for accidents and injuries manage to get away without revealing their identity.

It is the suggestion of the Ansonia Sentinel that "Every motorist, every citizen, who is witness to an accident in which the culprit tries to escape should make every effort to get his number accurately at least. The police will do the rest." The Sentinel realizes that it isn't always the easiest kind of a job to get the correct registration. It is difficult when the markers are dirt covered and it is next to impossible at night with poor tail-lights or with tail-lights that are badly adjusted.

When there is no accident it is often completely out of the question to decipher the rear markers of a car, and they would, of course, be the only ones which observers would have a chance to see when a car is being driven away from an accident. But the effort to make note of a car's registration is justified in the interest of better protection against the hit-and-run drivers who depend upon flight and speed in escaping responsibility.

The suggestion is one that may well be adopted by the general public when occasion requires. With the hundreds who are being killed, to say nothing of the much greater number being injured, in the highways there is plenty of opportunity for witnesses of accidents to display an interest in getting those who run away, for there is no telling when they may become the victim of just such an irresponsible driver.

ST. LAWRENCE WATERWAY

Uncertainty has prevailed for a long time as to what Canada is willing to do in regard to the development of the St. Lawrence waterway. It is a proposition in which both the United States and Canada are interested, a plan that calls for joint action. Much study and investigation have thus far failed to bring the two countries to any understanding, but hopes are revived that something tangible in the way of a statement concerning Canada's attitude will soon be forthcoming.

When Hanford MacNider was sent some months ago to Canada as minister from this country he informed the Ottawa government that the United States was ready to proceed at the earliest possible moment. Canada has not as yet declared that its attitude is the same. It hasn't, in fact, made any reply of a definite character but with Premier Bennet back from London some expression is to be expected.

Canada has displayed both a warm and cold attitude toward the project. It has been enthusiastic over the business that it was figured would accrue from such a development and then it has shown a disposition to regard any power development as needless. It has also listened to claims that a certain amount of business now done in the port of Montreal would be lost because of through traffic, but it has also been inclined to favor the increased shipping that would be handled through the St. Lawrence.

Not much progress has been made of late in regard to this relief which the states surrounding the Great Lakes are so anxious to receive. With this country ready to go, it all depends upon the view that Canada takes of the proposition. Thus, whether it favors joining hands with the United States in this respect as soon as possible, at some future time or never, would throw interesting light on the matter.

FRENCH CABINET MAKING

Cabinet making in France is a decidedly different proposition than that faced by the head of the government in this country. It is a case, at present at least, of so picking the various heads of departments that a majority of the strength represented by the many parties in the French parliament will be satisfied. It is, therefore, a case of so creating a cabinet that a coalition will be formed which will stand back of the government.

There are plenty of complications in French politics. Since the failure of Premier Tardieu to get a vote of confidence, Louis Barthou and Pierre Laval have made an effort to effect such a combination as is needed to uphold the government. They found it impossible to get the necessary support. With the task turned over to Theodore Steeg, he appears to have been able to gather leaders from the various parties with sufficient backing to warrant a declaration to the president that a cabinet has been completed. He has managed to do what two others admitted they could not accomplish. He has done it as a radical socialist, possibly because it was from the radical socialists that the two others who made efforts in that direction encountered their opposition from that party. The radical socialists have been displaying their opposition to the Tardieu regime and Barthou, at least, was desirous of retaining Tardieu in his cabinet.

Having formed his cabinet, it remains for Steeg to show that it can withstand assault. In order for it to get anywhere it must have a working majority and it must be able to command a vote of confidence. The session this week should disclose its strength in that direction, and that disclosure may indicate the length of its existence. The difficulty of commanding a majority among the present blocs makes French cabinet making a hard and uncertain task.

EDITORIAL NOTES

The real struggle is to get congress out of politics before Christmas.

Einstein's visit to this country is evidently going to be an education for a learned man.

The man on the corner says: The mystery of the nutshell is to find the worm that made the hole.

And in the midst of it all there will be a certain amount of the Christmas spirit that will be bootlegged.

Wouldn't this be a grand time, while congress is disposed to be so lavish with government funds, for the members of congress to increase their salaries?

FAR NORTHERN BIRDS VISIT BLOCK ISLAND; RAILS NUMEROUS AT QUONOCHONTAUG

Recent developments in the bird life within the Norwich radius are outlined by Alice Hall Walter in The Providence Journal. Regarding the Kimball sanctuary, established by the Audubon society near Westerly for the birds of eastern Connecticut and western Rhode Island, she writes:

At the Kimball Bird sanctuary, one of the two places in Rhode Island where careful records are kept on the occurence and abundance of bird life (the other being on Block Island where a field worker of the Audubon society collects complete and valuable data for the biological survey in addition to regular nature work in the schools and elsewhere on the island), much of interest has transpired during November and early December.

With all kinds of weather, ranging from four to 63 degrees above zero, and rain varying with sunshine, there was opportunity for unexpected movements on the part of migratory birds, even though November is not the month when the fall exodus south is at its height.

Towhees calling a song sparrow in full song on Nov. 1 with olive-backed thrushes, swallows, robins, bluebirds, gold finches, flickers, a marsh hawk, many gulls and "at sunset a flock of 43 robins flying over," made a memorable start on the calendar and record book.

Shrike Brings Consternation

"November 2 brought a northern shrike to upset our bird family. A hermit thrush flew against the dining room window and was badly stunned. I brought it into the house, sprinkled water on it and kept wetting its bill. After three-quarters of an hour it began to show signs of coming to, so I took it to the door, and in a few minutes more it blinked its eyes and was off. Hermit thrushes everywhere, with many bluebirds, robins, catbirds, and a phoebe. Two marsh hawks here today. Juncos increasing, tree swallows also in more numbers. November 3 and 4, two fox sparrows, one white-throated sparrow, two myrtle warblers, one junco, and one chickadee all bathing together in the little stone bath.

"The fifth brought nearly 200 robins to the front lawn and around the house, and many hermit thrushes, one coming to the front steps. A brown thrasher still lingers with many goldfinches. November 6 a flock of 12 quail and many other birds feeding around the house. November 9 large flocks of tree swallows were flying over at 3 p. m.

"November 10, the quail again feeding near, with chickadees, juncos and white-throated sparrows coming to the food tray on the front porch. November 12, a flock of 35 bluebirds on the front lawn, white-breasted nuthatches and downy woodpeckers calling; two great blue herons on the pond, 60 goldfinches. Bluebirds and bluejays, vocal as they take their fill of sunflower seeds.

"November 19, 200 wild geese go over. Hundreds of broadbills and black duck in the pond. At 3 o'clock, the morning of the 21st, a great horned owl gave us a serenade perched on the dead tree just outside the bungalow. This owl had the most remarkable voice of any I ever heard.

"November 24, two field sparrows and a white-crowned sparrow feeding under the window. The first golden-crowned kinglets came the twenty-fifth.

"Nov. 26 I picked a bouquet of bright yellow goldenrod. The last day of the month five tree swallows came with great flocks of gulls, many juncos and tree sparrows, a robin and two field sparrows.

Rails At Quonochontaug

From Quonochontaug to Point Judith both the Virginia and Sora rails have been numerous. Woodcock are more plentiful than for several seasons, but there are not many partridge, although quail are not scarce in certain sections.

"Seventy-six visitors came to the sanctuary in November.

"The incoming gulls at sunset and the hundreds of ducks going out of the pond at twilight were sights worth thinking about. It is hard to describe the thrill that comes with seeing hundreds of ducks silhouetted against a clear sky and just overhead, so near that no whirr of their wings could be plainly heard."

1,000 Dovekies About Block Island

One thousand dovekies were reported in the waters about Block Island, November 20, and an Iceland gull November 27, both far northern species. In general ducks have been rather scarce in New England this fall. On protected water areas in Massachusetts, American and hooded mergansers, a male wood duck, the redhead, gadwall, canvasback, pin-tail and golden-eye were observed, indicating the way that wild fowl respond to protection, lingering often for weeks instead of drifting on at once before gunfire.

November 28, seven snow geese were seen at Block Island.

Connecticut's Birdcraft Sanctuary

Regarding Connecticut's Birdcraft Sanctuary, Alice Hall Walter writes:

"It is quite unusual to find almost within town limits the green heron nesting above a pond filled with water-lilies, on one of whose islands the red-winged black bird has its home under a great bush of sweet swamp azalea, while a pitcher plant with many flowers lies hidden amid cat-tails and rose mallows, and ducks of many species come and go. It has taken thought, time, and not a little money to bring about these results, but, fortunately, Birdcraft sanctuary had an appeal that has furnished all these.

"It is natural that our growing interest in birds should find expression in the desire to create bird sanctuaries. To know birds is to love them, to love them is to want to assure them freedom from enemies amid surroundings where the happiness to which their songs give voice may have a foundation in fact.

"But bird sanctuaries are not made with the stroke of a pen or by posting warning notices. To improve on nature and make two birds grow where one grew before calls for a well-considered plan, based on science rather than sentiment, and adequate means to develop it intelligently, consistently and persistently."

Is Near A Large School

Those who have had the privilege of visiting Birdcraft sanctuary in Fairfield, Conn., know what the meaning of the persistent and intelligent development of a well-considered plan can accomplish, even within town-limits and the immediate adjacence of a large school. Only 10 acres of ordinary pasture almost bare of trees and without water except a bit of swampy land to begin with in 1914—today under resident warden service and the guiding hand of one of the ablest ornithologists in New England, Mrs. Mabel Osgood Wright, Birdcraft sanctuary harbored 36 nesting species with a total of 146 nests in 1929, and 141 species of migrants, probably nearing the maximum that this protected area will support.

It is found that in the vicinity of this sanctuary a decided increase in bird life has taken place and in addition to this benefit to the community, 17,000 interested visitors have been admitted to the small but very finely equipped museum that stands near the entrance, just outside the high cat-proof fence that protects the sanctuary proper from all intruders, except by special permit.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Chestnut Time

Mr. Editor:

When chestnut leaves lie yellow on the ground,
And brown nuts break the prickly husk,
And nests on naked boughs are found,
And swallows shrill no more at dusk;
When autumn whirlwinds and the sea
And mountain tops are cold with haze
Then many thoughts revisit me,
I sit and dream of other days.

And I have an idea that I am not alone in this, for many other minds go back on the sea of memory and try to create a picture of other days, and we try to put into words our thoughts. We grope around for the correct word to express our meaning, and we try to put them into the limited space that is allotted to us. Words are like sunbeams, the more they are condensed, the deeper they burn.

Perhaps this letter may not be apropos to the present time of the year and yet as we wander along the street we are saluted with the cry, "hot chestnuts," by the street venders. Going into the woods after chestnuts was only part of our rambles, for it was the relaxation from the worries of every day life. Put on your old clothes and get out the old leather boots for you are the one who is elected to "shin" up the trees. Bring along a good clothesline and we will hitch it to the limb and then you fellows can shake on the other end and how they would rattle down on the leaves that covered the ground! Then down the tree, get on your knees if you never did it before and pick them up and share them equally. Remember when you used to gather the burrs before they were fully ripe, and how they would stick in your fingers like a lot of porcupine quills.

You used to sell them for ten cents a quart, didn't you? Now everything is changed. We wander through the woods and here and there we see just a reminder of what was and what isn't now. We see a blasted chestnut tree which is typical of our thoughts. We wander on through tangled brush and vine. We wish for those years again that are no longer mine. Things seem about the same as when we wandered to and fro, just as we used to do. Some 60 years ago, we wandered on and thought what would they do if we were lost. Would they search the old woods through?

Such was life, rather a drab existence and yet today we are surfeited with it all. We have become a restless people, so many things to see, so many places to go and we get just a little bit tired of it all.

I read in the Social Corner the wonderful descriptive stories of early days that are recalled by a certain young man up in Windham county. A very dear friend of mine, "Quid Nunc," and I wonder if he wouldn't love to wander back on that path that carries him back to "yesterday" when we would go in swimming and tie knots in the other boys' shirts, and then dance around and yell like a lot of young Indians: "Chow raw beef, the beef is tough," or get a corncob and fashion a pipe and smoke sweet fern? Honestly, I think that was a better smoke than any ten cent cigar as of today or even cigarettes. Ask "dad," he knows.

Perhaps the boys of today have a better education than we had, but at least they have more and better opportunities than we did, but I question if they will have when they arrive at the mile post that is marked 50. The boys of other days chewed plug tobacco, but they don't do it now, for they have found something else to give them a kick; they smoke coffin nails during school days and when they move higher up they have a pipe, and occasionally they put a handful of "dad's" perfectos in their pockets. No, I am not "riding" the boys of today for they are more world wise today than we ever dared to be, and yet we arrived just the same. But how! We had to depend on our own efforts but today they lean more on the "governor" than we did. As a parting salute let me tell you boys, you are all right, all the way, and you are coming along right after us and you will be the old men of tomorrow just as we are today. Who are we that we should find fault with the conditions that exist today? Perhaps I have asked a lot of questions and why not for old Father Time that old bugey man will answer them later on much better than I can. Still we knew how to swing a scythe and sharpen it with a whet stone. The old fashion girl wasn't afraid to get down on her knees and scrub the kitchen floor and believe me, boys, the exercise was good for her for it put the roses in her cheeks, and the hope of heaven in her heart. Just real girls and real boys of yesterday—and this does not detract from the charming girls we see today. Bless them; they are good and wholesome.

C. H. "DAD" SHAW.

County Home Needs

Mr. Editor: The question is often asked: "What do you need in your new county home?"

The answer obviously depends on the amount the donor wishes to spend. For a small sum, a book for the children's library would be very welcome. This should be selected with care and with due reference to the ages and tastes of the average boy or girl of 10 to 15 years.

If someone has a pair of andirons in the attic not in use, they would be most acceptable in our open fireplace in the sitting room.

A standing lamp would find a place by an easy chair for reading in the evenings.

Firm, strong wastepaper baskets are needed.

These are not requests, only suggestions in answer to inquiries.

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16 — With something of a shock the Bystander saw that credentials had been filed with Vice President Curtis announcing Byron P. Harrison had been elected United States senator from Mississippi for the term beginning March 4.

Who is this person, Byron P. Harrison? In quite a lot of years about Washington, the Bystander never heard of him.

There has been either a representative or a senator from Mississippi by the name of Harrison all that time, to be sure; but he was Pat Harrison.

Everybody knew of Pat Harrison. He's in all the official books, just like this: "Harrison, Pat, democrat, of Gulfport, Miss."

Even the huge legislative who's who carries it that way. He is Pat Harrison there, and listed under the Harrisons "P" not "B."

So who is this Byron P. Harrison, senator elect?

The Problem Solver

Further research among the social registers solves the problem. There is the record of "Harrison, Pat (Byron Paton)." And he, it seems is the lad who has been known to Washington all these years only as Pat.

For political purposes or from natural inclination Harrison discarded that poetic sounding Byron Paton long ago. Just about a quarter of all that given name was good enough for him, and for his host of friends.

One wonders how the governor of Mississippi, who filed the credentials, ever happened to find out about the "Byron," and even he did not catch up with the "Paton" part.

Senator Pat Harrison has been around the capitol about 20 of the 49 years he has lived, eight in the house, a dozen in the senate with six more to go.

Not All So Formal

A lot of other senatorial credentials, good next March 4, have come in to the vice president. But the governors were not all so formal about it as the Mississippi executive.

The governor of Arkansas, for instance, said that Joe T. Robinson was good for another six years. And that is how everybody speaks of the democratic leader in the senate. He's always Joe Robinson. Yet the books of reference all make it Joseph Taylor Robinson.

Bratton of New Mexico appeared on his new credentials as "Sam G." Elsewhere you see him as "Sam Gilbert." But if he was christened Samuel or anything but just plain Sam, the Bystander could find no evidence of it.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORY

Stumpy Becomes Afraid

> Times there are when it is clear
> The foolish only do not fear.
> —Old Mother Nature.

For awhile Stumpy, the crippled young muskrat, thought the snow as wonderful as it was beautiful. It had made such a change in his small part of the great world that it was hard for him to believe that he was living right where he always had lived. Only when he dived and swam back under the ice that covered the Smiling pool did things seem real.

He liked the snow. He liked the feel of it. It wasn't too deep, and he liked moving about in it. He liked to make tracks. Even his tail left a mark. That there could possibly be any danger in this he didn't once suspect. It was his father, Jerry Muskrat, who first warned him.

"I see you want everybody to know that you haven't but three legs," said Jerry.

"I don't want anything of the kind," retorted Stumpy. "The fewer who know it the better."

"Then why are you trying to tell everybody about it!" asked Jerry.

"What do you mean? When have I ever tried to tell anybody about it?" demanded Stumpy.

"It is all written out in the snow," replied Jerry. "If Reddy Fox should happen along and see those tracks of yours he would know in a minute that a three-legged muskrat lives around here and climbs out on that tussock over there. He might not pay much attention to my tracks because he has seen them before and there is nothing unusual in the prints of four feet. A trail the prints of three feet only is another matter, however. Yes, sir, it is quite another matter. Reddy would be interested in that. So would Old Man Coyote. By the way, I would keep pretty close to the open water if I were in your place. You can be seen from a long distance now."

"Why can I be seen any farther than usual?" asked Stumpy, looking puzzled.

"Because," replied Jerry, "you are dark and everything about is white. Unless I am greatly mistaken there comes Reddy Fox down from the old pasture this very minute. If it were not for the snow we could not see him from here. Just look for yourself and see how plainly he shows up."

Stumpy looked. Sure enough there on the edge of the old pasture a dark form was moving. It was so far away that he wouldn't have known who it was had there been no one to tell him, but no that he had been told he didn't doubt that it was Reddy. Never before had he been able to see any one so far away as the old pasture. Stumpy began to be afraid.

"I—I don't believe I like this snow," said he

"I—I don't believe I like this snow," said he, moving toward the open water of the Laughing brook.

"It's not so bad when you get used to it," replied Jerry. "You know it works both ways."

"What do you mean by working both ways?" demanded Stumpy.

"Why if it enables our enemies to see us from a long distance it also makes it easy for us to see them before they get too near, doesn't it?"

Stumpy thought this over. "You may be right," said he. "I guess you are, for we can see Reddy Fox over there now. Just the same I would rather not be seen at all."

Jerry nodded his head approvingly. "That is sound sense," said he. "There is no danger in being unseen, but there is a great deal of danger in being seen. Unless I am greatly mistaken we have already been seen. That looks like Hooty the Owl just leaving the edge of the green forest. He must be hungry to be hunting in the daytime. If any one thinks that Hooty can't see excepting in the dark they don't know him. He has seen us all right and it is time for us to go."

Together Jerry and Stumpy dived into the Laughing brook. Hooty turned back toward the green forest.

YOUR HEALTH

What Is It Worth To Be Well?

By A. W. Truman, M. D., Washington.
(From Gorgas Memorial Institute)

I hold in my hand a check for one million dollars. I am sorry it is not worth quite that much, because it is not signed by the right individual. But it is written out in due form for one million dollars and I am going to suppose it is a bona fide check worth its face value. Who is there who would exchange his health for it? What would you do with the money? Would you purchase something good to eat? You could not eat it. Would you purchase something beautiful to wear? You could not wear it. Would you purchase a limousine? But you could not enjoy it. The most priceless temporal possession of any man or woman is his health—it is indeed a priceless treasure never fully appreciated until it is lost. How long are you going to retain your health?

At one time in an eastern sanitarium a millionaire patient was being treated for a serious malady and was a great sufferer. His name is well known and would be recognized as a household word. One evening he remarked to his nurse, "Nurse, I will deed to you free from all encumbrance one of the best farms in this state for one night's freedom from pain."

What is your health worth to you? What would you take for it? Last year I attended the annual clinical congress of the American College of Surgeons in Chicago where there were great guest surgeons from Germany, England, Austria, Italy, Spain, South America and Mexico. The thing that impressed me most in that meeting was the first statement made by the director-general, Dr. Martin, when he said, "Gentlemen, how much is it worth to be well?" I cannot answer that question. Can you? I do not know how much it is worth to be well. I know this—disease is the costliest thing in the world.

Everything in this world is governed by law. We drop an object, it goes down; we drop it again, we do not expect it to go up. We say it obeys the law of gravity. There are laws of electricity, of heat, of light and sound. Are there no laws of health? Does nature just do her work at random, carelessly, without reference to laws. Does disease just drop down from the blue above us and seize upon one and spare another? Have we no responsibility, and is there nothing we can do to prevent illness.

There is something we can do about it all. We can adopt the policy of strict physical examination at least once a year. In prevention lies our only hope in the matter of preservation of life and health.

IN THE DAY'S NEWS

Beginnings Of Vegetable Life

The stubborn problem of how vegetable life got its start on the surface of the earth, which at first had no soil, is believed to be nearer solution as the result of the work of a National Geographic society expedition to the Alaska Peninsula last summer. A preliminary report has just been made to the society's headquarters in Washington by Dr. Robert F. Griggs, botanist, head of the expedition, who obtained cultures of plants from areas smothered by volcanic ash eighteen years ago during the great eruption of Katmai volcano.

On the sterile wastes of ash none of the ordinary higher plants, such as grasses, could grow; and for many years the ash areas remained wholly bare. In order that such plants can live their roots must penetrate soil—that is, bits of earth or pulverized rock mixed with decayed animal or vegetable matter containing nitrogen compounds.

Dr. Griggs made the surprising discovery that delicate little plants called liverworts are now thriving on ash areas in which there are apparently no traces of nitrogen. Where the liverworts have been established long enough to decay and so form the beginnings of soil, other plants are starting to grow. Thus the liverwort or some microscopical living thing associated with it seems to be a pioneer in making possible the growth of vegetation; and it is possible to guess, with a little more understanding, what took place in the dim past when the earth's surface was like that of a huge lifeless cinder.

Failing to find nitrogenous materials in the ash on which the liverwort grew, Dr. Griggs is proceeding on the theory that the plant is able to obtain nitrogen from the air. In laboratory experiments in Washington on growing specimens brought from Alaska, he is seeking to find the mechanism which would make this possible.

The problem of the return of vegetation to an area devastated by volcanic action has been a subject of research by the National Geographic society for many years. Expeditions to study the matter were sent to the Alaska Peninsula by the society under Dr. Griggs' leadership in 1915 and 1916. As only a short time had then elapsed since the fall of the ash, little could be done toward solving the central problem of plant return; but the second expedition discovered one of the world's most spectacular volcanic phenomena, the "Valley of Ten Thousand Smokes," an area of more than fifty square miles from which myriads of jets of superheated steam hissed. This unique region, when brought to public notice by the National Geographic society, was made into a national monument by President Wilson.

Last summer's expedition found that the valley has lost much of its heat and can now be traversed more easily. Many of the smaller steam jets have ceased to be active, but the larger ones continue to throw off great volumes of white vapor. Hundreds of highly colored "paint pots" and bubbling cauldrons of mud make the area comparable to Yellowstone Park, though even more active.

The expedition made photographs of the interior of the crater of Katmai volcano which still shows some activity. It was found that the lake within the crater, which has disappeared and reappeared in the last fifteen years, again covers the crater floor.

FIRE MAKES LOSS OF DANIELSON BOTTLING WORKS

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Dec. 17.—There was a loss of several thousand dollars in a fire that destroyed the plant of the Danielson Spring Beverages, manufacturers of soft drinks, on Elmville road about a mile and a half north of the business section of Danielson. A 33 call brought the firemen at one minute before 1 o'clock this morning but because of lack of hydrant service in the section where the fire occurred they were powerless to do anything after they arrived at the burning building with the big pumper.

The driver of a Shore Line motor truck discovered the fire as he was passing through and awakened the people in the neighborhood. The destroyed building was a one-story brick structure of considerable size and was filled with machinery for the manufacture of soft drinks. The machinery is apparently a total loss as only the walls of the building were standing at 2 o'clock this morning when the fire was still burning itself out.

As the night was quiet other property in the vicinity was not seriously endangered. The bottling business is owned by Leo Piche and is located where it is on account of a fine spring of water available for use of the business. The exact amount of the loss, said to be at least partly covered by insurance, could not be determined this evening but will run into a very considerable amount of money. The beverage company distributes its products in a wide area in this part of eastern Connecticut.

The firemen got back to quarters at 2 o'clock.

ALCOHOL SPRAY ON ENGINE STARTS FIRE

Late Tuesday evening a Dodge sedan, Reg. No. 26,181, R. I., driven by its owner, Byron Cook of Pawtucket, R. I., but who is staying at No. 21 Mulberry street, caught fire in front of No. 14 Mulberry street, from an overheated engine, it is believed. It is supposed that alcohol, which had been ejected from a frozen and steaming radiator and sprayed over the engine, was ignited. It happened as Mr. Cook was driving on Mulberry street.

The damage to the machine consisted of burned wiring, hose connections and a broken glass in a door, apparently caused from the heat of the blaze, which was extinguished by members of Squad A. and Deputy Chief Dennis J. Brennan, who responded to a telephone call received at 11:31 o'clock. Six gallons of chemical were used. The machine, disabled by the fire, was removed by manpower to the side of the road.

Mr. Tynan was born in Colchester. He conducted a blacksmith shop there for several years. About eight years ago he opened a shop in Hebron. Besides his wife he leaves three brothers, Dr. James Tynan of Thompsonville, Dr. Morris Tynan and Grover Tynan, Naugatuck, and three sisters, Margaret, Katie and Elizabeth, of Naugatuck.

OBITUARY

James Stewart

Corp. James Stewart, Battery G. 11th Coast artillery, of Fort H. G. Wright, Fishers Island, died here Tuesday morning at the Backus hospital after a short illness with pneumonia. He was admitted to the hospital Monday night, having been stopping here at 314 Main street.

Corporal Stewart was 29 years of age and born in Williamstown, Vt., April 12, 1901. He made his home in Hudson, Mass., and had served three years in the army. His three year enlistment was up Dec. 4, but on the following day, Dec. 5, he reenlisted for another three year period. His death occurred during his reenlistment furlough.

All of his years in the army were spent at Fort Wright, where he was a well known figure. He was an athlete of considerable merit and figured prominently in basketball.

The deceased is survived by his father, John Stewart of Hudson.

Mrs. Albert B. Peckham.

Mrs. Nellie (Day) Peckham, wife of Albert B. Peckham, died Tuesday morning about 12.30 o'clock at her home on the Westerly road, after an illness of about 12 years. Mrs. Peckham was the daughter of John and Annie Foster Day and was born at Pawtucket, R. I., in 1870. In Norwich in 1894 she was united in marriage with Albert B. Peckham.

Surviving are her husband and one son, Charles Peckham of Winchendon, Mass. She had many friends who highly respected her and who are deeply grieved to learn of her death. Mrs. Peckham was a member of the United Congregational church.

WEDDINGS

Morgan—Gimbel

Miss Isabel Gimbel, of Huntington avenue, Norwich Town, and Benjamin Morgan, of Jewett City, were united in marriage Thursday evening, Dec. 11, by Rev. Elmer E. Scates, pastor of the Jewett City Baptist church, at the pastor's residence in Sylvandale, Lisbon. The bride, the daughter of John and Annie Burns Gimbel, is employed as a maid at the W. W. Backus hospital, while the bridegroom works on his father's farm on the Pachaug road.

Lund-Steele

John I. Lund of Boston, Mass., and Miss Gladys E. Steele of Somerville, Mass., were united in marriage in this city Sunday morning by John H. Barnes, J. P. The ceremony was performed at Judge Barnes office in the Chapman building and the witness was John C. Donovan of this city, former street commissioner. The groom is a physio-therapist in Boston and his bride has been engaged in employment work.

GYPSIES GET AWAY WITH $1,000 FROM ELIZABETH STREET WOMAN

A victim of gypsy fortune telling, Mrs. Blanche Stanek of No. 24 Elizabeth street, was fleeced of her life's savings, $1,000, Tuesday afternoon. State and local police departments throughout Connecticut are watching for the roving band of gypsies who left town Tuesday afternoon with the woman's money, according to what she told the police.

The gypsies arrived in Norwich about a week ago. They divided the band into two groups, one group taking up quarters in a Main street store and the other establishing themselves in a Franklin street store. They were here to tell fortunes, and to collect the half-dollars, dollars, and as far as possible as much more "easy money" as they could get hold of, it appeared.

Last Saturday Mrs. Stanek decided to have her fortune told and paid a visit to the Main street headquarters of the gypsies. A young girl, about 16 years of age, told her fortune and took in payment for her services a modest stipend, 50c.

The young fortune teller, however, informed Mrs. Stanek that there was a deep secret that she ought to know and that if she would return the following day, Sunday, her mother, the gypsy girl's mother, would reveal it to her. Mrs. Stanek went to the gypsies Sunday to have the secret revealed and paid $1.00 for the information. The elder gypsy woman somehow or other, after swearing Mrs. Stanek to secrecy, persuaded the woman to return Monday, when the gypsy would work a good luck charm.

$20 Sewed In Bag

Monday, Mrs. Stanek went back to the gypsies' headquarters, according to the report she made to the police. She wanted good luck in the future and believed in the gypsy woman's magic. The gypsy asked her for $20 to be used in working the good luck charm, and Mrs. Stanek obligingly handed it to her. The $20 was sewed up in a small cloth bag by the gypsy and fastened on the inside of her clothing, near the breast. She was told to go home and "sleep on it" and to return Tuesday. Also she was again cautioned to tell no one for if she did the charm would be broken.

Before the woman left, with the $20 in the sewed bag fastened to her clothing, the gypsy woman asked her if she had any money in the bank.

Got Money In Palmer

"Tell the truth or you will be crippled," the gypsy warned her. Taking the gypsy's warning seriously, Mrs. Stanek told her that she had $1,000 in the bank. The money was on deposit in a Palmer, Mass., savings bank. The gypsy induced Mrs. Stanek to draw the money from the bank and to hand it over to her so that she could work a real good luck charm.

Mrs. Stanek went to Palmer early Tuesday morning, drew the money, her life's savings from the bank, in $20 bills, and returning during the early afternoon, carried the money to the gypsy woman. After the money had been handed to her, the gypsy sewed it up in a small white cloth bag, and then, unknown to Mrs. Stanek, exchanged the bag containing the money for a similar bag containing a roll of paper cut from old newspapers to represent money. The bag with the roll of paper was hung inside her clothing by an elaborate arrangement of narrow strips of white cloth. She was then informed that after sleeping with the bag attached to her clothing good luck would follow. She was cautioned not to open the bag and to tell no one. However, sometime later in the afternoon, Mrs. Stanek became suspicious and investigating discovered that her money was gone. She also learned that the gypsies were gone.

Mrs. Stanek reported her unfortunate experience at police headquarters shortly before 6 o'clock and a state-wide alarm was immediately sent out for the arrest of the gypsies. However, they had four hours start on the police, and traveling in a Lincoln and a Stutz, both fast machines, they were undoubtedly out of the state long before Mrs. Stanek asked the police to aid her.

NORWICH BUILDING LOAN VOTES 6 PER CENT DIVIDEND

At the monthly business meeting of the board of management of the Norwich Building and Loan association, held on Tuesday evening, it was voted that a dividend be declared for the current six months at the rate of six per cent per annum. This completes a period of six years during which the association has credited dividends at this rate.

President E. O. Rodier presided and routine business was transacted.

Chairman Tongren reported plans of the committee on the centennial series to be opened in January.

One plan is to celebrate the 100th anniversary of the organization of the first building and loan association in the United States at the time of the annual meeting, on January 20, with a social meeting for the share holders and their friends at the close of the business meeting, and President Rodier was empowered to appoint committees to arrange for various parts of the annual meeting and celebration.

DEATH OF VETERAN NORTHAMPTON MAYOR

Benjamin E. Cook, 89, first mayor of Northampton, Mass., elected to that office in 1883 and twice re-elected, died Sunday at a Northampton hospital after a two months' illness. When the funeral was held Tuesday afternoon in Edwards Congregational church, after the body had lain in state from noon to 1:30, flags were at half staff on the city hall, members of the city government attended the funeral and city department offices were closed for an hour. Burial was in Bridge street cemetery.

Mr. Cook had lived all his life in Northampton and was known as the democratic warhorse of Hampshire county. He was a Civil war veteran and had been in the jewelry and real estate business.

His first wife died a number of years ago and on April 9, 1924, at the age of 83, he married a former Norwich woman, Mrs. Annie Pierson Newton, widow of John Newton of Boston, who had been acting as Mr. Cook's housekeeper. They went to Europe for their honeymoon. The families were further united when Mr. Cook's daughter married the eldest son of Mrs. Newton, Floyd Sears Newton, now of New Haven. Besides his wife and the daughter in New Haven Mr. Cook leaves another daughter, Dr. Elizabeth C. Cook of the faculty of Columbia university.

HIGH SCORE GIVES DR. LEWIS FIRST PLACE

Dr. Lewis made the only high score in the play of the West Side Pinochle club Wednesday evening and took the lead by jumping from third to first place. This pushed Boynton down from first to second and Pettis came up to third place from fourth.

This was the fourth night in the present series and the scores were as follows:

The standing: Lewis, 28,830; Boynton, 28,125; Pettis, 27,475; J. Jordan, 26,705; Schuler, 26,125; A. Jordan, 26,-090; Underwood, 26,075; McNaught, 25,890; Parker, 25,665; Bailey, 24,960; Peckham, 24,955; Ellsworth, 24,730.

AUCTION DRAWS CROWD TO WM. FITCH HOUSE

Between 150 and 200 interested persons attended the public auction conducted by L. J. Wilcox, auctioneer, for the William H. Fitch estate at No. 23 East Town street, Norwich Town, Tuesday, from 10 to 5 o'clock. A large assortment of modern and antique furniture, which had been stored in the barn, was auctioned off and there was much spirited bidding. Many of the articles were said to have been over 100 years old.

DUCKS AND RACCOONS ARE HUNTING LIMIT

Ducks and raccoons were on Tuesday the only game, hunted for sport, not safe behind the barriers of closed seasons according to law.

The hunting season which started on the downward grade last month with the coming of closed seasons on most game birds continued to sink as the last chance to hunt rabbits faded out Monday.

Ducks may be hunted to and including Jan. 15, under the federal law. The closed season on raccoons begins Jan. 1.

The December issue of the Farm and Home Bureau News contains a suggestive paper by A. J. Brundage, state club leader, on "Slave, Hired Man or Partner?" It concerns the way many farmers show over-much severity with their sons.

CHRISTMAS PAGEANT AND MUSIC AT COLLEGE

There is much interest in the Christmas programme which will take place at Connecticut college at New London this (Wednesday) night at 8 o'clock. There will be the traditional singing of carols by the Glee club under the direction of Prof. J. Lawrence Erb and the students of the art department, under the direction of Prof. Henry B. Selden, will present a Christmas tableau. This year, Giotto's Madonna with Angels will be reproduced as a living picture by the students. Miss Muriel Bristol of Waterbury will impersonate the Madonna, sitting with her babe in a golden frame, surrounded by the angels.

The programme which, as usual, is open to the public without charge, will begin by the singing of Silent Night by a concealed choir. During the singing the students will file into the hall, all in cap and gown with the exception of a few members of the art department who will be in Florentine costumes. Adeste Fideles by the entire audience and the reading of the Christmas story from Luke 2, 1:2, will be followed by the choir singing an old provincial carol. Here a Torch, Jeanette, Isabella. After the choir has sung Sing We Noel, from the 16th century French, Anna Hempstead Branch, New London author, will read some of her own poems.

A feature of the programme will be Professor Erb's musical interpretation of Away in a Manger, which will be sung by the choir, and a Christmas folk song which has been set to music by Miss Marguerite Fishburne, '31, of West Hartford. This will be sung by Miss Marion Nichols of New Haven and the choir.

The Florentine Madonna, a Christmas pageant for which Professor Erb has composed a musical setting for the choir, will conclude the programme in the hall. The students who will take the part of the angels in the picture will be the Misses Virginia Hinman of Willimantic, Mildred Pierce, Canaan; Jane Alexander, Lakewood, O.; Mary Eaton, Cleveland, O.; Hortense Alderman, Holyoke, Mass.; Jean Stimpson, Chevy Chase, Md.; Carol Swisher, Hartford; Edith Schneider, Windsor; Emily Benedict, Troy, N. Y.; Barbara Meaker, Bronxville, N. Y.; Dorothy Rose, Elmira, N. Y.; Ellen Katz, Wilmette, Ill.; Isabelle Bartlett, Freeport, L. I.; Mary Maxon, Springfield, Ill.; Janet and Virginia Swan, Lowell, Mass.

The costumes, which are colorful 14th century affairs, were designed by Miss Aurelia Hunt of Mt. Vernon, N. Y., and Carolyn Potter of Terryville. On the scenery committee are Miss Caroline Rice of New York city, Miss Hortense Alderman of Holyoke, Mass., and Miss Deborah Roud of Brookline, Mass.

At the close of the programme, the students and guests will file up to the altar to receive lighted Christmas tapers while all join in singing O Little Town of Bethlehem. From the gymnasium the procession will go out of doors to the quadrangle where five carols will be sung, including: God Rest You Merry Gentlemen, The First Noel, We Three Kings of Orient Are, Good King Wenceslas and What Child Is This? Professors Gerard E. Jensen, Allen B. Lambdin and Paul F. Laubenstein will sing the parts of the three kings in the third carol to be sung.

MEDICAL TEMPERANCE TALK BEFORE WOMAN'S CRUSADE

At the December meeting of the Woman's Crusade held on Tuesday afternoon in the woman's room of the Central Baptist church, in the absence of the president, Mrs. Nathan Gilman, Mrs. Charles A. Hagberg, the vice-president, presided.

The devotional service led by Mrs. Alvin D. Lewis was followed by an informal business session. A letter from Mrs. Mary E. Welles of Hartford, president of the state W. C. T. U. was read. Mrs. Welles congratulated the Crusade on the float entered in the Armistice day parade in Norwich. The letter also stated that a photograph of the float had been sent to the National Department of Fairs and Exhibits at Evanston, Ill.

A very encouraging report was given by Mrs. Robert McNeely, the treasurer. The speaker of the afternoon, Miss Nellie J. Starr, president of the New London County W. C. T. U. in her message spoke upon "Medical Temperance."

In part she said:

"The mission of the medical department is to proclaim the truth that alcohol does not cure any disease, therefore is not a medicine; that the use of manufactured products containing alcohol or any depressant or habit-forming drug is a dangerous practice; that the self-prescription of drugs and patent medicines is causing a serious deterioration in the health of the nation. These facts are admitted by progressive members of the medical profession. Our work is to make them clear to others. The great flood of patent medicines containing alcohol and dangerous drugs and the resultant wealth from their sale are evidence of the great need of education. Jamaica ginger and wintergreen essence are simply strong alcohol, flavored and they do just the same harm as whiskey. Aspirin, which is often used for colds is a coaltar drug and is a dangerous heart depressant.

Miss Starr mentioned about a dozen widely advertised products in which the proportion of alcohol ranges from a low of 94 percent to a high of 25 percent and an average of about 15 percent.

Headache powders are dangerous, she continued as they contain acetanilid and acetphenetidin which are heart depressing, habit-forming drugs. The advertised "cures" for asthma, consumption, obesity and deafness are worthless and harmful. Beware of patent medicines and the quack. When you need medicine consult a reliable physician."

In her closing remarks Miss Starr outlined various other phases of the work now sponsored by the National W. C. T. U. Especial attention was called to the educational program very successfully carried out in the public schools in many sections of this country. With the cooperation of the school boards and the teachers fine work for total abstinence is done in poster contests, essay and "medal" contests.

At the close of the program Mrs. Harold A. Johnson with a few most appreciative words concerning her work in the Crusade, presented to Mrs. David A. Pitt in behalf of the organization two beautiful baskets of flowers, fruits and confectionery.

The attention of the members was then called to "Victory Day," Jan. 16.

UNITY CLUB ARRANGING TO GIVE CHRISTMAS BASKETS

Tuesday evening the Unity club of the Young People's department of the Central Baptist Sunday school held a social meeting at the home of Dorothy Packer, 54 Oak street. The early part of the evening was spent in wrapping gifts and filling candy boxes to be given to the welfare department of the United Workers.

At the business session a committee of five, Elaine Nelson, Helen Bellows, Frances Bushnell, Grace Taft and Ruth Brown, was appointed to purchase provisions for a number of large baskets to be distributed during Christmas week.

At the election which followed Frances Bushnell was chosen president; Helen Bellows, vice president; Ruth Brown, secretary; Elinor Harrington, treasurer.

After delicious refreshments served by Mrs. Packer and Dorothy the club adjourned to meet Dec. 23 in the kitchen of the Central Baptist church where it will pack the Christmas baskets.

CAR LOADED WITH LIQUOR FIGURES IN COLLISION

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Dec. 16—Becoming suspicious of the actions of Jack B. Knight, 32, of 70 Duane street, Greenwich, R. I., after his car had figured in a collision on the Hartford-Willimantic highway in the town of Columbia this evening Deputy Sheriff Harvey S. Collins of Columbia and State Policeman Kenneth W. Stevens of the Stafford Springs barracks found 12 cases of assorted liquor in Knight's sedan. The driver was immediately arrested for the transportation of liquor and an additional charge of failure to grant the right-of-way was lodged against him. The machine which is owned by John F. Silver of 273 Maple street, Holyoke, Mass., and the driver were taken to the Stafford barracks where the latter was held for his appearance later in the Columbia town court.

The other car involved in the accident was a coupe operated by Miss Germaine Archambeault of 267 Purchase street, Bedford, Mass. Her mother, Mrs. Mary Archambeault received several cuts on the leg and both cars were quite badly damaged. It was said that the Knight car was on its way to Hartford at the time.

PUBLIC SPEAKING CLASS HOLDS CLOSING BANQUET

The public speaking and civic leadership club of business and professional men, which has met for the past 12 weeks, held its final meeting Tuesday evening with a banquet at the Y. M. C. A. with a fine attendance and much enthusiasm. Miss Bernice Willey acted as toastmaster and addresses were made by Judge Nelson J. Ayling, Rev. Dr. David A. Pitt, pastor of the Central Baptist church, J. P. Huntington, Charles J. Twist, J. J. Lyons, Abner Schwartz, H. C. Adams, Dr. Alec Rabinovitch, R. D. Judd, Miss Lucy B. Abbott and Secretary Edwin Hill.

Miss Mary Bundy, secretary of the chamber of commerce, read a congratulatory message from Dr. Ott of Ithaca, N. Y., author of the course of study. Rev. Dr. W. J. Sly, pastor of the Third Baptist church, who has acted as leader of the class, told of the work in other places. One of the most significant addresses was given by Mr. Judd on Parking Conditions in Norwich and Mayor Lee Roy Robbins, E. W. Perkins and Mr. Judd were appointed a committee to bring this matter before the city authorities to relieve the situation as soon as possible.

All the members expressed themselves as having profited by this course of public speaking.

NORWICH MEN ARRESTED FOR LISBON AUTHORITIES

Three Norwich men were arrested for the Lisbon authorities early Tuesday evening. They were: Roy J. Menders, 28, charged with parking a machine on a highway in Lisbon without lights; Alfred Poyerd, charged with hunting without a license; Charles Wiedwald, charged with trespassing. The arrests were made by Constable Potter of Lisbon and Officer Michael Pounch of the local police force.

The arrest of the three men came about through the efforts of Constable Potter and three men from the state fish and game department at Hartford, who, it is alleged, discovered them in Lisbon woods, while in the possession of an alleged jack-light and a double-barreled shotgun; also shells of the BB variety. When discovered they are alleged to have been wig-wagging the light, but upon questioning by the officials, they claimed that they were hunting for coon and had lost their dog. A machine owned by one of the men was parked without lights along the highway.

Coldest Morning of Season

After temperatures that were reported Tuesday morning all the way from ten or four below zero to ten above, making it the coldest morning of the winter, the weather moderated in the late afternoon.

Through the night the temperature stood at about 20 above and the predictions were that the extreme cold wave had passed over.

FIRE MAKES LOSS OF DANIELSON BOTTLING WORKS

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Dec. 17.—There was a loss of several thousand dollars in a fire that destroyed the plant of the Danielson Spring Beverages, manufacturers of soft drinks, on Elmville road about a mile and a half north of the business section of Danielson. A 32 call brought the firemen at one minute before 1 o'clock this morning but because of lack of hydrant service in the section where the fire occurred they were powerless to do anything after they arrived at the burning building with the big pumper.

The driver of a Shore Line motor truck discovered the fire as he was passing through and awakened the people in the neighborhood. The destroyed building was a one-story brick structure of considerable size and was filled with machinery for the manufacture of soft drinks. The machinery is apparently a total loss as only the walls of the building were standing at 2 o'clock this morning when the fire was still burning itself out.

As the night was quiet other property in the vicinity was not seriously endangered. The bottling business is owned by Leo Piche and is located where it is on account of a fine spring of water available for use of the business. The exact amount of the loss, said to be at least partly covered by insurance, could not be determined this evening but will run into a very considerable amount of money. The beverage company distributes its products in a wide area in this part of eastern Connecticut.

The firemen got back to quarters at 2 o'clock.

ALCOHOL SPRAY ON ENGINE STARTS FIRE

Late Tuesday evening a Dodge sedan, Reg. No. 26,181, R. I., driven by its owner, Byron Cook of Pawtucket, R. I., but who is staying at No. 21 Mulberry street, caught fire in front of No. 14 Mulberry street, from an overheated engine, it is believed. It is supposed that alcohol, which had been ejected from a frozen and steaming radiator and sprayed over the engine, was ignited. It happened as Mr. Cook was driving on Mulberry street.

The damage to the machine consisted of burned wiring, hose connections and a broken glass in a door, apparently caused from the heat of the blaze, which was extinguished by members of Squad A. and Deputy Chief Dennis J. Brennan, who responded to a telephone call received at 11:31 o'clock. Six gallons of chemical were used. The machine, disabled by the fire, was removed by manpower to the side of the road.

Mr. Tynan was born in Colchester. He conducted a blacksmith shop there for several years. About eight years ago he opened a shop in Hebron. Besides his wife he leaves three brothers, Dr. James Tynan of Thompsonville, Dr. Morris Tynan and Grover Tynan, Naugatuck, and three sisters, Margaret, Katie and Elizabeth, of Naugatuck.

OBITUARY

James Stewart

Corp. James Stewart, Battery G, 11th Coast artillery, of Fort H. G. Wright, Fishers Island, died here Tuesday morning at the Backus hospital after a short illness with pneumonia. He was admitted to the hospital Monday night, having been stopping here at 314 Main street.

Corporal Stewart was 29 years of age and born in Williamstown, Vt., April 12, 1901. He made his home in Hudson, Mass., and had served three years in the army. His three year enlistment was up Dec. 4, but on the following day, Dec. 5, he reenlisted for another three year period. His death occurred during his reenlistment furlough.

All of his years in the army were spent at Fort Wright, where he was a well known figure. He was an athlete of considerable merit and figured prominently in basketball.

The deceased is survived by his father, John Stewart of Hudson.

Mrs. Albert B. Peckham.

Mrs. Nellie (Day) Peckham, wife of Albert B. Peckham, died Tuesday morning about 12.30 o'clock at her home on the Westerly road, after an illness of about 12 years. Mrs. Peckham was the daughter of John and Annie Foster Day and was born at Pawtucket, R. I., in 1870. In Norwich in 1894 she was united in marriage with Albert B. Peckham.

Surviving are her husband and one son, Charles Peckham of Winchendon, Mass. She had many friends who highly respected her and who are deeply grieved to learn of her death. Mrs. Peckham was a member of the United Congregational church.

WEDDINGS

Scates, pastor of the Jewett City Baptist church, at the pastor's residence in Sylvandale, Lisbon. The bride, the daughter of John and Annie Burns Gimbel, is employed as a maid at the W. W. Backus hospital, while the bridegroom works on his father's farm on the Pachaug road.

Lund-Steele

John I. Lund of Boston, Mass., and Miss Gladys E. Steele of Somerville, Mass., were united in marriage in this city Sunday morning by John H. Barnes, J. P. The ceremony was performed at Judge Barnes office in the Chapman building and the witness was John C. Donovan of this city, former street commissioner. The groom is a physio-therapist in Boston and his bride has been engaged in employment work.

GYPSIES GET AWAY WITH $1,000 FROM ELIZABETH STREET WOMAN

A victim of gypsy fortune telling, Mrs. Blanche Stanek of No. 24 Elizabeth street, was fleeced of her life's savings, $1,000, Tuesday afternoon. State and local police departments throughout Connecticut are watching for the roving band of gypsies who left town Tuesday afternoon with the woman's money, according to what she told the police.

The gypsies arrived in Norwich about a week ago. They divided the band into two groups, one group taking up quarters in a Main street store and the other establishing themselves in a Franklin street store. They were here to tell fortunes, and to collect the half-dollars, dollars, and as far as possible as much more "easy money" as they could get hold of, it appeared.

Last Saturday Mrs. Stanek decided to have her fortune told and paid a visit to the Main street headquarters of the gypsies. A young girl, about 16 years of age, told her fortune and took in payment for her services a modest stipend, 50c.

The young fortune teller, however, informed Mrs. Stanek that there was a deep secret that she ought to know and that if she would return the following day, Sunday, her mother, the gypsy girl's mother, would reveal it to her. Mrs. Stanek went to the gypsies Sunday to have the secret revealed and paid $1.00 for the information. The elder gypsy woman somehow or other, after swearing Mrs. Stanek to secrecy, persuaded the woman to return Monday, when the gypsy would work a good luck charm.

Monday, Mrs. Stanek went back to the gypsies' headquarters, according to the report she made to the police. She wanted good luck in the future and believed in the gypsy woman's magic. The gypsy asked her for $20 to be used in working the good luck charm, and Mrs. Stanek obligingly handed it to her. The $20 was sewed up in a small cloth bag by the gypsy and fastened on the inside of her clothing, near the breast. She was told to go home and "sleep on it" and to return Tuesday. Also she was again cautioned to tell no one for if she did the charm would be broken.

Before the woman left, with the $20 in the sewed bag fastened to her clothing, the gypsy woman asked her if she had any money in the bank.

Got Money In Palmer

"Tell the truth or you will be crippled," the gypsy warned her. Taking the gypsy's warning seriously, Mrs. Stanek told her that she had $1,000 in the bank. The money was on deposit in a Palmer, Mass., savings bank. The gypsy induced Mrs. Stanek to draw the money from the bank and to hand it over to her so that she could work a real good luck charm.

Mrs. Stanek went to Palmer early Tuesday morning, drew the money, her life's savings from the bank, in $20 bills, and returning during the early afternoon, carried the money to the gypsy woman. After the money had been handed to her, the gypsy sewed it up in a small white cloth bag, and then, unknown to Mrs. Stanek, exchanged the bag containing the money for a similar bag containing a roll of paper cut from old newspapers to represent money. The bag with the roll of paper was hung inside her clothing by an elaborate arrangement of narrow strips of white cloth. She was then informed that after sleeping with the bag attached to her clothing good luck would follow. She was cautioned not to open the bag and to tell no one. However, sometime later in the afternoon, Mrs. Stanek became suspicious and investigating discovered that her money was gone. She also learned that the gypsies were gone.

Mrs. Stanek reported her unfortunate experience at police headquarters shortly before 6 o'clock and a state-wide alarm was immediately sent out for the arrest of the gypsies. However, they had four hours start on the police, and traveling in a Lincoln and a Stutz, both fast machines, they were undoubtedly out of the state long before Mrs. Stanek asked the police to aid her.

NORWICH BUILDING LOAN VOTES 6 PER CENT DIVIDEND

At the monthly business meeting of the board of management of the Norwich Building and Loan association, held on Tuesday evening, it was voted that a dividend be declared for the current six months at the rate of six per cent per annum. This completes a period of six years during which the association has credited dividends at this rate.

President E. O. Rodier presided and routine business was transacted.

Chairman Tongren reported plans of the committee on the centennial series to be opened in January.

One plan is to celebrate the 100th anniversary of the organization of the first building and loan association in the United States at the time of the annual meeting, on January 20, with a social meeting for the share holders and their friends at the close of the business meeting, and President Rodier was empowered to appoint committees to arrange for various parts of the annual meeting and celebration.

DEATH OF VETERAN NORTHAMPTON MAYOR

Benjamin E. Cook, 89, first mayor of Northampton, Mass., elected to that office in 1883 and twice re-elected, died Sunday at a Northampton hospital after a two months' illness. When the funeral was held Tuesday afternoon in Edwards Congregational church, after the body had lain in state from noon to 1:30, flags were at half staff on the city hall, members of the city government attended the funeral and city department offices were closed for an hour. Burial was in Bridge street cemetery.

Mr. Cook had lived all his life in Northampton and was known as the democratic warhorse of Hampshire county. He was a Civil war veteran and had been in the jewelry and real estate business.

His first wife died a number of years ago and on April 9, 1924, at the age of 82, he married a former Norwich woman, Mrs. Annie Pierson Newton, widow of John Newton of Boston, who had been acting as Mr. Cook's housekeeper. They went to Europe for their honeymoon. The families were further united when Mr. Cook's daughter married the eldest son of Mrs. Newton, Floyd Sears Newton, now of New Haven. Besides his wife and the daughter in New Haven Mr. Cook leaves another daughter, Dr. Elizabeth C. Cook of the faculty of Columbia university.

HIGH SCORE GIVES DR. LEWIS FIRST PLACE

Dr. Lewis made the only high score in the play of the West Side Pinochle club Wednesday evening and took the lead by jumping from third to first place. This pushed Boynton down from first to second and Pettis came up to third place from fourth.

This was the fourth night in the present series and the scores were as follows:

The standing: Lewis, 28,330; Boynton, 28,125; Pettis, 27,475; J. Jordan, 26,705; Schuler, 26,125; A. Jordan, 26,-090; Underwood, 26,075; McNaught, 25,890; Parker, 25,665; Bailey, 24,960; Peckham, 24,955; Ellsworth, 24,730.

AUCTION DRAWS CROWD TO WM. FITCH HOUSE

Between 150 and 200 interested persons attended the public auction conducted by L. J. Wilcox, auctioneer, for the William H. Fitch estate at No. 23 East Town street, Norwich Town, Tuesday, from 10 to 5 o'clock. A large assortment of modern and antique furniture, which had been stored in the barn, was auctioned off and there was much spirited bidding. Many of the articles were said to have been over 100 years old.

DUCKS AND RACCOONS ARE HUNTING LIMIT

Ducks and raccoons were on Tuesday the only game, hunted for sport, not safe behind the barriers of closed seasons according to law.

The hunting season which started on the downward grade last month with the coming of closed seasons on most game birds continued to sink as the last chance to hunt rabbits faded out Monday.

Ducks may be hunted to and including Jan. 15, under the federal law. The closed season on raccoons begins Jan. 1.

The December issue of the Farm and Home Bureau News contains a suggestive paper by A. J. Brundage, state club leader, on "Slave, Hired Man or Partner?" It concerns the way many farmers show over-much severity with their sons.

CHRISTMAS PAGEANT AND MUSIC AT COLLEGE

There is much interest in the Christmas programme which will take place at Connecticut college at New London this (Wednesday) night at 8 o'clock. There will be the traditional singing of carols by the Glee club under the direction of Prof. J. Lawrence Erb and the students of the art department, under the direction of Prof. Henry B. Selden, will present a Christmas tableau. This year, Giotto's Madonna with Angels will be reproduced as a living picture by the students. Miss Muriel Bristol of Waterbury will impersonate the Madonna, sitting with her babe in a golden frame, surrounded by the angels.

The programme which, as usual, is open to the public without charge, will begin by the singing of Silent Night by a concealed choir. During the singing the students will file into the hall, all in cap and gown with the exception of a few members of the art department who will be in Florentine costumes. Adeste Fideles by the entire audience and the reading of the Christmas story from Luke 2; 1:2, will be followed by the choir singing an old provincial carol. Here a Torch, Jeanette, Isabella. After the choir has sung Sing We Noel, from the 16th century French, Anna Hempstead Branch, New London author, will read some of her own poems.

A feature of the programme will be Professor Erb's musical interpretation of Away in a Manger, which will be sung by the choir, and a Christmas folk song which has been set to music by Miss Marguerite Fishburne, '31, of West Hartford. This will be sung by Miss Marion Nichols of New Haven and the choir.

The Florentine Madonna, a Christmas pageant for which Professor Erb has composed a musical setting for the choir, will conclude the programme in the hall. The students who will take the part of the angels in the picture will be the Misses Virginia Hinman of Willimantic, Mildred Pierce, Canaan; Jane Alexander, Lakewood, O.; Mary Eaton, Cleveland, O.; Hortense Alderman, Holyoke, Mass.; Jean Stimpson, Chevy Chase, Md.; Carol Swisher, Hartford; Edith Schneider, Windsor; Emily Benedict, Troy, N. Y.; Barbara Meaker, Bronxville, N. Y.; Dorothy Rose, Elmira, N. Y.; Ellen Katz, Wilmette, Ill.; Isabelle Bartlett, Freeport, L. I.; Mary Maxon, Springfield, Ill.; Janet and Virginia Swan, Lowell, Mass.

The costumes, which are colorful 14th century affairs, were designed by Miss Aurelia Hunt of Mt. Vernon, N. Y., and Carolyn Potter of Terryville. On the scenery committee are Miss Caroline Rice of New York city, Miss Hortense Alderman of Holyoke, Mass., and Miss Deborah Roud of Brookline, Mass.

At the close of the programme, the students and guests will file up to the altar to receive lighted Christmas tapers while all join in singing O Little Town of Bethlehem. From the gymnasium the procession will go out of doors to the quadrangle where five carols will be sung, including: God Rest You Merry Gentlemen, The First Noel, We Three Kings of Orient Are, Good King Wenceslas and What Child Is This? Professors Gerard E. Jensen, Allen B. Lambdin and Paul F. Laubenstein will sing the parts of the three kings in the third carol to be sung.

MEDICAL TEMPERANCE TALK BEFORE WOMAN'S CRUSADE

At the December meeting of the Woman's Crusade held on Tuesday afternoon in the woman's room of the Central Baptist church, in the absence of the president, Mrs. Nathan Gilman, Mrs. Charles A. Hagberg, the vice-president, presided.

The devotional service led by Mrs. Alvin D. Lewis was followed by an informal business session. A letter from Mrs. Mary E. Welles of Hartford, president of the state W. C. T. U. was read. Mrs. Welles congratulated the Crusade on the float entered in the Armistice day parade in Norwich. The letter also stated that a photograph of the float had been sent to the National Department of Fairs and Exhibits at Evanston, Ill.

A very encouraging report was given by Mrs. Robert McNeely, the treasurer. The speaker of the afternoon, Miss Nellie J. Starr, president of the New London County W. C. T. U. in her message spoke upon "Medical Temperance."

In part she said:

"The mission of the medical department is to proclaim the truth that alcohol does not cure any disease, therefore is not a medicine; that the use of manufactured products containing alcohol or any depressant or habit-forming drug is a dangerous practice; that the self-prescription of drugs and patent medicines is causing a serious deterioration in the health of the nation. These facts are admitted by progressive members of the medical profession. Our work is to make them clear to others. The great flood of patent medicines containing alcohol and dangerous drugs and the resultant wealth from their sale are evidence of the great need of education. Jamaica ginger and wintergreen essence are simply strong alcohol, flavored and they do just the same harm as whiskey. Aspirin, which is often used for colds is a coaltar drug and is a dangerous heart depressant.

Miss Starr mentioned about a dozen widely advertised products in which the proportion of alcohol ranges from a low of 94 percent to a high of 25 percent and an average of about 15 percent.

Headache powders are dangerous, she continued as they contain acetanilid and acetphenetidin which are heart depressing, habit-forming drugs. The advertised "cures" for asthma, consumption, obesity and deafness are worthless and harmful. Beware of patent medicines and the quack. When you need medicine consult a reliable physician."

In her closing remarks Miss Starr outlined various other phases of the work now sponsored by the National W. C. T. U. Especial attention was called to the educational program very successfully carried out in the public schools in many sections of this country. With the cooperation of the school boards and the teachers fine work for total abstinence is done in poster contests, essay and "medal" contests.

At the close of the program Mrs. Harold A. Johnson with a few most appreciative words concerning her work in the Crusade, presented to Mrs. David A. Pitt in behalf of the organization two beautiful baskets of flowers, fruits and confectionery.

The attention of the members was then called to "Victory Day," Jan. 16.

UNITY CLUB ARRANGING TO GIVE CHRISTMAS BASKETS

Tuesday evening the Unity club of the Young People's department of the Central Baptist Sunday school held a social meeting at the home of Dorothy Packer, 54 Oak street. The early part of the evening was spent in wrapping gifts and filling candy boxes to be given to the welfare department of the United Workers.

At the business session a committee of five, Elaine Nelson, Helen Bellows, Frances Bushnell, Grace Taft and Ruth Brown, was appointed to purchase provisions for a number of large baskets to be distributed during Christmas week.

At the election which followed Frances Bushnell was chosen president; Helen Bellows, vice president; Ruth Brown, secretary; Elinor Harrington, treasurer.

After delicious refreshments served by Mrs. Packer and Dorothy the club adjourned to meet Dec. 23 in the kitchen of the Central Baptist church where it will pack the Christmas baskets.

CAR LOADED WITH LIQUOR FIGURES IN COLLISION

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Dec. 16—Becoming suspicious of the actions of Jack B. Knight, 32, of 70 Duane street, Greenwich, R. I., after his car had figured in a collision on the Hartford-Willimantic highway in the town of Columbia this evening Deputy Sheriff Harvey S. Collins of Columbia and State Policeman Kenneth W. Stevens of the Stafford Springs barracks found 12 cases of assorted liquor in Knight's sedan. The driver was immediately arrested for the transportation of liquor and an additional charge of failure to grant the right - of - way was lodged against him. The machine which is owned by John F. Silver of 273 Maple street, Holyoke, Mass., and the driver were taken to the Stafford barracks where the latter was held for his appearance later in the Columbia town court.

The other car involved in the accident was a coupe operated by Miss Germaine Archambeault of 267 Purchase street, Bedford, Mass. Her mother, Mrs. Mary Archambeault received several cuts on the leg and both cars were quite badly damaged. It was said that the Knight car was on its way to Hartford at the time.

PUBLIC SPEAKING CLASS HOLDS CLOSING BANQUET

The public speaking and civic leadership club of business and professional men, which has met for the past 12 weeks, held its final meeting Tuesday evening with a banquet at the Y. M. C. A. with a fine attendance and much enthusiasm. Miss Bernice Willey acted as toastmaster and addresses were made by Judge Nelson J. Ayling, Rev. Dr. David A. Pitt, pastor of the Central Baptist church, J. P. Huntington, Charles J. Twist, J. J. Lyons, Abner Schwartz, H. C. Adams, Dr. Alec Rabinovitch, R. D. Judd, Miss Lucy B. Abbott and Secretary Edwin Hill.

Miss Mary Bundy, secretary of the chamber of commerce, read a congratulatory message from Dr. Ott of Ithaca, N. Y., author of the course of study. Rev. Dr. W. J. Sly, pastor of the Third Baptist church, who has acted as leader of the class, told of the work in other places. One of the most significant addresses was given by Mr. Judd on Parking Conditions in Norwich and Mayor Lee Roy Robbins, E. W. Perkins and Mr. Judd were appointed a committee to bring this matter before the city authorities to relieve the situation as soon as possible.

All the members expressed themselves as having profited by this course of public speaking.

NORWICH MEN ARRESTED FOR LISBON AUTHORITIES

Three Norwich men were arrested for the Lisbon authorities early Tuesday evening. They were: Roy J. Menders, 28, charged with parking a machine on a highway in Lisbon without lights; Alfred Poyerd, charged with hunting without a license; Charles Wiedwald, charged with trespassing. The arrests were made by Constable Potter of Lisbon and Officer Michael Pounch of the local police force.

The arrest of the three men came about through the efforts of Constable Potter and three men from the state fish and game department at Hartford, who, it is alleged, discovered them in Lisbon woods, while in the possession of an alleged jack-light and a double-barreled shotgun; also shells of the BB variety. When discovered they are alleged to have been wig-wagging the light, but upon questioning by the officials, they claimed that they were hunting for coon and had lost their dog. A machine owned by one of the men was parked without lights along the highway.

Coldest Morning of Season

After temperatures that were reported Tuesday morning all the way from ten or four below zero to ten above, making it the coldest morning of the winter, the weather moderated in the late afternoon.

Through the night the temperature stood at about 20 above and the predictions were that the extreme cold wave had passed over.

County Books Check O. K.

The county officials' books were found correct in the audit made Monday by the county auditors, Albert W. Lillibridge, of this city and J. Warren Stark of Lyme. The audited accounts included those of the jailors, Oscar H. Main of this city and Winder Reed of New London, the county home, the county commissioners, and the county treasurer, Albert J. Bailey of Norwich.

There is to be a United States civil service examination for draftsmen at salaries indicated: Senior mechanical draftsman, $2,000 to $2,500; principal mechanical draftsman, $2,300 to $2,800; chief mechanical draftsman, $2,600 to $3,100. BOBBY JONES AWARDED SULLIVAN MEDAL--BEST AMATEUR SPORTSMAN

NEW YORK, Dec. 16—(AP)—Bobby Jones' international golfing triumphs have won for him the Sullivan Memorial award, the Amateur Athletic union announced today.

The award, given for the first time this year in memory of the late James E. Sullivan, A. A. U. pioneer, goes to the athlete who by his performances and by his example and influence as an amateur and as a man, has done most during the year to advanc the cause of sportsmanship. The award, a gold medal, will be presented to Jones at a time and place to be decided later.

Although some members of the memorial committee felt that Jones' recent action in signing a moving picture contract had automatically disbarred him from the contest, this view was not shared by the majority. It was felt that the award was to be made on the basis of what the recipient was and what he had accomplished during the year and that furthermore, Jones' attitude in signing the movie contract, had been entirely above board and marked by that "frankness and openness which has always been one of his characteristics."

All this, the majority believed, made him "stand out more than ever as a thorough sportsman."

Jones received more than twice as many votes as the runner-up, Clarence DeMar, famous marathon runner from Melrose, Mass. Jones received 1625 votes and DeMar 800. Others in the contest, with the votes cast for them, were:

Mrs. Helen Wills Moody, tennis champion, 666; Helene Madison, Seattle, Wash., swimming, 375; Barney Berlinger, all around athlete from the University of Pennsylvania, 255; Thomas Hitchcock, famous polo ace, 236; George Simpson, Ohio State, national 220 yard sprint title-holder, 232; Harlow Rothert, all around athlete at Stanford university, 156; Raymond Ruddy, Columbia, long distance swimming champion, 149; and Stella Walsh, Cleveland, women's sprint champion, 61.

The committee, in announcing the award, summarized the reasons for its selection as follows:

"Foremost golfer of today, probably of all time. Winner of open and amateur championships of Great Britain and the United States this year, an unprecedented achievement. High ideals of amateurism and strength of character were exemplified in his refusal to accept a gift of $50,000 raised by popular subscription in Atlanta with which he was to buy a home. Has often been acclaimed at home and abroad as an unofficial ambassador of the United States to foreign lands. During the several years that he has been in the public eye, there has not been a single reflection on his sportsmanship or amateur status. By his excellence of performance, retiring nature, disdain for acclaim, helpfulness to and generous spirit toward his opponent and fine example under many trying situations, he has endeared himself to all lovers of amateur sport."

More than 150 names originally were nominated by the selection tribunal for the award. In making their nominations, the members of the tribunal were asked to take into consideration acts of sportsmanship, excellence of performance, strength of character, qualities of leadership, force of personality and high ideals of amateurism.

From among those nominated, the Sullivan memorial committee of the A. A. U. selected the ten considered the most worthy. These ten, together with a summary of the reasons for their selection, were sent back to the tribunal for final vote. The members of the tribunal, some 600 outstanding leaders in the world of sport, were asked to vote for three in the order of their choice, the first to receive five votes; the second three and the third, one.

TABERSKI AND WOODS IN TIE FOR FOURTH PLACE

NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—(AP)—Afternoon matches in the world's championship pocket billiards tournament today involved "second division" players and left the top positions unchanged.

Frank Taberski, of Schenectady, N. Y., former titleholder, moved into a tie with Arthur Woods, of New York, for fourth place, by trouncing Thomas Boatman, of Portland, Ore., 125 to 54 in 24 innings. Taberski has split even in six games. Boatman wound up his tournament schedule of seven games with only one victory and six defeats.

In the other match this afternoon, Bennie Allen, Kansas City veteran, defeated Pasquale Natalie of Chicago, 125 to [illegible], in 23 innings, and strengthened his hold on sixth place with three triumphs in seven matches. Natalie has won only one game in six and winds up his schedule by playing Taberski tomorrow.

Erwin Rudolph, of Chicago, the pace-setter with five successive victories, was matched with Woods in tonight's game.

Ralph Greenleaf, defending champion, who holds second place with four wins and one defeat, was idle today as was the third-place holder Onofrio Lauri, of New York, who has won four of his six games.

N. F. A. BASKETBALL SQUAD SENT THROUGH LONG DRILL

Varsity basketball activity at the Academy is going along apace daily as the date of the opening game draws near. The lid will be popped off Friday, Jan. 2, at Putnam high.

Tuesday afternoon Coach Paul E. Bitgood sent the squad through another long workout in which four teams worked for a great part of the time on offense and defense close in under the basket. The defensive play of the team was impressive but the coach is still not satisfied and will work right through the Christmas holidays.

Tonight at 7 o'clock he will start a series of night practices which will probably be in vogue for the next two weeks.

Coach Bitgood's plans for the makeup of his team received a body blow yesterday with the announcement that Ernie Stevens, football captain, would not be a candidate for the quintet. Stevens played on the 1929 team and is regarded as one of the best guards in the city. The coach had received no reason from Stevens for his action.

NINE AWARDED LETTERS IN N. F. A. CROSS COUNTRY

Nine boys were awarded cross-country letters at the Academy this fall, according to an announcement Tuesday evening by Coach Matthew J. Sheridan. This includes eight runners and manager.

FAST GAMES IN INTRAMURAL COMPETITION

The Pacific and Western conferences made a successful start Tuesday afternoon in the intramural basketball league at the Norton Memorial gym at the Academy with ten teams playing, bringing into action close to 70 boys. The first games of the intramural activity were run off last Thursday when ten other teams comprising the New England and Southern conferences met.

In the Pacific conference yesterday Washington State defeated California, 12 to 8; Southern California trimmed Oregon, 26 to 6, while in Western competition, Nebraska was defeated by Iowa, 8 to 6; Michigan stopped Chicago, 13 to 2, and Wisconsin was slightly better than Purdue, 17 to 15.

The playing of Bolduc, right forward for Southern California, was the outstanding feature of the afternoon for he scored 20 points on ten baskets in leading his team to their one-sided triumph. Leary, of Purdue, with nine points, and Taylor, Iowa left forward, and Yeitz, Michigan right guard, each totaling eight points, were other leading scorers.

The next games, bringing together the ten teams of the New England and Southern conferences will be played Thursday. Summaries:

Attention Norwich Town Wildcats

I wonder if the so-called "City Champs would consent to play a post-season game, or are they yellow? The Ice House A. C. would like to play the Norwich Towners Sunday, Dec. 21, the proceeds of the game going for the benefit of the unemployed of Norwich. In our estimation the "City Champs" were lucky to ease out with a 6 to 0 victory. This game was played early in the season before the Ice House team was organized. Since then, we have added additional talent and are confident of beating the Wildcats.

If the N. T. W. consent to playing this game to help the unemployed situation please answer through this paper.

ALL-EAST VS. ALL-WEST

Last night 22 of the leading football luminaries of the eastern football gridirons in charge of Andy Kerr and Dick Hanley left for the Pacific coast to engage an All-West team in the annual east-west classic on December 27th This classic will do a good deal to settle the controversy as to whether the east or the west plays the better football. Several well known football experts have claimed that the western teams are far superior to the teams of the east while others claim that the east can boast just as good teams. The only comparison that has been made has been through games where an eastern team which was not notedly strong has met a very strong western team, and the results have slightly favored the far west. All of which has given rise to the claim that the far west produced better football teams. Now with the stars of the east meeting the stars of the west a more general idea of the relative strength of the two sections can be had. Neither team has played together before and each will have practically the same amount of practice before the contest. Each team includes the cream of the gridirons of the two sections which brings the game down to as near an even thing as can be expected. The outcome of this game will be watched with no little interest.

SCHMELING GETS ULTIMATUM

The Solons of Sock, the New York boxing commission, last night issued an ultimatum to Max Schmeling to whom they awarded the heavyweight title on a foul early last summer. The Solons have decreed in no uncertain terms that Mr. Schmeling must sign a contract to defend his title against Jack Sharkey from whom he won it. This ultimatum would seem to let W. L. Stribling out of the heavyweight picture for the time being regardless of the attitude taken by the National Boxing association which favored a bout between the German and the Georgian. If Sharkey and Schmeling meet it is a sure bet that they will fight in New York for there is where the money is. This will probably be in the early summer unless Madison Square Garden can see its way clear to stage a championship bout indoors which is hardly probable. Now will the National Boxing association be willing to let this bout go or will they insist that Schmeling meet Stribling? And will they recognize the winner of the Sharkey-Schmeling bout as champion? A lot depends on Schmeling's answer to the Solones' ultimatum.

ANOTHER HONOR FOR EMPORER BOBBY

When the Sullivan award was made to Bobby Jones yesterday it was really the crowning gesture of his career. He was not awarded this medal for his golfing ability. It was more than that, a greater honor than the winning of the four premier golf titles of the world. It was the award for being a gentleman and a sportsman. A man can excel in sports but he is not necessarily a gentleman or a good sportsman. Bobby is what any father would want his son to be.

MYSTIC RIFLE TEAM LOST TO TAFTVILLE LEGION

Led by N. Benoit with high score of 175 for the evening the rifle team of the Taftville American Legion vanquished the representatives from Mystic in a Mohegan Rifle league match at the Norwich armory Tuesday evening. By winning, 853 to 767, Taftville collected two victories in as many days, having beaten Stonington by a large count on Monday. W. L. Davis of Mystic, with one point behind Benoit, was high for his team. The summary:

Y SENIORS OPEN LEAGUE SEASON HERE SATURDAY

From now on basketball for the Y Seniors takes on a more serious hue than has been the case in their first four warm-up games, for the local boys are about to enter upon their campaign in the state Y basketball league. In fact, the opening test for Howie Demarest's boys is on the books for Saturday night at the local gym against the Middletown five.

Middletown gave the locals plenty of trouble last winter and is reported as being just as formidable this year. Coach Demarest has been doing some experimenting with his quintet in the games to date and consequently has not met with as much success as would have been possible later in the season but with the Middletown game this week-end the team is expected to go into high and provide the fans with some fast basketball on Saturday nights during the remainder of the season.

A scheduled game with Willimantic Y for Thursday night at Willimantic has been put over until later in the season.

Shyma Jrs. Challenge

The Shyma, Jrs., challenge any team in the Norwich Church league or any other junior amateur team in Norwich for a home or home series. Games at Taftville are to be played on Christmas and New Year's afternoons as preliminaries to the Shyma, Sr., games. For further information call Shyma club Thursday evening between 7 and 9 p. m.

NEW YORK BOXING SOLONS ISSUE ULTIMATUM TO SCHMELING TO FIGHT

NEW YORK, Dec. 16—(AP)—The emperors of maul swung the big stick today and scattered the doldrums that have settled over the heavyweight division in the past few months.

With one sweeping motion, the three members of the New York state athletic commission accepted the challenge of Jack Sharkey for a championship battle and notified Max Schmeling in Germany that he must agree within 15 days to defend his crown against the Boston biffer.

"There is on file in this office a challenge directed at you by Jack Sharkey," Chairman James A. Farley cabled Schmeling in Berlin on behalf of the commission. "Your six month period in which to defend the title expired Dec. 12. You are directed to advise within 15 days from date your acceptance of the above challenge."

The commission's action dispelled any idea lurking in the minds of promoters and the faithful that another long drawn out elimination series would be fostered to bring to the fore a worthy challenger for the title.

Because of the commission stand, Sharkey will not be forced to prove his right once more to a challenger's rating by disposing of Young Stribling, considered in many quarters the outstanding American heavyweight; boxing any of the highly bally-hooed foreign threats, or meeting the menace of the younger generation, typified by such willing huskies as Max Baer of San Francisco.

The commissioners likewise jumped into the middle of the rumors floating about that Madison Square Garden was getting ready to stage a match between Stribling and Primo Carnera, the Italian blimp, in Miami, Fla., this winter with an eye toward pitting the winner against Sharkey here in April. That program was scheduled to produce Schmeling's challenger in a title bout in June.

The presence in town of "Pa" Stribling, manager of the Macon terror, representatives of Carnera, and Frank Bruen, former general manager at the Garden but now interested in various promotions in Miami and Havana, seemed to bear out the rumors but the commission's demand for an explanation brought a complete and immediate denial from Bill Carey, Garden president.

Carey wrote Farley that the Garden had no intention of matching Stribling and Carnera in the south or anywhere else and was not dickering for Carnera's services. Since the big Italian's knockout here of Big Boy Peterson that started his bunting practice around the country, he has been looked upon with suspicion by the New York commission.

Carnera was indefinitely suspended and his license revoked following the scandal that broke out after his engagement with Bombo Chevalier in Oakland, Cal., several months ago. The penalty for negotiating with a fighter suspended by the commission includes revocation of the club license, among other things.

Unless word is received from Schmeling within fifteen days accepting Sharkey as his next opponent, the commission will suspend the champion. Schmeling promised the commissioners last June, following the unsatisfactory match in which he won the title from the Boston sailor on a foul, that he would meet Sharkey within a few months. Managerial complications prevented the return match at that time.

To add another bit of life to the heavyweight situation, Jack Dempsey applied through his secretary for renewal of his referee's license and the request was granted. The old man mauler plans to spend the Christmas holidays in New York and meet some of the Yuletide expenses with a bit of work here and there about the state.

GO-GETTERS LIVE UP TO THEIR NAME

SWIDERSKI SUSPENDED AND HIS PURSE IS FORFEITED

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 16—(AP)—Paul Swiderski, New York light heavyweight boxer, who was disqualified in the seventh round of his bout with Maxie Rosenbloom, title holder, here December 2, was suspended for six months and his $550 purse declared forfeited by the Missouri state athletic commission after a hearing today.

As Missouri is a member of the National Boxing association, the suspension will go into effect in the other states belonging to that body.

Several boxing referees, fans and newspaper reporters testified that Swiderski, in their opinion, was not putting forth his best efforts and the bout should have been stopped. Swiderski has sued Seneca Taylor, state boxing commissioner in this district, and Referee Walter Heisner for $50,000 damages for disqualifying him.

GRAMMAR SCHOOL TEAMS TO PRACTICE TODAY

The six grammar schools of the city that will go to make up the Junior basketball league will hold probably their final practice, before the league opens on Friday, this afternoon at the Norton Memorial gym at the Academy, at 4:30.

Today's workouts will be in the nature of an extra session, the Academy having thrown the gym open to the schools to give them an opportunity to brush up on teamwork so as to be in the best condition possible for the opening afternoon of play. St. Patrick's has already signified their intention of being present and Paul Bitgood and Howard Demarest, who are in back of the league, hope that the other schools will also be present.

College Soccer Title

NEW YORK, Dec. 16—(AP)—The eastern intercollegiate soccer championship for 1930 will be awarded on Jan. 10 to one of three teams—Harvard, Yale or Pennsylvania. The Intercollegiate Soccer Football association, meeting here on that date, will vote to decide the champions.

DANIELSON BEATS JEWETT CITY IN OVERTIME GAME

(Special to The Bulletin)

PLAINFIELD, Dec. 16.—The lowly Jewett Cityites almost took a fall out of the league-leading Danielson aggregation here this evening, forcing them to play an extra five minutes before the contest was decided in their favor by a count of 40 to 32. After the culmination of the regulation game, the score stood at 30-all, and in the extra period Danielson bore down, chalking up 10 points to 2 by Jewett City, to win. Withey and Gale were almost solely responsible for the Danielson victory, getting 27 points, with J. Derda and Sweet being the strong men for Jewett City. Danielson led, 22 to 12, at the half.

The fans here tonight also saw the Plainfield court boys move up a notch in the Southern New England Basketball league standing, and go into a tie with Willimantic, by administering a defeat upon the New London Boys' club, who showed a decided improvement in their game, and dropped the tilt by the close score of 30 to 20 Dysart scintillated for the winners with seven field goals. The New London boys established a lead of 11 to 9 at the halfway mark, but were unable to hold it.

In the other games, New London Tel and Tel defeated Westerly, 50 to 45, and Stafford Springs was on the short end of the score, 28 to 23, with Putnam. At the half the latter were tied at 13-all. The results:

L. D. DAILEY DECLINES TO RUN FOR U. S. L. T. A. PRES.

NEWARK, N. J., Dec. 16.—(AP)—L. D. Dailey, who became president of the United States Lawn Tennis association last February to the accompaniment of a ringing declaration for strict standards of amateurism, will not be a candidate for re-election, he said today.

Louis J. Carruthers, a New York lawyer and first vice-president of the association, is slated to succeed Dailey at the annual meeting here Feb. 14.

GOLF IS GOOD FOR THE EYES, SAYS DOCTOR

OMAHA, Neb., Dec. 16.—(AP)—Here, Mr. Golfer, is another excuse to get away from home and office.

"Golf is heaven to the business man," said Dr. A. M. Skeffington, of Chicago, at the American Academy of Optometry meeting today.

"Its value lies not in the paltry exercise of walking and slicing the turf but in the benefit derived by the eyes. Golf requires of the eyes a similar use to those under which the visual system was developed; long, keen accurate sight."

ALL-EAST TEAM OFF FOR PACIFIC COAST GAME

CHICAGO, Dec. 16—(AP)—The all-star eastern football squad, consisting of Coaches Dick Hanley of Northwestern and Andy Kerr of Colgate and 22 players, entrained tonight for San Francisco, where they will meet an all-star western team in a charity game, December 27.

The squad will arrive in San Francisco Friday morning. No workouts will be held en route.

The coaches sent their stars through a brisk rehearsal at Dyche stadium, Evanston, this afternoon and were fairly satisfied with the workout. They were not certain about their starting lineup but Hanley said it was likely that he would try this combination:

Baker, Northwestern, and Gantenbein, Wisconsin, ends; Lubratovich, Wisconsin and Van Bibber, Purdue, tackles; Woodworth, Northwestern, and Linehan, Yale; guards; Siano, Fordham, center; Baker, Pittsburgh, quarterback; Bruder, Northwestern, and Hart, Colgate, halfbacks, and Macaluso, Colgate, fullback.

Special plays have been devised and long "skull" sessions have been programmed to break up the monotony of the journey.

Other players making the trip were: Ends, Rosenzweigg, Carnegie Tech, and Bates, Western Maryland; tackles, Ely, Iowa, and Vincent, Yale; guards, Selby, Ohio State, and Doyle, Colgate; center, Bernard, Syracuse; quarterback: Brockmeyer, Minnesota; halfbacks, Wheeler, Michigan, and Fogarty, Brown; fullback, Gardner, Villanova.

Bruins Turn Back Falcons.

BOSTON, Dec. 16.—(AP)—The Detroit Falcons bowed to the Boston Bruins 3 to 2 tonight and enabled the visitors to gain great headway in their drive for the top position in the American division of the National Hockey league.

SEVERAL MATTERS HEARD AT LONG PROBATE SESSION

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, Dec. 16—Judge Edward M. Burke held a busy session on Tuesday on the last bi-monthly sitting of Westerly probate court when probate matters were disposed of as follows:

Estate of John J. Joyce. Petition received from Catherine Joyce that she be appointed administratrix of the estate of the testator who died a resident of Westerly on Dec. 10, 1930, accompanied by a waivure of notice. Will was read and of the witnesses Agnes N. Felan of Torrington, Conn., and John J. Dunn, the latter appeared in court to testify and without objection was admitted and Catherine E. Joyce was confirmed as administratrix. Bond was made $800, without surety. Joseph J. Clancy was named appraiser.

Estate of Folomena Russo. Petition was received from son, John Rossi, alias John Rosso, that estate be admitted to probate of the testatrix who died a resident of Westerly on Nov. 13, 1930, leaving a will in which he was named administrator. Will was read and of the witnesses, Amelio DiPietro and Betina Gentile, the former appeared in court to testify. Without objection will was admitted and John Rossi was confirmed as administrator Bond was made $3,500 without surety. Mary DiPietro was named as appraiser.

Estate of James Brown. Petition received from Mary R. Burk of Westerly, Annie Brown Spears of Bridgeport, John Irving Brown and Harold I. Brown, both of Whitestone, Long Island, N. Y., and James Brown, Jr., of Westerly for the probate of the estate of the testator, who died March 8, 1930, a resident of Westerly. Will was read and of the witnesses, Mrs. Sarah C. Bransfield, Mary E. Darling and Jennie D. Darling, the last named, represented in court by Judge Oliver H. Williams, appeared in court to testify. Will was proven and admitted to probate, the bond being without surety.

Estate of Maria DiPietro. Petition received from executor of the will, Angelo J Cappuccio, that there was not sufficient personal estate to pay bills, representing that there was real estate on the east side of Pearl street adjoining land of Catalano Santos for which sale was desired. The matter was continued to Jan. 6, 1931, with order of notice.

Estate of Antonio Gentile. The guardian of the estate, of her son, Giuseppina Gentile, was represented in court by her daughter, a citation having been issued for her appearance to show cause why the guardianship account had not been filed with the court. Attorney John J. Dunn, in reply to representations by Representative of the United States Veterans Bureau Liam Mulligan, that numerous requests for the filing of the reports during 1929 and 1930, had received no attention, informed the court that the guardian had confused the government report blanks with court documents. The court directed and ordered a citation served on the guardian to file the record in the probate court.

Estate of Harriet Quebec, First account of Edward W. Lowe, fiscal agent of the Rhode Island state board of public welfare was received, examined, allowed and ordered recorded.

Estate of Nellie C. Donohue. Inventory, received, examined, allowed and ordered recorded.

Estate of Emma J. Doust. Guardianship account of deceased was consulted over by Attornies Davis and Dunn and the same was continued to a special session of probate court this Wednesday at 9 a. m.

DAMAGE SUIT HOLDS ATTENTION OF COURT

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, Dec. 16—At the adjourning of Washington county superior court at 4:25 p. m. Tuesday with Judge Jeremiah E. O'Connell on the bench and a jury still hearing testimony in the automobile damage suit Hannah Sullivan et al vs. Edmund J. Tompkins the maid, Miss Margaret McMasters was on the witness stand. It was this maid which Chauffeur Alstrom had testified was the one who had authority to have the Tompkins Packard car, which was smashed in the accident on the Tower Hill road out when Mrs. Tompkins was not at home. In the morning court session the chauffeur testified that he did not understand English well enough to comprehend the meaning of the statement signed by him for plaintiff's attorney Mr. Corrigan, and which was read to the jury. In the afternoon session both Mr. Tompkins and his wife took the witness stand, the former to testify that he was in Narragansett, R. I. only on week ends and the latter that she had charge of the domestics of the household. She said that only when the maid was in the auto with her two-year old child was the auto allowed to be out.

MYSTIC

When the December meeting of the Friendly league of the Union Baptist church was held with Mrs. J. Harold Thorpe, of Quiambaug, Monday evening, the meeting was opened by the president, Mrs. Louis J. Shepler. Following devotional exercises, a short business session was held during which it was decided to send cards to the shut-ins this year, instead of plants, as most of them would have plants or flowers anyway, and it was voted to use the money generally used for this purpose for helping the needy. There was a lengthy discussion on having a study class on India for six weeks. The following program was given, in charge of Mrs. Russell W Potter: Singing of Christmas carols; A Christmas Prayer, Miss Dorris Bindloss; Christmas Story, Mrs. Potter; singing of carols. Fruit salad and saltines were served. Those attending were: Mrs. L. J. Shepler, Mrs. S. A Stoddard, Mrs. William Van Pelt, Mrs. Hollis Price, Mrs. C. R Chapman, Mrs. R. W. Potter, Mrs. E. C. Hall, Mrs. Albert L. Wheeler, Mrs. Latham Packer, Mrs. Eleanor Lucy, Mrs. George Richmond, Mrs. Samuel Lamb, Mrs. Genevieve Fish, Mrs. H Hunter and Misses Grace Eldredge Dorris Bindloss, Bessie Heath, Happie Brown, Ruth Peck, Jessie Fish and Mrs. Thorpe. The next meeting will be held with Mrs. Chester R. Chapman, of New London road. Stereopticon views will be shown at this meeting.

POETRY

Steel Construction

Lean as the slender bar on which he stands,
Hard as the tempered steel beneath his feet,
Erect and unafraid, he walks above
The petty clamor of the thoroughfare,
Its little noises all dissolved within
The surging thunder of the riveters,
Death rides with him the upward-swinging beam,
His bony hands set forth the noon repast,
His clacking footsteps follow— follow close,
As to the stars the swaying walls aspire
They face, on spanning threads of one-way roads
Where Death retreats in cowed and sullen hate;
But at the close of each defying day,
Defeated, shamed, at bay with broken lance,
Death grins a grudging smile of deference
And doffs his skull to his insulting foe.

—Ethelyn Bryant Chapman in the Chicago Tribune.

Leisurely Lane

O little gray cottage on Leisurely Lane—
So brave with your jade-colored shutters and door—
The sight of you fills me with sudden pain,
For she is no more.

How dearly she held you I only can guess,
For I never knew her, but. Oh, you reveal
So plainly her fervor—so deeply express
Her womanly zeal!

Her passion was giving you beauty, I heard;
She toiled for you day after day with delight,
Then quietly left you, as vanished a bird
From my arbor last night,

O little gray cottage on Leisurely Lane,
What lovelier monument could one desire,
Than colorful curtains of chintz at a pane,
And a hearth fire!

—By Anne Lloyd.

Once, Hickman, Ill., founded in 1859 by Peter Hickman and sons, was believed destined to be the ideal American city. It didn't turn out that way, however, and the other day the town, now consisting of a store, postoffice, dwelling and two smaller buildings, was auctioned off by Mrs. Helen Reimer, relative of Hickman, for $1,039. The purchaser will move off the buildings and the site will once more become good Illinois corn land.

Catching a fish does not draw much attention, but when a fish catches a fisherman and carries him down to the depths of the sea, the fisherman has a yarn worth spinning. Simon Powers, of Ontario, Cal., went deep sea fishing. A companion hooked a large shark and was coiling his line on deck. Powers's foot got entangled in the line and the shark drew him overboard. The line zipped out until some one on deck tied it to a post. The shark started to go places and Powers went with him until he succeeded in kicking himself free. He bobbed to the surface and was rescued more dead than alive by a small boat. According to the rescuers, Powers at one time was forty feet below the surface.

MANY IMPORTANT STOCKS LOST FROM 2 TO 5 POINTS NET IN ACTIVE MARKET

NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—(AP)—Pronounced weakness of stocks, heaviness of many commodities and only scattering improvement in the highest grade bonds today pictured the state of sentiment in the financial markets. Cotton made a technical recovery; otherwise it was a day of declines.

Many important stocks lost 2 to 5 points net, and the pressure was hardest against several of the pivotal shares. Once more the market essayed a morning rally, rising 1 to 3 points, only to crumble under an afternoon deluge of liquidation. Sales totaled 4,156,110 shares, the largest turnover since Nov. 10.

Another slump in bar silver, a half cent cut in export copper, losses of more than 2c a bushel in corn and recessions in raw sugar futures were some of the developments outside the stock exchange. In addition, a dozen or more smaller interior banks closed and the foreign trade figures for November were decidedly unfavorable.

U. S. Steel, American Telephone, New York Central, Pennsylvania, General Electric, American Can, Westinghouse and Standard Oil of New Jersey, had to take a severe drubbing. Telephone, which sold as high as 181 1-2, broke to 172 5-8. It closed 2 points above the bottom, off 4 5-8 net. Standard of New Jersey cracked to 45 1-8. The net loss was 3 7-8. New York Central dropped to 107 and then recovered to 108 5-8, off 4 5-8.

A large number of issues lost 5 or 6 points net, among them Allied Chemical, Macy, Ingersoll Rand, Corn Products, Coca Cola and North American. Columbian Carbon and Worthington Pump dropped 8, Peoples Gas was down 12 at the close and Worthington Pump preferred "B," an inactive, tumbled 13. There were declines of 1 to 3 in American Smelting, American Can, Baltimore & Ohio, Standard Oil of New York, Texas Corp., Westinghouse, DuPont, National Biscuit, Johns Manville, Bethlehem Steel and General Electric. General Motors and Radio were heavy, but held their losses to fractions.

Anaconda was one of the few important issues to show firmness. Some rails bucked the general trend for gains of 2 to 3 points, among them Lackawanna, Frisco and Delaware & Hudson. Most of the others joined the long procession of new lows.

The weekly bank statement of reporting federal reserve members revealed a $16,000,000 gain in investments, but it was all in governments. Security loans were stationary. Although this item is materially under the 1929 high, it is only $49,000,000 less than a year ago this time. Commercial loans fell $131,000,000.

America's foreign trade last month was 12 per cent less than October's, emphasizing the duration of the depression abroad. Imports reached the smallest volume since October, 1921, but it was the poorest November in 14 years.

The $200,000,000 treasury overdraft at the federal reserve bank was cut in half and the money markets eased. Although the demand loan rate held at 2 1-2 per cent on the stock exchange, funds were again offered unofficially at 2.

After making new lows for five successive days, cotton, although irregular at times, showed net advances of 55 to 80 cents.

The general steadiness of European exchanges was enlivened by a brisk recovery in the Spanish peseta, which shot up nearly half a cent. The French franc, the mark and sterling were virtually unchanged.

THE CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—(AP)—The curb market was pounded further into new low ground in the first 1,000,000-share day since Nov. 10, today.

The oils were most conspicuously weak, several issues breaking sharply, in sympathy with petroleum issues on the big board. The day's total transfers aggregated 1,030,500 shares, or 260,300 more than yesterday's.

Vacuum Oil tumbled 11 1-2 points to 45 3-8, and closed at 47 1-8. As this carried the stock far out of line with the exchange agreement for merger with Standard of New York, which amounts to one Vacuum for three Standard, some apprehension was aroused over the prospect of concluding the merger, which has been questioned by the department of justice. Standard of New York closed on the big board at 20.

Cities Service dropped to a new low at 13 1-4, and closed at 14 1-4, off 1-2. Gulf and Standard of Nebraska dropped about 3, and Humble 5 points, to a new bottom price. Indiana sold off a point, and closed off 5-8 net.

In the utilities American Gas tumbled 5 points, but held about a point above the year's low. Electric Bond & Share dropped 2 to a new low at 37 5-8, and closed at 38. Associated Gas A and Middle West utilities lost about a point, and Niagara Hudson nearly as much, all breaking through previous resistance points. United Light A closed about steady at 21, off 1-8.

Deere was a weak spot in the industrials, tumbling more than 8 points to a new low at 20 1-4, which compares to the year's peak of 162 5-8. Aluminum of America dropped 5 1-2, but then recovered 5. Aviations were distinctly heavy, Western Air Express breaking 4 1-4 to 9 3-4. Massey Harris, Canadian farm implement, dropped more than 6 points to a new low at 10 3-8. American Cyanamid B and Anglo-Chilean Nitrate sagged moderately.

In the holding and investment company group, United Founders closed at 7, off 1-4. Goldman Sachs touched 5 1-2, and closed at 5 3-4, off 1-2. Pennroad sagged 1-2 to 5 1-8, the lowest yet.

BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—(AP)—Bonds resumed their downward course today, and with the exception of some investment issues, particularly those in the carrier group, were lower at the close of a very busy session.

Several score domestic and foreign loans were included in the crop of new 1930 lows which the day's trading brought.

United States governments failed to maintain the advance which developed in Monday's session but the few changes that occurred were of the smallest variety. The relatively few plus signs sprinkled through the bond list were mostly in legals and a few second grade rails that have yielded the most ground in the autumn decline.

Selling of Latin-American and some European issues broadened in today's session and was attributed to the nervousness inspired by the revolution in Spain and reports showing the effect of the world-wide depression on several countries. Losses of 1 to 3 points were numerous but the sharpest tumble was taken by Bolivian governments. They declined 7 to 9 points, all to new lows for the year. A commission is conferring with New York bankers in an effort to obtain an adjustment of service on the debt which amounts to approximately $60,000,000.

Several Brazilian and Peruvian loans joined the Bolivian group in new low ground for the year. Italian and German bonds of various descriptions yielded to pressure. New lows for the year were registered by Rhine Westphalian 7s, Cologne city 6 1-2s, and Berlin city 6 1-2s. German 5 1-2s and Italian 7s were heavily traded and each sagged a point or more.

More than a dozen stock privilege bonds reacted to new 1930 minimums and in many instances the losses were registered in points. The same was true of third grade and speculative domestics. Even among the best grade issues there were many adjustments to the lower level established this month in infrequently traded obligations.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET

CHICAGO, Dec. 16.—(AP)—Corn led a downward slide of grain today in sympathy with acute weakness of securities. Corn collapsed nearly 3c a bushel, with July delivery of wheat dropping 2c to new low price records since 1908. Earlier deliveries of wheat were steadied by purchases for farm board allies, who were estimated to have bought 2,000,000 bushels deliverable here in May.

Corn closed heavy, 2 1-4a2 5-8c a bushel lower than yesterday; wheat unchanged to 1 3-4c off, oats 1 1-2a2c down, and provisions unchanged to 15c decline.

NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—(AP)—The outlook for a favorable Christmas trade in retail drug stores is very good, officials of Lehn & Fink, Inc., state. Their opinion is based on individual reports of the company's salesmen, which showed that November sales were more than 4 per cent higher than in the like month last year.

The new Tidewater paper-making plant of the Maine Seaboard Paper Co at Bucksport, Me., was placed in operation today. The plant, which has a daily capacity of 250 tons of newsprint, has sold its output for five years in advance.

Activity of the cotton manufacturing industry of the United States has increased more than seasonally during the last four months, the New York Cotton exchange service reports.

COTTON

NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—(AP)—Futures closed very steady, 11 to 16 points higher; spot steady, middling 9.60.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16— (AP) — Treasury receipts for Dec. 13 were $13,417,311.71; expenditures $8,753,295.65; balance $37,950,694.79.

COURT RULES ADOPTION OF 18TH AMENDMENT INVALID

the amount of space that can be allotted thereto, even in an opinion on a subject of such fundamental importance, permit.

"It seems indisputable that local self-government, popular sovereignty and the convention system of drafting and amending constitutions were the very 'warp and woof' of the political thought of the whole period prior to the drafting of the federal constitution.

Quotes Abraham Lincoln

Declaring the thought processes of Abraham Lincoln had come to "typify so much the spirit of our institutions," he quoted the Civil war president as follows:

"'I will venture to add that to me the convention seems preferable in that it allows amendments to originate with the people themselves instead of only permitting them to take or reject propositions originated by others, not especially chosen for the purpose, and which might not be precisely such as they would wish to either accept or refuse.'"

Judge Clark presented at length his theory that the United States frame of government is a problem in political science, to be solved as far as possible according to scientific principles.

"Political science," he wrote, "can give only one answer to the question presented by the alternative methods of ratification prescribed by article five (of the United States constitution). If the amendment to be considered is one designed to transfer to the United States powers heretofore reserved to the states or, if there are any such, to the people, that answer must be in favor of the convention method.

"This follows from the character of such amendment and from the character of the delegates to, and deliberations in, a constitutional convention, as compared with the corresponding character of the personnel of state legislatures and their deliberations."

Pertinent Illustrations

The jurist then pointed out what he considered pertinent illustrations to support his contention that constitutional conventions were preferable to state legislatures in dealing with amendments.

The ratification of the women's suffrage amendment in Tennessee, Judge Clark related, resulted in the last analysis "upon the change in the vote of a youthful legislator of that state who very sensibly declared that he had always been in the habit of following the advice of his mother." Records showed, he went on, that the Missouri legislature ratified the eighteenth amendment in 15 minutes.

"It is possible to obtain as delegates to a constitutional convention a higher grade of men than on the average fill the halls of our state legislatures," Judge Clark said, and quoted Representative Luce:

"'When he (a man) is out of office his sole object is to attain it; and when he has attained it his only anxiety is to keep it. In his unprincipled dread of losing his place he will readily go to all lengths.'"

"Manifestly," the judge observed, "none of these influences can affect the delegates to a constitutional convention and he can be disturbed by no hope of political gain or fear of political punishment."

A convention, the court wrote, either because of directly instructed or abler delegates is a better vehicle for the expression of public opinion than a state legislature, and "its ultimate acts will, because of this fact, command greater popular support."

Judge Clark pointed out that his decision today should not affect other amendments ratified by state legislatures. He related that the twelfth and seventeenth amendments affected the machinery of government; that the eleventh and sixteenth made certain changes in the judicial and taxing powers of the federal government; that the ninth and tenth were concerned with the reservation of rights and powers; and that the first eight, the fourteenth, the fifteenth and the nineteenth contained limitations upon the power of the United States or of the states. Only the thirteenth, the slavery amendment, he believed, had points of resemblance to the eighteenth.

"We believe it is distinguishable, however," continued Judge Clark, "because it strikes down the enslavement of human beings and operates directly upon the property laws of any states permitting that institution. It does not, as does the eighteenth amendment, contain a grant of power to regulate and prohibit certain acts."

Judge Clark said that in pondering the question before him he gave thought to why the eighteenth amendment had not been tested in relation to the "due process" clause of the fifth amendment, which is applicable to the United States. The 14th amendment which is applicable to the states, had withstood two attacks in the supreme court, he pointed out. The attacks were concerned with laws permitting vaccination and sterilization.

STORRS HENS BETTER MARKS IN 6TH WEEK

The trend of egg production in the Storrs contest has turned upward as per schedule. For the last three years the birds have slackened the pace in the fourth week, eased a bit more the following week, and then climbed more or less steadily until the first week in March.

Thus, in the sixth week of the current contest the birds came through with 256 eggs more than for the previous week and 281 better than in the sixth week of last year. The total production for all pens was 4,524 eggs, or a total yield of 64.6 per cent.

An English pen, entered by Tom Barron of Catforth, has the only birds that have succeeded so far in crowding the Reds off the front page. This team of ten pullets came through with a tally of 65 points to place first for the week. Donald I. Goodenough's pen of Reds that have so consistently set the pace for the first five weeks was in second place with a score of 63 points.

Reds and Leghorns continued the scrap by tieing for third place. Homestead Farms at Newtown, Conn., sponsoring Reds, and Mount Hope Farm of Williamstown, Mass., backing Leghorns, each scored 61 points. For fourth position three pens tied with 59 points each. These include two Massachusetts pens of Reds owned by Globus Poultry Farm at Attleboro and Scott Poultry Farm from Groton. The third pen in the group was Australorps entered by Jerseyland Farms of Point Pleasant, New Jersey.

The leading pens to date in each of the principal varieties are as follows:

White Wyandottes—Ebenwood Fm., West Bridgewater, Mass. 227. Jack Wrennall, Preston, Eng. 172.

White Rocks—E. A. Hirt, So Weymouth, Mass. 309; Kalerok Farm, Westford, Mass. 283; Davidson Bros., Upton, Mass., 234.

Barred Rocks—James Dryden, Modesto, Cal. 335; R. Walter Bishop, Guilford, Conn. 319; Lewis Farms, Davisville, R. I. 301.

Rhode Island Reds—Donald I. Goodenough, Torrington, Conn. 374; Globus Poultry Farm, Attleboro, Mass. 345; Scott Poultry Farm, Groton, Mass. 327; Homestead Farms, Newtown, Conn. 337.

BOG MEADOW WOOD HELPING THOSE IN NEED

The unemployed of the city are taking advantage of the opportunity to secure free wood at Bog Meadow. Several days ago President C. A. Hagberg of the board of water commissioners announced that wood would be given to anyone in the town who needed it. A half dozen or more have applied at the office of the selectmen for an order authorizing them to cut and take away the wood, which is white birch.

Appreciation of Policemen

In expression of appreciation of the Norwich police force in a Christmas spirit officials of the Dime Savings banks have sent a check for $25 to F. Russell Smith, chairman of the board of police commissioners. The contribution will be added to the police pension fund.

Contributions to Red Cross

The following are additional contributors to Norwich chapter of the American Red Cross: Miss M. Josephine Sabourin, William A. Wells, T. E. McClenathan, A. Curland, Samuel Slosberg, Mrs. S. Slosberg, Mrs. Raymond E. Baker, Mr and Mrs. Augustine Le Moine, Miss Harriet Cross.

Dismissals at Backus Hospital

Only one patient, Mrs. Emma McShane, of Baltic, was discharged at the Backus hospital Tuesday. The previous day Frederick Camp of 13 Scotland road and Diana LaFontaine of 5 North Thames street were also discharged.

Mohling Ma, a Chinese girl who was graduated from the University of Texas this spring, starts as an instructor at Yenching university, Peking, this fall.

Broadway Theatre

Grant Mitchell, who has earned an enviable reputation as a creator of stage roles, has brought his genius for creating to the screen, under the auspices of Warner Bros. His first talking picture shows him as "Bar- [illegible] now a the Broadway theatre.

Scene from "Man to Men" A Warner Bros. Production.

In building the character, the stage star brought into play all the knowledge and experience that he has gained through his years of performing before the footlights. He tried to do the things and say the things a barber would say and he endeavored to mould a human being with a heart and soul who in the scheme of things was a barber by profession. He strove to submerge the great actor in the character and appear not as an mime, but just as Barber John. The character dominates. "Barber John is essentially a father who feels keenly his son's aloofness because the father had been convicted of a crime. It is merely an accident of fate that he earns his living as a barber. Therefore the character is woven around his parenthood and his undying devotion for his son." In creating roles Grant Mitchell has found a greater joy in the theatre than merely acting parts and those who have seen his first screen efforts, feel that he has contributed the same inspiring work that marked his stage performances.

NEW LONDON WATCHING OUT FOR GYPSIES SPEEDING FROM NORWICH

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Dec. 16.—The state police and New London police tonight were seeking the apprehension of the occupants of two automobiles, laden with gypsies, one or more of whose numbers are wanted in Norwich for theft, but no trace of the cars were found. One car carried New York markers 4—Y—1206 and the other carried New York markers, 4—L—?-911, and were crowded with both men and women. The gypsies were in Norwich during this afternoon and worked the time-worn fraud of telling fortunes by the depositing of money, the larger amount the better, in the hand of the supposed fortune teller or by a specially concocted contrivance. When the money was deposited according to the instruction of the gypsy it was cleverly removed and the owner was then the loser, but did not discover the loss until the gypsies disappeared. The gang is supposed to be the same outfit that has been about the state for several weeks robbing unsuspecting men by the substitution of paper, etc., for the real money in the article furnished for the carrying out of the fortune telling.

A local man was arrested this afternoon by Automobile Patrol Officer Augustus Ray, charged with intoxication and will be in the police court tomorrow. The offender, who spends the greater part of his time in jail, has been arrested many times, so that when he faces the court tomorrow it will be for his 41st time.

Another old offender to be arrested on a charge of intoxication is a Salem farm-hand worker. He was found staggering about the streets and has been arrested about 35 times.

Zero Temperature

The cold weather of last night, which brought a drop in the mercury before 6 o'clock this morning to zero temperature, also resulted in providing plenty of work for the plumbers; for many pipes were frozen and early today there was a demand for the services of plumbers. With the advance of the day and the dying down of the wind, the mercury gradually climbed, but tonight continued cold prevailed for the mercury at 9 o'clock was far below the freezing point, the registration being 15 above.

Mrs. Harry Skinner and infant son, of Thames View, Waterford; Mrs. Perkins Moore and infant daughter, Essex, and John Berity, 50 Evergreen avenue, patients at Lawrence Memorial hospital were discharged today.

OBITUARY

Corp. James Stewart

Corporal James Stewart, 23, of Battery G., Fort Wright, Fishers Island, died this morning at W. W. Backus hospital, Norwich, where he had been a patient but a few days, ill with pneumonia.

Louis Feldman has granted a renewal of lease of the building, 453 Montauk avenue to First National Stores, Inc., the lease dating from Jan. 1, 1931, and at rental of $780. A clause of the lease provides for a renewal for six consecutive years at the same rental.

E. Oliver Winship has sold a house and lot on Sherman street to Thomas T. Wetmore, Jr.

The Gulf Refining company today brought suit against Barney Belgrad for $250, to recover the price of fuel furnished defendant. Property of Belgrad on Montauk avenue has been attached.

Raymond & Alexander have brought suit against Domenico DeBarbieri for damages of $450 and property of the defendant on Bentley avenue has been attached. The suit is brought to recover payment for building material furnished.

But one case was tried in the police court this morning. John M. Leary, a sailor, residing at 47 West Coit street, was charged with breach of the peace and intoxication. His case was continued until tomorrow. Leary was arrested last midnight by Patrolmen Dennis Murphy and Henry Hick upon complaint of his wife.

Missing Norwich Girl

The New London police last night were requested by the Norwich police to maintain a lookout for May Wilton, 15, who is missing from her home. The girl is described as being of medium build, full face and auburn hair. She had a dark felt hat, short brown leather jacket and low shoes.

Hit By Chute

John Christophersen, 61, residing on South road, Poquonoc Bridge, employed as a hostler by the New Haven railroad, was painfully injured this morning when hit by the chute of a water plug, used in supplying locomotives with water. Christophersen is a patient at Lawrence Memorial hospital, where several stitches were required to close the wound. Christophersen climbed to the tank of the engine at the south end of the Union station upon the arrival of a train from Boston and as the chute swung over the tank, it struck the hostler's head, knocking Christophersen from the engine. He was given emergency treatment and then taken to the hospital.

Police To Aid Poor

The New London police department is to sponsor a motion picture show, the proceeds of which will be given toward aiding the city's unemployed. Sunday and Monday the officers voted favorably upon the project and already arrangements have been started for providing a varied program of pictures and which have not been shown in this city. The performance will be given at a local theatre. The department will be under very little expense in sponsoring the performance, which will be given as a midnight show.

WM. DIXON SLEEPING WITH CLOTHES AFIRE

Patrolman Louis Wheeler in making his rounds at 5:30 o'clock this morning discovered a fire in the former Dart building, corner of Bank and Reed streets. But for the timely discovery of the blaze, William Dixon would probably have been burned to death for the man was asleep and his clothing ablaze. Officer Wheeler observed a reflection through one of the windows on the second floor and making a hasty investigation found that the fire was in a room used by the Carpenters' union. Dixon was asleep on the floor in front of an oil stove and his clothing was on fire. Repeated pounding on the door failed to arouse the sleeper and Wheeler forced the door in time to subdue the fire before Dixon had sustained injury.

BOOTBLACK TICKET AGENT SAID TO BE MISSING

An Italian bootblack, who had adopted the side-line of selling treasury balance tickets as an added revenue, is missing and so his $125 of the backers of the ticket selling scheme. No complaint has been made to the police and probably there will be no such action, for the venture is purely one of gambling and the owners of the tickets are equally as guilty of a violation of the law as is their agent of the charge of theft. The bootblack is only one of several New Londoners who reap a harvest by the sale of the tickets.

A. & P. STORE AT GROTON WAS NEARLY CLEANED OUT

The Atlantic and Pacific company's store, 26 Eastern Point road, Groton, was visited by one or more thieves last night and much of the stock removed, so much so that the crooks have been provided with a sufficient amount of foodstuffs to take care of their wants for several weeks. The stock included two 100-pound bags of sugar, one 100-pound bag of potatoes, 28 pecks of potatoes, all in bags; two cases of eggs, two cases of condensed milk, 50 pounds turnips, one case of raisins, 30 pounds of smoked shoulder and five bags of flour. The burglary was discovered about 8 o'clock when the store was opened for business. The state police were notified and an investigation disclosed that entrance was gained by the crooks using a bit by which they bored several holes close to the lock and in that manner were able to unlock the door. It is believed that the loot was taken away in an automobile.

OSCAR CLARK'S HOLDUP A TALE TO COVER GAMBLING

As was anticipated, Oscar Clark, U. S. coast guard, married and residing with his wife and two children at 60 Jay street, who claimed to have been held up and robbed by a Negro gunman in the yard of the Central Vermont railroad early last Saturday morning, has confessed that his allegation of having been relieved of $120 was purely false and was resorted to for the purpose of covering up his losses at gambling. Clark broke down under a severe grilling by Detective Sergeant John Cavanaugh, late last night, and confessed that he made the report of his alleged robbery because he had lost the money playing pool and cards and that he was supposed to have paid money he had borrowed the day after he claimed to have been held up. Clark's confession is made in detail and relates to his movements before the alleged holdup, together with how and where he engaged in the gambling that resulted in his money being taken from him. Clark was granted a leave of absence Nov. 26 for the purpose of going to his home in Friendship, Ind., where there was illness in his family. He was accompanied by his wife and children and in order to make the trip Clark borrowed $80 of a shipmate, assuring the latter that he would return the money when he reported back for duty Sunday, Dec. 14. Clark returned to New London Dec. 12 and on Friday he went to a Bank street pool room where he engaged in a pool game with money at stake. He lost $10 or $12 and in order to regain his losses he secured an endorsement on a check for $75 which he had intended cashing in order to return his loan. Going to a bank and the check being honored, Clark returned to the pool room where he lost another $10 or $15. The pool game concluded, Clark was induced to accompany some of the players to a card room and there he lost all his money, although at one time he had been a winner of about $30. His money gone, late at night, Clark started for the state pier, but en route he decided to relate a holdup story as a means of providing a story for failing to return the money. He accordingly searched for a patrolman and, finding Patrolman Louis Tooker, Clark informed the latter that after entering the railroad yard he was held up by a Negro, who thrust a revolver against his stomach and rifled the bluejacket's pockets. Clark's story was doubted from the start, and Detective Sergeant Cavanaugh became satisfied that the sailor, if he had really lost the money he claimed, had done so by other means than robbery. After Clark had described his alleged holdup by a lengthy version of being delivered a blow on the face before the gunman demanded the money, a checkup of the story revealed many discrepancies and Clark was finally accused of lieing. At first the sailor maintained that he had been the victim of a gunman, but with continual grilling, Clark confessed, admitting that he lost about $90 in the pool room and gaming resort.

Take Out Marriage Licenses

The following have applied at the office of the city clerk for marriage licenses: Joseph B. Pelenberg, merchant, of New York, and Miss Beatrice A. Ockooneff, 91 Jefferson avenue; Sidney F. Porter, U. S. coast guard, Norfolk, Va., and Frances H. Packer, 26 Perry street; Irving S. Russell, salesman, of New York, and Sarah L. Engelhardt, Hartford; James V. Rodera, barber, of 29 Shaw street, and Mary Bertolamy, New York.

Gave Idle Men $1 Each

A group of New London's unemployed, who gather daily for a sunbath in front of the Union Bank and Trust Co., State street, excited the compassion of a woman in an automobile this noon. As a result, the 15 men, who lined up against the building, received $1 each, for the woman instructed her chauffeur to hand each of the men a crisp $1 bill, which had been obtained a few minutes before from the bank.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

New Strand Theater

"Animal Crackers" now playing at The New Strand. Groucho Marx plays the part of an African explorer and big game hunter, newly returned from an expedition. Zeppo is his secretary. Upon their arrival at the estate of a wealthy woman, Groucho becomes the social lion of a house party in progress.

Harpo and Chico, musicians hired to entertain the guests, arrive on the heels of Groucho and Zeppo.

Lillian Roth, daughter of the hostess, is in love with Hal Thompson, an artist with small success. Louis Sorin, as a wealthy connoisseur of art, arrives at the party with a valuable master painting.

It is the same one of which the young artist had made a copy while pursuing his studies abroad. To convince the world that her fiance is a true artist, Lillian persuades Chico and Harpo to substitute the copy for the original before the unveiling. The two musicians recognize the art patron as a former fish peddler, and blackmail him.

The hostess has an enemy in the person of another society matron whose daughter also has painted a copy of the disputed work. To embarrass their hostess, mother and daughter prevail upon Greig, the butler, who was formerly in their employment, to substitute the second fake painting for the original.

Meanwhile, in his own inimitable way, Groucho has been telling the assembled guests about his African experiences. Chico then entertains with one of his distinctive piano solos. Harpo and Chico inveigle the hostess and her rival into a comedy bridge game in which Harpo uses a pinochle deck and stacks the cards in their own favor.

Palace Theatre

Now playing at the Palace theatre for the next three days a double bill that will provide plenty of fine entertainment for every member of the family, Love in the Rough, a story of the links packed with romance and comedy. Although strictly a musical comedy, this delightful film betrays none of the stilting devices so commonly noted in screen transitions of this sort. It is not only highly entertaining musically but packs a thoroughly human story without intrusions of dancing choruses to slow up the story. Robert Montgomery is featured and is teamed with Dorothy Jordan and Benny Rubin and Dorothy McNulty are paired off in comedy parts.

On the same bill co-featured is the great New York play brought to the talking screen, "The Pay-Off". "The difference between "The Pay-Off" and the usual run of so-called underworld productions," says Lowell Sherman, who directed it and enacted a leading role, "is that this play deals not so much with crime as with universal human emotions—not with the deeds of crooks, but with their psychology, their hearts, their loves."

"The Pay-Off," a stirring drama, tells the story of a genius who chose to devote his brain to robbing thieves of their plunder. The character is portrayed by Sherman, who remains "human" throughout.

GREENEVILLE

The Ladies Aid of the Third Baptist church held a very successful Christmas sale and meat pie supper in the chapel recently. The room was very prettily decorated with Christmas greens and red and a substantial sum was added to the treasury. Mrs. William A. Lund was general chairman and was assisted by Mrs. William Sweet and Miss Gladys Upton at the fancy work table, Mrs. Irving Larkin and Mrs. Ulnior Smead at the apron table, Mrs. Fred Laycock in charge of the candy. The World Wide guild table was presided over by Mrs. Henry Sebastian and Mrs. Val Sebastian, the Home Department table in charge of Mrs. William Sly and Mrs. Mary Matthews, and the Crusaders display was in charge of Mrs. Frank Hill. At 5:30 a delicious supper consisting of meat pie, mashed potatoe, mashed turnip, cranberry sauce, cabbage relish, rolls, pickle, squash and apple pie and coffee was served to a large patronage. Mrs. Lund was in charge of the supper and was assisted by Mrs. Herbert Peckham, Mrs. Elmer Mulkins, Mrs. Harry Concklin, Mrs. Chris Wunderlick and Mrs. George Haisch. The waitresses were Mrs. Alice Cousin, Miss Lillian Hayfield, Miss Elinor Howard, Miss Doris Lund, asisted by Millard Mulkin and Woodrow Sebastian.

The Sunday school scolars of the Third Baptist church are practising for their Christmas concert, which will be held next Sunday evening in place of the regular Happy Hour preaching service.

To Sing Christmas Carols

The Greeneville H club held their regular meeting Monday evening in their club rooms on Fourth street with a large attendance, President Wallace Atterbury presiding. The committee in charge of the annual Christmas carol singing reported everything ready. They will journey throughout the streets of Greeneville at mid-night on Christmas eve. Following the business meeting a social hour was enjoyed.

Many of the local Sunday schools are making plans for their annual Christmas exercises, an annual event. Some of the churches will hold them this coming Sunday while others will be the first part of next week.

Four Below Zero

Tuesday morning was reported as the coldest morning of the winter season. A milk man from Preston stated at an early hour the thermometer registered 4 degrees below zero. The Shetucket river was covered with a thin coating of ice this being the first time this year that the river has been frozen over. Many of the autoists had their machines frozen and were making haste to the gasoline stations to be thawed out and refilled with alcohol. Skating in the vicinity was reported very favorable.

With Licenses Suspended

The following are operators in this part of the state who have had their licenses suspended for driving under the influence of liquor, according to the weekly list issued by the state motor vehicle department.

Joseph J. Rattay, Tolland; William C. Goodrich, Norwich; Floyd H. LaPierre, Groton; Joseph Holcepl, Fred W. Keefe, Samuel Violette and Thomas F. White, all of New London. There are 39 in the state list this week.

WITNESS MEASURED 80 FEET WHERE CAR SLID WITH BRAKES LOCKED

Testimony that there were wheel marks in the road for 80 feet, showing that the brakes had been locked for that distance, was given in the superior court here Tuesday morning in trial of the $10,000 damage suit brought against Antone R. Augusta, Jr., for the death of Thomas F. Morton, 61, of Waterford, a well known newspaper and hotel man, who was struck by the Augusta machine on July 2, 1930, and died four days later in the hospital at New London. His injuries were a broken leg and concussion of the brain.

Based on this testimony and on other conditions at the time of the accident, a witness gave his opinion that the automobile must have been going faster than 60 miles an hour.

Judge Ernest A. Inglis and a jury are hearing the case, which will be continued today (Wednesday) and in which Attorney C. Hadial Hull is counsel for Mrs. Olive Morton, the widow and administrator of the estate, and Attorney J. James Floyd appears for the defendant, with the assistance of Attorney M. E. Gormley of New Haven. The New Haven lawyer was late in reaching court Tuesday morning because his automobile froze up at Naugatuck, but Attorney Floyd went on with the trial alone till noontime.

Percy L. Allen, a civil engineer, was the first witness, describing a plan of the locality of the accident, at the corner of Pine street and the Boston Post road in the town of Waterford. State Policeman Frederick O. Johnson, who took the measurements, gave the distance of 80 feet on the road where it was shown that the rear wheels had slid when the brakes were on, Walter L. Spencer of New London, a photographer, described pictures he took, and Bernard Ramus, who was driving a car a short distance behind the Augusta machine, told of the position of that machine after it had hit Mr. Morton.

James F. Loomis testified to what he saw of the accident from a bay window of his house.

Arthur T. Ruell, 14, who lived in July in the downstairs apartment of the house where the Morton family lived upstairs, testified that he saw the automobile hit Morton. The boy said he saw Morton look both ways and then step out to cross the highway. When about three-quarters of the way across, Morton turned his head in the direction from which the car was coming, took a couple of steps forward and when he was off the cement the automobile hit him, the witness testified. The auto hit Morton over towards the wall and he hit near the wall. Ruell said there was no bus there at the time Morton was hit, but a bus had been there three or four minutes before that but Morton motioned to it to go on as he didn't want it. Another bus came along just after Morton had been hit, but it didn't make a stop, only slowing down. The witness said that the automobile which hit Morton was a red one. After it hit him it skidded a little and then curved around and came to a stop with the front wheels near the black line in the center of the road, crosswise of the highway.

Antone Augusta, Jr., driver of the machine, who is the defendant, testified that there were six people in the car, a woman and a man on the front seat with him and three men on the rear seat. His car, he said, was a Buick 1930 coach, practically new and in perfect shape.

Roscoe K. Burrows, an automobile dealer in Mystic, formerly manager of the automobile exchange in New London, testified that such a car as Augusta was driving would weigh about 4,000 pounds.

Attorney Hull framed a long hypothetical question covering the conditions as to occupants of the Augusta car, their weight, the brake marks in the road and asked him what would be his estimate on the speed at which the Augusta car was driven at the time the brakes were first applied. The witness said it would be faster than 60 miles an hour.

Mrs. Grace Spieler, residing in a corner house, at Pine street and the New London turnpike, with whom Arthur Ruell now lives, testified to hearing the squeaking of brakes at the time of the accident, and she told of seeing a dark red car across the street after the accident. She didn't see Mr. Morton hit by the car.

The jury in the case is the following: William S. Case, Norwich; Otis Browning, Walter S. Tarbox, Preston; Everett H. Hiscox, Griswold; Elmer L. Pultz, Christie H. Foster, Lebanon; Irving R. Main, North Stonington; James W. Huntington, George A. Miller, Franklin; Clement L. Perkins, Sprague; Albert A. Rist and Paul Geist, Lisbon.

CAR ON FIRE GOING UP HAMPTON HILL

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Dec. 16.—A Chevrolet coach owned by the ByRolly Transportation Co., of Waterbury, was partially destroyed from fire originating within the car while ascending Hampton hill about 6 o'clock tonight. The machine had reached the half-way mark when the fire broke out. The occupants escaped injury.

The Hampton fire department, in charge of Chief Robert J. J. McDermott, responded to a call transferred through the Willimantic fire department.

LAUREL HILL TROOP FORMS NEW PATROLS

At the meeting of Troop No. 8, Boy Scouts, held Tuesday evening at the Laurel Hill schoolhouse, two new patrols were formed and Raymond Hotchkiss and Joseph Hastedt were elected leaders, with Bogus Zawislinski, scribe, and Joseph Hastedt, treasurer. Included among other things in which the troop is interested is the formation of a basketball team. The meeting was an abbreviated one, as the scouts adjourned at 7:45 o'clock for skating. Howard Ludlow is scoutmaster.

KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS START SPEAKING CLUB

White Cross council, No. 13, K. of C., in its regular meeting Tuesday evening at Knights of Columbus home, Broadway, staged its first programme of the speaking club, after the business session, with Grand Knight Patrick Coleman presiding. Two members of the council, Neil Murphy and James Nicholson, introduced the programme with talks on interesting subjects, each speaker being allotted three minutes. The entire membership is to have an opportunity to try out its oratorical ability.

SEEKS DIVORCE ON GROUNDS OF DESERTION

Suit for divorce from Robert D. McKee of this city has been brought in the superior court by Gertrude Brennan McKee of Stonington and two pieces of real estate on Grant court have been attached. The plaintiff alleges that she was deserted on Jan. 31, 1922, having been married June 17, 1908, and she asks alimony. The suit is returnable in January.

Navy Enlistment Quota Raised

Orders were received at the local navy recruiting station, post office building, in charge of J. J. Kenerieber, CTM, U.S.N., that the monthly quota of first enlistments will be increased to 20 first enlistments from Connecticut starting January 1, 1931.

The quota for Connecticut had been reduced for the past four months to five first enlistments. This increased quota will reduce the waiting list, thus giving qualified applicants applying for enlistment a fine opportunity for enlistment.

TAFTVILLE

Mr. and Mrs. George E. Congdon of Attawaugan are visiting Mr. and Mrs. William Preavey and family of South A street for a period of three weeks.

Miss Catherine Hasler, who has been spending several weeks in New Orleans, La., where she was the guest of her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. George Brown, has returned to her home at 34 Providence street.

Rev. William Penner and the choir of the Taftville Congregational church had charge of the service at the Sheltering Arms, Norwich, Sunday.

Miss Agnes Preavey and Miss Florence Picard spent the week-end in Groton, guests of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Melcett.

Mrs. Frank Kunnel of South B street is a patient at a New York hospital.

Santa Claus will visit the Lisbon Community house this (Wednesday) evening for the distribution of gifts. The committee in charge has asked the members to bring gifts with name attached and leave them with the committee members. Arrangements have also been made for a musical programme featured by singing of Christmas carols, which will be in charge of Mrs. Jessie Phillips and George Helmboldt.

As a token of esteem, a past master's jewel was presented to P. M. Hanks. Another successful year is looked forward to under the guidance of Worshipful Master Hynd.

MAYOR SENDS GREETINGS TO NORWICH, ENGLAND

The annual custom of the exchange of Christmas and New Year's greetings between Norwich, New England, and Norwich in Great Britain's tight little isle, has been carried out by Mayor Lee Roy Robbins through the dispatch of the following letter to the mother city across the sea:

The Right Honorable,
The Lord Mayor of Norwich, England.

My dear Sir:

The mayor and people of Norwich in America send Christmas greetings to the lord mayor and citizens of Norwich in England, and wish them a prosperous New Year.

Cordielly yours,
Cordially your,
LEE R. ROBBINS,
Mayor.

CONTRIBUTIONS MADE TO MAYOR'S UNEMPLOYMENT FUND

Mayor Lee Roy Robbins has received two contributions to his unemployment fund and has a promise of a further sum coming from the West End Community association. The mayor is not attempting to administer the fund but is turning the receipts over to the United Workers, through whose family welfare department help will be given to those in need.

Receipts so far have been $16.50 from the Schulte company store as ten per cent. of one day's sales on a certain date and $18.11 from Rose of New England lodge, No. 893, B'Nai B'Rith, of this city which was five per cent. of the gross receipts of the dance given by the lodge at the Wauregan hotel on Nov. 26.

Both contributions have been suitably acknowledged by Mayor Robbins.

Verdict for Defendant Stands

Motion to set aside the verdict for the defendant has ben denied by Judge Christopher L. Avery of the superior court in the suit for $10,000 damages brought against Louis Sherry, Inc., of New York city by Frederick D. Lewis of Stonington, administrator of the estate of John W. Lewis, who was fatally injured on Aug. 19, 1929 in an automobile collision.

NORWICH TOWN

L. M. CRANDALL ADDRESSES MASON COMMUNITY CLUB

The John Mason Community club held a meeting Monday evening in the vestry of the First Methodist Episcopal church. Woodruff T. Sullivan was elected temporary chairman of the business session. The meeting opened with the singing of Christmas carols led by Harold Rose. The accompanist was Doris Rose. William Case was appointed a member of the entertainment committee, to act with Harry Cripps in providing the program for the next meeting, Jan. 19th. Carleton Morse was appointed a member of the refreshment committee to serve at the next meeting with Wellington Miner and John Rogers. Mr. Miner will be chairman of the committee. The secretary, Rev. Geo. W. Potter read the minutes of the previous meeting and they were approved. LeRoy Miner, chairman of the entertainment committee then introduced Louis M. Crandall who spoke on "Twins." The twins Mr. Crandall told about were thought and action and during the course of his lecture he used to illustrate some of his points a golden ladder. Mr. Crandall proved one of the most interesting speakers the club has ever listened to and at the close of his talk the men gave him an enthusiastic rising vote of thanks. Then they sat down and for more than an hour they plied Mr. Crandall with questions. A lunch of hot coffee, sandwiches and doughnuts was served by Stanton W. Brown and Wellington Miner.

Ever Ready Circle Meeting

The meeting this (Wednesday) evening of Ever Ready circle of the King's Daughters connected with the Norwich Town Congregational church, is to be held at the home of Mrs. Michael Buckley, of Town street. This is the meeting each year when members assemble to do up Christmas packages.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Peck, of Millington, were guests at dinner Sunday of their cousins, Mr. and Mrs. George A. Peck, of Otrobando avenue.

Crosby Peck, who returned to Norwich Town at the week-end to visit his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Peck, left Sunday evening to resume his senior year studies at Bryant-Stratton college, Providence. He was accompanied by Howard Reynolds, of Eagleville, a member of the faculty at that college, who was a supper guest at the Peck home.

Fred Marchand, of Providence, spent the week-end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Marchand, of Canterbury turnpike. While returning Sunday to Providence, he was accompanied by Walter Murphy, a freshman at Bryant-Stratton college, who spent the week-end at his home on West Town street.

Zero weather was reported in some localities about Norwich Town early Tuesday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. William Bell, of Occum, attended the December meeting in Westerly Tuesday of Shore Line club, No. 6, of the Social Corner. They had as automobile guests Dr. and Mrs. Charles H. Lamb.

CHRISTMAS TREES MAKE ELKS' LAWN DECORATION

The spacious lawn in front of the Norwich lodge of Elks building on Main street has ben beautified with the erection of two good-sized Christmas trees, adding much to the already attractive appearance of the street. The trees have ben decorated with vari-colored electric light bulbs and will be lighted each evening until after the holidays. The lodge has kept up this feature year after year and many have been the favorable comments passed upon the sight.

TUESDAY ROUNDABOUTS HAVE CHRISTMAS PARTY

Apropos to the season the Tuesday Roundabouts were entertained at a Christmas party wit hsupper at the home of Mrs. Otto Berberick, No. 22 Peck street, Tuesday evening. There were eleven present and after supper, they gathered around an attractivly decorated Christmas tree for the distribution of gifts. An entertaining feature of the evening's program were recitations and vocal selections by Miss Edna Maples.

SETTLEMENT IN SUIT BROUGHT FOR IN JURIES

Settlement out of court has been reached in the suit of Mary E. Dorsey of New London, brought for $15,000 damages against Harold L. Washington of Roxbury, Mass., and Charles H. Foggie of Boston. The suit has now been withdrawn from the docket of the superior court.

The claim of Miss Dorsey was that she was injured while in her home at 109 Truman street, New London, when an automobile which Washington owned and Foggie was driving struck the house on May 18, 1930.

FLOYD LEDGER SERIOUSLY INJURED IN WORCESTER

Floyd Ledger of Worcester, a former resident of this city, suffered ten crushed ribs when he was struck by an automobile on a Worcester street Monday afternoon when he was on his way home from work. Mr. Ledger, who is a brother of Mrs. George H. Dolan of 32 Prospect street, is on the danger list at a Worcester hospital where Mr and Mrs. Dolan went to see him Tuesday afternoon.

Coupe Damaged by Thieves

Thieves who stole the Chevrolet coupe of Woodrow Guile of 120 Fountain street from the place where he had parked it Sunday night on Willow street damaged the machine before they left it in Franklin, near the Frink farm. A window in one of the doors was broken, a radio set that was in the machine had been stolen and the gas tank was empty.

SUES ON CLAIM FOR 32 WEEKS OF SERVICES

On the claim that she has not been recompensed for services rendered at the request of the late Mrs. Eliza J Edminston, who lived on Otrobando avenue, suit has been brought against the Edminston estate for $1,500 damages by Mrs. Phebe H. E. Vergason of Vergason avenue. Gilbert S. Raymond is administrator of the Edminston estate.

The claim is made in bringing the suit that at the request of Mrs. Edminston on or about Feb. 19, 1929, Mrs. Vergason rendered all personal services required by Mrs. Edminston, including nursing and keeping and maintaining the decedent's house; and the decedent also requested Mrs. Vergason to supply her with the necessities of life, including food, light and heat. Mrs. Edminston is alleged to have intended to pay Mrs. Vergason a reasonable amount for the services and to reimburse her for any and all disbursements she (Mrs. Vergason) made for the support of Mrs. Edminston.

Since Feb. 19, 1929, until the decedent's death on or about Oct. 11, 1929, the complaint recites, Mrs. Vergason, expecting to be paid a reasonable sum therefor, rendered Mrs. Edminston all of the personal services which she required, nursed her day and night, kept and maintained her house and did all the cooking necessary for the decedent's household besides furnishing the necessities of life.

Mrs. Vergason alleges that she supplied Mrs. Edminston for a period of 33 weeks, which services were reasonably worth $1,120. Mrs. Vergason claims that she filed a claim for $1,120 against the estate, of which $480 was allowed.

WITHDRAWAL IN SUIT BROUGHT FOR INJURIES

A $10,000 damage suit brought for the death of Mary R. DeCastro, 24, a mill employe in Stonington, against Swift and Co., has been withdrawn without costs from the superior court docket. The suit was brought by Frank H. Hinckley of Mystic, administrator of the estate of the woman.

She was instantly killed on March 12, 1929, when she was riding in one of the Swift company automobiles, which was driven by Trthur T. Bleasdale, and was in collision with a machine driven by Arthur J. Butlin along the Mystic-Noank road.

The third sugar refinery in the Philippines, with 150 tons daily capacity, has begun operations.

GAVE INFORMAL TALK ON H. C. BUNNER'S WORK

Professor Gerard E. Jensen of the English department of Connecticut college at New London was the speaker for the fall meeting of the Phi Beta Kappa association of New London county which was held Monday evening at the college.

Professor Jensen gave an informal talk on the life and works of H. C. Bunner, from 1878 to 1896 editor of Puck, writer of verse, of short stories, playwright, essayist, reviewer, novelist, librettist and skillful writer of letters. Professor Jensen has just finished a life of Bunner, based upon original sources, the first complete life to be written.

Attorney Hibberd R. Norman, of this city attended the meeting.

Three new members were received into the association: Misses S. G. Hall (in absentia), Juanita Witters and Dorothy King, all connected with the college.

SENATE AND HOUSE AT ODDS ON RELIEF APPROPRIATIONS

House Republicans Are Confident of Passage of $30,000,000 Drought Relief Bill, Instead of the $60,000,000 Favored by the Democrats and Approved Already by the Senate—The $116,000,000 Employment Bill Has Been Sent Back to Conference, the Senate Refusing to Strike Out the Amendments Objected to by the House

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17—(AP)—Snow swirled outside the capitol today twisting out a visible pattern of the tangled debate inside as congress became involved again with drought relief, employment and other legislation with the prospects of an early recess for the holidays dwindling.

Senator Watson, the republican leader, said he had a resolution for adjournment in his pocket, but did not propose to introduce it until employment relief legislation went through

One problem, the world court, was told by the senate foreign relations committee to come back in December, 1931. The opinion was expressed that the court on its way out took some of the prospects of an extra session with it.

There was renewed hope also that the white-haired Muscle Shoals problem would be settled soon, Senators Norris and McNary said they looked for a compromise with the house. Representative Reece of Tennessee, however, sounded a note of doubt.

During the tumult of the day, the drought relief bill got on the house floor for general debate. The vote is expected tomorrow with republicans confident they have the strength to pass a $30,000,000 measure, instead of the $60,000,000 favored by the democrats and approved already by the senate.

The $116,000,000 employment bill however, went drifting back toward a conference eddy, the senate refusing to strike out amendments objected to by the house.

Senator-elect Josiah W. Bailey and the newly appointed Senator Cameron Morrison of North Carolina came to Washington today to testify regarding the fitness of Frank R. McNinch of their state for the federal power commission. Bailey opposed McNinch, and Morrison, after taking the oath of office, endorsed him.

After their testimony the senate interstate commerce committee favorably reported the nomination ten to five. McNinch's support of President Hoover in 1928 has not endeared him to some democrats.

Senator McKellar, democrat, Tennessee, charged President Hoover had failed to comply with the law in not reporting to congress details of the expenditure of $100,000,000 for European relief while he was food administration.

McKellar was enlarging upon his central theme, when news of the death of Senator Greene reached the senate and an immediate adjournment was taken.

Just a little before the senate had agreed to limit debate on the Jones maternity bill after three o'clock tomorrow.

Secretary Hyde went before the house agriculture committee to tell it why he favored $25,000,000 for drought relief instead of the $60,000,000 proposed by the senate and a group of house democrats.

He said he had never favored the larger amount, Representative Aswell, democrat, Louisiana, said he had thought it had the approval of the secretary.

FRUITLESS SEARCH FOR SLAYER OF VELMA COLTER

MARYVILLE, Mo., Dec. 17—(AP)—National guardsmen, county officers and aroused citizens conducted a fruitless hunt today for the slayer of Miss Velma Colter, 19 year old rural school teacher.

Few clues were developed to aid in establishing the identity of the assailant, who attacked the young teacher after she had dismissed her classes at the Garrett country school four miles south of here late yesterday.

Several arrests were made by sheriff's officers, but authorities said no evidence had been obtained against the men held, who were strangers, held to explain their presence in this vicinity.

A detachment of field artillery of the Missouri National guard, joined in the search at the request of Sheriff Harve England, who said he desired assistance in handling possible mob violence in the event of the capture of the slayer.

Business in Maryville was virtually disrupted as angered citizens dropped their work to act as possemen.

VICTIMIZED WOMEN TELL OF "FRAMING" BY POLICE

NEW YORK, Dec. 17—(AP)—Two women who charge police with framing a morality case against them and a former stool pigeon who said he helped at the "framing" testified today at the departmental trial of four officers charged with conduct unbecoming a policeman.

Both women told the same story. They had gone to an apartment in Harlem with a male friend to get a wrist watch he was having repaired for Miss Sakwich. While they were in the apartment the four police officers named broke in and arrested them, knocking Miss Sakwich down and injuring her knee. Acuna said his part in the arrest was to have been to enter the apartment and plant some marked money, but that he never had the chance. He was at the door trying to argue his way in when the officers came and pushed him in, he said.

The two women admitted they gave false testimony at their first arraignment before Magistrate Jean Norris, but that they gave it on advice of their lawyer.

WIND SCATTERS SQUADRON OF ITALIAN SEAPLANES

CATHAGENA, Spain, Dec. 17—(AP)—Scattered by adverse winds and weather, a squadron of Italian seaplanes which took off this morning from Orbetello, Italy, on the first lap of a projected flight to South America was in two sections tonight.

Eight of the ships came down here, while the other four, including that piloted by Air Minister Italo Balbo descended at Iviza, an island of the Balearic group. General Balbo radioed word to Carthagena that he and his comrades were safe.

(Dispatches from Rome said that two replacement planes which began the flight from the squadron of twelve were also at Iviza).

Pending lifting weather, General Balbo's group will join their companions here before resuming the flight, whose next lap is to Kunitra, Morocco.

FORMER HEAD OF POLICE DRY SQUAD PLEADED GUILTY

BUFFALO, N. Y., Dec. 17—(AP)—Charles Edwards, former head of the Buffalo police dry squad, appeared in federal court today and pleaded guilty to possession of liquor in violation of the prohibition law.

He was fined $150.

OBITUARY

Frank Lederle

ATLANTA, Ga., Dec. 17—(AP)—Frank Lederle, 74, prominent electrical engineer and a resident of Atlanta for fifty years, died today at Tampa, Fla., after an illness of nine months.

He was born in Boston, Mass., but removed to Atlanta when a young man.

Mrs. Emma Anderson died here in Klamath Falls, Ore., from blood poisoning. Infection resulted from a bite inflicted by a squirrel December 8.

NARROW MARGIN VICTORY IN COMMONS FOR LABOR GOVT

LONDONDON, Dec. 17—(AP)—By the narrow majority of only six votes, the smallest it has ever been accorded, Premier Ramsay MacDonald's ministry survived a division in the house of commons tonight. It's survival however, leads to almost as critical position as if it had been defeated.

The vote came on an amendment inserted by the house of lords in the expiring laws continuance bill which proposed prolongation of the dyestuffs act for another year. The government was anxious to abolish this act upon its normal expiration next month and therefore urged the commons to reject the lords' amendment.

By a vote of 244 to 238 the house of commons did so and the expiring laws bill thus returns to the house of lords for further consideration.

In well-informed circles it was believed tonight that the lords, especially since the encouragement they received from the narrowness of the government's majority, would insist on their amendment. In that case the government would either have to bow their wishes, which was considered unlikely, or run the risk of another division which might well be even closer than that of tonight.

POPULATION OF LEIGE DISTRICT ALARMED BY FOG

LIEGE, Belgium, Dec. 17—(AP)—The population of the Liege district today became highly alarmed at the appearance of a dense fog, fearing a recurrence of the recent mysterious epidemic which killed more than three score persons.

Many families of Engis, Jemeppe, Ougree and Seraing prepared to move from the valley to the neighboring heights, and those suffering from asthma or other respiratory afflictions hurried especially to evacuate.

MAN INSTANTLY KILLED BY FALLING WARDROBE

PEORIA, Ill., Dec. 17—(AP)—Thomas R. Metzel, 78, arose from a folding bed last night to get a drink of water. The wardrobe part fell sharply, instantly killing him and pinning his wife beneath so securely that she was unable to disengage herself until noon today.

The first report of the accident did not come to the attention of authorities until Mrs. Metzel called for aid.

Mrs. Metzel had been imprisoned 15 hours.

WEATHER BUREAU WARNS OF NORTHEAST GALES

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17—(AP)—The weather bureau late today issued the following advisory warning:

"Northeast storm warnings ordered 5 p. m., north of Virginia Capes to Nantucket. Disturbance off North Carolina coast apparently increasing in intensity and moving north-northeastward will cause strong northeast and east winds tonight south of Sandy Hook and Thursday forenoon north of Sandy Hook to Nantucket."

CRITICALLY INJURED WHEN THROWN FROM HER HORSE

NEW BRITAIN, Dec. 17—(AP)—Mrs. Fred Troup, prominent in New Britain and Berlin society, was thrown from her horse near her home in Berlin today and was critically injured. She is believed to have suffered a fractured skull and internal injuries.

A passing automobile frightened the horse, causing it to shy. Mrs. Troup was hurled against a tree.

Mrs. Troup is the daughter of George E. Prentice, of the Prentice Manufacturing company, of which her husband is chairman of the board of directors.

LAWYER ON TRIAL BEFORE JUDGE ALLYN L. BROWN

HARTFORD, Dec. 17—(AP)—S. Gerard Casale, 32 year old, New Britain lawyer, who is on trial before Judge Allyn L. Brown in the superior court on a charge of embezzling $3,000 from Salvatore Biafore, 32, of New Britain, a client, took the stand in his own defense this afternoon and explained that the money he is accused of appropriating to his own use, was a loan.

Jobs For Heads [illegible] Families In [illegible] York

Contributions [illegible] $8,239,000 Will Provide Part Time Employment to 25,000 Men

NEW YORK, Dec. 17—(AP)—Enough money to give jobs to almost half of the estimated 55,000 unemployed heads of families in New York city has been raised by the emergency employment committee.

The committee announced today contributions of $8,239,000—sufficient, it was estimated, to give part time employment to 25,000 men during the winter.

Those hired with the money are set to cleaning up vacant lots, areaways and parks.

Tribute was paid the work of the committee at its "victory luncheon" today by Owen D. Young and Mayor James J. Walker.

Mr. Young, expressing 'a confident hope that we shall yet master this dreaded disease of unemployment," said the effort to provide work should not stop while anyone "willing to work suffers from cold and hunger in New York."

Mayor Walker said the raising of the fund "took a lot of bolshevism out of the minds of people who blamed the government because they were unhappy."

"It is not easy to look into the faces of starving children without developing some bolshevism," the mayor said "I bring you the profound appreciation of the city of New York for your splendid work."

Funds continued to be proffered to the police today. Among the contributions was a check for $1,000 from Bill Robinson, Negro tapdancer.

"The philanthropy of this man is a tradition," Commissioner Mulrooney said. He also accepted the offer of a thousand pairs of shoes from a retail shoe store chain.

The commissioner said the police had distributed $30,000 in cash, given clothing to 20,334 persons and found jobs for 2,530 men and 192 women.

The latest survey of police showed 55,592 heads of families out of work.

COL. LINDBERGH OPPOSES DIVERSIFIED AIR RULES

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17—(AP)—Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh took the stand today against diversified air rules at the closing session of the national conference on uniform aeronautic regulatory law.

Speaking as an observer, rather than a delegate, he said:

"We seek uniformity not only for this country but in every nation throughout the world. Non-uniform regulations would be a great hindrance to the progress of aviation.

"The worth of aviation lies in its ability to transport men and material over long distances in the least possible time. The worth of aircraft will be measured entirely on their ability to do away with barriers of time and distance.

"From a technical standpoint we are now able to look forward to eliminating loss of business time in the United States, I do not believe it is visionary to look forward a few years to the time when a letter can be mailed in New York in the evening and have it delivered in San Francisco the next morning."

A STORY OF JUVENILE BANDITRY IN KANSAS

KANSAS CITY, Dec. 17—(AP)—Police investigated a "juvenile gangland" today seeking the solution of five or more murders and numerous robberies.

One slaying has been confessed, officers said, by Everett Haldiman, 17, alleged leader and gunman of a band of boys and girls between 14 and 19 years of age. He is under arrest in Independence, Kans.

Fern McNabb, 14 or 15 years old, was declared by police to have described several holdups and one killing designed to provide a "thrill" for girl companions who rode in an accompanying motor car.

Her purported statement said Haldiman and his companions in crime used theatrical makeup to shield their identity.

OWNER OF CHAIN STORES JUMPED TO HIS DEATH

NEW YORK, Dec. 17—(AP)—Max Jagerman, owner of a chain of grocery stores, jumped to his death today from the 90-foot platform of the West Side elevated line opposite the Cathedral of St. John the Divine at 110th street.

Several hundred Christmas shoppers were on the platform. An executive of Jagerman's company said he had been depressed over business conditions.

Mrs. Beatrice Ginsberg, wife of a wealthy silk merchant, died in a plunge from a window of their thirteenth floor apartment in Central Park West. M. J. Ginsberg, the husband, said she had suffered a nervous breakdown six months ago.

NEW FRENCH MINISTRY TO FACE PARLIAMENT TODAY

PARIS, Dec. 17—(AP)—The new ministry of the left, formed by Senator Theodore Steeg to replace the defeated cabinet of Andre Tardieu, will make its bow before the French parliament tomorrow afternoon with its fate in doubt from the start.

A government of "truce and conciliation" as M. Steeg described it, will meet in the chamber of deputies an atmosphere of heated political opinions and party strife that have developed openly since M. Tardieu and his colleagues resigned December 4.

Ex-Judge Lindsey Rebuked By Court

Accused Discharged When No One Appeared to Sign Corrected Complaint

NEW YORK, Dec. 17—(AP)—Charges against former Judge Ben B. Lindsey of Denver, growing out of his demand for a hearing during services in the Cathedral of St. John the Divine two Sundays ago, faded among the shadows of legal technicalities today.

Magistrate August Dreyer, upholding a demurrer of Arthur Garfield Hays that the original disorderly conduct complaint against his client was defective, ordered a new complaint drawn. He called several times for somebody to step forward and sign it.

Nobody did.

Then, after rebuking Lindsey for the act which the magistrate said everybody knew about, he slapped his hand upon the bench and announced: "This case is closed."

The magistrate, who said later that his rebuke was directed more at the general public than at Lindsey, told the former judge:

"You are an intelligent man. You are a lawyer. You were a judge. You were not like an ignorant man who didn't know his rights. If anything was said against you, you had your remedy. A church has the right to hold its services without interruption and we can't say things we would like to say to them. This case should be a lesson to anyone going into a place of worship in New York."

Bishop William T. Manning of New York, whose prayer Judge Lindsey interrupted to answer a sermon in which the bishop attacked him and his advocacy of companionate marriage, was not in the court room.

Charles H. Tuttle, former United States district attorney, was present as the bishop's "friend." Asked by the court if the bishop would sign the new complaint, Mr. Tuttle said he would not.

Detective William F. May, signer of the original complaint and one of the four officers who rescued Lindsey when he was being struck and thrown from the cathedral by angry parishioners, stood before the court but made no sign that he would sponsor a new charge. May's first complaint was held defective because it cited two statutes without being specific as to either of them.

Lindsey uttered no word in the court room. He sat directly before the judge and kept his eyes riveted on a railing between them.

"I am satisfied," he said afterwards.

Attorney Hays said, "Public interest was best served by calling a halt to the whole affair."

The "affair" began several weeks ago when the speakers' committee of the New York Churchmen's association invited Lindsey to address it. Bishop Manning objected, but his objection was ignored and the association voted overwhelmingly to hear the former children's court justice.

The bishop then announced he would deliver a message to the diocese at the Cathedral of St. John the Divine. Lindsey wrote that he would be present and would demand a hearing if the bishop attacked his character.

The bishop did attack his character and at the end of the sermon Lindsey leaped upon a press table and asked five minutes to answer the attack. He was pulled down by ushers and shoved violently from the church with parishioners striking and hurling epithets at him.

Magistrate Dreyer's court room was crowded for today's hearing with overflow spectators in the hallways. Court opened at 2 o'clock but many spectators came as early as noon to get seats.

PROMOTION AWARDS FOR THRILLING SEA RESCUES

NEW YORK, Dec. 17—(AP)—Two captains, heroes of thrilling sea rescues, today won promotions.

Captain A. B. ("Rescue") Randall, credited with saving 294 lives in mid-ocean in four dangerous situations, will take over command of the United States liner Leviathan, world's largest ship.

He will be succeeded on his present vessel, the George Washington, by Captain George Fried of the liner, America, himself a hero in two gallant rescues.

Captain Randall, in addition to taking command of the biggest liner, will become commodore of the United States Lines' fleet. He is fifty-one years old and has spent 32 of these on the ocean, 22 in command of liners.

During the World war he navigated convoys, work given only to the most skillful and daring skippers.

BIG DECREASE IN NUMBER OF IMMIGRATION VISAS

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17—(AP)—Another sharp decrease in the number of immigration visas issued by American consular officers abroad was indicated in visas statistics for November made public today by the state department.

Reports from American consular officers in 21 countries with quotas aggregating 148,466 of the total quota of 153,714 showed that only 944 visas had been issued to non-preference aliens as compared with 1,687 in October.

These were out of a possible 14,846. Only 41 visas were issued out of the remaining total of 5,248 available in countries not restricted to ten per cent monthly issue basis.

Orders were issued last summer to American consular officers abroad to refuse visas to persons who might become public charges in this country.

SENATOR FRANK L. GREENE, AGED 60, DIES OF HERNIA IN ST. ALBANS, VT

ST. ALBANS, Vt., Dec. 17—(AP)—Frank L. Greene, United States senator from Vermont, soldier and editor, died at a hospital tonight. He had been operated on for a hernia Monday but his recovery seemed assured up until early this afternoon when he went into a gradual decline. His wife and daughter, Mrs. Harris Alexander, were at his side when he died.

Senator Greene, who had been partially paralyzed since 1924 when he was struck by a stray bullet fired in a gun fight between bootleggers and prohibition agents i. Washington, came here Sunday from Washington to submit to the operation. He was optimistic as to the outcome. His two sons, Stuart of Boston, and Captain Richard Greene, of the army, who is stationed at Fort Sill, Okla., did not come here to be with him. On receiving word of their father's death, both of them started for St. Albans, the

ANTI-DRY RULING APPEAL TO BE TAKEN TO SUPREME COURT

Action Will Hold in Abeyance the Newark Decision of Federal Judge Clark—Federal Enforcement Officers in New Jersey Have Been Ordered to "Carry On"—Senators and Representatives Are Divided in Their Opinion of the Merits of Decision Against the 18th Amendment

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.—(AP)—The department of justice acted quickly today to block the latest threat to its prohibition machinery, announcing an "immediate appeal" would be taken directly to the supreme court from the New Jersey decision which held the 18th amendment invalid.

Simultaneously an aroused federal prohibition director telegraphed a command to his New Jersey forces to "carry on," while two brother jurists there of Federal Judge Clarke, author of yesterday's decision, were refusing to follow the striking precedent set by him. A third New Jersey district judge remained silent.

Federal prohibition chiefs lost little time in gathering in a council of war at the justice department. United States Attorney Philip Forman, summoned from Newark, met for more than two hours with Attorney General Mitchell, Assistant Attorney General Youngquist in charge of prohibition, and Howard T. Jones, assistant prohibition director, before the decision to appeal was announced.

Forman was directed to return to New Jersey to prepare the machinery for such action, thus holding Clark's decision in status quo until it comes before the highest tribunal. The justice department at the same time announced that "at the proper time the supreme court will be requested to set the case down for an early argument.

"The appeal," the department said, "will be taken direct to the supreme court of the United States under a statute which authorizes such an appeal from a decision quashing an indictment on the ground of the invalidity of the statute upon which it is founded."

Prohibition Director Woodcock, although not present at the conference, made clear he did not intend there should be a let down in enforcement of the national prohibition act in New Jersey, despite the decisions. In a telegram to Louis J. Tutt, deputy prohibition administrator at Newark, he said:

"Do not be discouraged by Judge Clarks' decision, Carry on."

Nevertheless relief was expressed by federal officials at the news that not only had two of the New Jersey district judges refused to be bound by the decision declaring the 18th amendment invalid, but that two United States commissioners there had been ordered to continue their hearings on prohibition cases.

At Newark, Federal Judge William Runyon, hearing the first liquor case that could have been affected, said "My conception is that the 18th amendment has been passed on by the supreme court and is binding on all—judges of lesser jurisdiction."

Federal Judge John B. Avis, at Camden, at the same time denied a motion to dismiss a padlock proceedings, saying "I cannot agree that this decision is binding on all of the other United States court judges."

Meanwhile, the point raised by Judge Clark, that the amendment was invalid because it had not been ratified by constitutional conventions rather than by state legislatures, continued to arouse lively interest on Capitol hill.

Some senators and representatives agreed with the contention raised yesterday by Anti-Saloon league lawyers that this point had been brought before the supreme court by Elihu Root in 1920, and had been decided upon adversely. Others expressed hope that Clark's decision would provide a fresh ground and that it might prove successful before the high court.

Representative Beck, republican, Pennsylvania, a former solicitor general and a foe of prohibition, said he could see "no real reason why the supreme court should not now invalidate the 18th amendment," but added he felt it improbable "at this late day."

Senator Sheppard, democrat, Texas a co-author of the amendment, said he thought Clark's position "untenable." He added he felt certain it would be over-ruled.

PROHIBITION REMOVED FROM ONTARIO POLITICS

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 17.—(AP)—Prohibition was removed from Ontario politics as a party issue today by action of the liberal party convention in striking its bone-dry plank from the party platform.

The conservative party, now in power, sponsors the present system of government sale and control of liquor.

Former Premier E. C. Drury, a prominent dry, spoke in favor of the resolution to drop the party's prohibition stand. He declared the liquor question should be removed from the political arena "because it is bad for the country, and bad for any party to have in that arena the money and influence of the liquor interests."

After a two-hour debate, the delegates passed the resolution by an overwhelming vote.

ANNIVERSARY OF DEATH OF GEN. SIMON BOLIVAR

SANTA MARTA, Colombia, Dec. 17—(AP)—On the 100th anniversary of his death, General Simon Bolivar's last words were made the basis of a plea today for harmony among the nations of Latin America.

Speaking to thousands who listened in the bright sunlight outside the house where Bolivar died, President Enrique Olaya Herrera repeated the last plea for unity of the South American liberator.

"Let us maintain alive the fervent call to union which he left us as his last will," President Olyala said. "On behalf of Colombia I ask you to remain united so that you may not become the assassins of the nation and your own executioners."

POINCARE CONTINUES TO SHOW IMPROVEMENT

PARIS, Dec. 17—(AP)—Frenchmen sighed in relief tonight when a doctors' bulletin informed the country that Raymond Poincare was winning his battle against the serious illness which yesterday caused fears for his life.

It appeared certain that unless unexpected complications arose the immediate danger was over. The wartime president suffered a partial paralysis last night but today he took his usual luncheon, his pulse was good and there was no fever.

It was because of his illness that Poincare declined to accept President Doumergue's invitation to form the cabinet which eventually was brought together by Theodore Steeg.

APPOINTED RESIDENT PHYSICIAN AT STORRS

STORRS, Dec. 17—(AP)—The board of trustees of Connecticut Agricultural college today approved the appointment by President C. C. McCracken, of Dr. Ralph L. Gilman, of Hartford, as resident physician at the hospital.

Dr. Gilman, who will be the first resident physician appointed for the institution, will assume his duties on January 1 and will have an office in the remodeled college infirmary. He was graduated from Harvard in 1925 and from the Harvard medical school four years later. Since then he has been an interne at the Hartford hospital.

GUEST CARELESS WITH CIGARETS FOUND LIABLE

HARTFORD, Dec. 17—(AP)—A guest who was careless with his cigarets was found liable today by Judge Allyn L. Brown of the superior court for a fire which destroyed the contents of the front room in the apartment of his hostess last July 22.

The decision was given in the case of Mrs. Marie O. Knowles Ruerat, now of this city, who at the time of the fire lived in Robin road, West Hartford. The defendant is Louis W. Stevens, a Hartford engineer.

LOST ALL HIS MONEY PLAYING CARDS WITH HIS LAWYER

CHICAGO, Dec. 17—(AP)—John Turowetsky was sentenced to jail today because he didn't pay his ex-wife alimony.

The trouble, Mrs. Rose Turowetsky told the court, was that he lost all his money playing cards with his lawyer.

LIQUIDATING ACCOUNTS OF F. E. KINGSTON & CO

HARTFORD, Dec. 17—(AP)—Liquidation for the accounts of F. E. Kingston and Company progressed today. There was selling for the protection of bank loans and also for other accounts, it was stated, and the feeling prevailed that great progress had already been attained.

Arthur D. Johnson, vice president of the Phoenix State Bank and Trust company, receivers and employes of the bank assigned to work in connection with the receivership, made rapid progress in their work today.

At this time it is difficult to determine how serious, financially, the ultimate results in winding up the affairs of F. E. Kingston and Company, will be. The receipts from the sale of securities on hand will depend entirely on the prevailing markets when the stocks are sold out.

Real estate men familiar with property values and acquainted with the mortgage situation venture an opinion that the equity in it runs to approximately $150,000. Other assets include the office fixtures and equipment and it is said these were valued by the firm at approximately $100,000. The estimated amount of frozen assets was $900,000. These included also the customer accounts.

SEEKS $11,638 FOR HOT TEA SPILLED DOWN HER BACK

MONTREAL, Dec. 17—(AP)—A woman who declined to be nonchalant when a pot of hot tea was spilled down her back in a restaurant today sued the Ritz Carlton hotel for $11,638.90. She alleged "damage to sensibility and social standing."

Mrs. George Schofield Beer, of St John, N. B., brought the action, charging that in the course of an afternoon tea party in the hotel a waiter carelessly upset the tea which poured over her neck and shoulders, scalding and inflicting humiliation upon her.

She charged the hotel was responsible for the acts of its employes.

The management replied that the waiter's tray was struck and upset by the woman while she was talking in an animated manner to her companions.

Society folk were to be called as witnesses.

WINNERS OF AWARDS OF CLEAN APPLE CLUB

HARTFORD, Dec. 17—(AP)—Seven Connecticut growers were awarded certificates in the 90 per cent clean apple club by B. W. Ellis, director of extension service, Storrs, at the 40th anniversary dinner of the Connecticut Pomological society here tonight.

Those awarded certificates were: Henry Joy, of Woodstock, for apples found to be 94.4 per cent clean of preventable blemish; L. C. Root and Son, of Farmington, 94.3; A. B. Smith, of Clintonville, 93.7; Carl Clark, of Woodbridge, 93.5; S. R. MacDonald, of Wallingford, 91.5; J. H. Martin, of Wallingford, 90; Henry B. Buell, of Eastford, 90 per cent.

57 PERSONS KILLED IN GUATAMALA COUP D'ETAT

GUATAMALA CITY, Dec. 17—(AP)—Some 57 persons died in a coup d'etat which yesterday unseated the new government of Baudilio Palma and installed General Manuel Orellana as head of a military junta which took over the administration.

SANTA CLAUS TO VISIT KIDDIES NEXT WEEK

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Dec. 17.—Santa Claus will be present in person to welcome hundreds of little kiddies at the Main street rooms of Gold Star Post No. 1724, Veterans of Foreign Wars, next Wednesday afternoon. From 3 to 5 o'clock, Santa will distribute the several hundred stockings which have been received from hopeful youngsters and which Kris Kringle and his many tiny gnomes have been busy filling for some weeks. The post is also preparing many baskets to be sent to the veterans of this district in Noroton, Newport, R. I., and Rutland Heights. The Christmas program of the post, which is an ambitious one, is in line with recommendations of Department Commander Albert M. Simons of Hartford as outlined to Post Commander Florimond N. Normandin.

R. I. Bandit Car Owned Here

The car used by a trio of bandits who today held up Andrew Eaton in his dining car at Apponaug, R. I., and escaped with $57, and which was found a few hours later badly wrecked against a tree, is a 1929 Auburn cabriolet with the Connecticut registration 129-501. The car is owned by Mrs. Lulu Wood of 318 Valley street, this city. Mrs. Wood said today that her son, Burton Wood, aged 30, had the car in his possession for some months past. Tuesday night he visited her home in company with two young men, apparently from New York, where he has been staying. The trio left the Wood residence about 9 o'clock in the evening, at which time her son said that he was going to a hotel to engage rooms for his two companions. The bandits were still at large this afternoon.

OBITUARY

Albert B. Atchinson

Albert B. Atchinson died about 4 o'clock this morning at his home in Phoenixville. He was born in Underhill, Vt., April 3, 1846, and is survived by six children: Mrs. H. P. Walker of Southbridge, Mass., W. O. Atchinson of Somers, Mrs. Clara Anderson of Oneco, Mrs. Alfred Hall of Chaplin, Edward F. Atchinson of Poughkeepsie, N. Y., and Charles Bailey of West Woodstock; several grandchildren and a number of great-grandchildren. The deceased served in the Civil war as a member of Company F, 13th Infantry, Vermont Volunteers.

Grover W. Collinson of Winfield, Kas., who with Mrs. Collinson is a guest this week of Mr. and Mrs. Philip S. Hills at The Ridges, states that farmers in Kansas and Oklahoma have been very hard hit during the past fall and a large crop of wheat, Kaffir corn and sugar cane brought but little money. Mr. Collinson, who is president of the P. H. Albright company, dealers in farm loans in the west, states that wheat brought but 60 cents a bushel and the price on cattle, including prime steers, dropped from 10 to 12 cents a pound to 5 and 6 cents. Owing to the manufacturing depression, Mr. Collinson feels that conditions in general are better in the west than in New England.

The North Windham fire department is engaged in elaborate preparations for a children's Christmas tree party to be held in the hall next Tuesday evening when an attendance of over 200 children is expected. The entertainment features are in charge of Charles Tucker, Lester Hartson and John Lamprecht and the financing is in charge of Hansel Kammaritz, Burt Latham and Harold Cahill. The townspeople are cooperating wholeheartedly with the movement.

An early harvest of the city's crop is looked forward to by local ice dealers who find that the cold snap which started Saturday has already "made" ice three inches in thickness on the ice ponds and coves.

At a session of the Coventry town court presided over by Justice of the Peace Byron M. Houston of Mansfield Tuesday, Ernest Breault, 19, of South Coventry, was fined $10 and costs for assault on a neighbor and breach of the peace. He pleaded not guilty. State Policemen Victor Clarke and Charles F. Hill of the Stafford Springs barracks made the arrest.

There were 12 tables in play at a whist given by the American Legion for the benefit of the new drum corps Tuesday evening. Prize awards were made to: Mrs. Ralph Burchnall and Ralph Burchnall, first prizes; Mrs. Arthur Hanna and J. B. Carpenter, second; Mrs. J. B. Carpenter and Samuel Naglione, third. Mrs. Ernest Emmons won a special prize.

A city-wide distribution of tickets for the big charity show to be given in the Capitol theatre Sunday afternoon through the courtesy of Warner Brothers is being made. The entire proceeds will be devoted to furnishing baskets for the needy at Christmas time in conjunction with the annual work of the local lodge of Elks.

A contract for the installation of a suitable, adequate and up-to-date system of books and accounts for town officers, including selectmen, town clerk, town treasurer and tax collector, has been signed with Hadfield, Rothwell, Soule and Coates company of Hartford, First Selectman Albert L. French said today. The contract is pursuant to a vote of the special town meeting held Tuesday, Dec. 9.

A lecture, accompanied by stereopticon views of Norway, was given by Rev. Charles G. Johnson, pastor of the South Coventry Congregational church, at the weekly meeting of the Exchange club held in the Nathan Hale hotel Tuesday evening. Rev. Mr. Johnson, who was introduced by District Governor Dixon VanZandt, described scenes and conditions in Norway as he found them on a tour of the country.

Raymond C. Comins of this city, who has been in charge of the accounting department at Hartford for F. E. Kingston and company, has been retained by the receivers who are studying the affairs of the concern.

The 32-foot Christmas tree installed at Lincoln square by the city street department was wired today by Lieut. Amos Barber and Electrician George W. Larkin of the fire department and tonight it was flooded with multi-colored lights.

There has been a decline in the number of hunting licenses issued at the office of the town clerk during the past few weeks. Hunting rabbits went out of season Monday, leaving only ducks and raccoons within the law as a hunter's mark. Ducks may be taken up to and including Jan. 15 and the closed season on raccoons begins Jan. 1.

Two more transients went over the hills to the county jail at Brooklyn, after being sentenced to 30 days when found guilty of intoxication charges by Judge Frank H. Foss.

Harry Hank Keene, youthful radio artist who, with his Connecticut Hillbillies is enjoying tremendous success over the air, is a resident of South Coventry. Mr. Keene is receiving fan mail that is breaking all records for Stations WTIC and WJAR.

Mrs. Anna James and Mrs. Jessie Killourey have as guests this week, Mrs. B. A. Collins of Richford, Vt.

Mrs. John L. Leonard has returned from a visit with her daughter, Mrs. Robert C. Johnson, in Norwich.

Mrs. Peter Turansky, who has been quite ill at the home of relatives in Hartford, returned this week to her home on Manners avenue.

Mrs. Frank A. Phillips and two daughters have returned from a week-end visit with Mr. Phillips at South Worthington, Mass.

GOSHEN

An unusual incident happened Saturday evening, a few minutes after 7 o'clock, when people had just got nicely tuned in to the interesting story of Amos an' Andy, when every one had to investigate a roaring sound outdoors. The great noise proved to be a big airplane traveling through the darkness toward Boston. The bright lights looked like twin shooting stars traveling swiftly toward the northeast.

Big Flock of Starlings

The largest flock of starlings ever seen was noted Sunday, there being several thousand. The ground of a large field was black with them.

It began snowing here at 1 p. m. Sunday and there was indications of a cold northeaster. Not enough snow fell to track a fox, however, so it could not be really counted a snowstorm.

For my yoke is easy and my burden is light, was the text of the helpful sermon by the pastor, Rev. Howard Bushnell, Sunday. The Y. P. S. C. E. meeting in the evening was led by Mary Kosterwich; subject, How To Make Others Happy.

Hungry Bird Visitors

Tuesday morning was the coldest of the season, the temperature being zero. A little flock of juncos are daily visitors at the farm house backdoor, very early in the morning.

Next Sunday, Dec. 21st, there will be a special Christmas service with Christmas sermon and special music by the choir.

Wednesday evening, Dec. 24, there will be other Christmas features and a tree.

The district schools are planning Christmas entertainments.

HEBRON

A Christmas cantata, "The Holy Child," under the leadership of George C. Munson of Hartford, was rehearsed by members of the Tri-County C. E. union Sunday afternoon in the Congregational church at Columbia. About 50 were present. Mrs. William O. Seyms, of Colchester, accompanied him at the piano. The next rehearsal will be held Sunday afternoon, Dec. 21, in Colchester Congregational church. The cantata will be given Sunday evening, Dec. 28, in Colchester Congregational church.

Hebron and Gilead choirs held a rehearsal of The Star of the East, a Christmas cantata, in Gilead church Monday evening. Over 30 were present. Mrs. John W. Deeter played the piano for singing. Two more rehearsals will be held this week, Wednesday night in Hebron church, and Saturday night in Gilead church. The cantata will be given Sunday evening, Dec. 21, in Gilead Congregational church.

Miss Marion Tennant, Miss Stella Johnson, Miss Olga Stanek joined Hebron C. E. society Sunday evening.

The following officers of the C. E. society were voted upon and accepted Sunday evening at the C. E. meeting: President, Miss Helen I. Hough; vice president, Miss Thelma L. Cummings; secretary, Miss Ruth Raymond; treasurer, Miss J. Edna Latham; pianist, Mrs. Mary E. Cummings; lookout committee, Mrs. E. A. Smith, Mrs. Albert W. Hilding, Miss Gladys Hough; prayer meeting committee, Miss J. Edna Latham, Mrs. Mary E. Cummings, Miss Harriet Hough; social meeting, Miss Thelma Cummings, Miss Rose Motz, Mrs. Claude W. Jones; music committee, Miss Mildred Hough; Roger Porter; Miss Marion Tennant; missionary committee, W. Clifford Robinson, E. A. Smith, Albert W. Hilding; citizenship committee, H. C. Porter, L. W. Robinson, Miss Victoria Hilding; junior committee, Miss Helen Hough, Miss Ruth Raymond, Miss Stella Johnson.

Thermometers registered 4 below zero Tuesday morning in Hebron.

Funeral services for William Tynan, village blacksmith of Hebron, were held in St. Andrew's church, Colchester, Tuesday morning. Burial was in Middletown cemetery.

A Christmas pageant "The Old, Old Story" will be given in St. Peter's Episcopal church, Christmas eve.

Rev. J. P. Ottosen, of Willimantic, preached Saturday in the Seventh Day Adventist church, at Hope Valley.

Christmas shoppers in Willimantic Monday were: Mrs. Sherwood A. Miner and Miss Dorothy Gray. Those from Hebron in Hartford Monday were: Mr. and Mrs. Winthrop S. Porter, Mrs. Leslie F. Ward, Mrs. Albert W. Hilding, Mrs. Robert F. Porter, Mrs. Winifred Ellis and others.

BALTIC

All Christams parcels must arrive at their place of address by Wednesday morning, in order to be delivered that day so it is plain to be seen why all parcels must be mailed by Sunday. That is why Postmaster Louis Stephen will accommodate the people of this village by being at the post office Sunday afternoon and evening. If disappointments arise, the postal employee will not be to blame as they have earnestly urged early Christmas mailing and are doing all within their power to accommodate every patron. The public should therefore cooperate with the postal department so that every one may be happy on Christmas day.

NEARLY ONE-THIRD OF HOSPITAL FUND RAISED IN THE SMALL TOWNS

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Dec. 17.—H. C. Lathrop, treasurer of the construction and equipment fund of the new Windham Community Memorial hospital today paid tribute to the work of the neighboring towns in the campaign. Mr. Lathrop said that the work of the committees and the generosity of the residents of these towns were responsible in a large measure for the success of the campaign and it is generally conceded that the raising of the $500,000 fund would have been practically impossible at this time if confined within the city limits.

According to Mr. Lathrop, an analysis of the reports shows that the $500,310 which was raised came from three main sources: The Willimantic men's team, which reported 865 pledges for $81,171; the Willimantic women's teams, 861 pledges for $107,694, and the memorial and corporations committees, 18 pledges for $168,350, making a total of 1,743 subscriptions totaling $257,215, the first major source; the neighboring town committees which obtained $143,095 from 1,360 subscriptions, as the second source, and the balance of $100,000 given by Mrs. Camilla Jillson Potter of Hartford.

The above analysis shows that the surrounding towns contributed nearly 30 per cent of the total amount subscribed, and this, said Mr. Lathrop, was a most commendable achievement for which Willimantic owes these towns a debt of gratitude.

"Without this help the campaign would not have been the success it was, and these towns may now feel that the share they have had in making possible the new hospital will give them a definite interest in the new hospital which will serve them as well as the people of Willimantic," said Mr. Lathrop.

There were campaign committees functioning in 16 towns in the hospital area where dependence for hospitalization is wholly or partly upon this community hospital. The towns represented in the campaign and the amount raised by each follow:

Town	No. sub.	Amt. sub.
Andover	39	$1,736
Mrs. Edward M. Yeomans, chairman

Friends of Joseph Agranovitch were encouraged to see him on the street for a few hours Wednesday, following several days' illness at his home on South Main street.

To Play Noank

Manager Samuel Slavkin, of Colchester Town basketball team, has had his men out for daily practice in preparation for the game to be played here Saturday evening with the fast Noank Whirlwinds. A return game will be played in Noank Dec. 25. This is the first time the Colchester team has played Noank quintet, but as the local outfit is now playing in fine form, Manager Slavkin feels confident that his team will make a great showing in the coming contest.

MRS. CLARK Z. OTIS DIES FOLLOWING LONG ILLNESS

Mrs. Margaret Evans Otis, 73, widow of Clark Z. Otis, died at the home of her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Albert T. Van Cleve, on South Main street, at 1:30 o'clock Wednesday morning, after a long illness. She was born in 1857 in St. Catharine, Ontario, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Thornton. In her early youth, her parents moved to Binghamton, N. Y. About fifty-two years ago she married Clark Z. Otis, a native of Colchester, who was a prominent druggist in Binghamton for over fifty years, and a past president of the New York State Pharmaceutical association. Following Mr. Otis' death in July, 1930, Mrs. Otis, who had been ill for several months prior thereto, was brought to the home of her son-in-law and daughter in Colchester. Although she had been a resident of Binghamton the greater part of her life, she and her husband were frequent visitors here, where they had gained a wide acquaintance. Mrs. Otis was a direct descendant of Colonel Fowler, a prominent member of General Washington's military staff when Washington made his headquarters at the old War Office in the neighboring town of Lebanon. Mrs. Otis is survived by one daughter, Mrs. A. T. Van Cleve, of Colchester. The body is to be taken to Binghamton for funeral services and burial.

At a well-attended meeting of Oliver Woodhouse lodge, No. 51, Knights of Pythias in Pythian hall Tuesday evening, the following officers were elected: Chancellor commander, Edward Levine; vice-chancellor, Chauncey G. Will Teach in Terryville

Miss Olive Russell, teacher of mathematics in Stafford high school, has sent her resignation to the town school committee to take effect at the close of the present term. Miss Russell is to teach in Terryville high school and will begin her duties there about the first of the year. She has been in Stafford Springs for about seven years. During her first two years here she taught in Stafford Springs grammar school and later was transferred to the high school where her work has been very successful. She has also been one of the teachers in the night school and for the past two years has had charge of the night school at Staffordville.

A meeting of the Men's club of the West Stafford Congregational church was held Wednesday evening. Supper at 6:30 was followed by a short entertainment.

Mrs. Frederick Sykes of Crown street is in charge of the publicity committee of the newly formed Tolland County Welfare council. The council is making plans for the regional conference, to be held in Rockville in January.

The Men's club of the First Methodist church is planning with the cooperation of other members of the church to bring Christmas cheer into the homes of many people where it might otherwise be missing this year. The club also plans to have a Christmas tree in the triangular green in front of the church on Church street which will be illuminated from Sunday, Dec. 21st, until after New Year's. A carol service is also being planned, under direction of Mrs. T. Arthur Mosley.

A New York car parked at the top of the hill on Main street, Tuesday morning, rolled across the street and crashed into the Delmonico Drug store window demolishing the plate glass and otherwise damaging the building. The accident is being investigated by State Policeman Dailey, of the local barracks.

The public schools will close next week Wednesday at noon, for the Christmas vacation. Sessions will be resumed Monday, January 5th.

MOOSUP

A Christmas pageant entitled "We Would See Jesus" will be presented in Moosup Baptist church Sunday afternoon at 5 o'clock. The pageant centers about Azariah, a young man of Bethlehem, a descendant of Isaiah the prophet, who doubts his ancestor's prophecies regarding the coming of the Messiah. He tells his father that he cannot believe unless the Messiah comes during his life time and he can see Him with his own eyes. Time passes, and Jesus is born, and the shepherds, to whom angles have appeared, tell their Master Azariah that the king has come. He doubts that it can be the Messiah, when he learns that He has been born in a cattle shed. However, he goes to see for himself and as he nears the inn he sees the Magi come and enter the inn. He watches the adoration of the Babe, and convinced, goes to the manger, and bowing in adoration acknowledges "My Lord and My God." The cast will be as follows: Adonijah, the father, Edward Mortimer; Azariah, the son, Herbert Codlin; shepherds, Reuben, William Pratt; Simeon, Elmer West; Elnathan, Olney Pratt; Mary, Daisy Dawley; Joseph, Paul Roper; Wise Men, George Sanderson, Anthony Paranzino, William Marshall; Angel of Annunciation, Dorothy Mortimer; angel chorus, choir.

Legion Whist Big Success

The fifth and last in the series of whist parties held by the American Legion was held Monday evening in the Franco-American rooms. Thirty-five tables were in play. The prizes went as follows: $2.50 in gold, Mrs. Napoleon Fournier, given by Dougherty Bros.; electric iron, Miss Mary Lyons, given by Despathy store; set of agene and atomizer, Mrs. John Krauss, given by the Lillian shop; set of Mellow Glow, Mrs. Esther Caron, given by the Grenier store; consolation, Elmira Couture. $2.50 in gold, W. B. Sober, given by Dougherty Bros.; shirt, D. Tracey, given by E. E. Dupuis; box socks, Louis Caron, given by A. Bellavance; tie, Fred Newton, given by Goldberg Bros.; consolation, M. C. Newton. The door awards were given to Rose Livernoche, $2.50 in gold, given by M. Fournier; Mrs. Helena Hebert, 2 ft. of kindling, given by A. E. Main; Mrs. James Avery, 1 box extract (12 bottles), given by Lafrance Co.; Joseph Burton, 2 lb. box candy, given by Henry Lecraw; W. B. Sober, $3 in merchandise, given by Irving Barber; Angelina Seney, $3 meal ticket, given by Modern Diner; Clara Tavernier, $2 value on hat, given by Miss M. G. Smith; Raymond Cournoyer, box stationery, given by Moosup Journal; Angelina Korecta, box extract, given by Lafrance Co.; Alfred Morrissette, box candy, given by Diversi store; Leonie Bonnin, box candy, given by Jimmie's station; Fred Newton, bottle azeala water, given by A. Faucher. The winners of the series will be announced within a few days. The Legion has expressed gratitude to all who have contributed and made the series a success, especially the merchants for their generous gifts. If the weather permits, the village of Moosup will be properly air-marked at an early date.

Christmas exercises will be held in the grammar schools today (Thursday).

EAGLEVILLE

NOBLE GRAND REYNOLDS AT WILLIMANTIC CEREMONY

There was an error in the account of the Rebekah meeting in Willimantic. The regular meeting in the evening was opened by the noble grand, Nettie S. Reynolds, of Eagleville, who presided. The candidates were initiated by her and the officers of Violet Rebekah lodge not the state president.

DANIELSON

LOSS AT BOTTLING PLANT WILL AMOUNT TO $20,000

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Dec. 17—The loss he suffered in machinery, other equipment and stock when fire destroyed the plant of the Danielson Spring Beverages this morning, was placed at upwards of $20,000, by the owner, Leo Piche.

The brick building that housed the business on the Frank A. Davis property on Elmville road and its contents are just about a total wreck. Mr. Piche leased the building from Mr. Davis. It is understood that the losses involved are partly covered by insurance. Mr. Piche said at noon today that he plans to continue the business, making temporary arrangements to take care of his trade until a new plant can be equipped.

How the fire that was discovered just before one o'clock this morning, as told in this morning's issue of The Bulletin, originated has not been established. It had a good start when it was observed by the driver of a truck passing along the state highway. He aroused the sleeping neighborhood and the fire department was called. The firemen were helpless, though, because there is no dydrant within upwards of a quarter of a mile. They stood by for an hour to help extinguish any incipient fires that might break out on nearby buildings, including a large barn, but the night was still and this contingency did not arise.

Meanwhile the bottling works became a roaring furnace and a picturesque and spectacular touch was added as tubes of carbonic acid gas began to pop and give off blue, purple and green flames. To some of the World war veterans that watched the fire there was something reminiscent of machine gun fire as hundreds of bottles snapped and burst under the intense heat, but not near so dangerous, it may be added.

One motor truck that was in the burning building was dragged to safety. Two sailors who came along in a car in the early stages of the fire helped with such salvaging work as could be done.

FUNERAL

Mrs. Emma LaRoche

The funeral of Mrs. Emma LaRoche was held from the home in Attawaugan this morning, services being at St. Joseph's church in Dayville at 9 o'clock. Rev. Ignatius Kost was celebrant of the high mass of requiem. Burial was in St. Joseph's cemetery, Rev. Fr. Kost conducting the committal service. Bearers were Arthur Pechie, William Pechie, Oystina Pechie, Louis Stone and Arthur Shepard. The arrangements were in charge of L. E. Kennedy.

Fire Dept. Makes Quick Response

You have to hand it to Danielson's firemen—a verbal bouquet or some other thing that would be equally pleasing at Christmas time. The first of these volunteer firemen came clattering around to the central fire station in Academy street shortly after one o'clock this morning in just 2 1-2 minutes after the alarm came in for the blaze at the plant of the Danielson Spring Beverages on Elmville road. Making that sort of a record involves getting out of bed, dressing and hotfooting it for the station, and if you don't think that's something, try it out some bitterly cold night! Within four minutes enough men had arrived at the station to man the big pumper, which roared out of the station and was on its way. Danielson people have long appreciated that they have one of the best volunteer fire departments in New England. The fact was again strikingly demonstrated this morning.

Sells Pigs to Pay Fine

State Officer James Carmody has not gone into the pig business. This should be made part of the record at the start. He did arrive here, however, from Canterbury this afternoon driving a truck aboard which was loaded, under proper restraint, a sow and eight suckling pigs.

This is a sort of left-handed method of getting around to relating that the pigs are the property of Ignatius Zukowski, who lives in the area between Canterbury and Jewett City, and that they were brought here to be sold that the money may be used to pay a fine imposed on Zukowski in a justice's court in Canterbury this afternoon for breach of the peace.

Zukowski went after some representatives of a Norwich financing concern today with a .45 calibre rifle when they came to take away a car on which he has failed to make some overdue payments. After his arrest Zukowski seemed to get quite a kick out of the fact that the Norwich men did not relish the sight of the rifle, and were away on high about a second after they got a glimpse of it. This didn't do Zukowski any particular good, however, for as an alien he has no right to possess firearms and still less to intimidate a person with a gun. All of this was written down against him when he went to court this afternoon. Zukowski was fined $1.00 on the breach of the peace charge, another $1.00 for possessing a rifle as an alien, and costs, a total of $13.35.

Another Liquor Arrest

Yesterday afternoon David Cote of this town was arrested for intoxication by State Officer George Martin and this morning Leo Ouillette of Furnace street experienced a similar fate and spent this day, in default of bonds of $500, in a cell at the police station Cote, it appears, related to state officers that he obtained the liquor with which he became intoxicated from Ouillette, who denies the charge. Ouillette will be in court Thursday, charged with keeping with intent to sell.

This is the season of the trappers' discontent, when it should be their period for harvesting the ordinarily adequate returns that come to those who spend the winter season catching fur-bearing animals. It seems fairly well established that less trapping is being done in Windham county this season than in any corresponding one for many years back. The reason? Unusually low prices for pelts. The big money boys who usually have ample funds to buy fur garments for themselves and their lady friends are not so flush this year. Furs are not selling well. Business is exceptionally bad in this line.

County Game Warden Thomas Daniels said this afternoon that the number of traps to be encountered in roaming the places where they usually are to be found at this time of year are far fewer than in other years. Yet the game wardens are watching as closely as ever for violations of the trapping laws.

There's a ray of sunshine in the situation The less trapping this year, the greater the number of fur-bearing animals whose pelts are worth money a year hence. By that time business is expected to be better and fur prices higher, so there you are.

Chairman W. E. Parker of Danielson chapter of the American Red Cross announced today that the final figures on the recent annual roll call show receipts of $1,258.97, and an enrollment of 1,080 members. Included in the receipts were donations of $98.97. Of the sum collected $589.48 has been sent to the national headquarters of the Red Cross and $669.49 is retained for work here.

Can it be that the town will have to call its old time wood measurers back into action again? A dealer in cord wood complained today that price slashing has in some instances been accompanied by the delivery of "short" cords, seven feet or a little more, and alleged the offenders are not residents of this town, but make deliveries here.

Chief John McFarland requested this afternoon that the attention of parents be called to the dangerous risk many children are assuming by venturing onto the thin ice now covering the Assawaga river, They were doing it in numbers today, reckless of the chance of being drowned.

PUTNAM

WIFE SENTENCED TO JAIL, HUSBAND GRANTED DIVORCE

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Dec. 17—Arraigned before Judge Newell Jennings at a special session of criminal superior court Tuesday, William S. Brown and Mrs. Bertha Graves Carragher, both of Danielson, were found guilty of statutory charges and received sentences of six months in the county jail, the execution of which were suspended for a period of one year and the principals committed to custody of Danielson Probation Officers L. Edwin Hill and Miriam Boomhower.

Following disposition of the cases, Judge Jennings heard the petition for divorce of Hugh J. Carragher of Danielson, husband of the convicted woman. Following a period of deliberation over details entering into the case presented by Sabin S. Russell, counsel for the plaintiff, the magistrate granted Mr. Carragher a decree of legal separation and awarded him custody of seven children the issue of his marriage, which he stated in complaint, took place on February 17, 1915.

Quarterly fire drills were held in all schools in the city this morning at the direction of Fire Chief Alphonse Dumas. At every school the startled youngsters displayed their careful training in this line by leaving classrooms in a quick and orderly manner and hurrying through the corridors to safety outside the building where they waited attentively for the chief's recall. The records established this morning at each school met with the approval of Chief Dumas.

Following are the time marks of each school: Israel Putnam, 420 pupils, 1 minute 17 seconds; Putnam high school, 350 pupils, 43 seconds; State Trade school, 115 pupils, 56 seconds; St. Mary's parochial, (old building) 272 pupils, 50 seconds; St. Mary's parochial, (new building) 563 pupils, 1 minute 24 seconds; Smith street school, 75 pupils, 38 seconds. Official observers selected by Chief Dumas to assist in the drills were Deputy Chiefs Philias Clouthier and Edmond Keane and Niel J. Bulger.

Silva Case Continued

For some unexplained reason State's Attorney Howard C. Bradford and state police at Danielson barracks have arranged, for the continuance of the case of Manuel Silva, Providence silver bandit now being held for trial at the county jail in Brooklyn. Lieut. Ross V. Urquhart, commandant at the Danielson barracks said this afternoon that Silva in all probability will be arraigned at the February term of superior court. He was taken into custody early this month after his prearranged surrender to Connecticut authorities for his alleged part in the hold-up of the silver laden truck at South Killingly on October 6.

Three Taken to Prison

Sheriff Charles A. Gates and deputies this morning removed Anthony L. Peters and Joseph Cordoza, Providence silver bandits, together with Ralph S. Long, from the county jail at Brooklyn to the state prison at Wethersfield, to which place they were recently sentenced by Judge Newell Jennings. Peters and Cordoza will begin the serving of terms of 7 to 12 years and 5 to 10 years respectively. Both were convicted of charges of robbery with violence for their part in the South Killingly hold-up in October. Long was convicted yesterday of a charge of forgery and was sentenced to serve a term of 3 to 5 years.

Mentioned in the weekly tabulation of school news notes contributed by Superintendent Leon M. Farrin, is the fact that Eric H. Johnson, chairman of the town school committee, will be the speaker at the teachers' meeting to be held Tuesday, January 6 at Putnam high school.

Judge Newell Jennings on Tuesday denied a motion for non-suit, entered by Attorney Harry E. Back of Danielson, counsel for the defendent in the $10.000 damage suit brought against Charles A. Parker of Brooklyn, by Albert B. Webb, also of Brooklyn, which was heard yesterday at a short calendar session of superior court. In denying the motion, Judge Jennings referred to the non-suiting of the case by Judge Edward M. Yeomans, when the action was originally brought by Webb. Upon instructing counsel to continue, the magistrate inferred that the case should go through this term to a final decision. Testimony for both sides was completely introduced late yesterday afternoon but judgment was withheld.

The suit was instituted by Webb following the death on Dec. 4, 1929 of Charles G. Webb of Brooklyn, whose death was brought on, the plaintiff alleged, as the result of an accident occurring on the Brooklyn-Danielson highway on November 27, 1929. Webb was riding a bicycle and was struck by the automobile of Parker, driven by his son, who claimed to have been blinded by the lights of an approaching automobile.

EASTFORD CIVIL WAR VETERAN IS DEAD

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Dec. 17—Albert Hutchinson, of Pheonixville, the town of Eastford's last veteran of the Civil war, joined the immortal host of his comrades when he succumbed early this morning to a heart attack suffered after an illness of one week. He was 85 years of age. Mr. Hutchinson was widely known in Eastford where he had resided for many years. Despite his advanced age he was active about his home town where he made a large circle of friends who held him in high esteem During the Civil war, Mr. Hutchinson was wounded by a shell explosion and as a result was left totally deaf. Aside from this handicap, the town's only surviving veteran of the Grand Army, possessed all of his other senses and became so keen in the use of them that the loss of his hearing did not greatly affect him in the negotiation of his daily tasks.

Mr. Hutchinson was born in Bennington, Vermont, April 3, 1846. With the outbreak of the Civil war, he enlisted in the 13th regiment of Vermont volunteers and served with distinction in an infantry unit that experienced action in all of the major battles of the war. He was wounded three times and at the close of the war was mustered out of the army and came to Woodstock where he made his home for a number of years. Later he removed to Eastford where he has lived for more than 25 years. Mr. Hutchinson is survived by three daughters, Mrs. Clare Anderson of Sterling, Mrs. Lillian Walker of Southbridge, Mrs. Grace Hall of Chaplin, and by three sons Edward of Poughkeepsie, N. Y., William of Stafford Springs and Charles Hutchinson of Woodstock.

Brig General J. H. Carson, U. S. A., retired, of Pomfret, delivered an interesting address on the subject of "National Preparedness" before the Putnam Rotary club at the weekly noon day meeting held at the Putnam Inn today. During the course of his talk, General Carson explained in detail the national defense act and told of the nation's need for an adequate army and navy. In touching upon the situation existing today in Russia, General Carson said the communists of that revolution-torn country are endeavoring to implant their seeds of discontent among the people of America, but fortunately due to the high standards of government in the United States no headway is being made. This gesture in itself, the retired army officer said, is one of the outstanding purposes of a respectable army and navy.

A survey at the high school shows that 58 members of the student body have secured employment out of school hours, Supt. of Schools Leon M. Farrin said today.

The monthly meeting of the Semper Paratus class of the Methodist church, was held Monday evening at the home of Mrs. Ruth Gifford on Farrows street. A brief business meeting was held after which a few games were played and Christmas gifts were exchanged by those present. During the evening the hostess invited her guests to the dining room which was prettily decorated in red and green streamers. In the center of the table was a large chimney filled with many beautiful and useful gifts which were showered upon Miss Emma Hall, a member of the class, whose engagement was announced a few months ago.

Gas and Electric Rates Reduced!

Beginning Saturday, December 20, The Connecticut Light & Power Company will put into effect new and lower Gas and Electric rates, which will result in a saving of over $500,000 to a large majority of its 146,000 customers throughout the sections of the State served by the Company. This reduction of rates is but another step in the policy of the Company to maintain the cost of Gas and Electricity at as low a level as is consistent with good service.

Residence Electric
Customers Will Save
$225,000

While the average price per kilowatt hour received from home users has dropped more than 25% in the last five years, the reduction now announced will result in a still further saving of $225,000 per year.

Commercial Electric
Customers Will Save
$100,000

While the average price per kilowatt hour received from commercial lighting customers has dropped more than 16% in the last five years, the reduction now announced will result in a still further saving of $100,000 per year.

Small Power Electric
Customers Will Save
$75,000

The price for retail power will be quite as favorably reduced to most of the customers who are on the Small Power Rate and will undoubtedly stimulate this class of service. Electric power is essential to modern industry.

Gas Customers
Will Save
$100,000

Residential, commercial and small industrial customers will benefit from the new rates by more than $100,000 per year, thus bringing within the reach of an ever increasing number, the most satisfactory fuel known.

Details of the New Rates will be mailed to all customers.

The Significance of the Reduced Rates

Helpful as lower rates undoubtedly are to our customers, because of savings immediately effected, the most far-reaching result is the further opening of the door of opportunity for the future. Every home, every store and office, and every factory can now use more Gas and Electric service advantageously. To do so will add to convenience, comfort, health, leisure and economy.

Total Estimated Yearly Saving to Customers $500,000

These reductions have been made possible by the cooperation of the customers in making greater use of the service, and by the high efficiencies and economies of operation resulting from the installation of new and modern equipment which has cost many millions of dollars. Thousands of Connecticut citizens have invested their savings in the Company's securities. Why not invest your savings, which result from the rate reductions, in the additional advantages of more Gas and Electric service?

WINTER ROAD WORK

Months ago when the president sought the assistance of states and corporations in reducing unemployment by undertaking as quickly as possible projects which had been contemplated but for which immediate provision had not been made, Governor Trumbull pledged the cooperation of the state and the mayors of cities promised their support.

Announcement by Highway Commissioner Macdonald that 1931 road work will be advanced three months and be started the first of the year instead of in March as previously contemplated is in keeping with the desire to reduce unemployment. Road construction work has been delayed as a usual thing until the early spring because of weather conditions. The need for work has brought about a change in the plans and when contracts totalling $1,000,000 are let early in January the expectations are that work will be started within ten days thereafter.

Road building during mid-winter must be of a different character than the construction work or maintenance efforts during the summer time. As most projects call for considerable grading, it is to be expected that such work will be undertaken during the cold weather. Ledges can be removed, cuts can be accomplished, and a certain amount of fill may be undertaken preliminary to the coming of better weather for the actual settling of the roadbed and putting down the surface.

That it will cost more to do such work in cold weather rather than in hot is apparent. That is taken into consideration in planning the call for bids, but there will be recompense for it in the fact that it is providing employment at a time when employment is needed. Such efforts cannot fail to have their influence upon the unemployment situation, and particularly when it is stipulated that those employed in carrying out such contracts must come from the vicinity where the work is to be done.

The probability of being forced to close some of the roads or to establish one-way traffic at a season of the year when such inconveniences are not to be expected will find no objection from the public. It will be at a time when the least traffic will be involved and the traffic should welcome the advancement in the road work and the reduction of the number of unemployed.

THE LATEST DECISION

From most every angle the dry law has been attacked. Efforts have been made to find flaws in its constitutionality and the supreme court has been obliged to wrestle with several phases of it at different times.

As the result of a New Jersey case, Federal Judge Clark has rendered a decision to the effect that the 18th amendment is invalid on the ground that ratification should have come through constitutional conventions in the various states instead of by action of the legislatures in the respective states.

While there is provision for ratification of constitutional amendments by legislative action or constitutional convention, it has been the practice to have legislatures act on amendments. Judge Clark takes the stand that when authority is being taken from states and conferred upon the federal government action by constitutional conventions is necessary.

It is a new question that has been raised in this case. It is admitted that the traditional method of ratification is for legislatures to act and it is not improbable that casual readers of the Constitution will have difficulty in seeing where one method of ratification is demanded over the other.

The decision of Judge Clark affects only the district he serves. It upsets the existing federal prohibition enforcement only until there is an appeal taken to the higher court, but it is quite certain that this attack upon the amendment will be carried to the highest court in the land quite the same as the others have been. The appeal will serve to render the decision ineffective until the supreme court has had a chance to pass upon the district court decision.

This, like all the other efforts to upset the 18th amendment, will be watched with keen concern by those who take opposite views concerning prohibition and the amendment. There has apparently been much study given to the point raised by those who have fought it through the courts, but perhaps no more than has featured other efforts to render the amendment invalid. Whether the supreme court considers that a real knotty problem has been presented to it should be disclosed as early as possible, consistent with court procedure.

BOLIVAR, LIBERATOR

That Bolivar day, or week, should be celebrated by South American countries, especially those in the northwestern corner, is in accord with what might be expected. It is a case of celebrating the centennial of death, not because of a feeling of gratification over his demise, but because of the things that he accomplished during his short life for those countries.

The liberating of Venezuela, Colombia, Ecuador, Peru and Bolivia from the rule of Spain which had prevailed for three centuries, was the accomplishment of Simon Bolivar before his death at the age of 47. He was a lover of liberty who recognized the injustice of the situation existing in South America and set out to correct it. He spent a period of 18 years in military activities, during which he had his downs as well as his ups, but he wound up by rendering a service for the five countries which they have grown to appreciate as time has passed.

Bolivar had the idea of making South America a united nation. His success caused suspicion to arise in some minds. He was, in fact, charged with having royal aspirations and in spite of all he did for the group of nations his closing days were most unhappy, so much so that he was remorseful and considered that he had actually accomplished nothing. This he expressed in his declaration, "I have plowed in the sea!"

Time has brought an appreciation of what Bolivar did. He is today regarded as a national hero in those countries where he fought, and also in other countries which recognize the services that he rendered and which did so much to change the future of those nations. Not just now, but long since, has he been honored as the great liberator and there cannot fail to be recognized the marked contrast between the feeling at the time of his death and that a century hence.

JUNK YARDS

In connection with various suggested changes which may be asked in the motor vehicle laws during the coming session of the general assembly, Commissioner Stoeckel favors the strengthening of the law which now governs the automobile junk yard. He explains that "The preliminary administration work is over, the department has gone as far as it can under existing law, and is now being defied to some extent in some of its orders." The situation is one which he believes calls for strengthening the law and it is inferred that he believes that sufficient time has been allowed those who had large investments in such yards to get out of the business, or move it where it would be unobjectionable.

The restrictions on the auto junk yards, frequently referred to as auto graveyards, are justified. They have become glaring eyesores in many localities and a direct detriment to growing sections of cities and adjacent property. If the department has accomplished all it can under the law and it hasn't been able to do a good job, the legislature is the place to go to get added authority.

But while good work is being done in restricting auto junk yards, and while plans are apparently being made to get authority to complete a job that has been well started, wouldn't it be well to give a bit of attention to the cleaning up of other junk yards which stand out just as much as a festor upon otherwise good appearing residential sections?

It is to be realized that this is not a matter which concerns the motor vehicle department. It doesn't involve the automobile. It concerns a business which is carried on in the open with great glaring piles of rusting metal, or stacks of waste paper, or piles of varied colored rubber, to say nothing of the quantity of other junk that is assembled to await the day of disposition. It isn't restricted in its unsightliness to the grounds where the stuff is kept, but is just as disgraceful to the adjacent properties and the immediate vicinity as it is to the property on which it is located. It detracts from the appearance of a neighborhood and depreciates property values. It jars upon those who pass by and it is surprising that those who live in its vicinity submit passively to it. If more law is needed, now is the time to be thinking about it.

DELAYING WORLD COURT

It is believed that with proper application to the work before it the [illegible] could and should have disposed of the question of ratifying the protocols of adherence to the world court.

It is also believed that such application was not to be expected. The senate has already indicated its disposition to complicate rather than speed legislative action. It has elements which are interested in hindering rather than helping. It has grandstand players who are more concerned with getting and keeping their names in the political limelight than they are in real important teamwork.

That action on the world court could and would be used as a means of occupying the attention of the senate in prolonged and needless discussion is evident. It might easily be made to stand in the way of legislation that ought to be enacted at this session in order to avoid a special session to follow the adjournment of the present congress in March.

The action of the foreign relations committee of the senate in voting to put the question of ratification over until the next congress means that the senate isn't ready to clear the way for action on the matter more than it does that it isn't prepared to take favorable action.

In presenting the protocols at this time the president was between two forces, those who wanted it done and those who wanted it postponed. Had he refused to submit them at this session there would have been serious criticism. Because he has done so there has been objection. Being ready for action, he has done his part in submitting them to the senate and by the committee action the responsibility for delay rests right there with the excuse that it was necessary in order to accomplish what is necessary for the present session. Its delay is, of course, preferable to an extra session of congress.

GYPSIES WORKED THE "SWITCH" ON MRS. STANEK—SWINDLE TAKES MANY FORMS

The swindle practised by gypsies on Mrs. Blanche Stanek of No. 24 Elizabeth street, as a result of which she is now out $1,000, has its counterpart in many previous eastern Connecticut happenings. The Bulletin file of 1898 tells of similar exploits by "Dr. C. Clarence Wayne" hereabout. Like the gypsies, "Dr. Wayne" secured the confidence of his dupes by pretending to some occult power. In the gypsies' case they represented that they were able to read the future and to work good-luck charms; in the case of "Dr. Wayne", the special power was that of clairvoyance.

The Bulletin of Oct. 24, 1898, reported that after operating in Norwich for some weeks Wayne and several companions were arrested in New Haven for the theft of a $1,000 diamond and $1,400 in cash, from a too trusting victim.

The case developed thus, according to The Bulletin of the following day:

Norwich People Want Money Back

The four clairvoyants who were arrested in New Haven Sunday, as reported in Monday's Bulletin, were presented in the police court in that city on Monday morning. "Dr. C. Clarence Wayne" and his white wife were charged with lascivious carriage and their cases were continued until today and bonds fixed at $75 each, which they furnished. Their companions for theft were placed under $800 bonds and their cases also continued to today.

The news of the arrest of the clairvoyants created much interest in this city, where they have been operating for three weeks. A number of their victims are now anxious to get their money back. One man claims to have medicine in his possession which he obtained from them. If this is true they would be liable to arrest here for violation of the medical practice law.

An Angora cat which the "doctor" had at the hotel in this city, it is learned, had been stolen from the residence of E. Z. Gerauld, Riverside Drive, New York city, and was valued at $100. It is now in the possession of the New Haven police.

Preston Man Complains

A special dispatch from New Haven Monday evening said Ebenezer W. Sholes, a prosperous young farmer of Preston, Conn., was on Oct. 12, visited by Dr. C. Clarence Wayne, a colored clairvoyant then in Norwich, who agreed to tell his fortune. While in the house the doctor noticed several circulars from brokerage firms in New York city. He enquired of Mr. Sholes if he had any money to invest in such ways. Mr. Sholes replied that he might possibly raise a few hundred dollars "Dr. Wayne" then told him if he would let him have $750 in 24 hours he would guarantee him $3 for every dollar of it. This was done by Mr. Sholes, who paid the doctor the money and heard nothing more of it.

Upon reading of the arrest of the "doctor" in New Haven in a Norwich morning paper, Mr. Sholes at once went to New Haven and placed the matter in the hands of Attorney J. P. Goodhart telling him the story. "Dr. Wayne" was then out on bonds.

Mr. Goodhart had a writ for fraud for $2,500 made out and attached the body of the "doctor," who was placed in the custody of the sheriff and is now in jail. The case is returnable to the superior court the first Tuesday in December next.

Gypsies Worked the "Switch"

When the gypsies obtained Mrs. Stanek's little fortune the other day they did it by a sleight of hand known as the "switch", which consists of replacing the package that contains money with a package that is an exact duplicate so far as outward appearance goes, but which of course contains nothing of value.

It was by means of the "switch," though worked in a different way from that followed in Mrs. Stanek's case, that a well-known farmer of Vernon lost $6,000. The story is in The Bulletin of Sept. 29, 1896:

The Norwich police have been notified to arrest men answering the description of two by whom Consider Risley, an old and well-known farmer of Vernon, was successfully buncoed out of $6,000 in cash Saturday morning. Mr. Risley says that a nice-appearing, well-dressed man called at his house in the morning and wanted to buy his farm.

Drew Out $6,000

They went out together and looked over the property, and were joined by another man who became interested in the matter. Afterwards it was arranged that Mr. Risley and the first man should drive to Rockville to get $6,000. Mr. Risley first went to the First National bank but could not obtain the bills there. He then went to the Rockville National bank and secured the money by putting up securities. He said nothing to anyone about what he proposed to do, although he met Congressman Henry, who has often advised him on business matters.

The bunco man had a handsome cash box, which he offered to Mr. Risley for the purpose of carrying the money. Mr. Risley placed the money in the box securely and put the box in the wagon. He supposed that he had his eyes on it all the time, and consequently that his money was safe.

They started for home by the Dority Hill road, and when near the Delaney place, a lonely spot in the woods, the other man appeared. He was very anxious to get the next train, and asked them if they would not drive him to the station.

The Boxes Are Switched

Bunco man No. 1 suggested that Mr. Risley take the box and walk home, and he would drive the man to the station. Mr. Risley consented and walked home with the box. The man agreed to return at once, but as the time passed and no one appeared he began to be alarmed.

He drove to the West street station just as the 11.40 a. m. train arrived from Rockville. He went through the train, but could not see anything of the men. The train started and he would have jumped off if not held by an official. The train was stopped by the conductor.

Mr. Risley then drove to Rockville and Notified Sheriff A. P. Dickinson, who told him at once that he had been buncoed out of $6,000. He was still confident that the money must be in the box, and returning home he brought the box to Rockville. It had a peculiar Yale lock and no key was at hand to open it.

Sheriff Dickinson forced the box open. Mr. Risley trembled with excitement as the box flew open, showing no money. He sank back exhausted, exclaiming:

"My money is all gone!"

It was so, as nothing but a copy of the New York World and Boston Globe, with a type-written letter was in the box. This letter was in part as follows:

"Hello Sucker!"

"Dear Friend—Inside you will find the key to this box, and we advise you to take it to a quiet spot and open it, and then remember never to trust greenhorns again. We advise you never to gamble again, and not to say anything about this to anyone, as they will only laugh at you and then every one will know what you have been doing. We are now going to retire and lead a quiet life and reform in every way."

Mr. Risley was unable to give other than a partial description of the men, but Sheriff Dickinson notified all of the surrounding towns. There is no doubt that the men were the parties who secured two teams in Manchester, one being returned there and the other left in Thompsonville. They stopped at the Cowles hotel Friday night and registered as J. G. Gardner of Springfield and R. C. Woodford of "H. Port, N. Y."

Both had been in town previously and doubtless informed themselves about Risley's habits and wealth. Gardner returned to Manchester Saturday noon, and left by train. The horse appeared to have been driven hard.

Mr. Risley is about 70 years old. He seems quite cheerful, saying that his money is gone and that is the end of it. He is supposed to be worth about $20,000.

Fell for Envelope Game

Another form of the "switch" is the envelope game, as worked often by circircus grafters in this territory. The Bulletin of Aug. 7, 1896, tells an experience that can be duplicated by many another man hereabout.

Several Westerly men have good cause for the remembrance of the visit of Washburn's circus to that town Monday. An easy talker and a slick swindler and gambler left the town with $600 more money than he entered with, at the same time leaving several dissatisfied individuals, victims of his envelope game, that was carried on openly under the tent of the side show. During the day an occasional farmer would lose a $5 or $10 bill at the game and there was no effort on the part of the promoters of the scheme to work anybody for more than the highest of these two sums.

Dupe Picks Switched Envelope

Before the evening's performance in the big tent Thomas Noble, a mill operative, led on by the sight of men in the confidence of the swindler coining money, backed the game for $60, and like others before lost the bet. The money was hardly safe in the hands of the circus man before he closed the game and departed, just where is unknown to certain officers, who would like to meet him for a moment or two.

Noble thought that the best way to retaliate for the trick played upon him was to notify the authorities. Constable Deady was informed concerning the matter, and this officer at once began the search. No trace of the swindler could be found, although a careful watch was kept upon the whole circus.

Lawyer McKenna was consulted, and at his advice writs were drawn up. In the interest of his client, McKenna followed the show to Pawtucket the next day, where he experienced considerable difficulty in finding an officer who was willing to serve the papers in case the man was found. A visit to the circus grounds and a careful inspection of the side show revealed no sign of the swindler, even the game having been abandoned for a time at least. Mr. McKenna returned home, but before he did so the services of a detective were secured to follow the circut and make the arrest.

Requisition papers have been obtained from the governor, since the swindling occurred on the Connecticut side of the river, and in case the man is arrested the lawyer has papers ready besides those for criminal prosecution in a suit to recover the sum of $200.

The Teeth As A Factor In Health

By S. M. Miller, D. D. S., Peoria, Ill. (From Gorgas Memorial Institute)

Mark Twain was credited with having remarked that there was a great deal said about the weather but nothing was ever done about it. A great deal has been said and written about teeth, but while something has been done about them, not enough has been accomplished to prevent the occurrence of teeth bred disease. The rather widespread neglect of the teeth results in decay and infections that are the source of serious, permanent, crippling and disabling disorders in other parts of the body.

Pyorrhea, decay of the teeth and abscesses at the roots of the teeth are due to the invasion of bacteria. Once the decay has penetrated the hard enamel of the tooth it involves the pulp wherein are the blood vessels that nourish the teeth. From here the route of the root of the tooth is open and root abscesses develop. So long as the bacteria are content to remain in this locality the damage is limited to greater or lesser destruction of the affected teeth and the loss is relatively unimportant not involving the general health. Unfortunately, bacteria will not remain so corraled—they emigrate. Not content with the destruction of the tooth they gain access to the blood or lymph vessels, as the blood stream floats them along to the finer vessels they are finally deposited in the tissues where they colonize and, multiplying, again engage in an attack upon the particular organ in which they find themselves, so developing other foci of inflammation in regions quite remote from their origin.

The tissues harboring these unwelcome migratory parasites may resist them for a time until a period of lessened resistance through fatigue, an illness or injury to the part—such as a bruise, give the latent bacteria their opportunity to develop and so light up an inflammation. While some structures resist bacterial invasion successfully, others are more vulnerable. The joints are most frequently attacked, apparently being less resistant than other structures. Various forms of acute and chronic rheumatism result from this invasion. The acute from causing illness and loss of time and the chronic from resulting in deformed and stiffened joints with impairment of earning power. In the chronic form, painful knobby fingers are common and the back is often involved, with pain and stiffness resulting, sometimes called lumbago, or erroneously attributed to the kidneys.

Most disastrous are those invasions of bacteria that lodge in the heart causing erosion of the deges of the valves, which in healing destroys portions of them. Thereafter such valves are leaky, not closing tightly and permanently damaged hearts result. Unlike rheumatism, which gives a warning of its presence by the occurrence of pain, the attack on the heart is insidious and painless, without symptoms of manifestations. The victim is inot aware of the impairment until it is detected by examination or until the heart begins to lag, when an unwonted shortness of breath gives warning of impending disaster. Other vital organs are not infrequently affected and permanently damaged—bones, kidneys, gall-bladder or the delicate structures of the eye.

The old say, "a stitch in time saves nine" has no truer application than to the teeth. The care of the teeth is an investment in health, in freedom from heart disease, rheumatism and a host of maladies apparently quite unrelated to them. It is not alone a matter of saving the teeth but the conservation of health that should lead everyone to have his teeth examined by a dentist twice a year, and at once on the discovery of cavities, and to his physician at the onset of rheumatism or back pains rather than to indulge in self-treatment with liniments, so-called kidney medicine and the like—with which many are so prone to experiment on themselves.

Third Gorgas Essay Contest

A third annual essay contest on a health topic opened for students of junior and senior high school classes, beginning December 8th to Jan. 25, according to nation-wide announcement of the Gorgas Memorial Institute of Tropical and Preventive Medicine, Incorporated, at Washington, D. C., sponsor of the project.

The subject selected for this year's contest is "Keeping Fit: The Gorgas Program of Personal Health." High school winners will receive a Gorgas medallion, state winners $20 in cash. The first national prize winner will receive $500 in cash and a travel allowance of $250 to Washington, D. C., to receive the prize; the second prize will be $250 in cash, and the third prize $100 in cash.

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17—Representative Stafford, republican, of Milwaukee, thinks he has a bone to pick with the domestic congressional campaign committee.

Stafford has just been elected for the tenth time to the house, winning another of the biennial fights with socialist rivals he has been waging for 30 years with only two exceptions.

Once he didn't run. Another time he was beaten for the nomination. But aside from those cases, Stafford says of himself that he "has been the republican nominee and has waged the fight against the socialist candidate, and was successful except in 1918, 1922 and 1926."

Has A Complaint

Coming down to 1930, what Stafford complains of is that the democrats sent money into his district to help what he calls a "minor" democratic rival.

"I do not say minor because of his qualifications," Stafford says, "but because he received so few votes. My plurality over him was 17,000, although he coddled the democratic congressional committee and got some money in order to try to make possible a victory for the socialist."

"If they had used this good democratic money in some other districts, they might have gotten a clear majority of the house."

Since the democrats did not do that, however, and since Stafford did repeat to resume his role as one of the objectors-in-chief to those bills which can pass the house only on unanimous consent, it might be argued that it was this little habit on his part which prompted democratic committee intervention in his district.

Has Bill Of Own

Stafford has a bill of his own to boost this session. It's a rather radical bill. For Stafford "out-Norrises" George Norris himself when it comes to bombarding short sessions of congress.

Unlike Norris, he does not agree that it would take a constitutional amendment to do the trick. It is just a matter of statutes in his judgment as an old graduate of the Harvard law school. And he has the statute all ready for congress.

Norris has been working on the elimination of the short sessions by constitutional amendment many years. His proposals have swept the senate five times only to bog down in the house. Stafford thinks that is all wrong because much delay is involved. A simple majority vote in house and senate coupled with the president's signature would do just as well, he insists.

"And at no time during my 18 years' service have I seen greater need for such legislation," Stafford recently told the house.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORY

Stumpy Is Upset

Whoever truly is in need
Will find that Nature taketh heed.
—Jerry Muskrat.

While Stumpy, the three-legged young muskrat, was afraid of the snow because it made his presence known to his enemies, he enjoyed it, too, after a fashion. He liked to sit beside the open water, where he could dive in at the first hint of danger, and watch what went on about him. It was surprising how many people he saw. It wasn't that there were more about. No, that wasn't it. It was because against the white snow they were more readily seen. Blacky the Crow, Sammy Jay, Tommy Tit the Chickadee, and Slatey the Junco he saw nearly every day. Several times he saw Peter Rabbit long before Peter came near enough to speak. Twice he saw Reddy Fox at a distance. He was quite satisfied to see Reddy at a distance. And of course all these little people saw him.

"I don't see how anyone can hide when all the world is white. I mean I don't see how anyone can hope to keep from being seen unless hiding under or in something," said he. "Brown coats never were intended for a white world."

"True," replied Jerry Muskrat. "Quite true. But there are people who have white coats, and a white world just suits them. That reminds me, one of these is a fellow you had best watch out for."

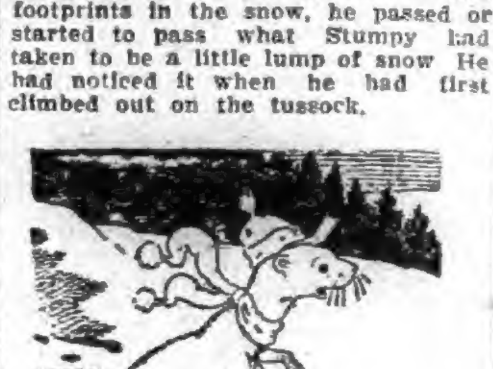
"Who is he?" asked Stumpy.

"Shadow the Weasel," replied Jerry. "He is a little fellow, but it would be just like him to attack you if he should discover that you have but three legs, and unless you could get him into the water I am afraid you would not have much chance."

"I saw him once last summer and he wasn't white; he was brown," said Stumpy.

"He has changed his coat, or Mother Nature has changed it for him since then," said Jerry. "It was brown in the summer but it is white now. It is as white as this snow. The only thing about him not white is the tip of his tail. This is black. Watch out for him. He is dangerous any time of year, but more so now than any other time because he is harder to see."

Stumpy promised that he would watch out and then promptly forgot all about Shadow the Weasel. You see Shadow was a rare visitor to the Smiling pool and those living there seldom thought of him. He wasn't what might be called a regular enemy. The very next morning Stumpy climbed out on his favorite tussock and, after a look all around to make sure that all was safe, began to make his toilet. He was combing his fur with the nails of his one front paw and thinking how peaceful and safe everything was when he saw a mouse come out of a little hole in the snow, sit up to look about and start for another little hole beside a stalk of goldenrod. As the mouse scurried along, making a pretty trail of fine footprints in the snow, he passed or started to pass what Stumpy had taken to be a little lump of snow He had noticed it when he had first climbed out on the tussock.



"The only thing about him that isn't white is the tip of his tail

Just as that mouse was opposite that little lump it came to life. Yes, sir, it came to life with an abruptness that was startling to say the least. There was a squeak of fright from the mouse and that was all. A slim, trim little person in a white coat had pounced on him with a fierceness dreadful to see. It was so sudden and so wholly unexpected that Stumpy was so startled he fell over backward into the Laughing brook with a splash. When he ventured to put his head out of water for a look he was just in time to see a rapidly moving tiny black spot against the white snow. He guessed what it was. He guessed it was the black tip of a tail

"That must have been Shadow the Weasel, and he was sitting right there all the time," gasped Stumpy.

He was right. That is just who it was.

SEES POSSIBILITY OF MERIT RATING FOR DRIVERS

A merit rating system for motor vehicle operators, whereby good drivers will pay less than bad drivers for liability and property damage insurance, is one of the possibilities of new legislation in the 1931 general assembly, Commissioner of Motor Vehicles Robbins B. Stoeckel said Thursday night in a talk from station WTIC.

A demerit system is now in effect, under a law passed in 1929, which provides that poor risks, or drivers with bad records, pay more than the standard rate set for the average driver. "Connecticut administration of the financial responsibility law has arrived at a point," said Commissioner Stoeckel "where it may be possible that guarantors will consider the establishment of a merit schedule. The result should be a premium on good driving, and a person who has a record which establishes him as a safe driver will get his guaranty cheaper."

Commissioner Stoeckel predicted that a number of important legislative changes might be made because of a wealth of public sentiment on certain subjects and because of conditions which have arisen in the past two years. It is probable, he said that public opinion might bring about stricter regulations concerning noises created by automobiles and accessories, especially unnecessary noises through the use of horns and rackety engines and vehicles.

Highway advertising signs may come in for special attention, the commissioner indicated. So far as motor vehicle operation is concerned, he said that new legislation in connection with signs might come probably because of the hazards to traffic which signs create. "For instance," he said, " a sign can cover up what is a necessary sight line for an operator. Or it can be so placed that it causes a distraction or divides the attention in a location where an operator needs the entire use of his faculties for operation to be safe."

Action to strengthen the law concerned with regulation of automobile junk yards is favored by Commissioner Stoeckel. To date, he pointed out, administration of this law has been diplomatic rather than disciplinary in order not to work hardships on owners of yards who had big investments and real problems in cleaning up and getting rid of the junk. "The preliminary administration work is over," he said, "the department has gone as far as it can under the existing law, and is now being defied to some extent in some of its orders. The law must be strengthened from a constitutional standpoint so that it can stand a disciplinary or enforcement test."

The present law which provides that no public service operator's license shall be granted to any one with a criminal record has been unsatisfactory, said the commissioner because of the inadequate definition of what constitutes a criminal record. "A good plan might be to have a careful study of each applicant before the license is granted, and as a part of that study to determine his moral character; that is, determine whether he is a safe enough man to be a taxicab operator and to assume the responsibility of carrying passengers. Such procedure would weed out and definitely dispose of all those whose past records have shown them to be dangerous in a criminal sense."

"Many other legislative changes may be expected," said the commissioner. "One has to do with betterment in methods of selecting automobile drivers. Then there is difficulty with a number of matters relating to the use of dealers' markers. There is also a decided movement to have the right of way rule changed in some details. In general there may be attempts to reach greater clarity as to administrative powers, given for the execution of other activities.

"All that will be brought to the fore by the motor vehicle department will deal with problems of administration. The broad principles outlined in a general way at this time will come out or not in the legislature according to the amount of public sentiment displayed at the hearings, by the press and in other ways for or against them."

UNOCCUPIED BARN IS BURNED AT TAFTVILLE

A two story frame barn, in the rear of No. 74 Norwich avenue, Taftville, was totally destroyed by fire of undetermined origin about 10 o'clock Wednesday night. There was nothing in the barn with the exception of a small quantity of tools. When the fire was discovered an attempt was made to notify the Taftville fire department, but there was some delay in getting the telephone call through. A call for help was sent to the Norwich fire department and Engine No. 2 and Deputy Chief D. J. Brennan went to the scene. When they arrived the Taftville department had a water line laid. As the services of the local firemen were not needed they returned to their station. The property is owned by Mrs. Eliza Fontaine and the residence on the front of the lot is occupied by Ralph H. and William J. Urban, her sons.

Ralph Urban had gone to bed when some one came knocking on the window to tell him the barn was on fire. His first thought was to protect the house and he dashed outside to get a hose and attach it to a faucet. In doing so he broke out the glass of a door and inflicted several cuts on one of his fingers.

Mr. Fontaine is at present in Canada.

CLAIM MORTON RUNNING WHEN HIT BY MASSACHUETTS AUTOMOBILE

Testimony that Thomas F. Morton was across the highway when he was struck and fatally injured on July 2, 1923 was given in the superior court here Wednesday afternoon by witnesses for the defense in trial of the $10,000 damage suit brought against Antone R. Augusta, Jr., of Falmouth, Mass., by Mrs. Olive S. Morton of Waterford, administratrix of her husband's estate.

The case was in the second day of trial and will be concluded today (Thursday) when it goes to the jury for a verdict, after a few more witnesses have been heard for the defense, the attorneys make their arguments and Judge Ernest A. Inglis charges the jury.

The case for the plaintiff was concluded Wednesday morning with testimony by Julian L. Williams of this city as to the distance within which a Buick car can be stopped and the testimony of Mrs. Morton.

Kenneth H. Holmes, a civil engineer, called by Attorney J. James Floyd, defense counsel, gave testimony as to measurements he had taken at the scene of the accident on the Boston Post road at the corner of Pine street in the town of Waterford.

Mr. Augusta, the defendant in the suit, gave testimony that the trip upon which the party had started had Washington, D. C., for its destination and they intended to keep on driving till they got there, having started in the morning from Falmouth and not intending to stop over anywheres. The purpose of the trip was to take back to Washington a detective sergeant who had a prisoner with him.

It was in the latter part of the afternoon when they reached New London and drove out on the Waterford road where the accident occurred. When called upon to tell details of the way Morton was hit by the machine, Augusta broke down and wept on the stand. He claimed that he did everything possible to avoid hitting the man, who appeared suddenly in front of his machine, coming out from behind a bus that was parked by the side of the road. He denied that the machine had gone 80 feet after the brakes had been applied.

Frank L. Allegood, the Washington detective sergeant, told what he saw of the accident and of going into a house where he got a wet towel with which he bathed Mr. Morton's head.

Lloyd T. Nickerson of Falmouth, who was sitting in the front seat of the automobile, said that he saw the bus by the side of the road, headed in the opposite direction from which the Augusta car was traveling. A Dodge machine was passing the bus just then and Mr. Morton came running out from behind the bus and across the highway. Augusta, the witness said pulled his machine sharply to the left but the right mudguard of the car hit Morton in the leg and threw him over towards the wall.

Nickerson said he got out and ran over to where Morton lay, taking Morton's head in his lap. According to the witness, Morton said he guessed it was his fault, he had forgotten some papers and was going back after them. He further quoted Morton as saying that there were some tickets in his pocket and he wanted his wife to take them out and also take his teeth out.

Mrs. Ellen B. Farrell of Falmouth, who said she is the fiancee of the defendant, testified to what she saw of the accident from her position in the front seat of the Augusta machine between Augusta and Nickerson.

She said that Morton came running from behind the bus into the path of the automobile and the driver had no chance to avoid hitting him. She said Morton was only four or five feet from the front of the car when she saw him. She also testified to hearing Morton say it was his fault, that he had forgotten something and was running back for it.

Both Mrs. Farrell and Nickerson were questioned sharply by Attorney C. Hadlai Hull, counsel for the plaintiff, as to why they had not told the coroner at the inquest that Morton said it was his fault.

At the morning session of court, Attorney M. E. Gormley of New Haven, who is associated with Attorney Floyd as defense counsel had to conduct the case alone for a time as Attorney Floyd couldn't get his machine going when he was ready to start from his home at Waterford for the court session. Tuesday Attorney Gormley was late in reaching court because his machine froze up at Naugatuck.

COAST GUARD SAVED 6,004 PERSONS IN YEAR

The annual report of the United States coast guard, for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1930, has just been submitted, revealing, among other things, that the service saved or rescued from peril 6,004 persons during the year, an increase of 1,629 over the year 1929. "This," says the report, "is a most gratifying record in that paramount activity of the service which has for its aim the saving of human life. The credit for superiority in numbers in this form of endeavor during the present organization of the coast guard now passes to the year 1930."

The coast guard seized or reported for violations of law 2,441 vessels and the total amount of fines and penalties incurred by vessels reported was $438,765. With respect to the law enforcement work of the service for the prevention of smuggling of liquor into the United States from the sea, there is no material change in general conditions reported since last year.

"Determined efforts are constantly being made to smuggle liquor into the country from the sea," the report continues. "There is no doubt that the smuggling interests are bending every effort, including the expenditure of large sums of money for the most modern and efficient equipment, to circumvent the operations of the coast guard. The coast guard is most earnestly and actively patrolling the seas and the shores at all seasons and in all weathers to prevent liquor smuggling. Considering the manifold difficulties of the problem, the results accomplished are very satisfactory. But for the zealous work of the coast guard, the amount of liquor smuggling on our coasts would be enormous, without question. It is believed that the coast guard is now doing all that can possibly be accomplished with its existing strength in personnel and equipment afloat and on shore. Smuggling operations on the Great Lakes have been very active. It is yet too early to determine with any degree of certainty the permanent effects of the recent Canadian law, forbidding clearance of liquor cargoes for the United States from Canadian ports."

During the year coast guard aircraft cruised a total of 67,655 miles and searched over an area of 801,067 square miles. The airplanes were in the air 987.5 hours and more than 3,100 vessels were identified. On 18 occasions the airplanes were called upon to search for lost boats, persons, and various kinds of property. In the winter months, in the north Atlantic, lost boats must be found quickly or the occupants will perish from exposure. Airplanes can search over large areas quickly and notify surface craft by radio of the location of the boat.

SCOUTS ASKING CARPENTERS TO ROOF CABIN TODAY

According to the local Boy Scout headquarters, an effort will be made this (Thursday) morning to get up a party of half a dozen carpenters to roof the Boy Scout cabin today. Wednesday Ed Grover placed in the studding for the windows and door and the frame is now ready for the roof rafters.

Bruno Weinert is trying to get up a party of masons to volunteer to put up the fireplace this week-end. Mr. Weinert expects to start work early Saturday morning and the scouts and scout men have promised to give him every assistance.

If a sufficient number of carpenters and masons volunteer, the cabin should be in such shape by Monday that the scouts will be able themselves to finish the rest of the work.

Transportation out to the camp will be furnished every hour throughout the day from the Thayer building downtown, so that the men can go out practically at any time by meeting at the scout headquarters in the Thayer building.

KATE CHIDSEY STROUSE COMPLETES BOOK OF POEMS

Word Music is the title of a new and daintily bound book of poems just published in Norwich.

The celestial harmonies of which this book treats have been in the world since mankind's existence but are now harnessed by the author and embodied in her words. Times of depression call for a book like this to give comfort; for the careful reading of Word Music tends to delight the soul with the music of the spheres.

Kate Chidsey Strouse, of Bozrah (Mrs. George H. Strouse) is the author of Word Music. The poem "Bozrah" in the book describes the author's home, the people and the interests of Bozrah. The poems in tribute to her father, step-mother, son and daughter and special friends, also those that deal with some of the social problems of the day, give Word Music that vital, local, personal and world-wide touch so necessary to poetry.

EX-SOLDIERS TRIED SCHEME TO GET FREE BREAKFAST

Orville Waters of New Haven, and John Hanpson whose home is in Michigan, two former soldiers, recently released from the military prison at Governor's Island, where they served a term for desertion, were given five day jail sentences, suspended, in the city court, Wednesday morning, on charges of defrauding a restaurant. The men, who claimed they came here Tuesday looking for work, had spent the night at the Salvation Army headquarters.

Wednesday morning they tried to beg food, and, being unsuccessful, hit on a plan which worked, as far as they were concerned. They went to the Chelsea lunch, ordered substantial breakfasts, at a cost of $1.60 and after dining, walked out of the restaurant without paying. Officer John T. Donovan arrested them and took them to police headquarters.

They were shortly afterwards presented in court. The men told of deserting the army in Texas, over a year ago, and of being caught and serving sentences in the military prison from which they were discharged December 3rd. After hearing the facts in the case Judge Libby imposed the suspended jail sentences.

PROF. LAWRENCE'S DAUGHTER READS FATHER'S LECTURE

Prof. Henry W. Lawrence of Connecticut college, who lectured here Monday night for the current events department of the Woman's City club and said at the time that he was on the verge of laryngitis which made his voice husky, lost his voice entirely just before he was to lecture Tuesday night before the Mystic League of Women Voters and the Mystic Lions' club. But his 14-year-old daughter, Barbara, came to the rescue, accompanying him to Mystic and reading the manuscript, a feat which held no terrors for her as she has been a prize winner in oratorical contests.

JUDGMENT FOR $4 IN SUIT OVER JUNK DEAL

Judge C. B. Waller of the common pleas court has handed down judgment of $4 in favor of the defendant, Maurice Shafne, of Windham, in a suit brought against him over some junk purchased in South Windham.

The suit was brought on a claim for $39 damages by H. Weinstein, of New London, who had appealed to the common pleas court from the judgment by Jacob Sherb in the justice of the peace court which is now sustained.

SAYS POLITICAL JUGGLING CONFUSING TO VOTERS

A more complete understanding of the political structure of our government is needed so that we may cast our votes intelligently, said Rev. Dr. T. M. Shipherd, in a talk before the Norwich Rotary club Wednesday noon at the Wauregan hotel. Dr. Shipherd said that the way politics are juggled it was difficult to really determine for whom one was voting when he cast his vote. He said that there was so much political influence wielded behind the throne that one might cast a vote for one candidate and be assisting another individual or group. In speaking, of the conduct of political discussions, Dr. Shipherd compared the self-controlled English house of commons to the United States senate. In the English legislative body there is no indulging of personalities, no heckling and no filibustering. Every question is discussed in an orderly manner without heated arguments. Dr. Shipherd claimed that what we need is the ability to discuss problems without heat and in a self-controlled manner.

We should know what is in back of the various discussions in congress; whether or not politicians and politics are manipulated by strings in the hands of influential persons hidden in the background. It is this uncertainty, said Dr. Shipherd, that raises the doubt in the mind of the voter as to just how he should vote.

At the conclusion of his talk, Dr. Shipherd was given a hearty vote of approval for his talk.

Richard E. Dodge of Storrs, governor of the 30th Rotary district, made an informal visit to the club and in a brief talk urged that the Rotarians of the 30th district make an effort to bring the district up into the first division in regards to attendance. Governor Dodge also spoke of the Rotary work being done in other clubs and called attention to the raising of $500,000 for a new hospital in Willimantic.

At the business session, President Harold D. Larrabee presided and Lucius Briggs was the song leader.

GOVERNOR ADVISES COMMITTEES TO STUDY UNEMPLOYMENT

Miss Mary Bundy, secretary of the Norwich chamber of commerce, was among those who attended a meeting of more than 75 industrial and state leaders, members of the Connecticut chamber of commerce, at the Hotel Bond, Hartford, Tuesday.

The meeting was the occasion of the regular directors' session of the association prior to which members of the state chamber and civic officials listened to William Phillips of Boston regional director for New England of President Hoover's emergency committee for employment, and Dr. Royal Meeker of New Haven, former United States commissioner of labor statistics.

"If this country fails at this time to prevent the recurrence of the unemployment situation, as is in existence now, mark my words that those in authority will be handing over their authority to those less able to carry on," said Governor John H. Trumbull in addressing more than seventy-five manufacturers and members present.

"Since the Civil war," continued the governor, "we have had seventeen depressions, and out of each we have emerged without a solution.

"The man who is out of a job is not interested in the cause, he is interested in a remedy. I believe that some remedy must be found.

"The consensus from this crisis should be brought together and analyzed to ward off other crisis in the future.

"If we fail to make suitable provision for the next crisis, I fear the future of this country's form of government. If we can profit by what other countries are doing, let us do so."

Governor Trumbull urged the organization of committees in all towns throughout the state to consider the unemployment situation in respective towns and urged the appointment of a state committee of three to study the problem for the entire state and work with the committees of the towns.

"I am opposed to a state committee clothed with legislative authority," said the governor, expressing the fear that such a committee would eat into the state treasury and not be of much use in developing individual initiative for self-help.

The keynote of the governor's talk was sounded when he urged a nation-wide card index record of every man in the country. This card index, he said, should bear a physical record of individuals, family history, training and other facts ready in case of an unemployment emergency.

The first step, however, he said, is for Connecticut to organize committees in towns to work with a state committee for temporary relief.

"We are scraping the bottom of depression and how long we will do so I do not know," he declared.

Lieutenant - Governor Ernest E. Rogers said that it would need more than political action to bring about a solution of the unemployment problem

ASKS PEOPLE'S HELP IN HOLIDAY PARKING PROBLEM

The Norwich Merchants bureau is asking the merchants of the city to cooperate in the parking problem by refraining from parking their machines in the business section of the city, especially during the holiday season. "Again the parking problem has become a serious proposition, particularly in the business section," says a letter mailed Wednesday evening to the merchants. Continuing the letter says:

Many of the individual merchants have had this situation called to their attention and asked if there wasn't some way in which this problem could be remedied.

There are many individuals and occupants of offices and buildings in the down town section, who do not use their cars for business purposes but merely as a conveyance from their homes to place of business, that park their cars in the business section for several hours or more at a time. This practice creates a condition that is a serious detriment to the best interests of the shopping public.

It is felt that this could be corrected, to a large extent, by co-operation on the part of all automobile owners who only use their cars for conveyance to and from their place of business by refraining from parking in the business section.

The police department has been very considerate in allowing cars to park beyond their allotted time. How long this condition will continue depends largely on how much we abuse this parking privilege.

May we ask your co-operation, particularly during the holiday season, when parking spaces are at a premium.

We extend to you the compliments of the season.

SEVEN COUNTS AGAINST MOTOR TRUCK DRIVER

George Hoyle, 29, of this city, will face seven charges of violation of the motor vehicle laws, when he is presented in the city court this (Friday) morning. He was arrested Wednesday on Talman street by Officer Clifford Crary. Hoyle was driving a heavily loaded truck at the time he was stopped.

The officer found that Hoyle had no license, improper number plates, improper registration, no horn, no windshield, no brakes and also found that the truck was overloaded. The number plates on the truck, it was learned, had been issued to Sam Izzarelli of No. 2 Valley street, Willimantic, for a Reo truck. Hoyle was driving an Atterbury truck, which he had borrowed from a man in New London.

Richard M. Cannon, 38, son of Bishop James R. Cannon, of the Methodist Episcopal church south, surrendered to the sheriff in Los Angeles. Cannon had been sought for several months for service of five warrants, three charging issuance of worthless checks and two failure to pay wages.

LEDYARD

"Your Family in Dollars and Cents" was the subject of Miss Ruth T. Russell, home demonstration agent of Norwich, in her address at the residence of Mrs. Gilbert Hagen, Thursday afternoon. An interested group heard this practical address.

A chicken pie supper and Christmas sale at the Congregational church Wednesday, Dec. 10, was well patronized and proved a pleasing success for those who had it in charge. The tables were kept filled from 5:30 until nearly 8, and all spoke in the highest praise of the bountiful supper. The sale of aprons and other articles netted a good sum. Dancing until 11 p. m., followed in Grange hall.

"How to Make Others Happy" was the topic discussed at the young people's C. E. meeting Sunday evening. Miss Hazel Gray was the leader.

The Happy Maids held a meeting recently at the home of their leader, Mrs. Carl Holdridge. All the members were present save one. Mrs. Holdridge and Florence Wieman demonstrated scalloped cabbage. Then the members sang Dreaming and recited the pledge. The meeting was then adjourned and the game "Poor Pussy" was played, after which the scalloped cabbage was served.

CHICAGO OFFERS HALF MILLION FOR STRIBLING- SCHMELING BOUT

NEW YORK, Dec. 17.—(AP)—Young William Stribling, voted right out of the picture by the New York state athletic commission, jumped into the driver's seat today in the race for another heavyweight title battle.

An offer of $500,000 to Max Schmeling, for a title duel with Stribling in Chicago next spring completely scrambled the situation created yesterday by the commission's ultimatum to the German that he must accept within 15 days a return match here with Jack Sharkey, the man he defeated on a foul for the championship last June.

Out of the muddle of talk, ultimatums and offers, came only the conclusion that there must be compromises all around before anyone fights anyone else for any title anywhere.

The bid of half a million, first since the golden days of Tex Rickard, was received by Joe Jacobs, Schmeling's new manager, from Nate Lewis, matchmaker of the Chicago stadium. Lewis brought his offer to New York today, backed by telegraphic confirmation from Sidney N. Strotz, president of the Stadium corporation.

Lewis would stage the Stribling-Schmeling show next June in Soldier field, Chicago, where the seating capacity is well over 100,000. He believes the gate receipts, with a $12.00 "top" would run well over $1,000,000. It was at Soldier field in 1927 that the late Tex Rickard staged the greatest of all fight attractions, the second Tunney-Dempsey fight that drew almost $3,000,000.

Jacobs took the matter under advisement pending settlement of several puzzling problems. Schmeling, still in Germany, is bound by contract to the Hearst milk fund committee for a title defense here in June. No one but the New York state athletic commission, apparently, wants that match to be staged between Schmeling and Sharkey without some sort of preliminary tournament to stir up interest and once again prove the Boston sailor's fighting qualities. Neither he nor Schmeling have fought since their dismal failure last June.

Madison Square Garden wants to stage a match in Miami, Fla., in February between Stribling and Primo Carnera, the Italian whale, but will compromise with the commission and eliminate Carnera, in bad repute here, and substitute Victorio Campolo as the southerner's opponent. In return the Garden would like the commission to sanction a tournament in which the Stribling-Campolo winner would meet Sharkey here in April for the right to face Schmeling. The commission so far has insisted, however, that Schmeling fight Sharkey and none other.

Unless the commission agrees to some compromise, it seems likely that the milk fund will join with Lewis in promoting a Stribling-Schmeling bout in Chicago. Lewis already has offered to share 50 per cent of the profits with the New York milk fund and some Chicago charity.

COLGATE HEADS SELECT GROUP IN THE EAST

NEW YORK, Dec. 17.—(AP)—For the second straight year, Colgate has finished the football season at the head of one group of major eastern college teams while Fordham leads another unofficial "conference."

In the absence of organized championship competition in football in the east, the section's leading football colleges fall more or less naturally into two groups based on natural rivalries and schedule habits.

What might be called a "Big Twelve" finds Colgate with three victories, gained over Columbia, Syracuse and Brown, closely followed by Dartmouth and the Army whose records within the group are marred only by ties with Yale.

Colgate's leadership last year was shared with Pennsylvania, which finished the present season well down the list. The group is made up of the old "Big Three"—Harvard, Yale and Princeton—the service academies; Brown, Dartmouth, Pennsylvania and four New York state institutions—Colgate, Cornell, Syracuse and Columbia.

Fordham and Pittsburgh, both with spotless records against their fellow "members," top the "Big Fourteen" as they did last year, but Fordham has five victories to offer against Pitt's three. New York university, beaten by Fordham, ranks third.

This conference comprises Pennsylvania teams—Pittsburgh, Bucknell, Villanova, Washington and Jefferson, Carnegie, Temple, Penn State and Gettysburg; also West Virginia, N. Y. U., and the leading Jesuit institutions—Georgetown, Fordham, Boston college and Holy Cross.

The standings in both groups follow:

"Big Twelve"—

	W.	L.	Td.
Dartmouth	3	0	1
Army	2	0	1
Yale	2	1	2

ALL-STAR COLLEGE BASEBALL TEAM TO TOUR CUBA

NEW YORK, Dec. 17.—(AP)—An All-Star college baseball team, selected by sports writers and university coaches, is scheduled to play two games in Havana and possibly one in the Canal Zone, stopping places on a cruise the team will take through the West Indies beginning Saturday.

Arrangements have been completed for games to be played at the Tropical stadium, Havana, against the Cuban Telephone Co. team Dec. 31 and Jan. 1. The team, gathered by a college magazine, includes Frank Garrity, Holy Cross, catcher, and Eddie McGrath, Harvard.

LEVINE STARS FOR BACON AGAINST NORWICH TEAM

(Special to The Bulletin)

COLCHESTER, Dec. 17—Bacon Academy basketball team defeated the fast Phi Delta Nu quintet of the United Congregational church of Norwich in an exciting game here tonight by a score of 36 to 18. Both teams were well matched, but the sensational basket shooting of Levine, Bacon Academy's star forward, who scored 25 points, was too much for the Norwich boys to overcome. Hayden and Armstrong were the best for Norwich with five points each. The Bacon team had a three point lead at the half and increased this lead in the final half.

In the preliminary game the Phi Delta Nu second team defeated the Bacon Second team by a score of 26 to 14. The two teams were not as well matched as in the other game, the Norwich boys having the advantage throughout the game. Ennis, the Norwich star center, scored 22 points. At the half the Norwich outfit had a 14 point lead. The summaries:

AGGIES SWAMP TEAM FROM FITCHBURG NORMAL

(Special to The Bulletin)

STORRS, Dec. 17 — Connecticut Aggie varsity ran away from Fitchburg Normal quintet tonight at Hawley armory to score a 57 to 26 victory. The local second and third squads saw much service.

The first-stringers opened with a rush and in the first six minutes sent the score up to 18 to 1. The reserves were then rushed in and more than held their own. The count at half time favored the Aggies, 32 to 8.

Dan Chubbuck, Aggie captain and center, who was injured in the opening game with Bridgewater Normal, last Saturday which the locals also won, started tonight's game contrary to expectations and played through the entire first period and most of the last quarter, scoring 15 points during that time to lead both teams in scoring.

The Aggies, with two victories under their belt, will now rest until after the Christmas recess, which starts the coming week end.

HALF A MILLION FOR BOUT

When that Chicago promoter made Max Schmeling an offer of $500,000 for a bout with Stribling at Chicago early next summer he must have been looking through rose-colored glasses. Not only that but he claimed that the gate would go over a million dollars with the top price of $12. Boy, that's spitting out big figures and not caring where they fall. Of course they spend money fast in Chicago, for if they don't somebody's liable to take it away from them. If it was anybody but Schmeling and Stribling the million dollar gate would not seem so large. It is difficult to see just what drawing power Schmeling has even though he is a champion in name. He won his title, or rather he groaned himself into the title, in a bout that wasn't so hot. And since then he has done no real fighting. Stribling is popular in Chicago since his victory over Tuffy Griffiths, but even at that it is doubtful if he would draw a half of the million dollar gate. The Dempsey-Tunney bout drew a three million dollar gate, but Schmeling is not Dempsey and neither is Stribling the famed Mr. Tunney. If a Schmeling-Stribling bout was such hot stuff the Madison Square Garden Corp. would have nailed it a long time ago. They figure that the Boston Sailor is a better bet as Schmeling's opponent than Stribling. A Sharkey-Schmeling bout should draw as there was a clear-cut division of opinion as to the last bout, and those that saw that bout would take a chance on the next just to be able to tell the other fellow, "I told you so."

NO BASEBALL BROADCAST

Several of the clubs of the major leagues have come out with the announcement that they will permit no broadcasting of their games by radio. The owners of the clubs have come to the conclusion that it keeps the cash customers from clicking through the turnstiles. It may keep a few away but it doesn't stop the real baseball fan who wants to see the game and sit in the bleachers and yell "Atta Boy," and "Run, you bum, run." It's mighty hard to get enthusiastic over the description of a ball game as it comes to you out of a loud-speaker. It's like saying that a travel talk over the radio on Yellowstone Park would keep the tourists away. The majority of those who listen in on the radio to ball games are those who wouldn't go to them anyway. Besides that, it deprives us folks up here in the sticks of a chance of hearing something besides jazz bands and cooking recipes.

GREENLEAF OVERWHELMS LAURI IN SEMI-FINAL

NEW YORK, Dec. 17.—(AP)—Ralph Greenleaf remained in the running for the world's pocket billiards championship tonight as he overwhelmed Onofrio Lauri of New York, 125 to 21, in 24 innings of his semi-final match. Greenleaf, the defending champion, now can repeat last year's feat of tying Erwin Rudolph of Chicago and forcing a playoff for the title by winning tomorrow's final match.

The defeat dropped Lauri into a tie for third place with Frank Taberski, Schenectady, N. Y., veteran who defeated Pasquale Natalie of Chicago, 125 to 120 in this afternoon's match. Each won four games and lost three. By finishing in the first four of the tournament, they avoid the necessity of qualifying for next year's championship event.

Greenleaf was off to a fast start, making a run of 48 in the first inning and 44 in the fifth, but the game later developed into a battle of strategy in which Greenleaf twice forfeited 16 balls for making three consecutive scratches.

Greenleaf, who has lost one match, and the undefeated Rudolph meet tomorrow night in the deciding match of the tournament, repeating the situation at the end of the 1929 championship in Detroit. If Greenleaf wins, the playoff will be held Saturday.

CRIMSON TIDE HAS ONLY LIGHT WORKOUT

TUSCALOOSA, Ala., Dec. 17.—(AP)— Alabama's revamped varsity ran through a light practice in freezing weather today, and prepared to top off training tomorrow for its New Year's day game with Washington State at Pasadena.

The Crimson tide will entrain Friday with an official party for the west coast, stopping only at Grand Canyon for a sightseeing trip. There will be no practice en route.

Coach Wade probably will send his team through signal drill Friday before boarding the train, and that will be the Tide's last practice before reaching the scene of the New Year's day battle.

Freezing weather today hindered practice somewhat, but the men drilled with spirit and showed no ill effects from yesterday's tough scrimmage.

Wade shook up his varsity yesterday and started six former reserves against a second team on which played most of the regulars. John Tucker scored two touchdowns against the reserves.

Wade's strategy in revamping his varsity injected new life into the squad. Alabama is fortunate in having powerful reserve strength, and men who heretofore have been known as reserves are fighting hard to keep varsity positions assigned them.

Reds Down Eagles

PROVIDENCE, Dec. 17—(AP)—Providence defeated New Haven, 4 to 2, in a Canadian American league game here tonight, thus placing themselves only one game behind the league leading Springfield Indians.

The Reds, champions of the league, were slow in getting started and trailed 2-1 at the end of two dispirited periods. Three goals clicked off their sticks in rapid order in the third period, however, and they emerged with a two goal advantage.

PLAINFIELD PROS CLASH WITH HOUSE OF DAVID TEAM TONIGHT

Through the efforts of the Plainfield professional basketball club management local fans tonight will be treated to the most novel basketball exhibition ever shown in Plainfield with the appearance of the celebrated House of David team, now on a tour of the country. In addition to being one of the best professional basketball teams in the game, the House of David, adorned with the customary flowing beards, present an unusual appearance on the court.

The Davids are usually greeted by capacity crowds wherever they play and indications point to the largest crowd to witness a basketball game here in recent years. The boys from the late King Benjamin's domain at Benton Harbor, Michigan, present a strange appearance in their long whiskers on the court but their hermit-like, old age appearance is belied by the way the shaveless ones disport themselves in a game. They are a fast, accurate shooting group of basketball stars and judging from the list of court victories they have recorded in their travels this season, the local hoopsters will have their hands full this evening.

Out of town basketball fans are showing an unusual interest in the House of David contest and it is expected that scores of fans from nearby towns will be at Plainfield to see this game.

In the preliminary the Plainfield Buddies will meet the Stafford Springs five. These teams appear very evenly matched and should put up a great game. Paul Bitgood, who did such a nice job last week, will officiate in the main game.

NORTH-SOUTH GAME TO BE PLAYED ON DEC. 28

NEW YORK, Dec. 17.—(AP)— The first big football game ever staged in New York so late is scheduled for Sunday, Dec. 28, when all-star teams of college players of the north and south will play for charity at Ebbets field.

Fearless in the face of weather that may be as cold as eight degrees for the game, representatives of the New York chapter of the Knights of Columbus today announced it was definitely on. Efforts were being made, however, to get insurance against undue cold.

Bobby Dodd, lanky all-southern quarterback from the University of Tennessee, will head the south's forces. Others whose participation is reported assured are: Hackman, Tennessee, and Bethea, Florida, backs; Thayer, Tennessee; Bodenger, Tulane; and Forquer and Rose, Kentucky, all guards; and Holland, Tulane, end.

The northern players named so far are Hansen, Temple; French, Penn State; Antos, Boston college, and Karcis, Carnegie Tech, all backs; Flanagan, Carnegie, end; Obst, Syracuse, guard, and Foley and Wisniewski of Fordham, tackle and guard respectively; and Dornoff, a tackle from Marquette university, Milwaukee.

"Stumpy" Thomason, former Georgia Tech star, is to organize and coach the southern team and Jack McBride, Syracuse fullback of six years ago, the northern All-Stars. Thomason and McBride are backfield mates on the Brooklyn Dodgers, professional eleven.

"Cold weather insurance" is being sought from Lloyds' agency of London, but the dickering just now is at an impasse with the management of the game holding out for payment if the mercury goes below 32 whereas Lloyds' wants the deadline fixed at 25 degrees. A compromise is likely.

BRAVES WILL PLAY 24 EXHIBITION GAMES

BOSTON, Dec. 17.— (AP)—The Boston Braves will play 24 exhibition games, all with major league clubs, during next spring's training trip, it was announced today by President Emil Fuchs. He said the club would again train at St. Petersburg, Fla., and the battery candidates would report to Manager Bill McKechnie there on February 21. The remainder of the squad will assemble on February 25.

The spring schedule, for the first time, included games with other National league clubs. Fuchs has arranged three games with Brooklyn and Cincinnati, and two with the St. Louis Cardinals. Nine games have been scheduled with the New York Yankees, four with the world champion Philadelphia Athletics, one with Washington, and two with the Boston Red Sox, here on April 11 and 12.

McKechnie will try a new experiment, breaking up the return trip north with a stopover at Macon, Ga., where the club will practice for several days and play two games with Brooklyn.

BIG GREEN TO OPEN HOCKEY SCHEDULE SATURDAY

HANOVER, N. H., Dec. 17.—(AP)— The Dartmouth hockey team which will open its season against Yale Saturday in the Madison Square Garden today, held its second practice in the new Davis rink. Mechanical difficulties have made it impossible to obtain ice in that structure and the Green sextet will be greatly handicapped against the Elis.

Coach "Brainy" Bower plans to send an almost veteran team against Yale. Hawks will guard the Green net with Morton and Johnson on defense; Fisher, center; Rockhill and Jackson, wings. All except Jackson, who captained the freshman team last year, are veterans.

TWO SEVERELY HURT IN YALE-BOSTON HOCKEY GAME

NEW HAVEN, Dec. 17.—(AP)—Capt. Franke Luce of the Yale hockey team was cut severely on the thigh and Loring Cushman of the Boston Hockey club suffered a concussion tonight in a hockey game which the Elis won, 4 to 2, from the Boston sextet.

Luce had to be carried off the ice and will be lost to the hockey team for weeks and probably for the season. Hospital officials were unable to say how serious Cushman's injury was.

Ramsey scored both of the visitors' goals, while McLennan, Captain Luce, Winter and Miller scored for Yale.

A. A. U. SPEED SKATING EVENTS AT NEW HAVEN

NEW HAVEN, Dec. 17.—(AP)—The Connecticut A. A. U. speed skating championships will be held in the Arena here on Jan. 24, it was announced today by John Confrey, chairman of the registration committee of the Connecticut A. A. U. The events will be open to all amateur skaters in the state affiliated with the A. A. U. and it will be the first time in history that the championships have been decided indoors.

The complete list of events will be announced shortly.

Volleyball

In the volleyball league games Monday night, Tom Donahue's Princeton team didn't look so hot against Yale, although Yale didn't play so well themselves. It seems as though Yale hasn't any fighting spirit; if they lose the first game they go right up in the air. Enos Eccleston, the supposed-to-be good server, must have been trying to kill flies all over the walls the way he was serving that ball.

Manager Sullivan of Yale, after going on a boat excursion to Providence during the day, must have been seasick, the way he was wobbling all over the floor during the games.

Although losing three straight to Columbia, Army, the tail-enders, have one of the gamest teams.

Harvard is creeping up slow but sure. They handed Chicky Wilk's Notre Dame team a severe trouncing by taking three straight. The way Wilk was playing, he'd be better off going home nights to get some sleep. The whole Notre Dame team played terribly, except "Speed" Gaudette, the server, with that wonderful Dazzy Vance motion of his.

Y GIRLS TO PLAY FIRST GAME ON SATURDAY

The Y Girls' basketball team will make their first home appearance against an as yet unnamed opponent Saturday evening at the local gym as the preliminary to the Seniors-Middletown opening state league game. The team was originally slated to battle the Middletown Girls but that game was called off and it will be either the New London Y. W. C. A., Willimantic Normal school or Tourtellotte high that will furnish the opposition.

The Middletown team comes here with a team that should stretch the locals to the limit. Last year they fell before the Demarestmen by one point after a terrific struggle on the Middletown court and this season word has come from their coach that they are just as strong if not a little bit better and very anxious to take the Seniors over the bumps.

Coach Demarest has called the final practice of the week for tonight at 8.15 and a full attendance of the squad is expected. The starting lineup for Saturday has not been announced but it appeared last night that Tommy Lynch and Zeke Leffingwell would go to the forward berths, Cecil Henschel to center and Red Armstrong and Capt. Howard Ludlow to the backcourt. There are a few others who may be inserted in the opening front at the last moment as a reward for their good work so far this year. This includes especially Serafin, who did great work against Battery E in last Saturday's game.

The preliminary Saturday will start at 8 o'clock and the main game shortly after 9 or after the stores have closed.

STRIBLING THINKS $500,000 IS A LOT OF MONEY

MACON, Ga., Dec. 17.—(AP)—W. L. (Young) Stribling thinks an offer of $500,000 to Max Schmeling to meet the Georgian in a title bout is "mighty nice," but admits he didn't know "there was that much money in Chicago" for box fighters.

Stribling said he would "see what 'Pa' thinks about it."

The Georgia puncher flew his plane here from Atlanta today and said he felt better after further treatment for a dislocated vertebrae but still had "a pain in the neck."

AVIATORS IN STATE INCREASING IN NUMBER

Licenses issued to pilots in Connecticut have practically doubled each year for the last three years, according to Clarence M. Knox, state aviation commissioner, with 319 issued during the year ended June, 30. During the fiscal year of 1924 only 41 licenses were issued This was followed by a drop to 31 the following year and an increase to 47 the year after. In the year of 1927-1928, however, pilots' licenses for Connecticut fliers jumped to 96 and the following year went up to 179. This number was almost doubled again this last fiscal year.

But the number of accidents has increased far more slowly than has the number of pilots or the registered aircraft. In the fiscal year of 1921-1922 there were four aircraft accidents reported. This increased to 10 when the pilots decreased, but dropped to 15 when the number of planes went up to 47. From 1927 to the present time accidents have increased in a steadily smaller proportion. In 1927-1928 there were 26. The following year there were 38, while last year there were 46.

The development of aeronautics in Connecticut during the past two years has been very marked, according to the commissioner. Each six months period has shown a very large increase in registration of aircraft as well as pilots.

During this period, air transportation has been accepted by the public as another means of fast transportation, he said, and not only has scheduled air transportation taken its place beside other means of travel, but a large and profitable air taxi business has been developed.

Another type of flying, known as the fixed base and itinerant operator, has been well built up during this two year period. This class, which one hears little of, is by far the largest in the country, it being estimated that between 70 and 80 per cent of all flying is carried on by this type of operator. They are engaged in sightseeing or "joy-hop" flights, commercial photography, mapping, air inspection of properties, newspaper circulation, flying instruction, aircraft sales and private flying.

In Connecticut, such operations are carried on at approved fields at Bethany, Bristol, Bridgeport, Canaan, Danbury, the state airport at Groton, Hamden, Hartford, Madison, Meriden, Milford, the national guard field at Niantic, New Canaan, the seaplane base at New Haven, North Haven, a private field in Putnam, Torrington, Wallingford, West Haven and private fields in Westport and Willimantic.

Manufacturers Locate Here

Connecticut has been very fortunate during the last two years, Commissioner Knox said, in having several of the country's well known manufacturers of aircraft and aircraft engines locate here. The airgest include the Pratt & Whitney Aircraft company and Chance Vought corporation of East Hartford; the Sikorsky Aviation company of Bridgeport, and the Viking Aircraft company of New Haven.

There is also one other enterprise, the United Airports of Connecticut, which is completing in East Hartford one of the finest airports in New England.

The aviation commissioner mentioned the marking of cities and towns with air markings, and said that this work has progressed very favorably in the past two years. This is considered to be a most important aid to air navigation, and Commissioner Knox believes that Connecticut is as well marked as any state in the country.

There has been a large increase in the number of men and women enrolled in the various flying schools throughout the state. One hundred and ninety-four of these students have successfully passed their examinations for state student pilots' licenses during the past two years, and every one of these students completed examination in flying without the slightest accident. This, the commissioner believes, is due to the excellent type of instructors operating throughout Connecticut and the enforcement of the state's aeronautic l laws.

Four hundred and ninety-two pilots' licenses of all types and 263 aircraft registrations were issued during the past two years.

During the two year period ended June 30, there were 84 aircraft accidents in Connecticut. Of this number eight were fatal and a total of 13 persons were killed. Of the fatal accidents only two involved Connecticut licensed pilots. Three involved air mail planes; another occurred when an endurance flight which started in Long Island ended in Connecticut with the ship crashing because of a thick fog; one was caused by stunting an airplane over a neighboring state, the ship falling out of control and landing just over the state line in Connecticut; one was a cross country flight which started in a neighboring state and ended in a crash in Connecticut because of an exhausted fuel supply.

John T. Lindenberg, of Columbus Ohio, a football and basketball man, has been awarded the Norman Stewart Hall memorial scholarship at Yale.

JURY TO GET DAMAGE SUIT THIS MORNING

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, Dec. 17—The evidence was all in at the close of the Wednesday afternoon session of Washington county superior court in the automobile damage suits of Hannah Sullivan, Greta Smith, Cecelia Smith and James McMillan vs. Edwin H. Tompkins, heard the past few days by Judge Jeremiah E. O'Connell and jury. At the afternoon recess Attorney Flynn for the defendant and Attorney Corrigan for the plaintiffs conferred with the judge in chambers. On the re-opening of the afternoon session Attorney Flynn made request for a non-suit and it was denied. This (Thursday) morning the attorneys will make their pleas and the jury will then be charged by Judge O'Connell.

It is expected that the next case to be taken up will be that of John S. Fenner vs. Henry H. Crandall, administrator.

LARGE ATTENDANCE AT EASTERN STAR MEETING

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, Dec. 17—Nearly 200 members and visitors attended the regular meeting and Christmas observance of Deborah chapter, No. 9, Order of the Eastern Star, Mrs. Jennie W. Mitchell, worthy matron, and Gustave Brucker, worthy patron, held on Tuesday evening in Masonic hall. The regular business session was followed by the Christmas celebration held in the armory banquet hall of Narragansett commandery, No. 27, K. T., the windows of which were illuminated with Christmas candles. Refreshments, consisting of fruit, salad, coffee and cakes were served at individual tables tastefully decorated in keeping with the season.

The entertainment began with the receipt of radio bulletins from Stanta Claus and Mrs. Santa Claus detailing their various progress through such countries as Spain with arrival at Washington, D. C., New London, by airplane and submarine until arrival at the Pawcatuck river where their progress was interrupted by the police officer's report of unsafe condition and a necessitated detour by way of the White Rock bridge into Westerly. Later it was found that the broadcasting station was located on the top floor of the Masonic rooms where the mike was located and connected to loud speaker cleverly concealed in a made-up brick chimney and fireplace in front of the fire escape door. Through this fireplace came Santa and wife, impersonated by Al Bailey and Mrs. Gertrude P. Murphey, and who arrived in the chimney by the simple process of proceding up the fire escapes from the second to third floor. In full costume their advent was gladly hailed and a number of personal letters received with wishes made known as to desires for gifts were read by Mr. and Mrs. Santa Claus. These were followed by vocal and instrumental numbers by the representatives of the Kris Kringle family and then they gave their attention to the illuminated Christmas tree and the distribution of gifts to members. It was after midnight before the distribution of the gifts was completed. Mrs. Carrie E. Savage was the chairman of the large committee in charge of the observance.

Probate Matters

A special and adjourned session of Westerly probate court was held on Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock when Probate Judge Edward M. Burke disposed of probate matters as follows:

Estate of Emma J. Doust. Guardianship account of Martha D. Wilson following numerous continuances was received, examined, allowed and ordered recorded.

Estate of Dennison C. Hinckley. Final account of executor, the Industrial Trust company, received, examined, allowed and ordered recorded.

Small Chimney Fire

The home of Max Novogroski, 18 Park avenue, on Tuesday, shortly before 9 p. m. was found to be on fire in a valley on the roof, undoubtedly caught from a chimney spark. A telephone call brought Fire Chief Bonner and a dozen or fifteen firemen with Seagraves motor pumper and the threatening fire extinguished with booster hose. After partaking of the owner's hospitality the firemen departed with a donation from the appreciative property owner to procure some hot coffee on their return to the fire station. On Monday evening, shortly before 6 o'clock, the Seagraves pumper and force of firemen responded to a still alarm to extinguish a fire in the old Andrews' coal pocket, adjoining the Duguid garage on Commerce street.

WILLIAMS RELIEF CORPS NOTES 40TH ANNIVERSARY

Plans to celebrate the fortieth anniversary of Williams Woman's Relief corps, No. 42, were carried out Tuesday evening in G. A. R. hall. Mrs. Leota Wilcox was general chairman and Mrs. Lucy A. Burdick had charge of the program, both doing efficient work. When the guests and members entered the dining room at 6:30 they found the tables decorated with red crepe paper and a favor of red, white and blue at each plate, made of lollypops and marshmallows. The clever idea was originated by Mrs. Wilcox who painted all the faces and cut the dresses and shawls and on each corner of the shawl was 1890 and 1930; a few assisted her in finishing them with their pretty bow tied under the chin. At one table was seated the senior vice commander of Connecticut, G. A. R. Louis Baker of New London, who said grace; Department President W. R. C. Mrs. Gertrude Reiman, of Bridgeport and Mr. Reiman; Department Treasurer Mrs. Lura E. Dutton, of Waterbury; Past Department President Mrs. O. E. Clark, New London; Past Department President Mrs. Eleanor Lucy, Mystic; Past Department Secretary Mrs. Effie E. Topping, New London; Past Department Secretary Mrs. William N. Packer, of Groton; Mattie M. Ward, inspector, Waterbury; Mrs. Jayne E. Seed, member of the executive committee, of Norwich; Miss Margaret Goss, president W. W. Perkins corps, No. 18, New London.

Two charter members, Mrs. Sarah A. Wolfe, Miss R. Carrie Chapman and other guests and members of Mystic corps were as follows: [illegible]om Hancock corps, Westerly, Mrs. Cora M. Fuller, president; Lillian Welles, senior vice president; Marion Pascoe, junior vice president; Mildred Collins, conductor; Mrs. Anna M. Merris, chaplain; Grace Worthington and Grace W. Smith, guards; Ada M. Chappell, secretary; Hattie J. Coon, treasurer; Mattie Eccleston and Mrs. Evelyn MacDonald, color bearers; Bertha A. Stapleton, press correspondent; Ruby A. Marshall, musician; Mrs. Sarah E. Vredenburg, past Instructor; Mrs. Carrie E. Dawley, Mrs. Hattie J. Brown, Lillian A. Slocum.

From J. F. Trumbull corps, Stonington, Mrs. Lydia M. Chase, secretary; Mrs. Lizzie M. Northrup, treasurer; Mrs. Luella M. Gager, chaplain; Mrs. Lulu Watrous.

Williams corps, Mystic, Mrs. Hattie Grimes, president; Mrs. Amos Hancox, wife of the only living Civil war veteran in Mystic; Mrs. Leota Wilcox, chairman; Lucy A. Burdick, chairman of program committee; Elsie Thorp, Anna Inderfurth, Lucy P. Lewis, Anna Higbee, Marion Higbee, Katherine Allyn, Jessie Goodman, Mary Packer, Bertha Pollard, Elizabeth Jewell, Laura E. Tift, Stella F. Swan, Linda B. Ralph, Louise Jones, Mary Holliday, Abbie B. Phillips, Marjorie Jenssen, Alice Lamb, Sarah Adamson, Grace Berry, Cassie Neff, Alice J. Sherburne, Miss Pauline Reiners, Miss Evelyn Burdick.

The menu included: Fruit cup, baked stuffed ham, with apple sauce, mashed turnip, escalloped potato, relishes, rolls, cake and coffee.

Later, in the hall up stairs, Mrs. Hattie Grimes, president, called the meeting to order and the department officers and other officers were escorted to the platform. After reports of the secretary, Mrs. Lucy, and treasurer, Mrs. Wilcox, were presented, Mrs. Anna Higbee was elected conductor. Expressions of sympathy for Mrs. Lillian Borden, conductor, who has been ill several weeks and today will be taken to a New London hospital were expressed.

Vice Commander Baker expressed his pleasure in being present and offered congratulations. Department President Mrs. Reiman expressed her pleasure at being in attendance for her first visit to Mystic and after congratulations explained the urgent need of the corps continuing its work. She spoke of the new added problems the country is facing and the need of vigorous Americanization and child welfare work, as the D. A. R. members are doing. She emphasized the importance of securing new members to take the places of the older ones, who are unable to work and to fill the places of those passing on, concluding with the suggestion that each member try to secure a new one. The other officers and several of the guests spoke briefly.

The corps has three charter members living, Mrs. Jane Eldredge Chapman, who has been confined to her bed for several weeks and the two present. Mrs. Wilcox presented Miss Chapman a box of flowers for her mother and a box of chocolates to Miss Chapman and Mrs. Wolfe. The formal meeting closed and Mrs. Burdick announced the following program: Selection, by Seaside Melody Boys, composed of seven high school students; Christmas Heroine, Mrs. Lucy Burdick, Miss Barbara Neff; piano duet, Mrs. Lottie Gremley and Mrs. Georgia O'Brien, with encore; reading, Uncle Josh Has His Picture Taken, Mrs. Henry Johnson; encore, Uncle Josh and Aunt Nancy Go To New York; selection, Melody Boys, with encore; reading, Mistakes Will Happen, Mrs. Leota Wilcox; encore, The Poor Unfortunate; reading, The Wily Widow, Mrs. Lucy Burdick; encore, Gee Whiz; solo, Mrs. Marion Gremley; accompanist, Miss Elizabeth Gremley; selection, Melody Boys. Itching Skin

If you want instant relief just apply Peterson's Ointment. The minute this soothing and great healing Ointment touches your inflamed, irritated skin—you obtain blessed comfort. Generally you need only a few applications to completely end this distressing condition.

Always have Peterson's Ointment on hand. Can't beat it for quickly healing chafed, irritated, erupted skin, for eczema and bad cases of pimples and blackheads.

H. A. Daniels, of Hartford, Conn., writes: "For 6 months I was bothered with Eczema—it would itch so I could tear it to pieces. I had lotions and different Ointments which did no good. I saw your ad in the Hartford Times and I went and got a box of Peterson's and in one night it almost disappeared."

The mighty healing power of Peterson's Ointment overcomes Eczema and one 35c box will prove it—all drugstores.

STOCK MARKET EXPERIENCED THE MOST VIGOROUS RALLY IN WEEKS

NEW YORK, Dec. 17.—(AP)—Christmas is still a week away, but the stock market today got a much needed gift—the most vigorous rally in weeks.

Quite unexpectedly, a 2 to 10-point net advance swept through the list in the wake of a further discouraging selling wave, and shattered confidence was measureably bolstered at a most opportune time. The sudden switch in sentiment also extended to the commodities, especially cotton, which gained $1.65 to $2 a bale, but bonds remained soft in thin trading.

The turn in stocks came out of the market's own weakness, as is inevitably the case after so protracted a decline. There was nothing in the news to influence the change. Sales reached the large total of 5,055,885 shares, the best day's business since Nov. 10.

Early selling occasioned some concern because of its intense and general nature. Nothing was spared. Stocks that had looked cheap yesterday were among the heaviest losers, as the favorites were driven 1 to 5 points below the Tuesday close. The turnover to noon was at the rate of 1,000,000 shares an hour, the largest volume attained on the decline. The weekly steel trade reviews, appearing in the forenoon, were only mildly favorable in that they repeated previous assurances that forward demand was improving and that buyers were moving cautiously expecting business to improve gradually rather than briskly. "Iron Age," however, noted "increasing evidence" of consumers' belief that "the market is scraping bottom and that the next major change in the price trend will be upward."

One or two optimistic statements on the petroleum outlook appeared during the day and there was also the announcement that California operators had voted to cut the state's allowable production by 40,000 barrels on Jan. 1, bringing the amount to 500,000 barrels daily.

Copper held firm. Approval of the merger of two large African producers was regarded as a constructive step, since it should facilitate the world curtailment program.

The day's average gain by 90 active stocks was 5.3 points, which was even larger than the recovery accompanying the rise in copper prices not long ago.

Utilities, with 3 to 5-point gains in American Telephone, North American, Public Service of New Jersey, American & Foreign Power, Electric Power & Light, and others, led with a rally of 7.4 in the 20 issues used in the index.

Industrials climbed 6.3, on the average, with U. S. Steel, Westinghouse, Bethlehem Steel, Union Carbide, National Biscuit, American Tobacco "B," Anaconda and General Electric, up 2 to 4.

Rails displayed marked recuperative powers, especially Baltimore & Ohio, which closed 6 points higher as the directors were voting the regular quarterly dividend. New York Central, which had sagged to 105 1-8, closed at 111 1-8, a net rise of nearly 3. Atchison, Pennsylvania, Southern railway, Union Pacific and many others finished 1 to 3 above Tuesday's final prices.

High fliers included Auburn Auto, Case and Worthington Pump, up 10, and Allied Chemical and Air Reduction, with 7-point gains.

Corn improved 3-8 to a cent, helped by the strength in Buenos Aires, small country offerings and firm cash markets. Wheat futures traded narrowly, closing unchanged to 1-4c higher.

Except another advance of 1-4c in the Spanish peseta, there was little of note in the foreign exchanges. Other European rates were steady.

BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, Dec. 17.—(AP)—Bond prices fell precipitantly under a large volume of selling orders at the market in the early hours of today's session, but derived some benefit from the better sentiment created by the rally in the share market.

The sharp reversal of the trend of equity issues tended to lighten the pressure against bonds in the final hour, and some stock privilege issues and second grade rails rallied from their lows.

The investment section of the domestic group was irregular and there were many instances of small gains in railroad and utility bonds selling at or above par. Pressure against other demestics was in many instances the heaviest of the current decline. Losses among second and third grade bonds ranged as high as 2 to 5 points and there was an extreme decline of 25 points in Warner Sugar Refining 7s, an infrequently traded issue.

With the upturn in share prices there was the familiar improvement in many prominent convertibles and some of the second grade issues. American Telephone 4 1-2s rose 5 and Atchison 4 1-2s, 1 1-2.

Chicago & Alton 3s, Chicago & Eastern Illinois 5s, St. Paul general 4s and Erie 5s. of 67 and 75, rallied 2 to 3 points. Great Northern 5s, Baltimore & Ohio gold 4s, American & Foreign Power 5s, New York Central 4 1-2s, Nickel Plate 4 1-2s C, Frisco 4 1-2s and 4s, Seaboard 6s and Union Pacific 4s shared in the improvement.

The late rally was not sufficient to check the decline to a new year's low for the fourth successive session as reflected in the average of 30 domestic bonds.

Foreign bonds resumed their downward tendency in active trading. Reports of the Guatemalan revolution resulting in the overthrow of the government created some nervousness among holders of Latin-American issues. Bolivian issues, which were the weakest spot in the group yesterday, steadied, but Chilean, Brazilian and Uruguayan governments yielded 1 to 6 points, many settling in new low ground for the year. In the European group, Holland American Line 6s reappeared in trading to dip 20 points. Polish governments and a wide list of German municipals and industrials were under pressure. Obligations of the German republic held steady. Italian 7s advanced 3 points.

The largest number of wide swings among American corporate issues were in industrials. Oil bonds were very weak. All Sinclair bonds made new lows for the year. Skelly 5 1-2s, Transcontinental 6 1-2s, were off a point or more. Pan-American Petroleum 6s reacted 7, and Richfield Oil 4 7-8. Texas and Colon issues closed higher. Trumbull Steel 6s was a wide mover, declining 7.

NEW YORK, Dec. 17.—(AP)—Futures closed very steady, 33 to 40 points higher. Spot steady; middling 9.95.

THE CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, Dec. 17.—(AP)—The trend of curb stocks underwent a sudden reversal today as one of the strongest buying movements witnessed this fall developed in the midst of a further decline. The whole list rallied from the lows of the day and many leaders closed from 1 to 5 points higher.

The lightning rapidity with which the advance developed suggested the change had taken the shorts unawares. Blocks of 1,000 to 5,000 shares appeared on the tape in the final hours of the session and helped to swell the day's turnover to 1,341,900 shares, the largest since Oct. 10. The bond sales amounted to $8,087,000, a new high record for the curb, comparing with the previous high figure of $7,829,000 on Jan. 16, 1928.

Electric Bond & Share which sagged during the morning to a new year's low at 37 1-8 rallied under a strong buying movement to close at 42 1-4, a net gain of 4 1-4 points. American Gas & Electric advanced 6 5-8 and United Light & Power A converted a 2-point loss into a 2-point gain.

Virtually every active stock in the utility group closed firm. Utility Power & Light, American Superpower, Niagara Hudson, United Gas, Middlewest Utilities, were among those that registered gains. Tampa Electric was an exception, recovering but 1-2 of a 4-point loss.

In the scramble of shorts to buy back the stocks they had sold Vacuum and Gulf were the chief beneficiaries in the petroleum list. Gulf dipped during the morning to a new year's low at 58 1-2 and then rebounded to 63 3-4 and retained all but a small fraction to close 4 3-8 net higher. Vacuum was 4 points higher. Cities Service, Standard of Indiana, and Humble finished about a point above the previous close.

The industrial group except for a few speculative favorites were slow to reflect the effect of the change of trend. Deere advanced 5 3-4 and Driver Harris 2. Ford Motor Ltd., American Cyanamid B, Noranda and Technicolor were slightly improved. Newmont Mining which omitted the 5 per cent stock dividend, moved into new low ground for the year, sagging to 37 7-8 but recovered all but a point, closing at 41 7-8.

Goldman Sachs, United Founders, Ungerleider Financial and Pennroad were among the investment and holding company shares that registered fractional advances on the day

NEW YORK, Dec. 17.—(AP)—Annual and Christmas bonuses were voted today by several New York banks. The Title Guarantee and Trust company is paying to its employes an annual profit-sharing bonus divided in proportion to their salaries and length of service, with a maximum of 23.22 per cent of the annual salary for 383 employes of 15 years or more service. The Chase National bank has announced it will pay the usual Christmas bonus to employes, based on length of service. The Bank of Europe Trust company has voted a 4 per cent salary bonus to all officers and employes and the County Trust company has voted a 5 per cent bonus to all officers and employes.

Melvin A. Traylor, president of the First National Bank of Chicago, has been elected a director of the Southern Pacific railroad, effective Jan. 1, succeeding J. P. Blair, resigned.

Hale Holden, chairman of the executive committee of the Southern Pacific railroad, has been elected a director of the American Telephone & Telegraph company to fill a vacancy.

The New York Stock exchange firm of Winslow, Lanier & company, has been dissolved, as of Dec. 15. Members of the firm were De Benneville Keim Seeley, George Temple Bowdoin, Donaldson Tucker, member of the exchange; P. Harley, C. J. Waddell and R. Bishop Lanier, special partner.

The Royal Bank of Canada has arranged for an additional shipment of $3,000,000 in gold from Montreal to New York. The bank has shipped $3,000,000, or $1,000,000 more than yesterday's announcement stated. These shipments will bring the total amount of gold shipped from Canada during the current movement to $11,000,000.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET

CHICAGO, Dec. 17.—(AP)—In a sudden outburst of fresh strength, grain scored late gains today despite a downfall earlier that smashed records which extended back to 1901. The late advance in grains was stimulated by a sharp rise in quotations on securities and by correct anticipation that the government report today would show curtailment of previous forecasts of the corn yield.

Wheat closed unsettled from 1-8c net decline to an equal advance, compared with yesterday. Corn closed at 3-8a1 1-4c gain, oats 3-8a1-2c up, and provisions from 5c setback to a rise of 22c.

SENATOR F. L. GREENE DIES IN ST. ALBANS

officer planning to come most of the way by airplane.

Like another native of Vermont, former President Coolidge, Senator Greene rose to the heights out of a boyhood that seemed to hold no such possibilities. He was born here February 10, 1870. His father was Lester Bruce Greene, for some time secretary and treasurer of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers. His illness forced the son to sell papers, run errands, shovel snow, weave chair seats, act as a janitor and do farm work after school hours in order to aid in the support of the family.

At the age of 13, the son finally had to give up his school career and go to work. He became an errand boy in the audit office of the Central Vermont railway and in his spare time studied shorthand. His ambition carried him through several promotions until he became chief clerk. In 1891 the newspaper business lured him and became a reporter for the St. Albans Daily Messenger. In 1899, he became editor of the paper.

In 1888, he enlisted in the Vermont national guard and rose from private to captain in a short time. When the Spanish-American war broke out he recruited Company B, First regiment, Vermont Volunteer Infantry and was mustered into the regular service as its captain. He served for a time as adjutant general, Third Brigade, First Division, Third Army corps and at the close of the war, was commissioned a colonel and aide de camp on the staff of the governor of Vermont.

He entered politics in 1902 when he was elected to the Vermont house of representatives. In 1908, he was a delegate at large to the republican national convention and in 1912 was elected to congress to serve the unexpired term of the late David J. Foster. In 1923, he was first sent to the senate and in 1928, was re-elected to serve until 1935.

It was while walking down Pennsylvania avenue with his wife in Washington, February 16, 1924, he was struck down by a bullet. A group of bootleggers and prohibition agents were engaged in a gun fight when a stray bullet struck the senator. For days his life was despaired of and two operations were performed to save him. It was at this time he showed his loyalty to his duty and his unfailing support to that other Vermonter, Calvin Coolidge, when he insisted on being carried into the senate chamber to vote in support of President Coolidge's veto of the bonus bill. His injury responded to treatment slowly and his right arm was paralyzed and one leg affected by the wounded.

Senator Greene was honored by Norwich university, at Northfield, Vt., in 1908 with a degree of master of arts and in 1915, the same institution conferred the degree of master of laws on him. He was a regent of the Smithsonian institute from 1917 to 1923 and a trustee of the Vermont Soldiers' home.

The funeral services will be held Saturday morning at 11 o'clock in the Congregational church and burial will be in St. Albans.

MEASLES REPORTED ON INCREASE IN STATE

Measles continued to gain in Connecticut, particularly in Hartford county, a total of 105 new cases having been reported for the week ended at noon Monday as compared with 89 cases last week. Of the new cases Hartford had 42, West Hartford 23, and East Hartford, Newington and Wethersfield 1 each. In New Haven county Waterbury had 21 and New Haven 12.

Whooping cough fell off for the week, but 25 new cases having been reported as against 87 last week. There were 17 new cases of diphtheria, one less than for last week, but Hartford had 21 diphtheria bacilli carriers and New Haven 17. There were 59 new cases of scarlet fever, two more than for last week and but five cases of typhoid fever as compared with eight last week. No new cases of infantile paralysis were reported during the week.

Chickenpox is reported as epidemic in Plymouth. The total number of new chickenpox cases in the state for the week is given as 79.

CONNECTICUT FARM CROPS DROP OFF IN 5 YEARS

Connecticut farmers, in the five year period for 1924 to 1929, were planting fewer acres and raising smaller crops in corn, hay, potatoes and tobacco, according to preliminary figures of the United States census of 1930, as issued from the bureau at Washington.

In corn harvested from grain there were 11,840 acres planted in 1929 with a crop of 576,428 bushels as compared with a crop of 696,760 bushels from 17,449 acres in 1924. Hay registered 326,189 tons from 249,738 acres in the latter period as against 376,862 tons and 362,584 acres in the former period

Production of white potatoes dropped off about 370,000 bushels in 192[illegible] there were 1,508,718 bushels from 14,028 acres but in 1929 this crop had dropped to 1,132,621 bushels from 9 670 acres.

Corn cut for silage was one [illegible] which an increase was shown but crop was less. In 1929 there was acreage of 29,342 with a crop of 293,420 bushels, but in 1924 there was a crop of 305,409 bushels from 28,827 bushels.

Tobacco showed a crop decrease from 34,690,858 bushels to 26,215,477 bushels and an acreage decrease from 25,992 to 19,109.

AUTO DID CROSS-COUNTRY DASH IN NEW LONDON

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Dec. 17.—Portraying the role of a cross-country driver, the operation of the automobile by Ernest H. J. Kreth, sailor attached to the submarine O-6, Submarine base, resulted in the arrest of the driver tonight on a charge of driving while under the influence of liquor. In default of bail of $100 he was locked up at police headquarters by Automobile Patrol Officer Clarence J. Martin and will be presented in police court tomorrow morning.

Kreth was driving on Ocean avenue in a southerly direction at a high rate of speed. At the corner of Plant street, Kreth lost control of the steering wheel with the result that the auto went to the opposite side of the highway, across the sidewalk and continued over the lawn of the residence of William J. Sparks, passed to the rear where it crashed against a garage, then bounded to the rear of the yard, where it tore down shrubbery and decorative lattice work before coming to a stop.

The garage was extensively damaged but Kreth escaped injury.

POETRY

The Lady Winter

I love the Lady Winter,
I walk with her along;
The streets are wholly magic,
The meadows are a song;
  Her feet upon the hilltops,
    Her face a lifted thing;
  I hear the golden rivers
    Beneath her beauty sing.

Seas they call memorial,
And they are that to me
When in the winter morning
The mists are lifting free;
  When down the lofty weather
    The Lady Winter goes
  To toss the stars before her
    And sprinkle time with snow.

I love the Lady Winter,
Her roadways and her skies;
The terror of her tempest,
The beauty of her eyes;
  For all the old enchantment
    Of earth and stars are one
  In her completed magic
    Of tears and dream and sun.

—Baltimore Sun.

Seasonal Note

What's the hurry? What's the worry!
  What's it all about?
What impels 'em all to scurry,
  Running in and out?

What's this stirring now occurring
  What can be the game?
Why this matching and conferring?
  What? Another name?

Why this listing and persisting,
  Checking as before,
From the labor, ne'er desisting,
  Adding just one more?

Why the rally at the tally?
  Why the awestruck tones?
Gosh, they must forgot Aunt Sally—
  Overlooked Miss Jones.

What a dumb one, what a rum one?
  Wouldn't it seem queer,
If by chance they missed out someone
  Who had sent last year?

'Taint November. It's December,
  Send a postcard to
Every one you can remember
  Who postcarded you.

—George Ryan, in the Boston Herald.

HUMOR OF THE DAY

"Did you ever go to school for stammerers?"

"N-n-no, I just p-p-p-p-picked it up myself."—Blue Bucket.

Poet—But I beg you—I've put my whole mind into this poem!

Editor—And I tell you we're not buying blank verse!—Sydney Bulletin.

Judge—You have been arrested for stealing fifteen times. Can't you give up stealing?"

Accused—It is my only hobby, sir. —Der Brummer.

"Did that expensive treatment cure your husband's baldness?"

"Yes, when the bill came in he was able to tear out handfuls of hair."—Fliegende Blaetter.

"Your heart is quite sound. With such a heart you ought to live to be seventy."

"But, doctor, I am seventy."

"There! What did I tell you?"—Fliegende Blaetter.

"Mr. Meier, your maid has fallen down the cellar stairs with a bottle and cut herself slightly on the pieces of glass."

"Was she going down or coming up?"

"Going down."

"Thank goodness. At least the bottle was empty."—Der Lustige Sachse.

Thoughtful child (with memories of recent shopping expedition): "Did you get me in a bargain basement, mummy?"

Mother: "Whatever do you mean, darling?"

Child: "Well—my fingers are all different sizes."—Passing Show.

It was on an eastward-bound mail steamer, and when he came up on deck in the early morning he was accosted by several fellow-passengers, who asked in chorus, "Where did you get that eye, old man?"

"That? That's a birth-mark," he replied.

"Birth-mark be blowed! It's a black eye!"

"I tell you it's a birth-mark."

Then they gathered around him, and in one voice shouted; "Birth-mark? We don't think!"

"Well, it happened this way, boys. I tried to get into the wrong berth last night!"—Punch.

Will Give Christmas Plays

The next two Sunday night services at the First Baptist (West Side Community) church will be given over to a dramatic presentation of the Christmas theme. The first Sunday evening "Dust of the Road," the play which won the first prize in a nation-wide religious drama contest sponsored by the Federal Council of Churches in America, will be given. On the second Sunday evening a new Christmas play entitled "The Empty Room" will be presented by a group of picked players. This new Christmas play is considered among the very best ever written and will be presented for the first time this Christmas-tide in hundreds of churches. The publishers have sold more copies of this play than of any other.

Heater Set Fire To Floor

At 9:12 o'clock Wednesday evening the fire department answered a telephone call for a small fire at No. North High street, a house occupied by Louis Smotrick. An overheated heater caused the blaze which set fire to the floor timbers. The building is a two story tenement dwelling. Engines No. 6 and 5, Chief H.R. Taft and Deputy Chief D. J. Brennan responded. Six gallons of chemical were used.

All Through The Night

No telephone central office in Connecticut—or anywhere else in this country—ever shuts up shop. All day, all night, on Sundays and on holidays, the ceaseless task of rendering telephone service goes on. No matter what the day or hour when you lift your receiver from the hook, your call gets attention.

Careful planning is required to make it possible that you may never, at any time, be without the convenience and protection of telephone service.

That you may have service at any time you may want it—that is one of the provisions in the ideal which is our objective:

"THE MOST TELEPHONE SERVICE THAT WE CAN RENDER, AND THE BEST, AT THE LEAST COST TO THE PUBLIC."

JEWETT CITY

RED CROSS MEMBERSHIP REACHES A TOTAL OF 651

The Red Cross roll call for membership has been completed, the amount received being $644.80. Of this amount Voluntown contributed $56, Lisbon $59.30, and the different sections of Griswold $549.50. During the past year there have been more calls than usual for welfare work in Griswold and Voluntown in ex-service men's families and the Red Cross chapter only needs to be notified to lend a hand. Thirteen dollars and eighty cents were received as donations. The local chapter now numbers 651 members. It is a splendid response to the roll call, with the business depression and uncertain outlook.

The canvassing was divided into 33 sections and the workers covered their assignments very carefully. The committee appreciates their willingness and efficiency. This year the supper given them through the generosity of the committee, not from chapter funds, was omitted. Instead, men who were out of work were asked to help in certain ways, and the committee paid the bill personally, not from the funds collected. Mrs. Everett H. Hiscox was chairman of the roll call and the members of the executive board were the committee.

The canvassers were: Miss Bertha Lewis, Mrs. C. W. Chatfield and Mrs. E. E. Clarke in Voluntown, Miss Katherine A. Hearn and Evelyn Clark in Glasgo, Mrs. LeRoy Holmes in Pachaug, Mrs. George Lillibridge, Boardman district; Mrs. George Palmer and Susan Terry, Brewster district; Mrs. F. H. Gilbert and Mrs. H. T. Jeffers, Woodward district; Mrs. Victor Campbell, White district; Mrs. Joseph Roode, Tyler district; Mrs. P. A. Weaver, Stone Hill and Johnson districts; Mrs. Will Phillips, Brick district; Miss Clara Hyde and Mrs. Frank Mell, Newent and River road to Colonial inn, Hopeville; Mrs. Ida Eichelberg and Mrs. Philip Melaly, Bethel; Mrs. Edward Hansee and Mildred McCluggage and Beatrice Cathcart, Sylvandale and to Colonial inn and Branch Hill. In Jewett City the canvassers were Loretta Alley, Harriet McCluggage, Marian Spinney, Mary McDermott, Mrs. W. T. Crumb, Mrs. Walter Benjamin, Margaret Jordan, Agnes Loranger, Mrs. John Oakes, Mrs. Earl Hiscox, Ethel Fiske, Eleanor Stetson, Verna Raill, Mary Donais, Anna Walsh, Bessie Thompson, Christine Marshall, Ruby Gray, Blanche Nichols, Teresa McNally, Doris Myott, Mrs. George Cregan, Mrs. Earl Robinson, Mildred Olson, Doris Burr, Helen McLaughlin, Agnes Bouchard, Janice Kolbus, Bertha Rosol, Mary Rosol, Anita Wolkowsky, P. W. Chase, Helen Gaska, Bertha Marriott, Mrs. W. A. Richardson, Stella Bernard.

Tourtellotte basketball quintet will contest with Killingly high here Friday evening. This will be the fourth game of the schedule. In a preliminary game, Tourtellotte Girls' team will play Pascoag high girls' quintet.

The Community Glee club, with the American Legion, held a rehearsal Monday night in preparation for the club's first minstrel, which will be produced in co-operation with Oscar W. Swanson post two nights in January. The affair is being directed by Reynold Peterson, talented local pianist.

For County Home Children

The pupils of the Methodist church school are making toys and puzzles which will be on exhibition at the church Sunday morning after services. The wooden toys, picture puzzles, and other toys will be taken to Windham County Children's Home, packed in a wagon being built by Clinton Ormsby and given to the children to make their Christmas a happy one. A picture will be presented to adorn the walls of the institution by the Sunday school. The project is under the direction of Miss Abbie Scott, of Putnam.

Community Tree

The community Christmas tree which was erected on Monument square Tuesday will be illuminated with colored lights. The work was done by men from the Grosvenordale company and their electricians.

Sunday afternoon the Legion and auxiliary will hold their annual Christmas party and tree for about sixty children of the town. They are also making preparations to remember needy families at Christmas.

In the Sunday schools of the Swedish Lutheran church and the Methodist church, preparations for Christmas concerts and trees are underway. A rehearsal was held at the Swedish Lutheran church Tuesday evening by Misses Irene Johnson and Signe Almquist, teachers in charge of the event. A program of recitations, dialogs and songs is being perfected to be given Christmas evening, after which gifts will be distributed to the Sunday school pupils from a tree.

At the Methodist church, the annual concert will be held Monday night instead of the usual date, Christmas eve. A rehearsal was held at the church Tuesday evening under direction of Miss Abbie Scott and Mrs. Floyd Potter, who are directing a Christmas sketch, "The Inn Keeper."

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Broadway Theatre

Absorbing in its tense drama, suffused with powerful human interest and wholesome comedy, "Man to Man," the picturization of Ben Ames Williams' well known story of the mutual devotion of Father and Son opened at the Broadway theatre, yesterday.

Adapted for the screen by Joseph Jackson, the story is gripping in its appeal, convincing in its character delineations, and beautifully photographed. The action takes place in a small town in Kentucky where a barber tries to live down the stigma of a prison term, and to save his boy from the same fate. A deep note of pathos is struck in the story when the boy realizes that his father's past record has placed a black mark upon his both in the social and business world, except for a few old timers who know the crime to have been justified.

Grant Mitchell, late of the stage, in the emotional role of "Barber John," contributes a performance of moving sincerity. His vivid portrayal of the character shows a vivid understanding of humanity. This is Mitchell's initial appearance on the talking screen and the stage star displays and ability and personality which bids well for his future in talking pictures. The juvenile leads, played by Phillips Holmes and Lucille Powers, are extremely well done—as are the village people—the banker, Bolton's brother—the guilty man, and the rest. "Man to Man" is the best human interest story seen here this year.

New Strand

Prettiest show girls, 15 of 'em. The prettiest girl from each of fifteen Broadway musical comedies is introduced on the screen in "Animal Crackers," Paramount's second all-talking feature for the riotous Marx Bros. This button busting follow-up to "Cocoanuts" now showing at the New Strand theatre. That number of girls was required to make up the pulchritudinous background of the production so the casting director desiring to out Ziegfiel, Ziegfield, let it bet known at the various New York theatres that the prettiest girl in each chorus could have a part with Marx Bros. and still continue their stage work. The fifteen selected worked at the studio in the day time and on Broadway at night and comprise a motion picture chorus which would make the glorifier of the American girl weep with envy. It is said to be such an eye dazzling array as to make lady-killing sheiks sob from sheer futility and send strong truck drivers prettily be-ribboned boxes of bon bons prettily be-ribboned boes of bon bons for their wives.

Between 2 and 3 per cent. of copper was found in the blood of horseshoe crabs by Dr. J. B. Conant and W. G. Humphrey of Converse Memorial Laboratory, Harvard.

NEW LONDON WOMAN, SLEEPING, SAVED WHEN BED GETS AFIRE

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Dec. 17. — Viola Mayo Brewer, colored, wife of Lonnie Brewer, of Main street, figured in one of her inebriate sprees this afternoon that resulted in her arrest. Her drinking affair might have cost her life but for the timely discovery of a fire in her home. The woman, who is 30, after having imbibed freely, decided to enjoy a cigarette and lighting it, lay on a bed. She fell asleep and the cigarette dropped from her hand and landed on the flimsy bed covering, causing the material to ignite. A resident of the house discovered the fire and a still alarm was sent to fire headquarters. Chief Thomas Shipman and Northwest Hose company responded and extinguished the burning bedding with chemicals. Viola then left the house and on Main street she made a nuisance of herself by soliciting money from pedestrians until Patrolman Harold Goldberg observed the woman and arrested her. Mrs. Brewer has a long and varied police record. She has been arrested 13 times, most of the charges being for intoxication, besides other serious charges.

STORM-BATTERED LISTER TOWED FROM BLOCK ISLAND

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Dec. 17. — The three-masted schooner Charles C. Lister, hailing from New York, was brought into port early today by the U. S. coast guard destroyer Ericson, the boat having been rescued in Block Island sound after she had been in collision with an unidentified craft. The schooner is at anchor in the upper harbor in a leaking condition, but not taking in water rapidly. She will probably be repaired here before continuing to her destination. The Lister, lumber laden, and en route from Nova Scotia to New York, encountered severe weather last night when she arrived off Block Island. During the heavy gale and sea the schooner collided with another boat. The Lister's sails were carried away, as were her rudder and jib-boom. Becoming helpless and at the mercy of the elements, signals of distress were sent up. After several signals had been given, the boat being tossed about by sea and wind, the crew of the destroyer observed the signals. The Ericson was but a few miles away and reached the disabled schooner within a short time. The Lister was taken in tow and the trip to this port was started, the boats arriving in the harbor during the early morning.

BRITISH LIQUOR-LADEN CRAFT PROCEEDS TO PROVIDENCE

The British schooner Maskinonge, liquor laden, was captured off Newport, R. I. last night by the crew of a U. S. coast guard patrol boat. The rum-runner had a cargo of 1500 cases of a varied assortment of liquor and was en route from a Canadian port to Providence, the supply of liquor having been intended for unloading this week for the holiday trade. The schooner was sighted by the crew of the patrol boat at a time when the Maskinonge was at the mouth of the Seaconnette river. The crew of the schooner was signaled to heave to and the order being obeyed, members of the patrol boat's crew boarded the schooner and quickly ascertained the nature of the cargo. Later the Maskinonge proceeded to Providence where the crew will be given a hearing before a U. S. district court this week.

Salvage Free Fuel

A score or more of men and women were at the former pier of the Thames River line, Winthrop's cove, throughout today to secure a supply of wood that will provide their homes with fuel for the greater part of the winter. Immense timbers, most of them piles, were brought here last week by the Merritt-Chapman-Scott company from Fire Island, where a big pier is being dismantled, and the lumber having been unloaded the men and women started to remove the smaller pieces. The larger sticks were tackled today and because of their size, the piles, in some instances, were placed on two-wheeled trucks and taken to the homes of the fuel collectors. The larger timbers were either cut into small sections and then removed or else that procedure was followed at the homes. This afternoon gangs of residents of North Bank street were engaged sawing the huge timbers in front of their homes and, that task completed, the wood was taken to the cellars and stored.

At the annual meeting of the Northwest Hose company, held last night, the following officers were elected: Foreman, Cornelius E. Kelly; first assistant foreman, Charles Smith; second assistant foreman, Mario Musante; financial secretary, William A. Slocum; recording secretary, Fred Dunn, Jr.; treasurer, Irving Labenski; executive committee, John Rockholtz. After business, the annual banquet was held and was attended by City Manager William A. Holt, Mayor E. Frank Morgan, members of the city council, Chief Thomas Shipman, Deputy Fire Chief Calvin Edmonds, former Fire Chief Charles Rose and Cyrus W. Brown.

Mrs. Michael Feeney and infant son, of Niantic; Mrs. Thomas Pelletier, and infant daughter, 97 Harrison street; Mrs. Duilio Luzzi and infant daughter, 78 Smith street; Robert Momm, 563 Ocean avenue; Mrs. Louis Olson, 47 Pacific street; Mrs. Minnie Anderson, 22 Acorn court, patients at Lawrence-Memorial hospital, were discharged today.

FUNERAL

Mrs. Christen Sorensen

The funeral of Mrs. Marie K. Sorensen, widow of Christen Sorensen, of Gales Ferry, was held at 15 Masonic street at 10 o'clock this morning, the services being conducted by Rev. Mr. Critchlow, of Gales Ferry. The body was forwarded to New York and tomorrow will be placed aboard a liner for Denmark, for burial among Mrs. Sorensen's kin.

Patrolman and Mrs. Cornelius Moriarty have returned from their wedding trip and are at home to their friends at 16 Lincoln avenue. Patrolman Moriarty resumed his duties today.

Commissioner of Motor Vehicles Robbins B. Stoeckel today ordered the suspension of the drivers' licenses of six motorists. The drivers are Harry Kavalanka, 12 Sharaf street; Gustav Larsen, 32 West Pleasant street; Samuel Bisconti, 670 Bank street; Carl Larsen, 42 Garfield avenue; Andrew Gardner, submarine base and Walter B. Lucy, U. S. Coast Guard. Lucy has been dishonorably discharged from the federal service as a result of the sailor having been arrested several days ago charged with driving while under the influence of liquor. He was fined $100 and costs. Lucy was driving on Williams street when his car crashed against a car driven by Ellsworth Powers, 241 Broad street in which was Miss Martha Moore, clerk in the office of Tax Collector Hull Manwaring. Powers' auto was completed wrecked and Miss Moore sustained injury. Commissioner Stoeckel has ordered the return of the driver's license of Eugene H. Naylor, United States coast guard.

JAMES R. GIBSON, FORGER, GIVEN JAIL SENTENCE

James R. Gibson, Golden Spur, East Lyme, a former member of the U. S. coast guard, arrested Sunday charged with forgery, was in the police court this morning. He pleaded guilty and was sentenced to six months in jail. Gibson, who is married and has two children, stole numerous checks and then negotiated them for various amounts, it being estimated that the former sailor realized close to $700 by this method of obtaining easy money. Gibson was on friendly terms with Harry Slosberg, manager of the Capitol Furniture Co. and stole blank checks there. These he filled out and signing the name of Slosberg to the checks, Gibson negotiated the paper at various stores. Detective Sergeants Nelson Smith and John Cavanaugh proved Gibson a forger. The services of State Police Officer Donald Brown was obtained and Gibson was arrested at his home.

John M. Leary, U. S. coast guard, residing at 47 West Coit street, was charged with breach of the peace and intoxication. The case was continued to March 28 and Leary was placed in the custody of Probation Officer Richard W. Mansfield.

Given Month in Jail

Cathrupo Bruno, who has been arrested many times, was charged with intoxication. He was sent to jail for 30 days. Bruno is a cobbler, but seldom works. He was arrested on State street yesterday by Automobile Patrol Officer Augustus Ray.

Asked to Be Sent to Norwich

Daniel Fraser, Salem farm-worker, was in the police court today charged with intoxication, an offense that has brought him before the court about 40 times, several times within the past year. When presented before Judge Daniel M. Cronin today, Fraser pleaded guilty and requested that he be sent to Norwich state farm for inebriates at Preston, instead of jail for he said that he wanted to be cured of the drink-habit. Judge Cronin granted Fraser's request and he was taken to the farm by Automobile Patrol Officer William Corcoran. Fraser was arrested on North Bank street yesterday by Patrolman Carlos Stone and today said that he had partaken of but two drinks and these were supplied him by a truck driver.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Palace Theatre

Love in the Rough, a musical comedy of the links with Robert Montgomery and Dorothy Jordan, the newest love team of the screen.

Exclusive of being delightful entertainment, Love in the Rough gives us a new romantic team in Robert Montgomery, who is featured, and Dorothy Jordan.

There are two sure-fire hits, "I'm Learning a Lot From You" and "Go Home and Tell Your Mother," and the other five numbers are bound to win favor.

We couldn't very well continue to hand out bouquets without mentioning our old friend Benny Rubin and a new little girl, Dorothy McNulty, who is paired up with him for laughs. And gets them. Benny is a sort of caddy and Miss McNulty is a girl friend of Miss Jordan. Montgomery plays the shipping clerk who becomes a hero on the golf links.

On the same bill is the greatest of all dramas of the people who live by their wits while the rest of the world is sleeping. The Pay Off proves two things: That Lowell Sherman stands alone in his field, and that a story which smacks of the underworld, can, by skillful direction, lose its "crooked" flavor and become a dramatic masterpiece of devotion and sacrifice.

Sherman, who directed and played a leading role, has created an absorbing talking drama of a high-class crook. It does not idealize a genius for crime, but illustrates, incidentally to the plot, that crime can have no ideals. The idealism and love in the heart of the crook, portrayed by Sherman, provides a picture interesting, gripping in every scene and a climax that lingers in one's memory.

Hugh Trevor is a pleasing surprise in his first "heavy" role, while Marion Nixon and William Janney, two youngsters who become innocently involved with the gang, give remarkable portrayals.

The cast, an excellent one, includes Helene Millarde, George Marion, Walter McGrail, Robert McWade, Alan Roscoe, Lita Chevret and Bert Moorehouse.

Coming Saturday for four days the picture that has thrilled thousands as a silent and will again more than thrill in the talkies "Tol'able David" with Richard Cromwell the screen's latest sensation.

Heat With Speed!
WITH THE NEW
Florence Oil Burner
For Kitchen Ranges and Heating Stoves
Florence Oil Burners are enjoying a spectacular rise to popular favor because they represent the furtherest advancement in oil burner manufacture, being made by a company which has specialized in the manufacture of oil burning products for fifty-eight years.
The Florence burns furnace oil, one of the cheapest household fuels and uses it sparingly. It is quickly and easily installed. It operates on the dependable "constant level" principle and uses a special valve that assures a clear uniform flow of oil to the burner. It delivers quick intense heat, from smoke and smell, and is easily controlled.
FOR KITCHEN RANGES
Two Burner $45

GREENEVILLE

PUBLIC SPEAKING CLASS CLOSES WITH BANQUET

The class in Public Speaking and Civic Leadership which has been meeting during the fall held its final session with a banquet at the Third Baptist church dining room on Monday evening. The banquet was in charge of Mr. and Mrs. William Lund who served exquisitely individual chicken pies and the tables were arranged with rustic baskets and Christmas decorations. Mr. W. Harvey Stebbins, the leader of the class, made a very clever speech and introduced Mr. Richard Pearson as the toastmaster who in turn introduced the speakers in a very pleasing manner.

Addresses were made by Ray MacDougal on "Textile Engraving"; W. S. Murray, "Zoning"; Chas. W. Pearson, "Individual Grocers"; W. A. Pitcher, "Ladies"; Joseph B. Pysyk, "Meat"; Henry Sebastian, "Good Judgment"; Harold Kinney, "Prosperity"; Herbert C. Broadhurst, Chain Stores." Secretary Pitcher read a congratulatory message from Dr. Edward Amherst Ott, the author of the course, and Dr. William J. Sly, the district superintendent, gave individual commendations and told of the classes in other places. Guests were present from the class in Montville.

The class is so successful that it has been decided to continue. All expresser themselves as much pleased with the help received and the marked progress that many of the memberra have made in the art of public speaking. Great credit must be given to Mr. W. Harry Stebbins, the leader of the class for his indefatigable good cheer and guidance.

Mr. and Mrs. Lund were assisted in serving the supper by Mrs. Herbert Peckham and Mrs. Fred Laycock. The waitresses were Miss Doris Lund, Miss Elinor Howard, Millard Mulkins, Woodrow Sebastian. Edward Wigley presided at the piano for the spirited singing by the group.

Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Sullivan have returned to their home on Sixth street after spending a few days with their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond J Sullivan of Brooklyn, N. Y. While there they attended the christening of their grandson, Raymond J., Jr.

The Bright Jewels, the junior branch of the Euphenium circle of King's Daughters, held their annual Christmas party Monday evening in the assembly room of the Greeneville Congregational church. As invited guests Mrs. L. Prentice and Mrs. Jennie Young were present. The first period of the evening was devoted to a business meeting in charge of the society's leader, Miss Natalie Service, which was followed by a social hour. Each member brought a Christmas game and these were played. Gifts were exchanged as each member brought a present and they were distributed by numbers. The hall was very artistically decorated for the occasion with the season's colors of red and green. Refreshments of ice cream and cookies were served by the members of the entertainment committee. A very delightful evening was enjoyed by all present.

Landmark Being Razed

A well known landmark of Greeneville, the two tenement house which is known as the Kelly property, at the corner of Fourth street and North Main street is being razed. At one time this was considered as one of the principal pieces of property in Greeneville. It was originally a one tenement home. Very recently John Kelly, who is the present owner of the property, leased the land to the Mexican Oil company which is having the house and barn that adjoins the home, torn down and they will be replaced by a large and up-to-date gasoline station.

FINAL CALL ISSUED FOR CHRISTMAS TOYS

Tomorrow (Friday) the toys which the scouts have been collecting will be turned over to the United Workers for wrapping and distribution. More toys have been secured by the scouts than ever before and a number of calls are still to be made. All those who have toys and who can do so are asked to help the scouts by bringing the toys downtown to the Thayer building in automobiles. Toys can be left at the elevator on the first floor for the scouts.

The senate adjourned late yesterday out of respect to the death of Senator Greene, of Vermont.

DR. F. G. GOODRIDGE FOUND DEAD IN WOODS; ACCIDENTALY SHOT

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Dec. 17.— Dr. Frederic Grosvenor Goodridge, wealthy and retired physician and surgeon of New York and Pomfret, was found dead late this afternoon at the "Mashmoquet Meadows," his beautiful country estate at Abington, with a bullet hole through his heart. The body was discovered in a thickly wooded section of the 5,000 acre estate by Gardiner Davis, postmaster at Pomfret, who had joined the police and neighbors in the search for the doctor after he had been reported as missing by Mrs. Goodridge.

When found the body was lieing on its right side with face turned slightly downward. Beside him was a 30-30 calibre high-powered rifle, later identified as belonging to the Goodridge collection of fire-arms. Upon examination it was revealed that one of the four cartridges contained in the rifle chamber had been discharged. After the discovery other searchers were summoned and the body was wrapped in a blanket, carried a mile and a half across country to the nearest road where it was taken to the Goodridge home, examined by Dr. Seldon B. Overlock, medical examiner for the town of Pomfret, who gave permission for its removal to a local undertaking establishment.

The post-mortem examination by Dr. Overlock revealed that a bullet had entered the left breast and coursed its way through the upper lobe of the heart causing instant death. So powerful and penetrating was the discharge that it tore into the clothing, opening a gaping wound over the heart, coming out just under the left shoulder blade. Powder burns on the clothing of Dr. Goodridge established the fact that he had been wounded at close range.

The tragic death of Dr. Goodridge came as a blow to members of his family and those associated with his household. Fear that he had encountered misfortune at some obscure point on the vast estate was first held at 9 o'clock this morning when he failed to appear at his home for breakfast. Arising shortly after 6:30 o'clock this morning, as was his custom, Dr. Goodridge, after dressing, left the house for his usual morning stroll. When the hour for his return had passed the family became alarmed and a call was sent to the state police barracks at Danielson, requesting that officers be detailed to search the wooded section of Pomfret Center for Dr. Goodridge.

A squadron of state police, under the direction of Officer John Murphy, was immediately assigned to the case and a systematic "drag" of the dense woodlands was carried on for three hours but without result. As a last resort Officer Murphy came to Putnam where he engaged Louis Bodo and his man-hunting police dog, Otto. Before they returned Postmaster Davis, who had joined in the search had come upon the lifeless form hidden in a dense portion of the forest at a point two miles west of the Goodridge home. When the body was first examined two theories of death—accidental and suicidal—were held by police and the medical examiner. During the early evening hours tonight authorities were unable to issue any statements purporting to show a definite cause of death because of the uncertain and conflicting aspects first encountered.

At 9 o'clock, Lieutenant Ross V. Urquhart at Danielson barracks, speaking for Coroner Arthur G. Bill, announced that the theory of suicide had been permanently discarded with the conclusion that Dr. Goodridge had met his tragic fate accidentally.

Dr. Goodridge was born in 1873. After his graduation from Harvard university in 1895 he entered the College of Physicians and Surgeons in New York and was graduated in 1897. For a time he lectured in the medical college at Columbia university and later was affiliated with the surgical staff at the Vanderbilt clinic in New York. Upon America's entry into the World war he enlisted in the army, was assigned to duty with the medical corps, commissioned a major and served with distinction in France.

Although the family maintains a New York residence, at 19 East 80th street, Dr. Goodridge spent considerable of his time at his magnificent estate in Abington where he lived in seclusion.

His great love for the out of doors influenced his gradual acquirement of large tracts of land in the western part of Pomfret Center which were annexed to "Mashamoquet Meadows." The Goodridge house, one of the most beautiful in Pomfret, is palatial in size and appearance, and being plainly visible from the state highway.

While enjoying his secluded life in the quiet of the Connecticut hill town Dr. Goodridge became intensely interested in the World war veterans service organizations and became a member of the Anselm Mayotte post, American Legion, of this city, in which he was regarded as an active and valuable associate.

The Goodridge family is listed in the recent issue of New York's social register and, aside from this, Dr. Goodridge is also identified with many of New York's prominent clubs, among them being the University, Knickerbocker, Union and Century clubs, the New York Yacht club, the City and Colony clubs. He was also affiliated with the military order of Foreign Wars and was a member of the Colonial Lords of Manors. During the years immediately following the completion of his medical training, Dr. Goodridge became interested in the exploration of the Polar regions and accompanied Commander Robert Peary into the north ice regions where he did considerable research work in that frozen section of the world.

Dr. Goodridge is survived by his wife and two daughters, Mrs. Thomas G. Barber of Woodbury, L. I., and Miss Helen Iselin Goodridge, a student at the Poster school in Farmington, Conn.; and one son, Frederick G. Goodridge, Jr., who resides in Arizona.

NORWICH SAVINGS SOCIETY APPRECIATES POLICEMEN

The gift of $50 for the police pension fund has been made by the Norwich Savings society and acknowledged by Mayor Lee Roy Robbins in the following exchange of letters:

Norwich, Dec. 16, 1930.

Honorable Lee R. Robbins,
Mayor of the City of Norwich,
Norwich, Connecticut.

Dear Mr. Mayor:

I am pleased to hand you with this draft on Thames Bank and Trust company fifty dollars ($50) as a contribution by this society to the police pension fund.

We make this contribution to emphasize our appreciation of the protection and courtesies we receive from the policemen of our city.

Yours very truly,

The program under direction of Miss Nina Perry and George R. Gifford, follows: Oct. I—Good Morning, Teacher, school chorus; Teaching District School, Old Dan Tucker, O Come, Come Away, school chorus; Chick-a-dee-dee, infant chorus. Act. 11—Little Drops of Water, school chorus; recitation, Brigham Young; recitation, Daniel Webster; composition, John Jacob Astor; recitation, Jim Blaine; The Old Oaken Bucket, Chris Columbus; recitation, Liza Ann Snodgrass; composition, "Woman's Rights," Lydia Pinkham; Suzanna, school chorus; recitation, Peruna Jones; original poem, Buster Brown; Battle Song, school chorus. The teacher, Ezekiel Simpkins, was impersonated by George R. Gifford, while the visitors were: Miss Amanda Quackenbush, Mrs. W. Partridge, and the deacon, William Rossoll. The scholars comprised: Lydia Pinkham, Mrs. E. J. Calkins; Jesse James, Howard O. Smith; Liza Ann Snodgrass, Mrs. Jacob Lichenstein; Semanthy Small, Miss Mary Coughlin; Mehitable Honswoggle, Mrs. Herman Pukallus; Brigham Young, Frank J. Fields; Peruna Jones, Miss Anna Taft; Jim Blaine, Clifford Moody; Christopher Columbus, Everet O. Miller; Buster Brown, Jacob Lichenstein; Daniel Webster, Eli Jacobson; Peley Barnum, Merton Latimer; John Jacob Astor, Lloyd Cochran; Patience Puddlefoot, Mrs. A. Alquist; Ben Butler, Frederick M. Oat; Tooty Frooty, Mrs. Charles H. Marsh; Cornelius Vanderbuilt, Arthur Armstrong. Owing to the severe cold weather, the attendance was not as large as had been expected. Mrs. Herbert Richardson was in charge of the tickets, the proceeds from which will be divided between Norwich grange and the West End Community association. Refreshments were in charge of Ralph H. Marsh. Dancing followed the entertainment, which was repeated Wednesday evening at the plant of Turner & Stanton, 261 Broad street, when the annual Christmas party with supper and entertainment was given the employes.

On a recent motor trip into Massachusetts, Mrs. Harry Norrington was accompanied by her daughter, Doris Norrington, also Mrs. Leslie Rogers and two children and Mrs. Jennie Heald, all of Norwich Town. The objective was a tour of Christmas shopping to Worcester and Boston. Before returning home the party paid a visit to Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Vollim, of Arlington, Mass., parents of Mrs. Norrington.

Miss Thumm In Glee Club

Miss Gertrude B Thumm, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred G. Thumm of 128 Broadway, has been chosen as a member of the Women's Glee club at Bay Path institute, Springfield, Mass. She will take part in a program of Christmas music to be given at the institute on Thursday, December 18. Miss Thumm is a member of the junior class in the two-year normal department at Bay Path.

TAFTVILLE

When the members of the home department of the Taftville Congregational church school hold their monthly meeting on Friday in the church vestry and lecture rooms, the committee which will be in charge is Mrs. Richard Pilling, Mrs. Percy Seddon, Mrs. John Volkman and Mrs. Thomas Brown. Under the direction of Mrs. Fred Ince, the supervisor, there is to be sewing for the William W. Backus hospital, and a social hour, at which refreshments are to be served, is to follow. The department is holding its meeting this week because of the Christmas holidays coming at the time of their usual meeting.

With the present cold snap, several of the local sportsmen began to take thought for the game birds, and have been carrying grain and scratch feed into the woods to supply them in case of a snowstorm. Berries, which are a natural food for the birds, have been unusually plentiful this year, but in the event of a heavy snow, game soon suffers from lack of food. One of the members of the Taftville Rod and Gun club has suggested that small coverts be built of hemlock, or some other close branched evergreen and the grain scattered on the ground inside the covert where it would not be covered by snow. It was also pointed out that the covert should have a good sized opening in the back to allow the bird to escape, if it was trapped while feeding, by its natural enemy, the fox.

Peter Gallan post, No. 104, American Legion, held its regular meeting Monday evening in the Red Cross rooms in the Ponemah building with an attendance of 30. Commander Bessette presided and called attention to the district meeting to be held this Thursday evening and urged all members to be present. Important business will come before the business meeting which will be followed by a social hour with music and dancing. The post has recently inaugurated a campaign for the collection of old newspapers. A collection depot has been established at Grant's barn and Comrades Stanilaus Benac and Thomas Perkins Sears will be glad to call for any papers if they are notified.

ADVANCING STATE HIGHWAY WORK TO FURNISH WINTER EMPLOYMENT

For the purpose of relieving the unemployment situation, Highway Commissioner John A. Macdonald has ordered Connecticut's highway operations for the year of 1931, originally scheduled to begin in March, advanced to January, and stated that all highway work listed for the years of 1931 and 1932 would be moved forward as rapidly as the department could formulate plans and specifications for construction.

The first contract letting for the new year will be made on January 5 and will include, according to preliminary estimates, approximately one million dollars worth of highway projects spread generally throughout the state.

Commissioner Macdonald pointed out that by inaugurating operations in mid-winter the motoring public would undoubtedly be inconvenienced by the temporary closing of some roads and by one way traffic; and that the work, being undertaken under winter conditions and necessitating operations in frozen soil, would naturally entail a somewhat greater expense to the state than if undertaken under normal conditions of the warm weather construction season. In view of the large number of jobs which will be made available, however, he stated that it was his belief that the public would not object to the inconvenience and that the additional expense of winter work would be fully justified.

Preference For Local Employes

With respect to the letting of January 5 and those which will follow as rapidly as possible, the highway commissioner stated that two sections of the standard contract specifications would be strictly enforced; namely, one which requires the contractor to begin work within ten days after he receives notice of the award and another which requires all contractors insofar as possible to utilize labor obtained in the sections where the construction work is taking place. Since operations will be spread generally throughout the state, the latter specification will relieve unemployment on a wide scale in all parts of Connecticut.

The advancement of the highway construction program was enabled by a surprising stability of state income from the sources prescribed by law for the highway department, chiefly the gasoline tax and motor vehicle registrations. Early in the summer when the highway commissioner made his estimate of the income which could be anticipated from these sources, it was believed that the industrial depression and unemployment would drastically affect both, and that receipts would probably be one fourth or more below the figures of 1929.

As far as motor vehicle operation was concerned, however, the effects of depression were by no means as severe as was expected. Both the gasoline tax and the renewal of automobile registrations were maintained on a level not greatly below that of 1929.

Will Liquidate $3,000,000

Maintenance of highway funds from these sources will make it possible within the next month for the department to liquidate loans amounting to $3,000,000 advanced by the board of finance and control early in the year from the state's civil list funds.

This sum was obtained by the highway commissioner when the unemployment situation first gave evidence of assuming serious proportions. It was obtained under the statute which enables the commissioner to borrow from state funds against anticipated highway department income, and it was used to finance an expansion of the 1930 program in order to provide jobs for scores of men who otherwise would have been thrown out of work.

Although it has constantly been the aim of the highway department to aid the unemployment situation by further expansions of its program, it was necessary to delay plans for 1931 construction until it became certain that the necessary finances would be forthcoming. It now appears definite that the gasoline tax and motor vehicle income for November, December and January will be sufficient to liquidate the $3,000,000 loan within a short time.

Following this, the highway commissioner will be able to borrow against the anticipated highway income both for 1931 and 1932. This, in turn, will permit the announced advancement of the new year's program and will furnish early unemployment relief throughout Connecticut.

The winter work will consist almost entirely of grading operations in preparation for summer paving.

THREE PAY FINES IN LISBON JUSTICE'S COURT

The three Norwich men who were arrested early Tuesday evening by Constable Aubrey Potter of Lisbon and Officer Michael Pounch for the Lisbon authorities, were presented before Justice of the Peace Walter Drew that evening at his residence in Lisbon. The accused pleaded guilty to charges preferred against them and each was fined $1 and costs. The men were Roy J. Menders, 28, charged with aiding and assisting in hunting without a license; Alfred Poyetd, charged with hunting without a license, and Charles Wiedwald, charged with trespassing.

Grand Juror Johnson prosecuted the case and the witnesses, besides three officials from the state fish and and game department, were James Palmer and his son, Earle, of Lisbon. The accused were detected hunting in the woods at Round Hill along the river road to Jewett City.

COMFORT CIRCLE TO SEND CHRISTMAS PACKAGES

Comfort circle, King's Daughters, met with Mrs. William B. Lathrop, No. 250 Maple street, Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Eleven members were present. Christmas packages were wrapped to be sent later to worthy poor people. Further plans were made for the circle's Christmas work. Mrs. Lathrop served delicious home-made candy. Christmas hymns were sung, Mrs. J. H. Allen presiding at the piano. A humorous reading, Why the Chicken Didn't Die, was much enjoyed.

Miss Gertrude Lathrop recited Hulda's Christmas and Signs of Xmas, in a very pleasing manner. The next meeting, which is the annual one, will be held at the home of Mrs. William H. Geer, No. 334 Washington street.

LOUIS FRAZIER AND WIFE BOTH ILL AT PASADENA

Word has been received here from Pasadena, California, of the serious illness there of Mr and Mrs. Louis Frazier, who moved from Norwich to California a number of years ago. They both have been ill for the past three months and at the present time are both in a helpless condition, with day and night nurses at their home, 121 Allen avenue.

Mr. Frazier was employed in meat markets in Norwich for many years and was very well known.

Approximately 19,000,000 pounds of reinforcement steel will be used in construction of Hoover dam.

CONFEREES COMPROMISE ON $45,000,000 DROUGHT BILL

Senate Conferees Yielded to the Insistence of the House to Eliminate the Provision For Loaning Money to the Farmers For Food—The Compromise Bill Will Go to the House Today—House Voted Additional $150,000,000 For Farm Board Activities—Senate Restored the President's Power to Apportion $116,000,000 For Employment Relief

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18.—(AP)—The way was opened tonight for early enactment of the emergency relief program by congress with an agreement by conferees on a compromise $45,000,000 drought bill.

The compromise will be taken up for final approval tomorrow as other conferees re-assemble to consider differences between the senate and the house on the emergency $116,000,000 employment appropriation.

Democrats waged determined assaults in both houses against President Hoover's recommendations but the administration forces held their majorities in line.

A decision of the house earlier in the day to pare down the $60,000,000 senate drought relief bill to $30,000,000 in accordance with the president's program was offset by the subsequent conference.

Senate conferees yielded to the insistence of the house to eliminate the provision for loaning money to farmers for the purpose of personal food—a proposal condemned by the administration—but gained an amendment to permit such loans in cases of extreme emergency.

The senate defeated a move to insist upon eliminating from the $116,000,000 employment fund the provision giving the president power to allocate the money as he saw fit. A coalition of democrats and republican independents fought this provision, but they lost, 42 to 39.

The compromise on the drought relief measure goes first to the house tomorrow. Chairman McNary of the senate agriculture committee, who was in charge of the conference, hopes it will be enacted before the end of the week.

The language inserted to permit loans for food in cases of extreme emergency provides that the secretary of agriculture may make loans not only for feed and fertilizer but for other purposes "incident to crop production."

Unsuccessful efforts were made by democrats in the house to obtain favorable action on the senate measure, but the republican leadership held rank and file in line and substituted the administration program barring loans for food by 225 to 147.

Seventeen republicans and the one farmer labor—Kvale of Minnesota—voted with the democrats. Six democrats deserted the minority.

SUMMARY OF YESTERDAY'S PROCEEDINGS IN CONGRESS

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18. — (AP) — President Hoover had reason today to feel more kindly toward congress than at any time since the session opened.

The house passed the drought relief bill, fixing the figure at $30,000,000 but the conferees split the difference with the senate and raised the appropriation to $45,000,000, the half way mark toward the senate's $60,000,000.

The senate did a minor surgical operation on the $116,000,000 employment relief bill but instead of taking something away it restored the president's power to apportion the money.

It also went immediately to conference and signs began to spring up that congress would like a few days off around Christmas. Adjournment Saturday is not improbable.

The senate was particularly gracious to the administration. Glenn, republican, Illinois, rose during the day and lit into McKellar, Tennessee democrat, for the latter's attacks on the president.

McKellar folded his hands and listened with a grave face as Glenn's voice rose, but he joined heartily in the laughter when Glenn said the Tennessean could not love little children as Mr. Hoover did. McKellar is a bachelor.

Drought and employment were the central themes but both houses and their committees found time to take up immigration, farm board appropriations and a dozen other subjects.

The house passed the Wood bill appropriation an additional $150,000,000 for farm board activities.

The senate approved the Heflin resolution calling for a report of taxes paid by the New York stock exchange and exchange members on stock transactions from 1919 to 1930.

Secretary Stimson informed a senate committee that the proposal to bar almost all immigration for a two-year period would work against the present policy based on national origins. Secretary Doak agreed and an alternative method of cutting down permanent visiting was suggested.

APPEAL FROM WET DECISION TO U. S. SUPREME COURT

NEWARK, N. J., Dec. 18.—(AP)—The federal government today appealed to the United States supreme court from Judge William Clark's decision finding the 18th amendment invalid.

Phillip Forman, the federal district attorney who prosecuted the case of the United States vs. William Sprague and William Howey—the case in which Federal Judge Clark rendered his decision—made the appeal today. Only a few persons were in the courtroom when Forman started the procedure which will put the issue before the highest court.

During the proceedings Judge Clark signed two orders. One, at the request of Sprague's counsel, quashed the indictment against Sprague, who was charged with illegal transportation of beer. The other, at the request of the district attorney, provided for the appeal going directly to the supreme court without the usual intermediate stop at the circuit court of appeals.

Forman then attached to the papers filed with the district court clerk, his preliminary assignment of points on which his appeal will be based. The papers then were forwarded to the clerk of the United States supreme court at Washington.

PEACE IN GUATEMALA AFTER REVOLUTION

GUATEMALA CITY, Guatemala, Dec. 18.—(AP)—Peace had returned to Guatemala tonight after a revolution which installed General Manuel Orellana as the third president the country has had within a week. The congress indicated in a formal manifesto a belief that the trouble was definitely over.

The statement disclosed that the various ambassadors and other representatives of foreign nations had sat in on congressional conferences looking toward reestablishment of peace. The mediation of the diplomatic corps was helpful, the statement says, but the diplomats functioned only as unofficial observers.

"The congress considers the critical period over," the statement read, "and calls attention to its satisfaction over the fact that the recent political difficulties resulted in a minimum of blood-spilling."

ROBBERS SPLIT BOOTY WITH THEIR VICTIMS

NEW YORK, Dec. 18.— (AP)—Sympathetic robbers split their booty with their victims and netted $31 in a hat store hold-up on the lower East Side late today.

They rebated the manager, Samuel Stergman, $1.35, because he said it was all of his lunch money for the week, and Arthur Lewis, a clerk, $2 of his $13, but took all of the $31 in the safe.

The hold-up pair bound the store employes and a telephone company employe and left them in the cellar.

JUMPED FROM THIRD FLOOR WHILE BEING QUESTIONED

NEW YORK, Dec. 18.—(AP) —While he was being questioned late today in connection with disappearance of $90,000 worth of securities, Bernard M. Maron, 28, of Weehawken, New Jersey, jumped from a third story window in the offices of Assistant District Attorney Daley and received probably fatal injuries

ACTION TAKEN BY THE RADIO COMMISSION

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18.—(AP)—The radio commission today refused to permit a blanket increase in high powered stations broadcasting on cleared channels and ordered its chief examiner, Ellis A. Yost, to submit recommendations for filling present clear channel vacancies only.

It rejected a report in which Yost proposed that the applications of 20 stations for cleared channels and 50,000 watts be granted.

The action meant the commission would not accept at this time Yost's recommendation that it amend its order requiring that only four channels in each of the five zones be utilized by stations with 50,000 watts.

At the same time the commission denied the petition of 12 large radio stations that the order be amended to permit stations upon cleared channels to operate with 50,000 watts before action upon the examiner's report.

GRADUALLY RESTORING ORDER THROUGHOUT SPAIN

MADRID, Dec. 18.—(AP)—The strong hand of the Spanish government tonight was gradually restoring order throughout the country, torn by civil strife after Monday's abortive revolt.

In Madrid itself it had succeeded completely and the city was going about its affairs as if there had been no such incident as the brief rising at Cuatro Vientos airfield, when rebel leaders proclaimed the end of the monarchy and the establishment of a republic.

This was also largely true in the big provincial centers where those general strikes which were proclaimed Tuesday and yesterday had either ended or were dying out.

There was no report of fighting anywhere in Spain during the day.

HEAVY SNOW IN NORTH CAROLINA AND VIRGINIA

ATLANTA, Ga., Dec. 18.—(AP)—Rain and warmer weather were predicted tonight to help eastern portions of Dixie dig themselves out from under a snow blanket that ranged from a trace to 30 inches in parts of North Carolina.

The prospect of moderating temperatures, however, did not extend generally to the more southerly sections and the west, though most of the states east of the Mississippi had rain in sight.

Virginia and North Carolina, where the snow blanket was heaviest, already had cleared most of their roads and resumed highway traffic and street car service.

TWO SKATERS AND WOULD-BE RESCUER DROWNED

NEWBURGH, N. Y., Dec. 18.—(AP)—Two young skaters and a man who tried to rescue them were drowned at Salisbury Mills, 12 miles from here last night.

The dead:

Isabelle Rydre, 16, of Newburgh.

Ralph Gaffney, of Newburgh, her companion.

Thomas Sager, 31, of New Windsor.

Miss Ryder and Gaffney were training for the middle Atlantic skating championships, to be held here on New Year's day

CABLED PARAGRAPHS

PARIS, Dec. 18—(AP)—An Algiers dispatch to Le Matin says a devastating hurricane swept Algeria today, accompanied by the heaviest rainfall in 30 years, but so far as was known there was no loss of life.

CARTAGENA, Spain, Dec. 18—(AP)—Unfavorable weather tonight continued to hold Italy's trans-Atlantic air squadron apart, six of the fourteen planes which left Orbetello, Italy, yesterday remaining at Iviza, one of the Balearic Islands.

TOKYO, Dec. 18—(AP)—An official Japanese dispatch from Vladivostok today said soviet authorities yesterday closed the Vladivostok branch of the Bank of Korea, semi-official Japanese organ for economic activities in Korea, Manchuria and Siberia.

JERUSALEM, Dec. 18—(AP)—The Jewish Telegraphic agency learns that a large colonnaded court and the beautiful temple of Artemis, one of the principal deities of Greek mythology, were uncovered yesterday at Jerash by the joint expedition of Yale university and the American School of Oriental Research in Jerusalem.

HAVANA, Cuba, Dec. 18—(AP)—Scientific, engineering and astronomical societies are preparing to welcome Professor Albert Einstein, internationally known German scientist, on his arrival here today from New York aboard the steamship Belgenland. The Belgenland will stop in Havana for 18 hours.

MAN KILLED, TWO INJURED IN AUTOMOBILE ACCIDENT

TORRINGTON, Dec. 18—(AP)—One man was instantly killed and two others injured, one probably fatally, tonight in an automobile accident in West Goshen.

The dead man was Felice Mingola, 40, while the injured were Joseph Lopez, 37, and Dominick Paralini, 35. Lopez was reported at the Charlotte Hungerford hospital as in a critical condition and his recovery was considered doubtful.

An automobile in which the men, all residents of Torrington, were riding sideswiped a telegraph pole and then crashed into a wall after failing to make a turn in the highway near the West Goshen postoffice. The occupants of the machine, of which Lopez was the driver, were all hurled out.

The men were returning to Torrington from Cornwall where they had been seeking work on a state highway construction project.

LEAPED FROM FOUR STORY ROOF TO DEATH

LONG BEACH, Calif. Dec. 18—(AP)—A suicide leap from the roof of a four story apartment building today ended the grief of Mrs. Mary Moore, 72, over the loss of her life savings of $20,000. The money was invested in what Mrs. Moore believed was fruit land near Salada Beach, Calif., but which turned out to be only a pile of rocks.

Leslie Moore, her husband, told police they came to California four months ago from Omaha, Nebr., where he had retired from work as a railroad conductor.

The alleged fraud was laid before authorities, and, although plans were made to prosecute, his wife became despondent, Moore said.

SAYS INDUSTRY SHOULD SHARE MACHINERY BENEFITS

NEW YORK, Dec. 18—(AP)—Industry, Newton D. Baker, former secretary of war, said today, should bear its share of responsibility toward the employe displaced by machinery.

"The advantages and gains which come from machinery have no right to be all velvet to industry unless they are velvet to society," he said, "Industry has no right to take all the gains that come from substitution of machines without bearing a substantial part of the consequent dislocation of human element, as far as it can be wisely assessed."

Education in the form of substitute training is the only solution to the problem, he added.

CUBA'S OLDEST NEWSPAPER CLOSED BY GOVT. ORDER

HAVANA, Dec. 18—(AP)—Diario de La Marina, Cuba's oldest newspaper, was closed by order of the department of interior tonight and its editor, Aldo Baroni, was confined in the prison for federal offenders at Cabanas fortress.

All doors of the newspaper were closed and placed under police guard. It was the second time in 98 years that the presses were closed, the management having voluntarily suspended publication for a period of 14 days a month ago in passive protest against censorship.

The president of Diario de La Marina is Count de Rivero, consul general of Hungary in Havana.

SEARCHING FOR SCHOONER FLYING DISTRESS SIGNALS

PROVINCETOWN, Mass., Dec. 18—(AP)—Coast guard vessels tonight searched for the schooner Elmer E. Gray, which was sighted off Highland light today flying distress signals. Members of the coast guard at the Highland light station went out to the schooner and her captain, Joaquim V. Brown, asked that they arrange for her to be towed. Coast guard cutters were ordered to her aid, but they did not find her. It was not feared she had been lost but it was believed she had attempted to continue on her way to Boston and had not remained where she was boarded, as it was believed she would.

ESTIMATES INCREASES IN CAR REQUIREMENTS

BUFFALO, N. Y., Dec. 18—(AP)—Increases in estimated car requirements for grain, flour, fresh fruits and vegetables, almost sufficient to offset anticipated decreases in other industries, were outlined in reports to the Great Lakes regional advisory board here today. The board is composed of representatives of shippers and transportation companies and its program today consisted largely of a review of business and forecasts for the first quarter of 1931.

WOULD PROVIDE FREE SCHOOL LUNCHES FOR CHILDREN

NEW YORK, Dec. 18—(AP)—A movement to have the city appropriate funds to provide free school lunches for children of the unemployed was inaugurated today by representatives of 37 women's organizations.

Other funds will be raised privately for children not of school age for distribution to mothers

Three Fatalities in Two Plane Accidents

Two Men Were Killed Near Bellows Falls, Vt.—One at Washington

BELLOWS FALLS, Vt., Dec. 18—(AP)—Two men were killed and a third injured when an airplane crashed into a field beside the Connecticut river near here this afternoon.

The dead were: Carlton Wright, Saxtons River.

Arnold [illegible], Saxtons River.

The airplane was piloted by Fred M. Greenwood, of Bellows Falls, who escaped with slight head injuries. Just after the plane had passed over the home of Greenwood's aunt, Mrs. George P. Kenyon, the latter saw it go into a dive and bury its nose in the Kenyon meadow beside the river.

The two young men who were killed were seated in the front of the plane. They were pulled from the wreckage by Mr. and Mrs. Kenyon. Greenwood, a graduate of Bellows Falls high school last June, who qualified for a private pilot's license a few weeks ago, was able to walk to his aunt's house. He was taken to the Rockingham hospital here for treatment, however.

FATAL PLANE CRASH ON OUTSKIRTS OF WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18—(AP)—An unidentified man was killed late today when he jumped from an army plane having motor trouble over the outskirts of the capital.

The passenger tore a parachute, but he was either unable to open it or was too close to the ground when he made his leap to permit it to break his fall.

Papers found in the man's pockets indicated his name was either H. I. Owen, civilian mechanic at Teterboro airport, New Jersey, or Stephen Forberger.

The plane, an army test ship piloted by Lieutenant Harris G. Crocker, of Wright field, Dayton, Ohio, left the New Jersey field for Washington this afternoon.

After the passenger's fatal leap, which apparently was prompted by panic, Crocker brought the craft down to a "pancake" landing in a field near the city. The undercarriage was smashed.

ACQUITTED OF EMBEZZLEMENT; REFUSED SERVICES OF LAWYER

BRIDGEPORT, Dec. 18—(AP)—After refusing the services of a lawyer and fighting a two day court battle for himself, Arthur S. Silver, 41, of Stamford, was acquitted by a jury before Judge Alfred C. Baldwin in Superior court today on a charge of embezzlement. After hearing the decision, Silver thanked the jury and the court and walked out of the courtroom arm in arm with his wife, who had been sitting near the front of the courtroom during the entire proceedings.

Silver was charged with the misappropriation of $141, which it was claimed he collected while employed as an agent for the Metropolitan Life Insurance company.

SENDS PRESENT TO MOTHER UNDER SENTENCE OF DEATH

NEWCASTLE, Pa., Dec. 18—(AP)—Irene Schroeder, under sentence of death in the electric chair for the murder of State Highway Patrolman Brady Paul, today received what may be the last Christmas present from her five year old son, Donnie.

The gift was a crayon drawing of a flower pot which the child had scrawled laboriously in school at Wheeling, W. Va., where he lives with an aunt, Mrs. Martha Schoenian, a sister of the doomed woman.

The smiling youngster's mother reciprocated by giving him an aviator's cap and a hug. She had not seen the boy for many weeks.

PRODUCTION OF NARCOTICS IN TURKEY INCREASING

GENEVA, Dec. 18—(AP)—Manufacture of narcotics is gaining a foothold in Turkey, where three years ago no drugs were produced, a report published today by the league of nations reveals.

The report was based on the recent London conference on limitation of the manufacture of narcotics, whose purpose was to agree on quotas of the world's legitimate narcotic needs which should be assigned to each manufacturing country. The conference was participated in by various countries, including the United States.

COL. WOODS WOULD GLADLY GIVE UNEMPLOYMENT FACTS

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18— (AP) — Colonel Arthur Woods said today he would gladly give the senate any facts he may have as to the extent of unemployment and steps being taken to relieve it.

The chairman of the president's emergency committee for employment added he had received no summons to appear before the senate appropriations committee. The calling of Woods was authorized yesterday by the senate.

PRINCE OF WALES IS RECOVERING FROM CHILL

LONDON, Dec. 18. — (AP) — The Prince of Wales suffered from a slight chill today, necessitating canceling all his immediate engagements, but was reported improved tonight.

Sir Stanley Hewitt, physician to the royal family, called at York house to see the prince this evening, and a bulletin was issued saying the patient was "very much better."

OBITUARY

Henry A. House

BRIDGEPORT, Dec. 18.— (AP)— A long career of invention and experimentation which contributed greatly to the extensive mechanical development of the past 70 years was brought to a close today with the death of Henry A. House.

Credited with more than 300 inventions, House who was 90 years old, numbered among these the first successfully self-propelled automobile, which screamed and puffed its way through the streets of Bridgeport in the summer of 1866.

It was in a spirit of vengeance it is reported, that House developed the automobile. A battle with a refractory horse impelled him to turn his attention to horseless vehicle.

"Better have no horse at all," he said, "than one that balks."

Deputies Sustain The New French Cabinet

Premier Steeg G[illegible] Vote of Confidence [illegible] 284 in First Te[illegible]

PARIS, [illegible]—(AP)—Premier Theodore Steeg [illegible] his six-day-old cabinet today captured a vote of confidence by a majority of only seven votes in their first appearance before a hostile chamber of deputies.

The vote was 291 against 284, and the oppositionists vowed that they would overthrow the new minister after the New Year's recess.

Steeg's day began in an air of pessimism. After much effort last week he finally formed a ministry to succeed that of Andre Tardieu and immediate attacks and defections began. The situation was made worse by the resignation of three officials this afternoon just before the cabinet went before the chamber with its initial declaration of policy.

The minister of pensions, Robert Robert Thoumyre, Rene Coty, undersecretary of state for the interior, and Camille Cautru, under secretary for agriculture, resigned. As representatives of the republicans of the left and moderate center groups they opposed Steeg's ministerial declaration in favor of the Laical schools as opposed to the giving of religious instruction.

But this very thing won the favor of the left groups, which staged a demonstration of enthusiasm such as seldom is seen even in the temperamental French lower house, and brought the necessary although slender victory.

The intervention of former Premier Edouard Herriot was viewed as another factor in the victory. In an impassioned appeal he called upon the chamber not to precipitate another ministerial crisis at this stage of affairs, and his plea appeared to carry a lot of weight with the hesitating members of the moderate parties.

M. Steeg's tenure in office is likely to be marked by continuance of the policy of conciliation toward foreign countries inaugurated several years ago by Aristide Briand, who appears to be the irremovable foreign minister no matter what elements support the government.

CALLED BUCKLEY TO HOTEL LOBBY WHERE HE WAS SLAIN

DETROIT, Dec. 18.—(AP)—The Detroit News said today it had learned from police that Miss Margaret Owen, actress, had told them she was the woman who called Jerry Buckley to the lobby of the La Salle hotel, where he was slain by three gunmen, early July 23. The News says Miss Owen said she made the telephone call to the radio announcer innocently, believing she was arranging a party to celebrate the recall of Mayor Charles Bowles.

Miss Owen has been in receiving hospital under guard since November 29. On that day she collapsed in a theatre where she was playing, after drinking poison liquor. Previously she had been subpoenaed as a witness before the 22-man grand jury which is investigating the Buckley slaying.

According to the News, Miss Owen told police she called Buckley about 1:30 a. m. to invite him to the party. She said she had known the radio political commentator for some time and that he had escorted her to several parties. She said Buckley agreed to meet her in the lobby of the hotel in a few minutes but that the man who told her to make the call prevented her from keeping the appointment. Buckley was shot at 1:55 a. m.

MUSSOLINI BLAMES MARKET CRASH FOR BREAK IN ITALY

ROME, Dec. 18—(AP)—The American stock market crash and "money crisis" of the fall of 1929 are principally to blame for Italy's present financial ills, Premier Mussolini told the senate this afternoon.

In a speech marked by biting irony, frankness and characteristic vigor, the duce declared Italy was "nearing port; was perhaps in view of port when the American crisis broke out unexpectedly and exploded like a bomb."

His placing the blame on the American situation was part of the duce's defense for his drastic cut of 12 per cent in the salaries of all state employes.

OLD MONOPLANE COLUMBIA BACK AT ROOSEVELT FIELD

NEW YORK, Dec. 18.—(AP)—A veteran of two crossings of the North Atlantic, the old monoplane Columbia was back home again in a Roosevelt field hangar tonight. It was from that field she flew to Germany in 1927.

The Canadian-American team which took the Columbia on her latest ocean loop—from Harmor Grace to the Scilly Islands—brought her home today.

Lieut. J. Errol Boyd, famed Canadian flier and Lieut. Harry Connor, his American navigator, flew the Columbia here from Montreal to spend the holidays in New York. Boyd also brought his family, Mrs. Boyd and their two daughters, Honor, 6, and Virginia, 3.

SENATE TO CONSIDER POWER COMMISSION NOMINATIONS

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18.—(AP)—The senate agreed today to consider tomorrow the five nominations to the federal power commission, provided the debate does not interfere with consideration of relief measures.

The senate confirmed Harry J. Anslinger, of Pennsylvania, as commissioner of the bureau of narcotics; Fred S. Pulver, United States marshal, eastern district of New York, and Lawrence A. Glenn, of Illinois, and Lieutenant Colonel George R. Spalding, corps of engineers, as members of the Mississippi river commission.

LORDS SCORE TECHNICAL VICTORY OVER COMMONS

LONDON, Dec. 18.—(AP)—The house of lords scored a great tactical victory over the house of commons today when the MacDonald government decided to accept the lords' insertion in the expiring laws continuance bill of an amendment prolonging the dyestuffs act another year.

The labor party secured a bare majority of six votes in the commons last night when Mr. MacDonald recommended rejection of the amendment. The lords today, however, insisted on its insertion and the government surrendered to their views.

WINS MARRAIGE ANNULMENT FROM PAULINE FREDERICK

Hugh C. Leighton, Fourth Husband of the Actress, Testified That He Had Given Her $1,000 a Month Without Getting Even a "Good Kiss" During the Eight Months of Their Married Life—Could Not Induce the Screen Star to Be Happy and Lead a Normal Life

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 18.—(AP)—Hugh C. Leighton, fourth husband of Pauline Frederick, was granted an annulment today after Judge William Doran visited Leighton's bedside and was told the actress had been his wife in name only.

Leighton, a wealthy hotel owner, had asked the superior court hearing in his room, where he is suffering a nervous ailment.

Leighton propped on his pillows, testified he had given the actress $1,000 a month without getting even a "good kiss" during their eight months marriage. Leighton sought the annulment on the grounds of fraud and failure of Miss Frederick to be a "wife in anything but a name."

"When we married in my New York apartment last April 20," Leighton testified, "I naturally thought Miss Frederick intended to be my wife. But she never was, going even that night to the home of a woman friend.

"I did my best to induce her to be happy and live a normal life," he continued, "but I could not discover the cause of her attitude."

Leighton, who brought his bride to her Beverly Hills home, said when he went to New York on a business trip he had but one letter from her. "and when I returned here she was gone. I have not seen her since."

Judge Doran, his court clerk, stenographer and Leighton's attorney attended the hearing.

The hotel man's counsel had advised Judge Doran a public court appearance would seriously aggravate Leighton's nervous condition.

U. OF S. C. VICE PRESIDENT TAKES LIFE BY SHOOTING

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 18—(AP)—Warren C. Bovard, 45, vice president and comptroller of the University of Southern California, killed himself early today, after spending several hours with friends, laughing and joking.

One of the two friends, Louis B. McWhirter, remained overnight at Bovard's home. When his host did not appear for breakfast McWhirter said he went to his room.

Bovard's body, clad in pajamas, was stretched across the bed. His right hand clutched a pistol. A bullet had been fired into his right temple. Physicians said he had been dead several hours, although McWhirter said he heard no shot.

Intimate friends said Bovard's health had not been the best and his home life had been marked by difficulties with his wife, Mrs. Hazel Jackman Bovard, who was visiting relatives in Wichita, Kansas.

LIQUOR LADEN SCHOONER IN PORT AT NEW YORK

NEW YORK, Dec. 18—(AP)—The British schooner Shanaliam, out of Newfoundland, was brought into port today with a $200,000 liquor cargo and her crew of twelve under arrest.

The 120-foot craft was seized yesterday off Fire Island after a two-hour chase during which the coast guard patrol boat Cartigan fired six one-pound shels, three of which hit the schooner's rail.

Boatswain C. W. Whitney, in command of the Cartigan, said the schooner ignored a signal to halt and circled in an attempt to escape. The capture was within the 12-mile limit, he said.

Captain McKenna and the 11 members of his crew were heavily bearded, coast guardsmen said, and the ship appeared to have been out a month. Coast guard officials said the schooner was large enough to carry 8,000 cases of liquor and may have been a "mother ship" supplying smaller rum running craft.

Hodges, the white house military aide

BELIEVES IN KILLING GUNMEN OF CHICAGO

CHICAGO, Dec 18—(AP)—One particularly efficient method of ridding Chicago of bandits, Acting Police Commissioner John Alcock says, is to kill them.

Commenting tonight on the slaying of five robbers during the past 24 hours, Alcock said:

"I believe the killing of these bandits, everyone of whom was slain while in the act of attempting holdups, will do more to suppress crime in Chicago than anything that has happened in this city in a long time."

DYNAMITE CAP EXPLOSION INJURED SIX CHILDREN

WINDSOR, Ont., Dec. 18—(AP)—Explosion of a dynamite cap placed by a pupil in the stove in a public school at Cottam, 25 miles from here, caused injury to six children today.

A boy lost the thumb and two fingers of his right hand. Two children were burned severely about the face and three others suffered from minor burns and shock. There were about 30 pupils in the school.

POINCARE PASSES CRISIS AND IS NOW OUT OF DANGER

PARIS, Dec. 18— (AP) —Parisian headlines which yesterday informed the city that Raymond Poincare, was so seriously ill that he might die, announced tonight that the war time president was out of danger. The stateman's physicians also issued encouraging bulletins and it appeared that Poincare had passed the crisis of his illness.

He drew five years in the Portsmouth penitentiary

DISBARMENT, JAIL SENTENCE FOR NEW BRITAIN LAWYER

HARTFORD, Dec. 18.—(AP)—Attorney S. Gerard Casale, 32, of New Britain, was disbarred from the practice of law and sentenced to jail for six months by Judge Allyn L. Brown in the superior court this afternoon after he had been found guilty of embezzling $3,000 last February 17 from Salvatore Biafore, 32 years old New Britain laborer, a client.

As the climax to a plea for mercy by Casale, which affected many of the spectators to such an extent that the court was obliged to recess for an hour, Judge Brown was informed that the former attorney's friends had raised the sum of $2,700 to be returned to Biafore. When Judge Brown passed sentence he indicated that this fact influenced him in imposing a light sentence. The court promised that if full restitution is made he will consider an application for probation after Mr. Casale has served four months. He also granted a stay of execution for two days to allow Mr. Casale to settle his affairs.

Judge Brown hesitated only a moment after the arguments by Josiah H. Peck, counsel for Mr. Casale and by Assistant State's Attorney Donald Gaffney and State's Attorney Hugh M. Alcorn before making known his decision.

ANOTHER "SUCKER" FIRM BROUGHT INTO COURT

NEW YORK, Dec. 18.—(AP)— Another firm which allegedly dealt with "suckers" seemed destined today to stop business.

Samuel Rosenfeld and Jacob Nachmen, owners of all capital stock in the Independent Bancontrol corporation and the major portion of the Bancontrol Underwriters, Inc., were ordered to show cause to the supreme court why the firms should not be enjoined from doing business and receivers appointed for both.

The men are charged with selling $85,000 worth of stock to 600 persons, the money to be used for purchases of meritorious stocks and bonds. Instead of doing this, it is charged, investments were made in speculative stocks on margin.

TENANT OVERCOME IN $15,000 FIRE IN NEW HAVEN

NEW HAVEN, Dec. 18.—(AP)— One man was overcome by smoke today during a fire which extensively damaged a three-story building at 4 Norton street, owned by David Cherman. The damage was estimated at $15,000.

Dave Sokoloff, one of the tenants in the building, was taken to Grace hospital where it was said he would probably be discharged tomorrow.

Stock in a pharmacy and a delicatessen store was badly damaged by water. A quantity of alcohol stored in the cellar of a nearby drug store was removed to avert an explosion when the bottles containing the alcohol were found to be getting hot.

ERUPTION OF VOLCANO THE CAUSE OF 15 DEATHS

BATAVIA, Java, Dec. 18.—(AP)—Fifteen persons died today in the sudden and violent eruption of a volcano at Merapi, Central Java, which had been active for two weeks.

Many surrounding villages were evacuated as a heavy stream of lava rolled down alarmingly and slowly filled the neighboring valleys.

The eruption was accompanied by loud rumblings which are increasing but it was believed that the rain of ashes had subsided.

AETNA LIFE TO ENDEAVOR RETAIN ALL ITS EMPLOYES

HARTFORD, Conn., Dec. 18.—(AP)—Morgan B. Brainard, president of the Aetna Life and its affiliated companies, promised 1,200 insurance employes tonight that every effort would be made to keep their positions intact during the present business depression.

The Aetna companies, which employ 2500 men and women, stated there had been no cut in personnel.

DECREASE IN LOANS TO BROKERS AND DEALERS

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18.— (AP) — Loans to brokers and dealers held by banks for the week ending December 17 were announced today by the federal reserve board as $2,008,000,000, representing a decrease of $91,000,000, as compared with the preceding week and touching a new low record since the board began announcing the loans in 1926.

LAND SOLD BY WINDHAM SELECTMAN CANNOT BE RECLAIMED SAYS COUNCIL

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Dec. 18.—A tract of land adjoining the Windham Center grammar school property which was wrongfully sold by the town selectmen in 1927, cannot be reclaimed by the town, according to an opinion received by the town school committee from Town Counsel John H. King. The fact that the town had accepted money for the property legalized the transaction, according to the counsel, although records reveal that an attempt to have the voters authorize the sale of the land in town meeting was defeated and there is nothing to show that the selectmen were authorized to make the sale. The town school board had no knowledge of the sale until last spring when the board decided to plant trees on the land.

The Windham school board is having to give considerable attention to the possibilities of overcrowded conditions at Windham high school next year. The trend of the school's growth in the past 30 years has been indicated in a chart drawn by Secretary Egbert A. Case. The school now has a registration of 715 and the expected registration for next year is 850, provided accommodations for that number can be found. At a later date the school board is to meet in conference with the directors of the chamber of commerce, business men's association and the taxpayers' association to discuss this matter.

WORON FARM IN MANSFIELD DESTROYED BY FIRE

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Dec. 18.—All of the buildings, house, barn and poultry shed, on the farm owned by Alex Woron in Mansfield City, town of Mansfield, were destroyed by fire Wednesday evening, the total loss aggregating $5,000. Members of the family fled in nightclothes from the house, carrying but few extra articles of clothing with them. Three cows were removed from the barn but the contents, consisting of eight tons of hay, 50 bushels of potatoes, vegetables and some tools, were destroyed, as well as a little stock in the poultry house. Mrs. Woron discovered the blaze as it crept into the upper story after eating through the walls near the chimney. Mr. Woron was in this city at the time. In the family are six children besides the parents, and neighbors were doing what they could today to assist them. It was said today that there was but little insurance carried on the buildings and contents. Neighbors volunteered in numbers when an alarm was spread by telephone but lack of water prevented them from saving any of the structures.

The properties and insurance committees of the town school board have awarded the job of painting the walls, ceiling and doors of the new study room on the third floor of the high school building to T. T. Olsen company of this city. The bid by Olsen was the lowest of four and was for $125. Additional liability insurance on two boilers in local schools has also been decided upon.

A class of four candidates, Herman Davis, Morris Sussman, Haskel Rosen and Daniel Goldin, were initiated at a meeting of Willimantic lodge, No. 1033, I. O. B. B., held in Odd Fellows hall Wednesday night. The degree team comprised President Harry Kaufman, Harry Cohen, Benjamin Eisenberg, Benjamin Prague, A. Beller and Harold Kinstler. Jack Ogushewitz with Master Sydney Beller at the piano, sang the initiatory ode. A New Year's party and installation of officers will be held in the hall Jan. 4, with H. Hullman of Worcester, Mass., a representative of the grand lodge, in charge.

Jack B. Knight of East Greenwich, R. I., driver of a car that was found to contain 12 cases of assorted liquors after a collision on Columbia road, was bound over to the next criminal term of the Tolland county superior court at a session of the Columbia town court Wednesday night. The charges were for the transportation of liquor on two counts, and reckless driving. Bonds of $1,000 were named by Justice of the Peace Mrs. Fannie Dixon Welch and furnished by a friend of the accused, who pleaded not guilty to all three counts.

At the post office a large table has been installed near the stamp window where a clerk will be on duty during the Christmas rush to weigh and affix stamps to packages and first class mail matter. The number of outgoing mail racks has been doubled by Postmaster Frank M. Smith and the delivery truck to handle large packages will be placed into commission Monday.

A group of 66 pupils of the Oaks grammar school were escorted to the normal school building this forenoon by their teachers to view the art exhibit sponsored by the Art club of the school. En route, special attention was given the holiday decorations on the street and in the store windows in the business district. The teachers at the Oaks school are: Mrs. Irene Brauer, grade 1; Miss Dorothy Kendall, grades 2 and 3, and Miss Marion Gallotte, grades 4 and 5.

The services for the Knights of Columbus Boys' band, C. N. C. Wheeler, director, have been offered for the public entertainment to be staged by the Elks at the Capitol theatre Sunday afternoon for the benefit of the Christmas basket fund.

The low prices prevailing on furs has caused a decline in the activities of trappers throughout the county, according to reports received by County Game Warden Thomas Daniels of Plainfield, from the deputy wardens.

Members of the auxiliary to James J. Shea post, No. 19, American Legion, brought toys to the meeting held tonight, adding materially to the number of gifts collected for under-privileged children.

The weekly basketball game and social was held at the Y. M. C. A. tonight with a good attendance. The Peerless orchestra played for dancing.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph W. E. Carpenter and son, Ralph, Jr., left today for East Orange, N. J., where Friday they will attend the funeral of his sister-in-law, Mrs. Mary Cintra Carpenter.

An improvement was reported today in the condition of Mrs. Leo Prue, who has been quite ill at her home on Spruce street.

Mayo Cohen, student at Dartmouth college, Hanover, N. H., arrived this evening to spend the holiday recess with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Cohen.

According to enumeration returns received by Secretary Egbert A. Case of the school committee, there are 3,296 children ranging in ages from 4 to 16 years in the town, a decrease of 18 from the year previous. The state grant of $825 based upon the figure will reimburse the town $7,415.

The medical inspection and services of the school nurse will be extended to the high school in the future. This service has been confined to the grammar schools under town supervision in the past.

Philip Jewett Palmer, 41, who died at Arlington, Mass., Monday, was buried today at Hampton. Mr. Palmer had been assistant principal of the Arlington high school.

COLUMBIA

Christmas festivities for the season opened Wednesday evening with the tree and entertainment given by Columbia grange to the children of the grange. The program was under the direction of Mrs. Lillian Rice, and the tree and trimmings in charge of Mrs. Helen Clarke. Miss Myrtle Collins procured the gifts for the children. The program was as follows: Song, "It Came Upon the Midnight Clear," by the assemblage; selection by a three piece orchestra, A. E. Lyman, Rev. F. C. Williams, Hadley Williams; welcome, Merton Wolff; recitations, Carol Lyman, Jane Lyman, Virginia Collins; song, assembly, "Oh Little Town of Bethlehem;" recitation, Francis LaFleur; orchestra; "Mrs. Santa's Trials," Westcott Rice; "The Christmas Grouch," David Hunt, Lois Clarke, Janice Clarke, Virginia Collins, Carol Lyman and Margaret Badge; orchestra; song by the audience, "Holy Night."

Boxes of candy and oranges were given to all the children and candy and oranges were distributed to the parents and friends present. Each child under 10 received a gift from the tree, which was beautifully decorated and lighted with many colored lights.

Miss Anne Dix left Wednesday for Montclair, N. J., where she will spend the Christmas holidays at the home of her sister, Mrs. Emma Fuller.

Liberal in Pledges.

Columbia raised $2250 in pledges in the recent drive for the new Community hospital in Willimantic. It is expected that this amount will be added to somewhat.

HAMPTON

Saturday afternoon there will be some one at the chapel to receive donations from the townspeople, which will be used to make Christmas a little merrier for some of the unfortunate people in Willimantic and vicinity. Clothing, vegetables, poultry, fresh fruit, canned goods and nuts are among the things which would be gratefully received. This worthy cause merits the attention of every one in town.

At Roast Duck Supper.

Tuesday evening Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Hoffman of Hampton and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Hoffman of South Manchester were entertained at Corner Crest. A roast duck supper was served.

D. T. Phillips was a Meriden visitor Thursday.

PICHIE TO CONDUCT PLANT IN BOROUGH HALL

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Dec. 18—Leo Piche, owner of the Danielson Spring Beverages plant that was swept and ruined by fire in the early hours of yesterday morning, said today that he plans to do business in the old Borough hall on Water street, where the plant was located before removing to the Davis property on Elmville road. Mr. Piche is the owner of the so-called Borough hall building, and it will be necessary to entirely re-equip it, because all of the soda manufacturing machinery in the burned plant was completely ruined. Meanwhile Mr. Piche has made the necessary arrangements to serve his trade through a wide area in this section of eastern Connecticut. Insurance adjustments on the loss caused by the fire are expected to be made before the end of the week.

HEARING ON EXTRADITION OF SILVA TO BE HELD

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Dec. 18—Harry Abrams, alleged leader of the silver bandit gang that held up and robbed a ByRolly truck in the very early morning hours of Oct. 6, at South Killingly, is making a bit of a fuss about taking a ride out of Providence and over the Rhode Island line into this border Connecticut town. If he has his way, he's just about certain to do nothing of the kind.

It may so happen that he will not have his way. Extradition proceedings have been instituted to get him into Connecticut, Governor Trumbull, of this state, having signed the necessary papers in such an action they were today presented by State Officer Royal V. Scranton of the Danielson barracks to Governor Norman Case of Rhode Island, at Providence. It then developed that counsel for Abrams, who is held in default of $10,000 bail in that city, has asked for a hearing, and it was decided that this is to be held in Providence on Monday next at 11 a. m.

This hearing involves the necessity of the appearance there of State Attorney Howard C. Bradford of Putnam. He will present such information as has been assembled by local state officers in the interest of the state of Connecticut to warrant the arrest, holding and effort to get Abrams back into this state. Abrams has a criminal record and only a few months back completed the serving of eight months in the Rhode Island state prison for his part in an attempted bank robbery in Providence.

Not much happened in the town court today, in keeping with the spirit of the season. David Cote charged with having been intoxicated, was fined $10 and costs, and paid. He's the boy that is said to have told state officers that he got the stuff that set him cuckoo off Leo Ouillette, who later was arrested and held under bonds of $500. Ouillette's case is assigned for a hearing Monday, and, it is understood, he will combat Cote's charge against him.

Up at East Killingly "King" George Jacques has been fixing things up for Santa Claus. It may be of interest to his numberless friends in every section of eastern Connecticut that he had a chimney fire at his home the night before last to permit of the big boy with the long white whiskers making a call upon him without too much difficulty on Christmas eve. Well, to make it short and snappy. The chimney fire developed into altogether too much of a success, and it was necessary for members of the household to hurry down to the mill of the Acme Products company, a short distance away, for help and extinguishers. The chimney fire was put out with no special damage to the house. Today "King" George was out hunting Christmas trees and laurel and what not for the Yuletide festivities at his hospitable home. Whether they get to seeing him or not, the host that knows and loves this youngster of upwards of 80 years are chanting a joyous "Merry Christmas" in his honor.

The valuable collection of household goods to be sold at auction in Unitarian hall, Brooklyn Village, Sat., Dec. 20, at 10 a. m., rain or shine, will be on exhibition there Fri., Dec. 19, in the afternoon. Beautiful combination player-piano included. Witter Bros., Auctioneers—Adv.

There are, it appears, hidden cases of poverty in Danielson. Traditions of the past, days of affluence, pride—all figure in keeping the circumstances veiled from those who willingly would help. If those who happen to encounter such cases will report them to charitable organizations here, ways and means will be found to deal with them without publicity, yet adequately.

The Weather Man weakened today, as do most things, eventually, after a burst of super-effort. Though the temperature continued to flutter around the freezing point today, it was so much warmer, by comparison, than the weather of the early part of the week as to appear more or less balmy.

Francis E. Storer, president of the Thames Bank and Trust company at Norwich and a resident here, motored to Lenox today and returned this evening in company with his younger son, N[illegible], a student at a private school in that Massachusetts community, who is to spend the holiday recess with his parents. Francis E. Storer, Jr., a student at Harvard university, also will be with his parents for the holiday.

Employes of the Southern New England Telephone company in the Danielson, Putnam and Moosup divisions assembled here—those of them that were off duty—tonight for their annual Christmas tree party, held in the rooms of the Social club in the Gallup Brothers' building at the corner of Main and Academy streets.

There was a tree, gifts, diversions of various sorts, including dancing. The party was the usual very fine success that is characteristic of gatherings of telephone people.

A contemplative gent who casually remarked this morning that "these are the very shortest days of the year," aroused another man who has not been doing so very much for months past to remark, "They're all short now, no matter how long they are." "Speaking of money, of course?" inquired the gent.

Workers who are to make the equipment installations at the new A. T. and T. building on the West Side—Western Electric company employes—have been assembling here this week. The work that will take seven months to complete is underway.

There's to be a host of Christmas eve parties and dances and what not in the way of special observance on Christmas eve in Danielson. Also, one hears of early planning for New Year's eve parties.

Friday of this week marks the end of the first term of the school year in Killingly, and after the sessions of the day the holiday vacation begins, extending to Dec. 29. And immediately after the beginning of the next term will come a brief break for the observance of New Year's.

Thomas Danielson of Vancouver, B. C., is visiting here with his mother, Mrs. George E. Danielson of South Main street.

Friday evening members of Mary A. Livermore Tent, Daughters of Union Veterans of the Civil war, are to meet at G. A. R. hall to elect their officers for the ensuing year.

THEFT DETECTING SOCIETY OF KILLINGLY GOES OUT OF BUSINESS

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Dec. 18—There are no more thieves in Killingly! Just a moment, please—not so much protest! All that is intended is to relate that the Killingly Theft Detecting society has called it a day, after some 80 odd years, and has gone out of business.

This morning John E. LaBelle, a selectman of the town and an officer of the aforesaid society, and Bernard Simmons, who also hails from the Ballouville section of the town, came here to close up the financial affairs of the ancient institution.

Mr. LaBelle had a check for $663 and some odd cents, the writer of this chronicle being too overcome to note just how many, and it was about to be deposited in a bank, later to be split 47 ways for the 47 members of the society to do with as they see fit. That isn't the reason why it has been decided to dissolve the society, however. Nevertheless, if you happen to be one of the 47 persons in this town who rates a member of this society you have a check of $14 and some odd cents, and a newspaperman is not supposed to go into such great financial details, anyway, coming to you as what may be rated a Christmas gift.

Mr. LaBelle appeared to sort of cherish the battered account books of the now defunct society as he and Mr. Simmons did what business they had to do in the name of the organization at the bank. These record books are to be placed on file at the town hall building, Mr. LaBelle said, and anyone who may be interested in them may have access to them [illegible] during business hours.

The passing of the Killingly Theft Detecting society is equivalent to the death of a tradition. It had a history; there was a sort of glamour about it. In the old days it was an important factor in law enforcement here, especially as pertaining to thieving. It so happens that these are other days with other ways, not all of them for the best. Yet, these modern times have brought to this town a squad of highly efficient state police officers, especially trained and schooled in the never-ending work of hunting down criminals. Their's is the now specialized job of doing what the members of the Killingly Theft Detecting society used to do, and the officers are doing it so well that the society members have decided to step out of the picture.

JEWETT CITY

CHRISTMAS PARTY AND TREE FOR CONG. SOCIETY

The Ladies' society of the Congregational church was entertained in the church parlor with Mrs. Harold G. Tomlinson hostess, Wednesday evening. Mrs. Abraham Zegeer, the president, presided at the business meeting. One hundred dollars was voted toward the expenses of the church, five dollars to the Ministerial Relief fund and five dollars to the Salvation Army. Mrs. Andrew McNicol, Mrs. E. A. Faust and Mrs. N. B. Parkhurst were appointed a nominating committee. Mrs. W. A. Richardson was appointed to take charge of the holiday church calendars next year. The president and officers are to make arrangements for the annual parish gathering. Games which followed brought prizes to Mrs. C. D. Wolf, Mrs. L. G. Buckingham and Mrs. E. H. Hiscox. A Christmas tree held gifts from each one present to another. Twenty-four were present to enjoy the party, refreshments of ham rarebit, hot rolls, pickles, ice box cookies, brownies, fruit cookies, date bars, ginger snaps, tea and coffee being served. Mrs. Tomlinson was assisted by Mrs. Zegeer, Mrs. G. F. Goodenough and Mrs. Andrew McNicol.

Community Tree

Jewett City has the most beautiful Christmas tree to be seen in any community, now lighted each night on David Hale Fanning park. The splendid Norwegian spruce live tree is thirty-feet high this year, and is covered with two hundred and ten vari-colored lights extending down its sides and around the tip. A magnificent star of sixty bulbs shines splendidly from the very peak of the brilliantly colored display. This star was made by Charles Spicer for Dorcas circle of the King's Daughters fifteen years ago, for a Christmas community celebration. This year, Edward Murphy, who is in charge of the street department, repainted the star in gold and the entire effect is wonderfully resplendent. The borough electricians assisted by Mr. Murphy wired the tree this year.

The entire amount of the Red Cross roll call this year is $665.80 not $641.80 as stated in Thursday's paper.

Winners At Cards

The Franco-American Foresters' whist, held Wednesday evening, was well attended. Prizes went to Mrs. William Purdon, Irene Nadeau, Mrs. Paul Couture, Senai Valcie, Emile Barthelette and Paul Couture. The committee was Mrs. Brisson, Mrs. Aglae Sarazin, Mrs. Russi and J. J. Cadieux.

A pruning demonstration is to be given at the Simon Brewster farm Saturday morning at ten o'clock. Howard A. Rollins, fruit specialist from the extension service, is to be present.

Telisphore Raymond is ill at his home on Anthony street.

A pre-nuptial shower was given Wednesday night to Miss Isabelle Cote, who is to be married Dec. 29 to Albert Lachapelle. She received a large number of gifts. Sandwiches, cake, soda, candy and coffee were served by Mrs. Cote and Mrs. Chabot. Others who attended were: Mrs. Sarazin, Mrs. Cora St. John, Mrs. Chenette, Mrs. Dumont, Mrs. Suprenant, Mrs. Lachapelle, Mrs. Gaudette, Mrs. Bernier, Mrs. Lafleche, Mrs. Deroche, Mrs. Charles Maynard. Misses Noela Tessier, Eva Brisson, Aldea Chretien, Cecile Dumont, Anita Laperle, Mary Poulin, Dona Fecteau, Aldila and Jeanne Suprenant, Marie Rioux, Mary Patroski, Angile Suprenant, Maude Tetreault, Jacqueline Deroche, Sarah Romaine, Dorothy Tessier, Marie Peltier, Lillian Lachapelle, Yvonne Richards.

LAUREL GLEN

John Geer and Orrin Harris captured another large coon last Thursday evening.

Ursula Main, of Boston and Cape Cod, has been the guest of her brother, William Main.

Mr and Mrs. Emile Gladfelder entertained the Pendleton Hill church choir Saturday evening.

Many local people have been in Westerly this week doing Christmas shopping.

Mr. and Mrs. John Geer entertained at a noon dinner Tuesday evening at their home. Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. Huntington Lathrop of Lebanon, Mr. and Mrs. Orrin Harris of Ashaway, Horace Lewis and son, Harry, of Boon Bridge, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Thompson, Charles Cottrell, Henry Johnson of Pendleton Hill and Mr. and Mrs. Emil Gladfelder.

PUTNAM

CORONER CLOSES INVESTIGATION INTO GOODRIDGE DEATH

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Dec. 18—Investigation of circumstances surrounding the death Wednesday of Dr. F. B. Goodridge, wealthy New York and Pomfret surgeon and physician, terminated early today with the announcement by Coroner Arthur G. Bill of Danielson, that no evidence was found to substantiate the early assumption that the well known medical authority and world traveller had been a victim of foul play. Lieut. Ross V. Urquhart, commandant at Danielson barracks of state police who personally assumed charge of the investigation upon the discovery of the body, said this morning that the case remains closed as far as his department is concerned. The conclusion of the coroner and police that Dr. Goodridge's tragic death was due to accident has eliminated the necessity of an autopsy being performed.

Dr Goodridge was born in New York, the son of Frederic Grosvenor and Mathilda Grosvenor. With his medical training completed, Dr. Goodridge devoted himself to lecturing on the subject of medicine and for a time was connected with Columbia. He never practiced and always remained aloof from hospitals. After coming to Pomfret Centre, he developed a love for the country, a fondness in which remained dear to him until his tragical death yesterday.

It is well to mention that Dr. Goodridge allied himself with members of Putnam civic organizations when efforts were made to secure the million dollar United States veterans hospital for this city. A site in a town in the western part of Connecticut was recently selected for the institution.

Although not a demonstrative type of man, Dr. Goodridge was deeply interested in projects contributing to the progress of Pomfret and northeastern Windham county at large, and his death will be a great loss to the community. Funeral arrangements as yet have not been completed.

PLEA OF NON-SUIT IS SUSTAINED IN POTVIN CASE

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Dec. 18—After sustaining a motion of the defense for non-suit in the case of George Potvin of Putnam, vs. the local Society of St John Baptist and returning judgment for the defendant in the $3,700 damage suit of Gregory Swelki vs. Byron M. Lewis of Killingly, Judge Newell Jennings of Bristol at noon today indefinitely adjourned the December term of superior court.

The Potvin action was the final suit to be presented. This case which has been pending for several months, is the outgrowth of Potvin's forceful eviction from the French fraternal organization after the Rhode Island forum of the order refused to sustain his action in scratching the name of Alfred Bardier off the membership roster, when Bardier was convicted in superior court of an alleged constitutional violation, namely, the 18th amendment. Potvin at the time was secretary of the society and among the duties of his office was the receiving of dues. Bardier alleged that after his court appearance, Potvin refused to accept his lodge obligations.

A superior court injunction issued by Judge Edward M. Yeomans, caused Potvin after considerable hesitation, to release the vital records of his office to the newly appointed secretary. He was later removed from membership in the organization, which ultimately became grounds for his suit in which he sought to recover damages of $3,000.

In court this morning Potvin took the stand and unfolded the series of events leading to the outgrowth of the civil action against the fraternal order. Bardier, the actual bone of contention was among the defense witnesses. When counsel for the plaintiff rested, Attorney Eugene Jalbert, brilliant Woonsocket lawyer, who joined Attorney Louis Woisard of Danielson in preparing the defense, entered the motion for a non suiting of the case which was immediately sustained by the presiding magistrate.

Editor Arthur S. Macdonald of the "Patriot," a local weekly, is in receipt of a letter from the State Humane society thanking him for his effort in raising a fund of $20, in order to provide a humane death for a faithful old horse that had become feeble and no longer useful to man. Through his newspaper, Editor Macdonald appealed to readers and within a day had received more than enough contributions to pay for the services of an executioner and for a plot of land in which to inter the remains of old Dobbin.

The spirit of Christmas will be furthered in Putnam this year through the efforts of Principal E. L. Robinson and the student council at Putnam high school who are arranging for student groups to go about the city on Sunday evening, December 21st, singing Christmas carols.

Putnam public school pupils are making donations of food, clothing and money to the Christmas relief committee of the local Salvation Army post.

The Rotary club's community Christmas tree erected yesterday morning in the now rarely used city water trough in Union square was illuminated for the first time Wednesday night. The tree is hemlock, is well shaped and in its holiday attire lends a pleasing atmosphere to the business center.

ALIEN DEPORTATION

In connection with the advocacy of the idea of deporting gangsters and gunmen there are those who are offering the advice to "first catch your rabbit."

They are also pointing out that among those who go commonly by the name of gangsters there are millionaires with expensive offices and high-priced automobiles, who do not dodge the police, who do not live in dugouts, but who carry on their business quite the same as those in other lines.

Such recommendations as have been made concerning the deportation of gunmen and gangsters have made particular reference to the alien gangster or the alien gunman. However much it might be desired that the gunman or gangster who is a citizen of this country be deported it is fully realized that deportation encounters increased difficulties when it comes to dealing with other than aliens, especially if they have been in this country and have been naturalized for a number of years.

Getting rid of the alien gangster might not accomplish all that is necessary in giving the public the protection it needs, but it would help. It would remove many who are showing their unworthiness to be here. It would offer a welcome relief from the criminal activities in which they engage and it would remove an element that means only trouble in the future. It would also serve effective notice upon that class that they could expect no consideration if they elect to become gangsters.

As it is now, such a record as they establish in that direction is sufficient to keep them from becoming naturalized citizens, but what care they as to citizenship as long as they are permitted to remain here and carry on their criminal career!

It is unfortunate that it hasn't been possible to make greater progress in the work of deportation, even as it is that so many are admitted to the country who so quickly prove their unworthiness to enter. If more of the undesirables were removed through deportation it might serve as direct notification to others that criminal activity is really frowned upon in this country instead of being encouraged. It is time that those who are so defiant of our laws, so liberal in the interpretation of the freedom of this country and so ungrateful for the advantages offered were speeded on their way back where they came from. There is no reason for tolerating the alien trouble-maker and gangster.

ACTION OR NO RECESS

If Christmas was not just ahead there is no telling how long congress would back and fill before disposing of the measures which the president has asked be enacted in order to relieve emergency conditions.

There is a common desire on the part of those who are doing all they possibly can to put obstacles in the way of progress to have a Christmas recess, quite the same as among those seeking speedy action.

If action is not taken upon the bills calling for appropriations to relieve the unemployment situation and the drought conditions it will mean a delay of at least two weeks if congress shuts up and goes home until early in January. Such a [illegible] in view of no action would be unjustified. It would be like serving notice to the country that the emergency does not exist, that unemployment can wait, that the farmers are not in such a dire predicament as has been represented. It will give added proof that no matter what the conditions are congress is determined to have its political fling.

On the other hand, such a revelation isn't needed. The country has been experiencing such tactics for a considerable time. It cannot fail to have rather fixed convictions concerning the horseplay that has featured the present congress, and it cannot fail to dawn upon members of congress that it rests with them as to what kind of a picture they will present to the country concerning these measures and their need.

Thus when we learn that there is a disposition to curtail the Christmas recess, to delay the start until the two relief bills are acted upon, there is evidence of a recognition of the need of doing something besides obstruct. Plans had been made for the adjournment of congress for the holidays this week, but congress is not ready for it, and congress understands that it would be grossly unwise for its members to go home and face their constituents, even on a holiday, with the acknowledgment that they have preferred to play the game of politics rather than meet unusual conditions which call for early action. If they cannot get down to constructive business there ought to be no recess.

MACHINE VOTING

It has been a long time since election day but Rhode Island hasn't as yet finished checking up. The state returning board is going over the returns from the wardens and voting district clerks for the purpose of discovering errors and learning the correct vote for the various candidates.

It is not engaged in this work because of any fixed belief that there is going to be any upset in the result. It is complying with its duties which have been found necessary because of past experiences. There is not a session when it does not discover where errors have been made. Some of them are slight. Others are more glaring. It is the expected outcome where the counting is done by going over the respective ballots and tabulating them that errors will creep in, but it likewise becomes apparent that in case of close results those very errors may be sufficient to completely change the announced results. It has done so repeatedly where contests have developed in various districts or states.

This week the Rhode Island returning board has been considering a bundle of 140 votes which had been marked defective. After the board completed its scrutiny they declared that but 50 of them were defective. The other 90 were good and should have been counted. In the final round they will appear, but the board shows by its work not only how easy it is to make errors in counting but how equally easy it is to deprive voters of their franchise. The effort of the election officials to interpret the vote of the electors in compliance with the law was 90 out of the way. For good ballots to be declared defective to that extent is enough to swing many an election.

Conditions like this have made the returning board necessary, and it is important that such a board should conduct a checkup regardless of the voting and counting system used, but the repeated disclosures of errors and wrong judgment cannot fail to convince that all this can and should be eliminated through the introduction of voting machines which count correctly, register the vote as the voter casts it and produces the result soon after the voting is completed. Whether it is a contest or just the ordinary and necessary checkup it reveals the preference for the machine method of voting.

CHRISTMAS SEALS

While it may not seem to the purchaser of Christmas seals or the user of them that he is doing very much for the swelling of the funds that are needed and used in the fighting of tuberculosis, it is to be remembered that this method gives everyone a chance to help and that it is through the general cooperation in such a movement that commendable results are obtained.

It is an effort that has resulted in great good. It has been the means of giving aid to those who are sick, to prevent others from contracting the disease and to make general health conditions better. Looked at from any direction, whether it is the good that can be done or that which has already been accomplished, the cause is one that inspires support from everyone who is in a position to offer his mite.

The more that is obtained the greater the service that can be rendered. The need exists for all that can be secured. The field is a large one and the value of striking at tuberculosis during the early stages and in giving advice for the prevention of the plague cannot be over-estimated. In spite of all that has been done, there is still need of continuing the activity and increasing it.

The work is bound to be limited by the provisions which are made through the purchase of Christmas seals. It is a most important service in addition to the work of the state sanatoriums. In fact, it has become so dovetailed into it that they should both go along together. There is always an opportunity for those who can purchase substantial amounts and those who must limit their investments in the seals, but where there is a general participation favorable results invariably follow.

Who is there who isn't interested in the work accomplished from funds obtained through the sale of Christmas seals, and who is there who isn't desirous of increasing the fund?

NATURAL BEAUTY

While extensive preparations are being made for the observance of the Washington bicentennial celebration in 1932, and the plans include the construction of a memorial highway bordered by trees contributed by the several states, attention has been directed to the manner in which the Baltimore pike is defaced by billboards. It was possible to refer to it in general terms and to point out the need of removing the offending boards before the many get started along the pike on their way to the celebration, but someone decided to make a count. The result made it possible to set forth that on that road of less than 28 miles there are 1,099 billboards.

This represents a condition which has brought remedial action in many states. It discloses the need of regulation and it is not surprising that it has set on foot a movement for their removal, which can be expected to get results. Furthermore, it will prompt a similar survey to be made of other main avenues leading to the national capital for the purpose of getting rid of objectionable signboards.

All those who go to the Washington celebration will not go by automobile. They will not use the important highways but will travel by rail yet there is even now heavy traffic on such main roads and the need for restoring the beauty of the countryside cannot fail to appeal to those who now find it difficult to see them.

Nothing has brought about a realization of the detrimental effects of signboards like the increase in motor vehicle traffic. It is, of course, the greater traffic that has encouraged the billboards, but with the opposition to them the real purpose loses its effect. [illegible] those who had used the [illegible] yield to [illegible] opinion and remove them without legislative requirement it indicates their understanding of and reaction to the public attitude.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Are you listed among those who have completed their Christmas shopping?

The man on the corner says: What has become of that society for the prevention of useless giving?

There are occasional reminders that if you are going to drive on icy highways you must go prepared for it.

Those who are looking for opportunities to spread Christmas cheer this year are not forced to look in vain.

With Church street opened to traffic in both directions once more, it is not expected that motorists will make it in both directions at the same time.

BIMBO

"Verne insists on taking me to that club dance of his when he knows I don't care for his crowd," Vivian sighed, as she artfully fashioned her golden tresses in an attractive mode.

Jeanette eyed her admiringly between half-closed lids.

"I'd be thrilled to death," she said. "You know that's really an exclusive fraternity.

Vivian shrugged indifferently.

"You may think so," she said. "But they're too much the pink-tea sort for me."

She slipped into an exquisite evening gown Jeanette shook her head in resignation. Vivian was a beautiful creature, but she certainly had strange ideas.

"Well, Jean'll have to toddle on," she said, rising. "I hope you have a jolly time."

"By, dear. Don't worry. I'll make the best of it. One has to accommodate one's brother occasionally, you know."

She resumed her dressing as her friend left.

The country club ballroom was arrayed in tropical settings. Tall, waving palms and sensuous south-sea atmosphere. The dancers glided along dreamily under the spell of a crooning dance orchestra.

Verne escorted his sister very tenderly to the dance floor. He beamed proudly. Vivian was stunning.

Various members of the fraternity called to him as he passed, and gazed longingly at Vivian. Verne nodded and grinned back at them, but refused to give them a break.

As the evening wore on Vivian couldn't say she was enjoying herself. She had danced with her brother alone, remaining aloof from the others. However, there was one youth who strangely aroused her interest. He was tall and good looking, more rugged than the other fellows.

"Who's that boy standing over there?" she whispered to her brother between dances.

Verne raised his brows and glanced in the direction indicated.

"Oh," he grinned, "that's Bill Beckler. He's Ray Hammond's cousin. He hails from Texas. Been studying engineering at Yale. Like an introduction?"

"No," emphatically. "I was just musing."

But Vivian was conscious of a feeling that the young man was gazing at her. And that irked her. Their glances met, and he looked away guiltily. Vivian couldn't restrain a smile. He was so modest. But before her smile could fade Bill peeked again and saw it. That encouraged him.

During the remainder of the evening he followed close beside her, in hopes that he could catch another glimpse of her smile. But he was disappointed. Vivian became provoked by his constant presence and refused to smile.

She danced with Verne. But wherever she turned, Bill would appear, awkwardly, admiringly, like a faithful Airedale.

"Verne," Vivian whispered during the intermission, "that fellow Bill has been following me around and I'm mad enough to bust. I'm going to ditch him once and for all."

"Hey, wait," Verne called. "If he's offending you I'll—"

"Never mind, I'll take care of him."

The dancers circled around the orchestra stand where an entertainer was performing. Vivian and Verne stood on the outskirts of the circle vainly looking over heads. Bill was close beside Vivian, timidly as usual.

"Verne," she said, loudly, "isn't that a cute little dollie?"

She pointed to the very top of the tallest palm around them. A fuzzy little doll was barely visible among the fronds.

"Would you like to have it?" Verne asked, sensing her plan.

"I'd love to," [illegible]

"Gee, I wish I could climb."

Bill couldn't help but hear. This [illegible] the opportunity he had been waiting for.

"May I assist?" he blurted. "I can climb."

Vivian gave a slight sign and he started up the tree, monkey fashion. In an instant Vivian was gone. She remained on the veranda until Verne came out for her.

"Viv," he said pleadingly, "I just met the most adorable girl and she's unescorted. I want to take her home. Do you mind if I put you in a cab?"

He knew his sister was provoked, but he was desperate. However, Vivian consented. She was waiting in the lobby for him to bring her wrap when Bill spied her. He came over flushed and perspiring.

"I—I've been looking all over for you," he said. "This—this little bimbo, you know."

Vivian laughed. They looked awfully funny. Both Bill and his bimbo.

"Thank you so much," she said, taking the doll; her exasperation having suddenly fled. "But I'm afraid Bimbo will have to be escorted home."

"May I have the honor?"

"You may!"—Chicago News.

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18—The Congressional Record with its wide and diverse circulation undoubtedly is a boon to most senators and representatives.

Without its pages as a place of printed refuge, some of their finest efforts at oratory never would get attention. It is only minor fractions of what they say that get to the news.

Yet there are times when individual members must wish the Record were not printed, or at least wish that the system of indexing it were less efficient.

If only the utterances of a few years ago could remain forever embalmed, they probably would be glad.

Take the case of Wood of Indiana. He had a hard enough time back in November. He just squeezed through to re-election to the next congress. Several times during the vote-counting, republican committee members in Washington gave him up as a bad job.

It's In The Record

Then congress reassembled with appropriation bills to deal with and Wood is chairman of the all-powerful appropriations committee of the house where all such bills originate.

That put his head up to shoot at. And Blanton of Texas promptly seized the opportunity thus presented.

When the first money bill, the post office-treasury measure, came up, the Texan desired to know why Wood did not rise and explain it instead of arranging to have the last rather than the first word of the debate.

Wood said it was to save time, and to answer criticisms rather than invite them.

Blanton noted that presently Wood would bring in a measure for the $100,000,000 or so asked by President Hoover as a cabinet committee administered emergency unemployment relief fund.

Then he dug into the faithful Record to see just what Wood had had to say about a similar proposal back in 1919.

Reads 1919 Speech

That also was a Hoover proposal. Hoover was not president then, but Wood himself, in opposing it said:

"It is Mr. Hoover who is asking for this appropriation."

Blanton fairly purred as he read on from that 1919 Wood speech.

"Now, then, gentlemen may differ with me with reference to Mr. Hoover," Blanton quoted Wood from the Record. "I think that Mr. Hoover is the most expensive luxury that was ever fastened upon this country. I think he will continue to be the most expensive luxury with which we have to do if we still continue to give him unlimited power."

And what could Wood answer to that, Wood—in 1930, now a Hoover stalwart, as Blanton took care to point out?

Nothing; and that is just what he did say. But it can easily be imagined that Wood thought some unpleasant thoughts about the Record.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORY

Stumpy Has Another Fright

Run first and then investigate,
Would you be master of your fate.
—Jerry Muskrat.

That is one of the first laws of life which the little people of the green forest and the green meadows have to learn when they are starting out to make places for themselves in the great world. Those who forget it or fail to heed it seldom get far. Of course there are times when it is wisest to sit still, perfectly still. But as a rule when a thing is unknown it is wisest to run first and find out about it later.

Stumpy, the three-legged young muskrat, had received a real shock when what he had thought was a little lump of snow had come to life and pounced on a hapless mouse who had thought the same thing. It was, as you know, Shadow the Weasel in his winter coat. From then on Stumpy had been suspicious of every little lump and mound of snow he saw. Always he looked for a black spot which might be the tip of Shadow's tail. However, he didn't see Shadow again, for that was not Shadow's regular hunting-ground. Still Stumpy didn't forget to watch for and be suspicious of every little lump of snow.

Now, near the tussock on which Stumpy delighted to sit close by the open water of the Laughing brook were several small stumps and logs covered with snow. Of course each made a little white mound. These mounds were many times bigger than the little lump Shadow had made as he sat motionless, so Stumpy never was suspicious of these. They were too big. He would just glance at them to make sure no one was hiding behind one of them and then give them no further heed.

So it was that he didn't notice that one morning as he climbed out on that tussock one of these mounds was nearer than ever before. He didn't notice that on it were three little black spots. He just didn't notice it at all. He had been sitting on his tussock some time when a voice said:

"It is nice weather, isn't it?"

Stumpy looked all around but saw no one. He couldn't believe that he really had heard that voice. His ears must have played a trick on him. So Stumpy said nothing.

"You are not very social this morning," said the voice. "How is your father, my old friend, Jerry Muskrat?"

That voice sounded very near. Stumpy began to feel most uneasy. He was tempted to dive into the Laughing brook. Curiosity got the better of him, however. "I suppose you are talking to me," said he, "but I don't know who you are or where you are."

"I'm surprised that you don't know an old friend when you see him," replied the voice.

"But I don't see you. That is the trouble—I don't see you," replied Stumpy.

"How can you expect me to believe that when you are looking straight at me?" retorted the voice.

Now at the moment Stumpy happened to be looking at one of those little mounds. In fact it was the one nearest to him, the one with little black spots on top of it and nearer one end than the other. He didn't notice those spots until suddenly they moved. The instant they moved Stumpy saw them and made a wild dive for the safety of the water. You see, he remembered the black tip of Shadow the Weasel's tail. He didn't stop to think that this time there were three black spots. Even if he had he might have thought that Shadow had some members of his family with him. Anyway, he would make sure of safety first and look into the matter later.

He came up and looked back where he had seen those moving black spots. Even as he did so the whole white mound moved. It actually hopped. Yes, sir, it hopped right over to the very tussock Stumpy had just left. The black spots had become four now. Two were eyes and two were the tips of otherwise long white ears. Stumpy stared. "Who are you?" he ventured at last.

"Jumper the Hare," was the reply with a chuckle.

"You can't be," retorted Stumpy promptly. "Jumper the Hare wears a brown coat."

"Not in winter after snow comes," was the prompt reply.

NEW BOOKS

The Catholic Church in Connecticut. By Rev. Dr. Thomas S. Duggan. Cloth, illustrated, 622 pages. Published by the States History Co., New York. Price $3.50.

Back in 1651 Father Druillettes of the Society of Jesus was the first Catholic priest to come into Connecticut, appearing at that time as the representative of the governor of New France to plead the cause of the Abenaki Indians who were menaced by the Iroquois and get Governor Winthrop to bring the matter before the general assembly. It is supposed that he was the first to celebrate mass in this state.

This volume is devoted in the first part to the missionary period of the church and in the second to the parochial period and commemorates the 100th anniversary of the first Catholic pastorate in Connecticut, that of Rev. Bernard Cavanaugh at Hartford in 1829. He was followed by Father Fitton, whose parish was the state and whose occasional visits to Norwich led to the establishment of the first missionary church in this city by him in 1844, although he had been transferred to Worcester in 1836. Other missionary priests followed until 1851 when St. Mary's received its first pastor, Rev. Daniel Kelly.

While Hartford had the first Catholic church, the second was erected at New Haven and the third at Bridgeport. The volume devotes interesting pages to the struggles of the early days, the devotion of the people and the growth of the membership. It is shown how the churches and other institutions have grown in the eight counties until there are today 245 churches, 51 missions, 546 priests, 102 schools, 2197 religious vocationists, 48,293 children in schools, eight academies, three orphanages, 19 institutions of learning, 28 miscellaneous institutions including four hospitals and a population of 603,467. Space is given the priests who have served the many churches and reference is made to the outstanding accomplishments of the pastors, the vicar general through his long service being in a position to have personal knowledge of a very large number of them.

Early history in the various parishes is presented and reference is made to the coming of the Acadians and the manner in which they were treated. The author acknowledges that many volumes would have been needed to tell in detail the whole story of the development of the Catholic church in this state but he presents the important events and the work of the bishops and clergy with full recognition of the services rendered by the laity even though it was impossible to enter upon that story.

Reference is made to the origin and founding of the Knights of Columbus and a tribute is paid Rev. M. J. McGivney, the founder.

The volume, which is well printed and attractively bound, is illustrated with a frontispiece of Bishop Nilan and contains pictures of cathedrals, churches and priests. The bishops of the diocese have been: William Tyler, 1844-49; Bernard O'Reilly, 1850-56; Francis P. McFarland, 1858-74; Thomas Galberry, 1876-78; Lawrence McMahon, 1878-93; Michael Tierney, 1893-1908; John J. Nilan, 1910.

Sick in Bed With Common Stocks. By R. W. McNeel. Cloth, [illegible] pages. Published by McNeel Institute of Investment Education, Inc. Price $1.

Mr. McNeel's book shows conclusively that in order to be successful in long term common stock investment, something more than the soundness of the principle is involved.

As pointed out in the author's preface, "When a nation of investors embarks on an investment program for profit and it turns out disastrously, either the principles behind the program are wrong, or those who try to apply those principles lack the knowledge, ability, or stamina to apply them correctly."

The point to the book is that while success in common stock investment may be assured statistically, it requires an ability to hold stocks through good times and bad; to hold stocks through panics, wars, political agitations, dividend reductions, trusting to the buoyancy of the United States and the ability of her business leaders to bring industries through in the long run.

The Treatment of Tuberculosis With Umckaloabo. By Dr. Adrien Sechehaye. Cloth, 162 pages. Published by B. Fraser & Co, London. Price five shillings.

This volume deals with the Stevens method of treating tuberculosis through the use of the bark of the root of a plant obtained in Africa. The author relates the difficulties encountered by C. H. Stevens in the use of this remedy and presents the opposition that he has encountered from doctors and courts but sets forth the claims that are made regarding the efficacy of the treatment in surgical and pulmonary forms of tuberculosis with certain exceptions. It is more than 25 years since Mr. Stevens proposed to the medical body the use of this remedy.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

The Latest Decision

Mr. Editor: Today's issue carries a characteristic editorial under the above caption which in passing on Federal Judge Clark's decision says:

"It is a new question that has been raised in this case. It is admitted that the traditional method of ratification is for legislatures to act and it is not improbable that the casual readers of the Constitution will have difficulty in seeing where one method of ratification is demanded over the other."

I spent the entire evening of the 13th pondering on Article V and reached the conclusion that, constitutional lawyers to the contrary, Judge Clark may be right.

When taken apart this article certainly provides two methods for the proposal of amendments:

1. By the named proportion of the congress.

2. By constitutional convention upon application by a named proportion of the legislatures of the several states.

In both methods the named proportion is the same. Was there a reason in the minds of the framers for these two different methods?

On this question there will or would be a wide divergence of opinion. Apparently Judge Clark feels, and I believe that it is a growing conviction with many, that something more than legal precedent should be applied in construing constitutional and legislature enactments. In other words we have too much precedent and too little new thinking, call it philosophy if you will, on important matters of this kind. Read, if you will, the philosophy of Daniel Webster in his reply to Hayne wherein he expressed his conception of the Constitution.

Two methods for proposal are clearly indicated by alternative clauses. Careful reading of the article does not to my mind lead one to the conclusion that the two modes of ratification can be used with either or both methods of proposal. In other words does it not seem reasonably possible at least that the two modes of ratification were intended to follow in natural sequence the two methods of proposal and that it would be up to congress to select the mode of ratification in accordance with the manner of proposal? If congress proposes ratification to be by the named proportion of the legislatures of the several states and if the convention method is urged by the legislatures of the several states the convention mode of ratification must be used. Another question might also be raised. Can congress, under Article V, propose an amendment by convention other than to ask the several states to make the proposal of amendment by the convention method?

Now (to wind this up quickly) can we assume, and I think we can, that congress can only propose amendments within the scope of its expressed powers and that anything beyond this must come from the sovereign people by the convention method.

Eating To Live

By R. J. DeMotto, M. D., Pullman, Ill.

(From Gorgas Memorial Institute)

"Do I live to eat or eat to live?"

Every man and woman should ask himself or herself this question. Our ability to work and to enjoy life depends largely on how we are able to answer this question.

The human body is a wonderful internal combustion chemical engine. This engine produces heat, electricity, mechanical and other forms of energy, at the same time repairing itself as wear and tear damages its various parts. To do this efficiently it must have proper fuel and repair materials. The efficiency of the automobile engine depends a great deal on good gasoline, oil and air supplied in proper amounts and proportions. In like manner good health and bodily vigor depend on the proper amount of good food of the proper kinds in the right proportions, properly eaten.

The eating habits of men and women are the cause of untold loss in earning capacity. A large percentage of industrial sickness insurance is paid out to men and women because they have eaten unwisely. People eat for the pleasure of eating and eat only those foods which give them pleasure in the eating, rather than the food best for health and efficiency.

"Eating to live" is really quite simple. It has been found that the human body requires a variety of foods which contain proteins, carbohydrates, and fats as their chief materials. It also needs certain mineral salts, certain substances of unknown chemical composition called vitamins, water and air.

A normal diet for this chemical engine of ours consists of a goodly variety of both animal and plant foods with the proportion of proteins about one-fifth, fats about one-fifth and carbohydrates about three-fifths of the fuel supplying part. We should eat a certain amount of coarse uncooked food daily. Fruits and vegetables should have their place in every meal.

One of the worst habits from the standpoint of health is over-eating. People who "live to eat" are the sinners in this respect. Probably two-thirds of our people eat too much, throwing an extra amount of work on the body to handle the surplus. These people are "digging their graves with their teeth." They are also cutting down their ability to work and to enjoy life, just as the automobile engine is handicapped when the carburettor is adjusted to feed the gasoline too fast.

One should not eat oftener than three times a day. It requires about three hours for the stomach to dispose of a meal and pass it on to the intestines. The digestive organs should have some rest each day. Eating between meals and late at night is a pleasure paid for by lack of efficiency, often by sickness.

East slowly. Both body and mind should be at rest during meals. Nervous worry and hurrying through meals is often the sole cause of digestive troubles. There should be a period of rest following each meal.

To sum up, eat a goodly variety of both animal and plant foods with the animal foods in the small minority. Some coarse foods and some uncooked foods should be eaten daily. Fruits and vegetables are especially valuable.

Eat enough for health, not more.

Eat two or three times daily, not more.

Eat slowly with body and mind at rest.

If everyone would follow this simple advice the doctors would have much less work to do, and health, efficiency and happiness would be increased.

IN THE DAY'S NEWS

STRANGE SPORTS IN OTHER LANDS

"Foreign visitors who are amazed at Tom Thumb golf and backgammon may come from lands which have pastimes equally strange and puzzling to the average American," says a bulletin from the Washington D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic society.

"Cubans, for instance, have their high-speed jai alai (pronounced high-a-lie). If any sport has a right to the title 'fastest in the world' this whirlwind transplanted Spanish game is in the forefront.

"Jai alai is played on a long indoor court with one side wall and two end walls. The players occupy the court space in common, batting the ball against the wall until a player on one side fails to return it when the opposing team scores a point. Instead of rackets the players use basket-woven bats, crescent-shaped, with one end laced to the hand.

"A team of two players must protect an area of 7,510 square feet. If the rebound is close to the wall of the court the cesta, or crescent-shaped bat, must be manipulated with the utmost agility and skill. Cuban crowds go into a frenzy watching its thrills.

"When Scotland's golf greens and fairways are covered with ice and snow a popular sport is curling, a game in which players glide large, rounded stones down a smooth stretch of ice toward a mark called a tee. Four players each with two stones, form a side. If the curler cannot reach the tee he tries to leave his stone so as to block an opposing player. Like quoits the player's shot nearest to the tree scores a point.

"Sometimes the stones have handles, fitted into either of the two flat sides each curling stone must have. One of these flat surfaces is for keen, fast ice, and the other for ice that is soft, or 'baugh.' Iron 'stones' are used by Scotsmen who have brought their game to Canada and the northern part of this country from being more adapted to play in the intense cold.

"In the Philippine Islands the Bontoc Igorots have a remarkable pastime which consists in slapping the thigh of an opponent with the flat of the hand. One man sits on a bench with the thigh exposed, and his opponent slaps him with all the strength he can muster.

"After the stroke, judges examine the thigh of the man who has been hit and if the blow has been sufficiently hard to cause the blood to show beneath the skin, the striker has won the game, but if not then the opponents change places. The first contestant who causes the blood to show beneath the other's skin is declared the winner.

"Every ocean traveler knows shuffleboard, also called shovelboard. Round wooden disks are propelled by long, notched sticks toward a numbered checkerboard about twenty-five feet away. The game is to land the disks in the squares with the highest numbers, and to keep them from stopping in other squares which subtract from the score.

"Shuffleboard looks innocuous enough, but it really brings into play muscles of which one may be totally unaware. The lurching of the ship adds hazards and thrills which cannot be transplanted ashore.

"Some Florida cities, however, have outdoor shuffleboard courts, while a few modern homes have basement alleys, with boatdeck trimmings.

"Hunting has long been associated with the English, but one form of their hunting is very little known outside of England. This is beagling, or following the hare on foot with beagles, a dwarf hunting dog. Unlike the fox or the stag the hare is very short-winded. It soon outdistances both hunters and hounds, but as it quickly tires, they may catch it if they have not been side-tracked on false trails. The hare, however, really has a sporting chance, because its scent is the faintest of all game, and it grows steadily weaker as the hare nears the end of its strength.

"Beagling is a very democratic sport. No special uniforms or equipment are required. Any bit of open country or woodland is a hunting 'preserve'. The sport serves the double purpose of keeping down the number of hares who destroy gardens and nurseries, and of providing capital exercise in the out-of-doors for those who take part in it.

"Miniature golf may not be new to these shores. Early chroniclers tell of New Amsterdam Dutch burghers playing 'kolf' on small courses near taverns. After a round or two the 'kolfers' retired to the tavern for a bowl of punch, lingering over it in typical 'nineteenth hole' fashion until the room was filled with the aroma of their long clay pipes.

"Backgammon in one form or another, has been traced to the Romans, the pre-Columbian Mexicans and the Burmese. Even Plato alludes to a game in which dice were thrown and men were placed after due deliberation."

DO YOU KNOW CONNECTICUT?

Q. How does the extent to which [illegible] in Connecticut today compare with farming 70 years ago?

A. In 1860, 81.2 per cent of all the land in the state was in farms and 73 per cent of the farm land was improved. By 1925, it had decreased to 9.5 per cent, of which only 31.9 per cent was improved.

Q. For what is Bethlehem, Conn. noted historically?

A. The first theological seminary in America was established there in 1745.

Q. When was the official seal of Connecticut adopted?

A. About the middle of the seventeenth century within a few years after the first colonial settlement.

Q. How many justices of the peace are there in Conn.?

Q. Who was the earliest American sculptor?

Q. Is the loss caused by forest fires increasing?

OBITUARY

Floyd Ledger

The death of Floyd Ledger of No. 24 Doyle street, Worcester, Mass., occurred Wednesday evening at a Worcester hospital from injuries received in an automobile accident Monday afternoon. He was returning to his home from work when struck by a machine and at the hospital it was found that ten ribs had been crushed.

Mr. Ledger, a native of Gales Ferry, had lived in Norwich for some years and at one time was employed by C. V. Pendleton, as a mechanic. He is survived by his wife, two sons, Floyd, Jr., and John, and a sister, Mrs. George H. Dolan of No. 32 Prospect street. Mr. and Mrs. Dolan were at his bedside when he died, having gone to Worcester as soon as word was received of the accident.

PRELIMINARY FOR Y GAME ON SATURDAY ARRANGED

All efforts to secure a girls' game having failed, Coach Howard Demarest of the Y Seniors announced Thursday night that the preliminary for the Seniors-Middletown opening state Y league game here Saturday night would be furnished by the Y Seconds and the Shymas Jrs. of Taftville, without a doubt two of the best junior teams in the city.

The main game is drawing much interest not only because it is the opening league test for the locals but also because these two teams were so evenly matched last winter when Middletown finished in second place just a shade ahead of the Demarestmen.

MANY ENTRIES FOR THE XMAS BOWLING TOURNAMENT

Many entries have been received for the annula Christmas bowling tournament to be held at the Aetna Alleys on Saturday afternoon. The tournament is a one-ball affair and will start at 3 o'clock and finish at 6 o'clock. One ball is bowled to a box and the high bowler during each of the three hours is awarded a prize of a chicken.

BAPTIST CHURCH IN MONTVILLE DESTROYED BY FLAMES LAST NIGHT

(Special to The Bulletin)

MONTVILLE, Dec. 18—Fire originating in the boiler room in the cellar practically destroyed the beautiful Union Baptist church building at Palmertown here early this evening, wiping out one of the old landmarks of the town of Montville. All that remains of the structure is the sidewalls. The damage is estimated at $15,000. The building was said to be close to 100 years old and was located just across the highway from the Palmer Bros. mills.

Edward Smith, the janitor, with his sister, Genevieve, had gone to the church building a short time previous to 7 o'clock for the purpose of ringing the bell for the midweek service. While he was ringing the bell at 7 o'clock to notify the parishioners of the regular Thursday evening prayer meeting, scheduled to be held at the church at 7:30 o'clock, he thought he smelled smoke. Mr. Smith asked his sister to investigate, but she failed to find any sign of fire. Later Mr. Smith, going to the cellar, found flames in the section near the furnace in the rear of the structure.

Rushing to a telephone Mr. Smith notified Rev. Raymond L. Bates, pastor of the church, and a call was sent in to the Palmer Bros. mills and the Quaker Hill fire department. The apparatus from the mill made a quick response and laid two lines of hose. At that time flames were beginning to burst through the partition in the class rooms of the Sunday school in the rear and might have been extinguished had it not been for an accident. The two lines of hose laid by the mill firemen, when the water was turned on, burst in several places from the pressure of the water and no water, as a result, came through the nozzles.

A call was sent to the Norwich fire department, and that department referred the call to New London, three companies from there responding to the appeal for assistance. They were The Ockford Hose Co., Thomas Hose Co. and Engine Co. No. 2, with Chief Edmunds and Foremen Otto Eames and George Ennis. The last named company returned to its station, after several needed articles were left at the scene with which to combat the blaze. Two lines of hose were laid by the New London companies and the streams directed upon the flames.

The firemen from Palmer Bros. mill later had two new lines of water playing upon the burning building, in addition to the New London companies. These streams of water were directed upon the flames from all sides, but it was soon evident that there was no possible chance of saving the building. From time to time sections of the roof fell in, causing numerous sparks and dense smoke to whirl into the air. Several large holes were burned in the side walls of the building, and by 10 o'clock only a shell remained of the edifice, which had served the community for so many years.

Hot coffee, materials for which were donated by the A. and P. store located adjoining the burned structure, were served the firemen by residents in that section, after the fire had been practically extinguished. Many motorists, attracted to the scene by the reflection in the sky, impeded the progress of the firemen and a call was put in for Officer Howard Lamphere, who was on duty at the fire until late in the evening.

Several old residents of the town, who have been for many years, endeavoring to have either a paid or volunteer department in the town, remarked that had there been a local department the fire would without doubt have been checked before serious damage resulted. Steps have been underway for some time past to have a department.

COUNTY WOMEN VOTERS HAVE OVER 500 MEMBERS

The county executive board of the League of Women Voters met this week at Miss Tyler's studio in New London, Mrs. Thomas N. Shields of Norwich, county chairman, presiding. Reports of the chairmen of the various leagues in the county showed spendid interest and achievement. Lebanon league reported a citizenship meeting held at a school house in Exeter at which the foreign born members of the group acted as hostesses. This meeting was attended by 31 of the 34 members of the league.

The county league now numbers over 500. It has taken as its quota for the coming year $2,400 of which Miss Katherine Ludington has already given $1,000. The next quarterly meeting is to be held at the Mohican hotel on Wednesday, January 21st. Other dates of interest follow: Feb. 21st, the Connecticut state convention on International Relations will be held in New London, the morning session and luncheon at the Mohican hotel and the afternoon session at Connecticut College for Women, May 20th, the annual meeting of the county will be held with the Montville league as hostesses in the new church at Montville. In March, Miss Sally Fanny Gleason, field secretary, will be in this county.

Every league is being urged to interview its senator or representative at a very early date concerning jury service for women. This matter is scheduled to be brought up in the legislature on January 8.

CANDLE LIGHT SERVICE AT GERMAN CHURCH

An impressive candle light service was held at the First Evangelical Lutheran church, Franklin street, Tuesday night in connection with the devotional hour sponsored by the Luther league every third Tuesday of the month. Many members and guests were present, and all joined heartily in the singing of Christmas carols.

The study program was presented by Martha Storek, who was assisted by Frieda Retkoveke, Ruth Thompson, Marie Gross and Hildergarde Bruck. George Jones read the Scripture. Harold Budzek gave a violin solo, Olga Zachae rendered a number of vocal solos with Mrs. Storek at the piano. The pastor gave a short talk on the "Light Which Shineth Into the Darkness" after which the candles were lighted, the lights turned off, and "Silent Night" was sung, followed by the benediction.

It was announced that the Christmas day service will be held at 7 o'clock Christmas day and in the evening on the same day the Sunday school program will be given with a Christmas pageant at 7:30. The State Luther league leadership banner was brought back to the Norwich church last Sunday from Hartford. It has been given the local league for the second time. Anna Retkoveke announced that an old fashioned minstrel will be given in February. Cake and coffee were served after the meeting was closed.

CASE AGAINST HOYLE CONTINUED UNTIL TODAY

At the request of City Attorney Charles W. Cassidy the case of George Hoyle, 29, of Norwich, was continued to today (Friday) when he was presented in the city court Thursday morning, on seven different violations of the motor vehicle laws. The police were ordered to summon George Eileon of Groton, who, according to Hoyle, told him to drive the Atterbury truck, which he was operating at the time of his arrest on Talman street.

The charges against Hoyle are no registration, no license, no number plates, improper registration, no horn, no windshield wiper and driving an overloaded truck.

SMALL FIRE AT NEW ENGLAND FRUIT STORE

Slight damage was caused by a fire in the cellar of the store of the New England Fruit store, No. 242 Main street, Franklin square, about 6 o'clock Thursday evening. The blaze was located in the cellar in a quantity of paper bags used in wrapping bunches of bananas. Smoke found its way into the fruit store on the ground floor and also the adjoining furniture store. Three gallons of chemical were used to extinguish the fire. The building is owned by Mrs. Emma Welte. Engine Co. No. 1, Squad A and Chief Henry R. Taft responded.

FIFTH DISTRICT VETERANS PLAN FOR CONVENTIONS

The December meeting of the fifth district of the American Legion was held Thursday evening at Ponemah hall, Taftville. In the absence of the district commander, Francis DeGange, Past District Commander Joseph Bellefleur presided. Department Commander Edward L. Newmarker of Rockville, Past Department Commander Harry Jackson of New Britain and Past Department Commander Thorpe of Rhode Island were present.

Department Commander Newmarker, in an address to the meeting, stated that both the national and state departments are ahead of last year in point of membership. Past Commander Harry Jackson spoke on the importance of membership in the organization. He also stated that he has been chosen to head the state committee in charge of the "On to Detroit Movement." The national convention is to be held in the Michigan city next year. Detroit, he said, is fully capable of caring for the convention needs. Plans are underway, he said, for the holding of the convention of the Canadian veterans of the World war at the same time that the national convention will be held. The Canadian convention will be held at Windsor, Ont., just across the line from Detroit. The speaker also stated that plans are underway for the state convention to be held at New Britain the last of next August at which time it is intended to duplicate the good time given the veterans in 1923.

Past Commander Thorpe stated that it is always a pleasure to meet the Connecticut Legionnaires. Although he is a member of the Rhode Island department, he is a near neighbor, he said, residing in Westerly, just across the Connecticut line. Speaking in a humorous vein, he said he couldn't understand how it was the veterans hospital was located "in the sticks" and not in Providence.

It was stated that the national headquarters has outlined a schedule of activities for January for the consideration of the individual posts. Early 1931 activities include the observance of the birthdays of Washington and Lincoln and the asking of the schools to cooperate in the flag educational plan which, it is hoped, will be made a part of the regular course of study for the spring term.

It was voted to appoint two committees, one to plan on the transportation to the national convention in Detroit and the other to arrange for the Memorial day and Armistice day celebrations. The transportation committee comprises C. Wellington Crosby of Lyme, Edward Kelly of Taftville and John Kileen of Uncasville. The Memorial day and Armistice day committee comprises Robert Davidson of New London, John Morrison of Noank, William Bindloss of Stonington, Wilfred Lamphere of Mystic, Alice Harrington of the New London women's post, Matthew Geary of Uncasville, Thomas Sears of Taftville, James Hussey of Baltic, Charles B. Gilbert of Norwich, Frank Bright of Groton, Edward Knox of Jewett City, Morris Peck of Lyme.

Elaborate plans are underway for a state-wide membership drive. The object is a 50 per cent increase in the membership.

The adjutant read two communications from national headquarters:

No depression—only confidence and enthusiasm in the economic improvement of the United States—is seen in the announcement made by James F. Barton, national adjutant of the American Legion, that the advance membership of the legion for 1931 exceeds any figure for this time of the year in the history of the organization, read one of the communications.

Likewise, Adjutant Barton announces that the operating gain for the eleven months of 1930 exceeds, in the same proportion, the gain for 1929. The national membership for 1930 also is the highest in the history of the legion, being 887,417. The advance membership for 1931, at this time, is 255,359, which is 84,202 more than for the year 1930 on the same date one year ago. The finances of the national organization show that $76,781.42 is the gain above all operating expenses for the eleven months of 1930, as compared to a gain, at this time one year ago, of $46,669.57.

Commenting on these records, Adjutant Barton said: "While this remarkable membership record comes from a certain group—the World war veterans—it is nation-wide, and truly is from a cross-section of our population, because these veterans represent every walk in life. Any condition that would affect Americans generally, would equally affect Legionnaires. The membership in advance of 1931 also indicates the stability of those veterans who compose the Legion, and shows their steadfast loyalty to the organization."

The other communication was as follows:

A suggestion that American Legion posts make proper contact with postmasters throughout the country in seeking temporary postoffice employment for ex-service men with families during the holidays, has been made by Walter F. Brown, postmaster general. The suggestion was contained in a letter received by Ralph T. O'Neil, national commander of the legion, which was an official reply to a telegram Commander O'Neil recently sent to President Hoover.

The telegram sent by the national commander was to inform the president that the legion's national employment commission had unanimously adopted a resolution requesting that an executive order be issued giving ex-service men with dependents preference in connection with holiday or seasonal postoffice work. Such work had been provided in an executive order of October 24 which excepted veterans from civil service examination for such temporary work.

The auxiliary of the department held an enthusiastic meeting in an adjoining room. At the close of the meeting refreshments of sandwiches, cake and coffee were served, and dancing was enjoyed for the remainder of the evening.

CHRISTMAS PAGEANT AT CONNECTICUT COLLEGE GYM

NEW LONDON, Dec. 18—Following a college tradition, the art department of Connecticut college held its annual Christmas pageant Wednesday evening at 8:30 in the gymnasium. There was the traditional singing of carols by the glee club under the direction of Prof. J. Lawrence Erb, and the students of the art department, under the direction of Prof. Henry B. Selden, gave a Christmas tableau. This year, Giotto's "Madonna With Angels" was reproduced as a living picture by the students. Muriel Bristol of Waterbury, impersonated the Madonna, sitting with her babe in a golden frame surrounded by angels.

The program began with the singing of "Silent Night" by a concealed choir. During the singing, the students filed into the hall. "Adeste Fidelas" sung by the entire audience and the reading of the Christmas story from Luke 1:2, was followed by the choir singing an Old Provencial carol, "Here a Torch, Jeanette, Isabella." After the choir sang "Sing We Noel," Anna Hempstead Branch, local author, read some of her own poems.

A feature of the program was Prof Erb's musical interpretation of "Away in a Manger" sung by the choir, and a Christmas folksong set to music by Miss Marguerite Fishburne, '31, of West Hartford. This was sung by Miss Marion Nichols '32 of New Haven, and the choir.

The Florentine Madonna, a Christmas pageant for which Prof. Erb composed a musical setting for the choir, concluded the program in the hall. Of the sixteen students who took the part of angels in the living picture, four are Connecticut girls: Virginia Hinman, '31, of Willimantic, Mildred Pierce, '32, of Canaan, Carol Swisher, '31, of Hartford, Edith Schneider, '31, of Windsor.

At the close of the program, all the students and guests filed up to the altar to receive lighted Christmas tapers while all joined in singing "O Little Town of Bethlehem." From the gymnasium the procession went out-of-doors to the quadrangle where five carols were sung, including: "God Rest You Merry Gentlemen," "The First Noel," "We Three Kings of Orient Are," "Good King Wenceslas," and "What Child Is This?" Professor Gerard E. Jensen, Allen B. Lambdin and Paul F. Laubenstein, sang the parts of the three kings in the third carol.

HOUSE OF DAVID TEAM MAKES POOR SHOWING AGAINST PLAINFIELD

(Special to The Bulletin)

PLAINFIELD, Dec. 18.—The Plainfield Pros won their second straight game here tonight with ease, turning back the House of David five by the count of 53 to 31. The locals outclassed the visitors all the way and had a lead at half-time of 35 to 18.

Every member of the Pros broke into the scoring column with Kasper at right forward taking the lead with 25 points, 12 baskets and one foul. The House of David team, likewise, had every man dropping at least one through.

The House of David team, weakened by the absence of several of its star players who have gone to their homes for the holidays, made a statement through their manager, following the game, in which they apologized for their poor showing. The game, at times, was also very rough.

The preliminary, however, was one of the best ever seen on the Community house floor and saw the Buddies emerge a 23-14 victor over Stafford Springs after a fierce struggle. In this game, also, every Plainfield man broke into the scoring column and Mette was the leader with eight points.

MONTVILLE ACES WIN THIRD STRAIGHT GAME

(Special to The Bulletin)

NOANK, Dec. 18.—The Montville Aces won their third straight game of the season Thursday evening when they defeated Neil Morrison's fast Noank Whirlwinds at the town hall by a score of 37 to 36. Both teams played airtight ball throughout the contest with the Whirlwinds holding the big end of the score up to 20 seconds of the last period. With the score 36 to 34 in favor of Noank Moss, flashy guard of the Aces, made a beautiful field goal and then shot a foul for the winning point.

Sweet of the Noank team was high scorer of the evening with five field goals and three fouls. Gero of the Aces was a close second with five field goals and two fouls.

FALCONS BLANK SENATORS IN EASY ENCOUNTER

DETROIT, Dec. 118.—(AP)—The Detroit Falcons, home from a disastrous road trip, resumed their winning form tonight and blanked the Ottawa Senators, 3 to 0, in a National league hockey game that saw the Detroit team out ahead all the way.

Ebbie Goodfellow, one time Ottawa amateur, led the play that spelled defeat to the Senators. Although he didn't score a goal, the big Falcon center gave Carson Cooper, Falcon wingman, passes that resulted in two goals, and made trouble for Alex Connell, Ottawa goalie, all evening. Frank Frederickson, former Pittsburgh Pirate manager, got the other goal, aided by McInenly.

The Falcon wingmen had little trouble breaking through a weak Ottawa defense line, and Dolly Dolson, Detroit goalie, stopped everything the Ottawa wingmen could offer. Harvey Rockburn, Detroit defense man, made five trips to the penalty box. Thirteen penalties were called.

WESLEYAN OFF FOR TWO-DAY BASKETBALL TRIP

MIDDLETOWN, Dec. 18—(AP)— The Wesleyan basketball team will leave tomorrow for a two-day trip during which it will play Haverford college at Haverford, Pa., and Columbia at New York. The Haverford game is scheduled for tomorrow, while the second game will be played Saturday.

The same team which opened Wesleyan's season against Yale will be used in the two games. This line-up includes Howard and Johnstone, forwards; Nye, center, and Owen and Striebinger, guards.

FOUR INTRAMURAL TEAMS SCORE DECISIVE VICTORIES

Four of the five contests in the third day of play in the intramural basketball competition at the Academy on Thursday afternoon found teams scoring decisive conquests, the Florida-North Carolina game, won by the former, 19 to 16, being the only exception.

Other Southern conference tilts saw Tulane run away from V. M. I. 20 to 2 and Georgia Tech trim Georgia 14 to 2. In the New England conference tilts Harvard stopped Vermont, 15 to 5, and Holy Cross submerged Yale, 20 to 8.

Trontales, Holy Cross right guard, was the leading scorer of the day with 10 points and Billy Potter, Florida left forward, was right behind with nine tallies.

PROVIDENCE COLLEGE HAS RUGGED GRID SLATE IN 1931

PROVIDENCE, Dec. 18—(AP)—Eight games including major contests with Rutgers and Holy Cross are scheduled for the Providence college football team for next season, according to the schedule announced here today by Graduate Manager John E. Farrell.

The schedule: September 26, Rutgers at New Brunswick, N. J.; October 3, Holy Cross at Worcester; 10, University of Vermont at Providence; 17, Clarkson college at Potsdam, N. Y.; 24, Norwich university at Providence; 31, Lowell textile at Lowell; November 7, Niagara university at Niagara Falls; 14, St. John's college (Brooklyn) at Providence.

SOUTHERN PLAYERS ARRIVE FOR CHARITY GAME

NEW YORK, Dec. 18—(AP)—A half dozen players arrived from Dixie today to compete in the north-south charity football game, to be played at Ebbets field, Brooklyn, Sunday, December 28.

Heading the southern invasion were Bodenger and Collins from Tulane; Brandt and Hug from Tennessee, and Rose and Forquer from Kentucky.

"Stumpy" Thomason, former Georgia Tech star, will coach the southern team.

Officials in charge of the game said ticket prices would be scaled at $1, $2 and $3.

UNFAIR TO MANAGERS

At Plainfield last night basketball fans of Eastern Connecticut were very much disappointed in the game between the Plainfield Pros and the House of David team, through no fault of the Plainfield management. Last night the House of David team, which is known throughout the country as a fast basketball club, was scheduled to play at the community house in Plainfield. It was so advertised and a large crowd was on hand to see this famous organization. But what they saw was a make-shift team the players of which knew more about football than they did about basketball. When the supposed House of David team arrived it was found that there was none of the regulars present and that it was the second or third string players who made up the club. The excuse was that the regulars had gone home for the Christmas holidays. What a nice time to notify the Plainfield management that their players were on a holiday. When a team does things like this it doesn't hurt them so much as it does the management that schedules them. It puts the management of the home team in a hole and it also hurts his gate for several games to come. The impression that such games create is not conducive to capacity houses in the future. Fans when they read an announcement of some famed team become skeptical as they remember what they saw at a previous game. Teams that pull a stunt like the House of David pulled last night should be blacklisted, they do more to hurt the game than they do it good. Teams of this type are teams that are simply out to grab the money and "to hell with the public." The House of David manager apologized for the showing his team made. He should and what's more he should play a return engagement with his regular team without even charging expenses.

DESERVE MUCH CREDIT

To Howard Demarest, physical director of the Y. M. C. A. and Paul Bitgood, director of physical education at the Norwich Free Academy, goes a world of credit for the promotion of basketball in Norwich. Both being star college basketball players they naturally take a great interest in the game and basketball under their tutelage should go a great way in Norwich. Demarest was a player with Springfield college and Bitgood was a star at Connecticut Agricultural college. These two have cooperated in organizing the grammar school basketball league which opens this afternoon at the Norton Memorial gym. This is the first time that the grammar schools have had a basketball league in Norwich. With basketball being played by the grammar school boys it promotes interest among the younger children and will be productive of some good basketball material in the next few years. Basketball is one of the ideal winter sports and it is something that has not been given the attention here that it has in other cities. With such men as Mr. Demarest and Mr. Bitgood at the helm it should become exceptionally popular before the winter is over.

Ice House Worried Over Norwich Town

Sports Editor: The Ice House is wondering if the "City Chumps" are any kind of sports at all. Looking through Thursday morning's Bulletin, we failed to find an answer to our challenge, so we figure that the Norwich Towners have no sporting blood whatsoever. We challenged the "Wildcats" to a football game, the proceeds to go toward the unemployed situation of Norwich. The Ice House hates to think that the "Champs" are yellow, or that they wouldn't do a little act of charity for their own people of the Rose of New England. The Ice House has been reinforced by the following: Golembeski, Stevens, Zictorac and Grimes, the first three Academy stars, and the latter a fast sandlot player.

We hope that Norwich Town will take into consideration the hard times and what a great help their co-operation will mean to the poor and needy of Norwich. Mgr. B. Sabitino.

NAUGATUCK VALLEY LOOP OPENS AT ANSONIA

WATERBURY, Dec. 18.—(AP)—Crosby and Ansonia high school basketball quintets will officially open the Naugatuck valley interscholastic league tomorrow night in Ansonia in the initial game of the newly organized circuit. Central of Bridgeport plays Wilby at Waterbury Saturday night in the other game of the first week's slate.

Central and Warren Harding, of Bridgeport, Crosby and Wilby of Waterbury, Gilbert of Winsted, and Naugatuck, Ansonia and Torrington high schools are members of the circuit. Each school will play 14 league games during the basketball season, seven at home and seven away.

GRAMMAR SCHOOL BASKETBALL LOOP STARTS TODAY AT NORTON GYM

Seventy athletes from the six largest grammar schools of the city will this afternoon begin the long chase for basketball honors of the Rose of New England at the Norton Memorial gym at the Academy and it is anticipated that the three games scheduled will be played before a large turnout.

The schedule follows: 4:30, Broadway vs. Greeneville, Elizabeth street vs. St. Patrick's; 5:15, Samuel Huntington vs. St. Mary's.

The schools have been drilling for two weeks or more now, including three workouts at the Norton gym for the entire membership of the league and they should be well accustomed to things at starting time today. Each school has its own coach and each has a good-sized squad to work with.

The teams will contest for a large silver loving cup donated by The Bulletin Co. This is the first time that a court league has been attempted on such an extensive basis and the project is due solely to the efforts of Paul E. Bitgood, Academy basketball coach, and Howard Demarest, Y physical director and coach of the Y Seniors.

TEAMS CLOSELY BUNCHED IN E. C. SOCCER LEAGUE

Following are the league games to be played Sunday in the Eastern Connecticut Soccer league, as given by the league secretary, Joseph Rose, Jr., of New London. (The first team is the home team); Jewett City vs. New London Rangers, J. B. Martin vs. Putnam, Plainfield vs. Baltic; Wauregan, bye.

In taking the league game at Baltic last Sunday between the Plainfield champs and Baltic, the Plainfield boys started right off at the opening whistle and brought the ball to the Baltic goal. The whole forward line kept bombarding the Baltic goal for fully three minutes. For a time it looked as though it was raining soccer balls when Plainfield scored. The crowd that was present was kept in an uproar that first three minutes of play, which surely was a treat to see. The Plainfield boys won and took home the bacon and these same teams will again be playing at Plainfield Sunday.

The Putnam eleven will entertain the J. B. Martin fans at Taftville in what looks like the big game of the week, New London will make its first appearance in Jewett City in a long time and will be out to begin where they left off two weeks ago.

During the week two changes were made in the league standing when Baltic, who has been in first division in the standing since the opening game of the season, dropped to fifth place when Plainfield handed them a setback.

The strong Putnam team which has been going great guns this season moved up a peg and is now once again in the first division right behind the New Londonites.

The league standing to date:

Team	P.	W.	L.	D.	Pt.
J. B. Martin	10	9	1	0	18
Plainfield	10	8	2	0	16
N. L. Rangers	9	6	3	0	12
Putnam	9	5	4	0	10
Baltic	10	4	5	1	9
Jewett City	8	0	7	1	1
Wauregan	10	0	10	0	0

ALL-AMERICAN SELECTION ANNOUNCED BY COLLIERS'

NEW YORK, Dec. 18.—(AP)—Colliers' Weekly today made public its All-American football selections for 1930. The first team selection follows:

Ends, Dalrymple, Tulane, and Fesler, Ohio State.

Tackles, Sington, Alabama, and Rhea, Nebraska.

Guards, Koch, Baylor and Beckett, California.

Center, Ticknor, Harvard.

Quarterback, Carideo, Notre Dame.

Halfbacks, Pinckert, Southern California, and Dodd, Tennessee.

Fullback, Macaluso, Colgate.

The magazine, through its "selection committee" named two additional players as "utility men." They are Mel Hein, Washington State's center, as utility lineman, and Orville Mohler, Southern California, quarterback, as utility back.

"Ticknor and Carideo," the committee set forth, "are the only names on this year's list who also appeared on the All-America last year. Ticknor last year had the highest percentage rating of any man on the team and this year he is tied with Fesler for the some honor, receiving a percentage of 92.5. The other players were rated as follows: Hein, 91.7; Carideo, 91.4; Sington and Dodd, 90.8; all others 90."

National Hockey League

At Montreal: Montreal Maroons, 2; Toronto, 1.

Boston, 4; New York Rangers, 2.

At Montreal: Chicago, 0; Les Canadiens, Montreal, 0. (Overtime tie).

Canadian-American Hockey Final

At Boston: Boston Tigers, 3; Philadelphia Arrows, 2.

CLARENCE KUMMER, ONE OF NATION'S BEST KNOWN JOCKEYS IS DEAD

NEW YORK, Dec. 18—(AP)—Clarence Kummer, whose heels booted the great Man O'War home and drove some of America's finest thoroughbreds to victory less than a decade ago, died of pneumonia today at his home in Jamaica, Queens. He had been ill only a week. He was 31.

Kummer, one of the outstanding jockeys of his time, was driven from the saddle by increasing weight some time ago after a career stretching from his apprentice days in 1915 through triumphs in almost every important stake on American tracks. His mounts, among them Man O'War, Chance Play, Audacious, Snob, Blazes, Westy Hogan, Naturalist and Ladkin, brought him home first, usually after brilliant rides and nose-to-nose duels in the stretch, in such classics as the Preakness, Suburban, Realization, Belmont, Travers, Withers, Juvenile, Toboggan, Tremont, Nursery, Champlain, Grand American and Manhattan. The only major stakes that evaded him were the Kentucky Derby and Belmont Futurity.

Last spring, seeking a comeback, Kummer went into training for several months under Sunny Jim Fitzsimmons, conditioner of Gallant Fox, but he could not remove enough weight to get back to active riding. He was negotiating for a position as a trainer when he became ill.

Two magnificent rides stand out above all others in Kummer's colorful career. Famous as a strategist and finisher, Kummer brought Man O'War from the ruck in the stretch of the Dwyer stakes in 1920 and through sheer generalship and lavish use of the whip drove the great Riddle thoroughbred home in front of John P. Grier, Harry Payne Whitney's star.

In 1924 Kummer was credited with another masterful bit of riding in an international match race classic of that year. He was astride Ladkin in a neck and neck finish in which his mount defeated Epinard, famous French racer.

Kummer rode Man O'War in almost all of his three year old engagements, including the decisive victory over Sir Barton, Canadian champion, in a match race for $75,000 at Windsor, Ont., in 1920. This was the last race in which the famous pair teamed but Kummer continued to ride the "big shots" of the turf for years afterward.

As an apprentice rider for Sandy McNaughton, almost fifteen years ago, Kummer was a sensation and rose rapidly to a position where many of the turf experts hailed him as the greatest of all jockeys. He rode for Joshua S. Cosden, Mrs. Charles Schwartz in addition to the mounts of the Belmont, Riddle and McNaughton stables. His honesty and integrity were never questioned on a race track although he was set down on several occasions for unbecoming conduct off the courses. He was barred from New York tracks in 1926 as a result of a contract dispute.

He leaves a widow and two children. A brother, Eddie, won several victories last fall on Harry F. Sinclair's horses.

BAER MAKES DEBUT IN NEW YORK TONIGHT

NEW YORK, Dec. 18.—(AP)—A couple of heavyweights from the sophomore class, Max Baer, of San Francisco, and Ernie Schaaf, of Boston, will grab the spotlight in Madison Square Garden tomorrow night to display what brand of power and ability, if any, lurks in the youngsters of the division.

Baer, a 200-pound puncher with a record of 24 knockouts in 27 matches, is new to eastern rings, and Schaaf, a former sailor with more experience, has never appeared before in the Garden. Schaaf is a protege of Jack Sharkey, however, and holds two decisions over Tommy Loughran. Sharkey is scheduled to second him tomorrow night.

With the lineup forming for the next heavyweight title go next June, and all the old familiar faces—Sharkey, Young Stribling, Victorio Campolo, and Max Schmeling—failing to excite the faithful, the youngsters have an exceptional opportunity to steal the thunder of the veterans. A decisive victory for either will provide the element of youthful punch and ability the heavyweight picture now lacks. Baer particularly, because of his punch, size, and general color, can win himself a shot at one of the leading contenders by scoring a knockout.

The Californian has impressed the critics during his training workouts at Gus Wilson's camp at Orangeburg. Baer has a splendid physique, a wallop in either mit, and just enough youthful braggadocio and enthusiasm to catch the eyes of fandom. He has been swaggering about town in high-powered raiment with a liveried chauffeur and a private car the size of a small locomotive. He believes he will knock Schaaf over in four or five rounds. The bout is scheduled for ten.

Schaaf, who followed Jack Sharkey's trail from the navy to Boston rings, is a smart boxer and a sharp hitter. For some time he was regarded as the likliest of all the younger heavyweights but a reaction set in and only recently has he climbed back to favor with victories over Loughran and Johnny Risko. He has been working hard with Sharkey in Boston.

Joe Banovic, of Binghamton, N. Y., and Bob Olin, New York, light-heavyweights, meet in a ten-round semi-final.

ROCKNE GOES TO MAYO CLINIC FOR OBSERVATION

ROCHESTER, Minn., Dec. 18—(AP)—Worn by the strenuous football season just ended, Knute Rockne, famous coach at Notre Dame, was registered at the Mayo clinic tonight for a physical inventory.

Although Rockne said he feared a recurrence of an old leg ailment which laid him low last spring, his physician, Dr. C. J. Barborka, said a preliminary examination revealed the coach may be suffering from a fatigued physical condition. Further examinations will be made later, but Dr. Barborka said he expected to find nothing organically wrong.

Rockne said he would remain here about two weeks for a thorough examination and rest, and "to make sure" that the recent slight twitching in a leg is not a return of phlebitis which brought him here on a stretcher six months ago.

Dr. Barborka who has taken care of Rockne for the past two years, said his preliminary examination revealed no definite symptoms and he believed his patient is suffering from fatigue "induced by strain of emotions" to which he was subjected during the football season.

"Mr. Rockne looks fine," the physician said, "except that he is tired from strain and from making three or four speeches every day. His condition is just what is expected of any one who has gone through such a strenuous season. I do not see any reason for confining him to his bed. On the contrary, he should be perfectly ambulatory at present."

Dr. Barborka who has taken care of least three days before he could announce anything definite on the coach's condition. Meanwhile, Rockne will rest, except for attendance at a high school football banquet here tomorrow night.

Frank Leahy, first string tackle of the Notre Dame Ramblers, accompanied his coach to the clinic. Leahy injured his knee early in the season and has been out of the game since. He will undergo an examination to determine whether surgical attention is needed.

ALABAMA HAS LAST PRACTICE BEFORE GOING WEST

TUSCALOOSA, Ala., Dec. 18—(AP)—With a final drill beneath drab skies. Alabama's Crimson tide today put Alabama's Crimson Tide today put aside cleats and moleskins until December 23, when work will be resumed at Pasadena, California.

There will be a rousing send off tomorrow as the tide rolls westward to engage Washington State at Pasadena in Rose Bowl on New Year's day. It is Alabama's third trip to the west coast in six years.

The tide was in fine fettle except for John "Monk" Campbell, spinning ace, who twisted a knee a few days ago in practice.

What method of attack Alabama will use against the Cougars remained a question, although it was certain that a new combination and new plays would be tried.

In addition to the official party of 82, including 35 players, coaches, President Denny, university officials and sports writers, railway officials have announced a number of other passengers will be aboard.

Governor Bibb Graves, due to the press of official business, will be unable to head Alabama's westward caravan. The governor expressed hope that he might be able to take a later train.

The Crimson Tide special will roll into Pasadena, December 23. Railways have announced that two or three special trains will head for the west coast December 26, carrying the main body of the Alabama rooting section

CARNERA STOPS MEEN IN THE SECOND ROUND

LONDON, Dec. 18—(AP)—Primo Carnera, Italian man-mountain, brushed aside the puny efforts of Reggie Meen, English heavyweight, in less than two rounds at Albert Hall tonight. The referee stopped the unequal struggle after Meen had been floored twice in the second round.

Meen, a curly haired, pink-cheeked English youth of 202 pounds, received a great ovation for his efforts in the first round when he held the 268-pound Venetian on fairly even terms. But it was a contest between a mountain and a mouse and Meen never really had a chance. Carnera settled down to business in the second round and floored his man twice and the big crowd yelled for the referee to halt the carnage.

It was Carnera's first appearance in England since his American tour and he showed improvement in speed and footwork.

The Carnera-Meen bout topped a heavyweight boxing carnival in which 18 other Behemoths of the ring, all beefy and all raw, participated.

Among the crowd were a number of Indian potentates, including the Maharajahs Patiala and Alwar.

BRUINS BEAT RANGERS TO TAKE HOCKEY LEAD

NEW YORK, Dec. 18.—The Boston Bruins again asserted their supremacy over their favorite National Hockey league rivals, the New York Rangers, tonight, continuing their two-year string of triumphs with a 4 to 2 victory.

The victory put the Bruins in first place in the league's American division as the Chicago Black Hawks, with whom they have been tied, played a draw with the Montreal Canadiens. The defeat, coupled with a victory for Detroit dropped the Rangers to fourth.

A dazzling burst of scoring in the last half of the second period put the Bruins ahead. They scored three goals in a little over six minutes of this period and added another in the final frame before the Rangers could tally.

George Owen, an outstanding star of the game, made the first Boston tally and assisted Harry Oliver on the final counter. Eddie Shore and Red Beattie made the other Boston scores. Bill Cook and Butch Keeling made the Ranger goals late in the final period.

FORDHAM HANDS YALE FIRST DEFEAT OF SEASON

NEW YORK, Dec. 18.—(AP)—Fordham outclassed Yale's basketball team to give the Eli quintet its first defeat of the season here tonight before 4,000 fans. The score was 22 to 17.

Coach Kelleher of Fordham started his second team and the opening moments were close, though Fordham, through Putzer's work, drew ahead 5-2. Then the first-stringers went in and the half ended with the score 12-4.

In the second half, Fordham's varsity piled up a 23-9 lead, with Mulligan and Zaleski featuring, before it yielded to the reserves with a few moments to go. Horwitz then led a Yale rally to pull up to its final score.

Yale failed to show any team work. Horwitz was the only Blue player to get through the Fordham defense. The shooting of both teams was mediocre, but Fordham showed good all-round work.

WINTER GOLF SEASON OPENS IN SO. CALIFORNIA TODAY

PASADENA, Dec. 18.—(AP)—Southern California's winter open golf season will open here over the municipal course tomorrow, when 150 professionals and amateurs tee off in the annual $4,000 three-day medal play test.

Many leading professionals will start, including Horton Smith, New York city 1929 winner, and Craig Wood, Bloomfield, N. J., victor in 1928.

Walter Hagen, veteran campaigner from Detroit, will attempt a comeback. Last winter he won only $80 in all his appearances. He tied for twentieth place last year.

The sixty players with lowest scores following tomorrow's and Saturday's rounds of 18 holes each will continue Sunday in the 36 holes of final play.

MAROONS TAKE FIRST PLACE IN CANADIAN DIV.

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 18.—(AP)—The Montreal Maroons outplayed the Toronto Maple Leafs, 2 to 1 in a National Hockey league game tonight and assumed undisputed possession of second place in the Canadian division.

Nelson Stewart notched the winning goal in the third period after he and Hooley Smith had combined to work in on Benny Grant, youthful Toronto goal-minder. Grant never had a chance to stop Stewart's game-winning poke.

Hall Cotton scored for Toronto in the first period. In the same session, Johnny Gallegher, recruit defense man tallied for the Maroons.

LUCE WILL BE OUT OF GAME FOR MONTH

NEW HAVEN, Dec. 18—(AP)—Captain Frank Luce, of the Yale hockey team, who was seriously injured last night in a hockey game against the Boston Hockey club, will be lost to the Yale squad for at least four weeks, physicians announced tonight. He suffered a deep gash on his thigh and had to be carried off the ice.

It was believed at first that the injury might keep Luce idle for the rest of the season, but it was said tonight that his return within four weeks to the team was quite probable.

U. S. TO SEND TEAM TO HOCKEY CHAMPIONSHIPS

NEW YORK, Dec. 18—(AP)—An American team probably will be sent abroad to compete in the world's amateur championship hockey matches to be held at Krynica, Poland, January 8 to 11, Avery Brundage, president of the Amateur Athletic union, announced today. A canvass of clubs throughout the country is under way with a view to selecting a representative team of amateur stars.

PLANSKY TO HELP TRACK AT WILLIAMS

WILLIAMSTOWN, Mass., Dec. 18.—(AP) — Anthony Plansky, former Georgetown athlete, will serve as assistant track coach at Williams college next spring, it was announced today by the athletic council. Plansky will take up his work here early in January to look over material for spring track. He will assist the veteran Williams track coach, Charles F. Seeley.

Tigers Beat Arrows

BOSTON, Dec. 18.—(AP)—The Boston Tigers avoided plunging into the Canadian-American hockey league cellar tonight by defeating the Philadelphia Arrows, 3 to 2. Coulter, visiting defense player, provided most of the game's excitement. He was fined $25 for threatening a spectator with his stick after being penalized for holding. Eddie Burke scored two of the Boston goals and Reg Mackay pounded home the winning tally in the final period on a rink length dash.

RUDOLPH WINS BILLIARD TITLE BEATING GREENLEAF

NEW YORK, Dec. 18.—(AP)—Edwin Rudolph of Chicago, won the world's pocket billiards championship tonight, defeating Ralph Greenleaf, of New York, defending champion, 125 to 120 in the deciding match of the tournament.

The game lasted 37 innings.

Rudolph's triumph over the champion gave him a final tournament record of seven victories and no defeats. Greenleaf, dominating figure in pocket billiards for a decade, was runner-up with five triumphs in seven starts.

Rudolph held the title once before, beating Greenleaf in a challenge match here in January, 1927. He was beaten four months later by Tommy Hueston. Last year in the Detroit tournament, Rudolph won his first 81 games but lost to Greenleaf on the final night, the championship ending in a deadlock. Greenleaf then repeated his victory over Rudolph in the playoff to capture the title.

The final tournament standing:

	W.	L.	High Run
Erwin Rudolph, Chicago	7	0	67
Ralph Greenleaf, N. Y.	5	2	104
Onofrio Lauri, N. Y.	4	3	51
F. Taberski, Schenectady	4	3	46
Arthur Woods, N. Y.	3	4	63
Bennie Allen, Kansas City	3	4	35
Pasquale Natalie, Chicago	1	6	42
T. Boatman, Portland, Ore.	1	6	30

HAWKS AND CANADIENS PLAY SCORELESS TIE

MONTREAL, Dec. 18.—(AP)—The Chicago Blackhawks and the Montreal Canadiens tonight hurled their best speed at each other through 70 minutes of an overtime National Hockey league game and left the ice with a scoreless tie.

Probably the best spectacle of hockey here this season, the game was packed with thrills. The two goalies, George Hainsworth and Chuck Gardner, made spectacular saves and received strong support from their defenses. Gardner was the only outstanding Chicago star while Morenz and Joliat stone for the Canadiens.

Vic Ripley, Chicago center, was banished from the game in the third period by Referee Odie Cleghorn for using unparliamentary language but no penalty was given his team, a replacement being allowed.

VERDICT FOR DEFENDANT IN CASE BROUGHT AGAINST NEW YORK MAN

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, Dec. 18.—Associate Justice Jeremiah E. O'Connell, sitting on the bench in the Westerly session of Washington county superior court on Thursday morning, ordered and directed the release from arrest of Chauffeur Sven Ahlstrom, native of Sweden and employed by Edwin H. Tompkins, of New York, and summer resident of Narragansett, R. I. Ahlstrom, who has been in this country two years, and appearing in superior court as a witness the past week, was arrested on a civil writ by Sheriff Fred T. Mitchell as he was about to take a train back to New York. The civil suit was brought by Hannah Sullivan, first cook in the household of Rush Sturges, of 55 Power street, Providence, and a summer cottager at Narragansett, for injuries sustained when the Packard cabriolet of Tompkins driven by Ahlstrom overturned on the Tower Hill road about 11:15 p. m., on Aug. 26, 1930. For the past week four suits, with plaintiffs, Hannah Sullivan, Greta Smith, Cecelia Smith and James McMillan, for damages for injuries sustained in the auto accident, have been heard by a jury, against Edwin H. Tompkins, with Attorney James Corrigan for the plaintiffs and Attorney Edmund Flynn for the defendant. On Wednesday afternoon the taking of testimony was concluded and on Thursday morning the defendant and the plaintiffs' attorneys made their pleas. Recess was taken until 1:45 p. m., when Judge O'Connell charged the jury.

Right after the jury was polled on the opening of court on Thursday morning Judge O'Connell said he would hear Attorney John Ferguson on a motion presented for Ahlstrom's release from arrest, after having passed Wednesday night at the Westerly lockup in his failure to secure a bondsman. A writ of protection was also asked for by Attorney Ferguson when Judge O'Connell declared that Ahlstrom was entitled to be discharged from arrest, declaring that under our law the chauffeur was in attendance upon the superior court as a witness and therefore under the court's protection, and for this reason would grant the motion to discharge. Papers were also passed on by the court to protect Ahlstrom from further service and for a reasonable time thereafter. Chauffeur Ahlstrom took an early Thursday afternoon express for New York city.

While the motion was being heard by the court the jury were withdrawn to the jury room and later returned to hear the attorneys' pleas.

At 1:45 p. m., Judge O'Connell began his charge to the jury, of which George W. Hoxie is the foreman, which has listened to testimony in this trial lasting over a week. The charge was concluded at 2:15 p. m., and the judge denied the written plaintiff request for jury instruction, a lengthy document, of too great length, the judge declared, and which would tend more to confuse than instruct the jurymen. He also denied a paragraph of instruction from the defendant, saying that it was prepared after he had made the request at the opening of the morning session for attorneys to file statements, to permit him sufficient time to consult the law involved.

With the retirement of the jury to their jury room, Attorney Dunn informed the court that the next case, John R. Sherman vs. Reuben W. Brown, town treasurer of the town of Exeter, R. I., in which he appeared for the plaintiff, could not be finished until after next Tuesday as there were some dozen or 15 witnesses to testify and Attorney Benjamin Grim, for the town, could not be in court on Thursday afternoon. Judge O'Connell said that by the operation of state law the court term would close on next Monday afternoon and there being no more jury cases ready which could be finished in the remaining time left he would have all spare jurors report to Mrs. Treat to be paid off. They were further notified to appear at the next February court term at South Kingstown on the Wednesday after the first Monday in February, Feb. 18.

The case of Sherman vs. Brown, at the request of Attorney Dunn, was set down for the first jury case to be heard at the February court term at Kingstown.

The equity case, Alina Piipari, Ferguson, vs. John Piipari, Roche, will be tried to the court on next Monday, and will conclude the court term and the Westerly adjournment of the November court term.

At 4:20 p. m., the jury, which had been out two hours, returned to the court room and announced that they had agreed upon a verdict. The foreman announced that the verdict was found for the defendant, Edwin H. Tompkins.

George E. Leonard, of Pawcatuck, returned on Wednesday night to Westerly from a vacation visit with relatives and friends in Newport, R. I.

James D. Docking was a Westerly business caller in Providence on Thursday.

WESTERLY

PENDLETON HILL MAN ARRESTED FOR ASSAULT

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, Dec. 18.—Stanilus Aryzeski, 39, of the Pendleton Hill district of North Stonington, was arrested in Westerly on Thursday charged with an aggravated assault upon Michael Kavanagh, 62, proprietor of a gas filling station on the Pendleton Hill state highway. His arrest in Westerly followed a complaint and investigation by State Police Officer John H. Smith of the Groton barracks. Kavanagh, following an argument, was charged by Aryzeski, proprietor of "White Park" on the Voluntown road, with watering his gas and knocked down by the aggressor, after he had declared that he had no desire to sell him any more gas. Officer Smith observed the truck driven over the Pawcatuck river bridge by Aryzeski, and in company with Westerly Police Officer Paul McCarthy went to Pierce street where the man was placed under arrest. The case will be heard Friday before Justice J. Bard Bill in North Stonington court.

John E. Dodge, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank F. Dodge, of Stonington, has returned to Westerly from Concord, N. H., for his holiday vacation from school duties at St. Paul's school.

THE VILLAGE MAY HAVE WRESTLING MATCHES SOON

About 50 years ago, or a few years later, Noank was like a city, so much going on, always some place to go to enjoy yourself. It had the best band in Connecticut; also had a show troupe come here and spend a week in Rogers' hall on Main street across from Park meat market. But this now is burned down. Indians used to stay for a week in a tent on Wibber lot, Front street, selling snake oil that would take off corns, ingrowing toe nails and warts and pig knuckles. They would do the real Indian war dance and one old Redskin showed the village people what strong teeth he had by having a 300-pound man from the crowd sit on a barrel and this Indian, with teeth white as snow, in December, lifted barrel and man from the stage with his teeth about seven inches from the floor. Gee, and you talk about a hand, he got more than anyone ever received in this village by the sea for that great trick. That Indian was 66 years old.

The shipyard had 12 boats in the works and 1,500 men on the payroll. Fairs were held in the village hall. Lobsters were sold for 10 cents a pound and E. Potter gave an ice pond to skate on for the children and young people, where 500 to 600 used to enjoy themselves with a bonfire to warm the hands when cold. Those days are over, never will be back again.

Today work is at a standstill, not a hundred men employed at the shipyard. Fish are scarce and fishermen are trying hard to keep out of debt. But there is an A. & P. store on East Main street, also four churches in town, and basketball games each week.

When the World war broke out, 75 fellows marched to war to help Uncle Sam out. Now an American Legion post, Harrison Morton Ward, No. 115, is formed, a place to go each month. The Noank school for years had a woman teacher in charge of all the rooms, but the last two years it has been a man teacher and all the children like him well. He is Robert Searles who is a real sport, loves all kind of games and is a star guard on the Noank Whirlwinds basketball team.

Noank is going to have wrestling matches the coming winter in Corona hall. That is 60 by 40, a great hall for flying tackles and toe holds. Some of the best wrestlers in Connecticut came over and had a talk with the three men who own the hall and say it is a wonderful place to hold the matches. It is easier to come from nearby towns than to go over to New London. Oatbag Crusher Mike Passi will get in form and Wrestler Toehold George Deveau, a fellow that knows a thousand holds, also is strong; he can lift a barrel of oil that weighs over 300 pounds and put it on a truck; he doesn't know his own power. It would be a real match for both are young, only about 24 and L. Poplin and Bill Collins can wrestle to a finish to see who is the best man. It was talked about getting Don George here who threw Gus Sonnenburg, the flying tackle of the world, but it would take plenty of green backs to land that wrestler but any good sport would cut holes in the children's bank and spend $2.50 to $8 a ticket to see a world champion of the heavyweight class fight in the fishing village than seeing the Turk with his bags of tricks and rubber teeth biting all of his friends in the square ring. Gee, it would be great to have wrestling in Noank!

When a wrestling match is held in the Whaling City 40 sports go over and see it so why not have them here? You can see from any place in the hall, so let's go into a huddle and get Corona hall and try one wrestling match with all-star men shooting for the toe-hold, or a head flip. It might pay and it might not, on account of the jobless men who are on their last pair of shoes, till a corn-beef sandwich would be like an 80-cent steak to them. Mark Twain said, "You got to spend a dollar to make a dollar," so let's have a wrestling show.

EEL 38 INCHES LONG CAUGHT BY CAPT. McBRIDE

Listen to a story about an eeler who holds all records for catching monster eels. Capt. Jake McBride was smoking a Penrod cigar at the gas station at the corner of Elm and Prospect Hill avenue, when he said: "I went out to haul a few eel pots set on the east side of Kirk Island. After hauling several pots with not much luck, I came to the last pot and had some job to haul it over the side of the boat. It was as heavy as a barrel of oil — and what an eel! I had to cut the pot with a wire cutter in order to get the monster Mystic Island Sound eel out. It was 38 inches long, weighed eight pounds and was seven inches around.

At first the pinochle gang was ready to give him the laugh, but he jumped into his auto, speeded down to the boat and brought back proof. If good eyes don't look over anything his story was all right. "Well," Red Eldragh said, "will you take $2.90 for that Indian Town eel, Mr. McBride? I want the skin!" "Well, Red, you've always been a good boy, like Ben Turpin in the movies, so the monster eel is yours."

Never in your life have you seen a kid so happy he would turn down a $10 bill with the times hard as in President Garfield's days. "Come on!" Pinochle Harris said. "Tell us what you want the skin for?" "For a belt. After the skin is dried out for a week, you stuff the skin and have a tailor take several stitches and a Ford auto could use it for a tow rope and it will not break!"

How he got the gas station laugh! Farmer Gray took another load away. "Well, wait and see! Time will prove it to you wise guys. No one can tell anything unless it is a lie. Well throw me the bird cage and see if I will catch it!" but Red let it go by.

He told the truth that was some eel. The largest one ever brought into the fishing village, for the fishing book that has the history of all monster fish. Also queer ones will be seen on any page, even the old whaler never saw such an eel. To had a picture could not have been taken of Mr. Eel, but it was a dark day and eels don't live long out of water, unless in a can. So now all the eelers are out in rowboats trying to get an eel to beat Capt. Jake McBride, the champion for 1930 and he might be until 1945, for taking such an eel.

Capt. Mike Passi and Capt. Rollin Rathbun, champion smelt catcher of Connecticut, got 116 eels in one day and Capt. Passi stabbed a man's pocketbook. A big smile came over his face to think he had a fortune but when he opened it, it was a different story. He found a Down East penny, a collar button, a Grand Union tea check. How his pal Rathbun laughed. Seven come eleven sure can have sport eeling where a fellow can go out and jab a few times in the mud on the flats across the Noank channel and get a dinner where beefsteak is [illegible] cents a pound. The times are hard and by living in the village by the sea there is always a way to make out a meal or two; but in a big city it is different, where the man next door don't even know you.

Eeling is the real sport but cold work, but let's get a spear and beat Capt. Jake McBride's monster eel and don't let that stay on the fishing book for 16 years and get all covered with cobwebs. So let's beat the champion eel catcher of Noank if we can!

Aunt Minnie was taking her first trip on a train. When the conductor came through the car and called for tickets Auntie readily gave up. A few minutes later the train boy, coming through called, "Chewing gum!"

"Never!" cried Aunt Minnie, bravely. "You can take my ticket, but not my gum!"—The Pathfinder.

Wishing

Do you wish the world were better?
  Let me tell you what to do.
Set a watch upon your actions,
  Keep them always straight and true;
Rid your mind of selfish motives,
  Let your thoughts be clean and high;
You can make a little Eden
  Of the sphere you occupy.

Do you wish the world were wiser?
  Well, suppose you make a start
By accumulating wisdom
  In the scrap book of your heart.
Do not waste one page in folly;
  Live to learn and learn to live;
If you want to give men knowledge,
  You must get it ere you give.

Do you wish the world were happy?
  Then remember day by day
Just to scatter seeds of kindness
  As you pass along the way.
For the pleasures of the many
  May be often traced to one,
As the hand that plants the acorr
  Shelters armies from the sun.

NO CRIMINAL BLAME AGAINST TRUCK DRIVER

Frank Clerezewski of Jewett City is exonerated from criminal blame by Coroner Edward G. McKay, in causing the death of Private Ernest M. Hilton, U. S. Marine corps, who was killed at the submarine base Dec. 4th, while doing guard duty. The marine was struck by a mail truck driven by the Jewett City man. The coroner's finding in the case, made public Tuesday, says:

At about 5:15 a. m. on Dec. 4, 1930, the said Ernest M. Hilton was on guard duty at the post near Captain Brown's home. He had been trying to communicate with the guard headquarters and apparently had been unsuccessful. He noticed an automobile coming south along the Military highway, which was going in the general direction of the guard headquarters. He went into the highway and stopped the said automobile. This automobile was a milk truck owned and operated by Anton Goulart. This truck stopped on the west side of the road near the edge of the traveled portion of the road allowing sufficient room east of the truck for motor vehicle traffic to pass.

When the milk truck stopped the said Ernest Hilton came to the left hand door of the cab on the truck, opened it and asked the driver to give a message to the guard at the main gate of the submarine base, some distance south of his post. While he was talking to the driver of the milk truck, a truck carrying mail from New London, northerly, passed. There was sufficient room for this truck to pass while the said Hilton was talking at the door of the milk truck. As this truck was going by the passenger in the milk truck advised the said Hilton to watch out for that truck.

The said Hilton finished talking with the driver of the milk truck and closed the door of the cab. The driver of the milk truck had started to move away just as another truck also carrying mail from New London, northerly, passed the milk truck. When the said Hilton finished his conversation he moved toward the rear of the truck and then started to cross the highway. Just at this time the mail truck passed the milk truck and struck the said Hilton with the left front of the car. The said Hilton was thrown to the ground very seriously injured. The mail truck continued for a distance of about 28 feet and came to a stop.

The passenger in the milk truck saw the said Hilton start back and start across the road. He then got a glimpse of the mail truck going along and felt sure that an accident would occur. He told the driver of the milk truck to stop. After the man was struck the driver of the mail truck boarded the milk truck and rode to the main gate of the submarine base. Finding no one there he continued on to the police barracks at Groton, where he obtained help. He returned to the scene with a police officer and the injured man was brought to the hospital at the submarine base. His injuries were of a fatal nature and he died shortly afterwards.

An investigation was made at the scene of the collision and measurements were taken. From all of the evidence in this case including the marks on the road showing the distance that the mail truck went after striking the deceased and the testimony of those who were at the scene, there does not appear to be any criminal negligence. The mail truck was not, at that time, going at a fast rate of speed and was not being operated in a grossly negligent manner under the circumstances. When the first mail truck went by there was sufficient room to pass by the deceased and he apparently knew that it was going by for he came closer to the cab of the milk truck. When the second mail truck approached he either did not see it or thought he could get across the road before it should pass. The vision of the driver of the mail truck was somewhat obstructed by the lights of the milk truck just at the time he was passing the milk truck. When he saw the deceased in the road the distance between his truck and the deceased was then about two feet.

There is not, in this case, the element sufficient to sustain a finding of criminal negligence. I do not find that there is any gross or willful misconduct or negligence nor any wanton disregard for the rights of others. The driver of the mail truck had little or no opportunity to see the deceased in time to avoid him and when he did see him the driver then used his best efforts to avoid striking the man.

I am satisfied and find that the death of Ernest M. Hilton was not caused by the criminal act, omission or carelessness of any other person or persons.

CONTRIBUTIONS $19,564 IN DEMOCRATIC STATE CAMPAIGN

There were contributions of $19,564 to the democratic party's funds in the state campaign and the expenditures were $19,491.20, leaving a balance on hand of $82.30, according to the statement filed with the secretary of state's office by Fred P. Holt, treasurer of the state central committee. Wilbur L. Cross, who was elected governor, contributed $2,000 to the party's campaign fund.

Payment of $1,848 to Cunningham Brothers for printing was the largest single item of expense, with a contribution of $1,660 to the Hartford democratic town committee as the next largest item. Salaries of workers at headquarters amounted to $1,341, postage $1,271, salary of Joseph Tone, secretary, $600; Herbert K. Plank, publicity director, $600; democratic town committee of New Haven $200; Pietro Diana, for Italian-American rallies, $566.

Funds given to the senatorial district committees, by districts were: Fourth $200; Fifth $325; Sixth $400, Seventh $275, Twelfth $200, Thirteenth $100, Fourteenth $200, Seventeenth $125, Eighteenth $125, Nineteenth $125, Twentieth $200, Twenty-fourth $150, Twenty-fifth $250, Twenty-sixth $150, Twenty-seventh $100, Twenty-eighth $200, Twenty-ninth $200, Thirtieth $175, Thirty-first $200, Thirty-second $200, Thirty-third $125, Thirty-fourth $200, Thirty-fifth $250.

Former National Committeeman Thomas J. Spellacy, who gave $2,250, was the largest individual contributor to the committee, although the contribution of the Bridgeport democratic town committee, $5,000, was the largest single amount contributed. Governor-elect Cross contributed $2,000, and Daniel J. Leary, candidate for lieutenant-governor, gave $1,500; Barend Van Gerbig and David A. Wilson, candidate for attorney general, gave $1,000 each.

EXAMINED 67 APPLICANTS FOR PHYSICIAN CERTIFICATES

The state board of healing arts examined 67 persons in the three examinations for certification as physicians in this state during the year ending June 30, according to the annual report of the board, made public this week. Of those examined 58 were certified by the board and nine were refused certification. Those certified included 54 taking regular medical examinations and four who took osteopathic examinations.

During the year the board ruled that an interneship served by a medical "credential" candidate in an approved hospital should be included in his record of practice, thereby exempting such candidates from the necessity of prerequisite appearance before the board of healing arts.

The board recommends that the list of approved schools filed each year with the state department of health should be carefully scrutinized to see that approval is not given to schools of low grade. The recommendation came as the result of the experience of the board in examining a graduate of the only natureopathic school certified by the Connecticut natureopathic board, where the candidate had taken only evening courses and was ruled to be eligible to take the examination by the attorney general. No legislation is recommended by the board.

WESTMINSTER

STORM SENDS MOTORISTS HOME FROM MOODY AUCTION

A large crowd attended the Moody auction Thursday. The usual number of antique fans was on hand. A sleet storm which started around noon hampered operations somewhat and started many on their homeward way. Several unlucky motorists who had neglected to have their chains with them had a tussle to get going on the slippery macadam. One local car skidded on Westminister hill and turned completely over. The occupants while not seriously injured received many bruises; the car was put out of commission.

At the recent Pigeon Poultry and Pet Stock exhibition held in Norwich, Fred Newton in strong competition won 14 premiums on 11 entries of rabbits and hares; 2 blue ribbons, 1 red and 2 white, are the trophies Mr. Newton has added to a long list of former winnings.

Nicholas Vitlaz, Jr., is nursing a broken wrist received several days ago while cranking an automobile.

Misses Ethel and Frances Newton, Fred Newton and William Newton attended a whist party given by the American Legion in Moosup, Monday evening.

Lucky At Cards.

Lady Luck is sure camping on the trail of Fred Newton these days. At the whist party at grange hall two weeks ago he won a first prize, handsome smoking set and on Friday evening at the Community whist held at the town hall on the Plains he again won first prize, a shaving set. Yet he declares he doesn't carry a cold deck, either!

A flock of 52 wild geese flew over this section Dec. 14, with a snow squall right behind them.

Alec Helstrom received a compound fracture of the wrist while cranking his car Sunday. At the hospital in Willimantic the fracture was reduced and Mr. Helstrom returned to his home here.

Zero and below was the general report in this section for Tuesday morning.

Wells which failed to fill during the late fall rains will probably be dry all winter causing extreme hardship to many unfortunate stock owners, who must haul water from long distances to supply their needs.

The pupils of Westminster Hill school, Miss Grace Dawley, teacher, will have their usual Christmas entertainment in the school house, Monday evening, Dec. 22.

The Christmas tree and entertainment at Westminster Congregational church is scheduled for Tuesday evening, Dec. 23.

Miss Nellie Colburn, employed in East Greenwich, R. I., is enjoying a short vacation at her home here.

Dorrance Cook of New York is a visitor at the Colburn farm.

EASTERN VOLUNTOWN

The thermometer at Beach Pond Tuesday was 7 below zero at 7 o'clock in the morning.

Callers at the Pine Grove farm Sunday were Elisha Bitgood and daughter Evelyn and Mrs. Chaffee and two children of Hope Valley; John Gardner and son and two of his friends from Montville; Harold Bitgood from Pachaug.

Mrs. Bitgood is better of her cold.

There were two game wardens through Eastern Voluntown Saturday. One of them had a gun. They parked their car on Mr. Bitgood's land and went off in the woods. Don't know what they were hunting for. If one of the farmers should take his gun and go out and shoot a rabbit or squirrel he would be arrested. Can't even kill a deer. It doesn't make any difference what they do. There is an old man 86 years old in Eastern Voluntown. He planted him a garden this summer. He had cabbage, turnips, and beets. The deer got in and ate them. Also he had beans but he had no right to kill one. If he did he would be arrested. What are the deer here for?

Your correspondent was glad to hear that Mr. and Mrs. Warren Tanner's little girl is better of her sore throat.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Maynard of Ekonk are the happy parents of a baby boy born the 14th of Dec. They have one more child. It is a boy. He was 9 years old the day the baby was born.

Lizzie Maynard's ulcerated tooth is better. The bunch broke. She is feeling quite a little better.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Bitgood and daughter of Pachaug visited Sunday with Mrs. Bitgood's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Dawley.

George Remington and Harold Lincoln of Oneco were callers at Mr. and Mrs. William Bitgood's Sunday.

Leo Remington killed three spring pigs recently that weighed 880 pounds. One weighed 298 pounds, one 293 pounds and one 289 pounds. How is that for spring pigs? They were guessing on the weight. His little boy nine years old said he would guess. He guessed right on the notch of one, the other two he was a few pounds off but nearer than the men that killed them.

William Holmes, the man that lives on the George Green place was going to one of his neighbor's, Mr. Dawley Monday. He said on his way he passed a little pond that is on Mr. Dawley's land and said he saw three turtles on it. They were on the ice. He said he never saw such a sight before.

Mrs. Albert Dawley and daughter Nellie Bitgood are in Voluntown papering the house she owns. Saturday they will paper the chapel as the Forest Ladies have their suppers there.

THOMPSON

There was a large gathering at the grange, Tuesday night, when the following program was carried out: Selections by Termine's orchestra, Silent Night, Hark the Herald Angels Sing, O Little Town of Bethlehem; recitation, Patricia Southwich; song, Come All Ye Faithful, Girl Scouts; monologue, Esther Mayhew; recitations, Dorothy Bates and George Whiteley; Termine's orchestra, Sweet Jenny Lee, I'll be Blue Just Thinking of You; one act play, Christmas at Skeeter's Corners, a school of fifty years ago; teacher, Theresa Auger; Johnathan Jones, Sarah Ballard; Silas Morrell, Marian Herrick; Maria, Delight Amidon; Rebecca, Harriet Reed, Hiram, May Withey; Hannah, Nancy Herrick; Sally, Louise Bayer; Eliza, Dorothy Reed; Sophonia, Esther Mayhew. Selections, Termine's orchestra, When the Organ Played at Twilight and It Came Upon the Midnight Clear. Then Santa Claus was announced and proved to be the best ever, providing gifts, candy and oranges for every child and some of the grownups. This was the last grange meeting of the year.

FERNANDO ROSS WAS FOUND DEAD IN BED TUES.

Fernando Ross, 72, was found dead in bed, Tuesday morning, by his wife. The cause is believed to be heart failure. He was one of the most prominent and most dependable business men in the east part of the town, having conducted a successful lumbering business. He was active in politics and public affairs and had settled a number of estates. He has made several trips south where his son, Seth Ross, resides. He leaves his widow and two daughters, Mrs. Hilton of East Hartford and Mrs. Sarella Rhodes of Waterbury and a son, Seth, besides a number of grandchildren. A number of these had been here to spend Thanksgiving with him, staying at his cottage named the Betsy Ross at Colonial Park, Webster lake.

STAFFORD

Munro Dimmock has been ill for several days.

The ponds and reservoir show the effects of recent rains, but some of the wells have but very little or no water in them.

Mrs. Julia Belcher has been ill at her home some time.

Mrs. Charles Smith and son, Charles, of Willimantic, have been guests of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Fox.

Mrs. James Lewis has returned home after spending a week with her parents, in Allentown, N. H.

Miss Elsie M. Phillips has returned to Woodmere, L. I., after a stay with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Phillips.

Mr. and Mrs. J. McCarthy, of Springfield, have been the guests of Mrs. H. G. Dunham.

Pliny Colburn shot a 210-pound deer in Wales.

WESTFORD

Mrs. Stratton led the Home Economics meeting of Dec. 11. The members of the club were much interested in the kitchen arrangements shown in photographs. Remembering the skill exhibited by them in their carpentry meeting, we may expect to see their kitchens brought strictly up to date.

Thre new members, Alex, Ladislaw and Blazey Duhansky, joined the 4-H club at its last meeting.

The Christmas entertainment of the Hill school was held in the church Thursday. The pupils of the school had constructed and presented a play, "The Other Wise Man," taken from Henry Van Dyke's story of that name.

MYSTIC

When the Woman's Guild of St. Mark's Episcopal church held a whist in the parish house Wednesday evening the following were the prize winners: In bridge, Mrs. Lowell Ralph and George Johnson, Mrs. Latham Johnson and Harry MacKenzie. In straight whist, Mrs. William Leise and K. Jansson of Poquonoc Bridge, Mrs. George McAslan and C. G. McGaughey. Cake and coffee were served by the committee, Mrs. George Denekee, Mrs. D. Walter Backus and Mrs. Edward Cameron.

The weekly broadcast given by the Connecticut D. A. R. over station WTIC of Hartford at 2:45 Thursday afternoon was given by Mrs. Frederick P. Latimer. The paper, written by a member of Freelove Miller chapter, D. A. R., of Milford, was on the Ells-Stowe house in Milford. There will be no broadcast next Thursday but on New Year's day, Miss Mary Louise Pardee of New Haven will give a talk on Costumes on New Year's Day in Various Countries.

A special Christmas program will be given in Old Mystic M. E. church Sunday evening at 7 o'clock as follows: Prelude; song, There's a Song in the Air, congregation; prayer; Cantique De Noel, quartet; Scripture, Isaiah 9 1-7; song, Ring Out the Bells, congregation; responsive reading; Weineight, quartet; Scripture reading, Luke 2 8-20; song, First Noel, congregation; Scripture reading, Hebrews 1 1-9; song, While Shepherds Watched, congregation; offertory; song, As With Gladness, congregation; a pageant, "The Adoration of the Christ Child," is introduced by the singing of "Oh Little Town of Bethlehem," by Miss Fay Johnson; carolers enter, singing "O Come Let Us Adore Him"; solo, "It Came Upon the Midnight Clear," Miss Johnson; enter Shepherds singing "Away in a Manger"; enter three kings singing, "We Three Kings of the Orient"; presentation of gifts to the Christ Child; recessional, "Silent Night." The characters taking part in this pageant which is to be presented by the Master's Helpers class, under the direction of Miss Antoinette Morgan, are: Joseph, Allan Gould; Mary, Elsie Gasparino; kings, Allan Avery, Frank Patterson and Alden Mull; shepherds, Aldo Gasparino, Amos Barnes, Leslie Haley, Rowland Avery, Gilbert Robinson and Edward Pearce; carolers, Ruth and Lucy Barnes, Lydia Brunke, Grace Lamb, Mary White, Edna Pierce, Flora Avery, Nancy G. Haley, Sylvia Gasparino, Helen Lamphere, Gertrude Trainor and Antoinette Morgan.

There was a dance in Grange hall Wednesday evening which was very well attended. During the evening whist was played and prizes were won by Mrs. W. L. Main and B. O'Neil of Groton; David Brown and Harry Keeney of New London. The affair was in charge of Lyle Davis. A six-piece orchestra furnished music for the square and round dancing.

Greetings From Florida

Friends in the village have received cards from Mr. and Mrs. Henry A. Sinclair, who say they are pleasantly located at 1626 Oak Mark street, Orlando, Fla.

Mr. and Mrs. Howson have moved from Irving street to an apartment at Willow Point.

At the Methodist church in the village Sunday morning, there will be a processional and recessional by the vested choir. The members have been making their robes and this will be the first time they have worn them. In the evening there will be a pageant "The Adoration of the Kings and Shepherds," by the young people. Friday evening, December 26, the annual Christmas tree will be held at 7 o'clock.

A Christmas entertainment by the Sunday school of the Congregational church will be given in the church Tuesday evening. It will be a White Gift service, when the children will give rather than receive gifts.

DENISON STORE SOLD AFTER 70 YRS. OWNERSHIP

Frederick Denison of Broadway has sold the store known as the I. W. Denison store on West Main street, to Benjamin N. Bendett and wife, of Mystic. This store has been in the Denison family for 70 years and Mr. Denison himself was storekeeper until ill health forced him to give it up. The business has been continued since in charge of Leeds Main.

Zenas R. Snyder, Chester Morrow, Fred Bethel and James Hempstead plan to go to Lynn, Mass., today, where they will attend a meeting of Peter Woodland lodge, K. of P., in session this afternoon and evening.

Mystic Rebecca lodge is to have a Christmas party this (Friady) evening following the regular meeting. Each person attending is to bring a 10c gift for the tree. Parents are privileged to bring their children.

Mrs. George Barden, injured painfully some time ago when she fell, when she stepped down one step to the ground after having visited a neighbor, and has been confined to her home since, has been admitted to the hospital in New London for observation and treatment.

Mr. and Mrs. Guy Francis returned Tuesday from Round Pond, Me., where they were called by the death of the former's mother.

Clifford Dolsen was in Hartford Wednesday.

Helen Starkey chapter of St. Mark's Episcopal church met in the parish house Wednesday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Michael Mahoney of East Greenwich visited friends in the village Wednesday.

Mrs. Albert Wilson was a recent caller in Norwich.

Mrs. W. W. Pinkerton and Mrs. H. D. Gay were in Hartford Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Machette left Wednesday for Wallingford, where they will make their home.

Norton Wheeler has returned from a business trip to Norwood, Mass.

MONTVILLE

BOYS ARE SUSPECTED OF LINGER STORE BREAK

Harold Urnstrung, of Laurel Hill, Norwich, who operates a small grocery store on the old River road at Uncasville for Anne Linger, who just bought the store last Monday, reported to the local town officials that the store was broken into, some time between Wednesday evening at 7:30 and Thursday morning at 7:15 and about $50 worth of goods were stolen. The loot consisted of one carton of Camels, three packages of Chesterfields, 5 lbs. of Blue Banner chocolates, 2 cans of beans, 1 can of pears, four cans of corn, and a quantity of penny. Candy that was in a show-case. Examination by Police Officer Howard Lamphere of Montville showed that entrance was gained by the rear door. This is the fourth or fifth break here in the past month and it is believed to be the work of boys. The matter is being investigated by State Trooper Eric Swanson of Groton barracks.

In spite of har dtimes, collection of this year's personal tax was reported good by Collector Harry Watts, of Montville. With a total of a little over 1300 eligible to pay this tax, 82 per cent have paid to date. Delinquent will pay the extra $1 penalty and if the tax is not paid within a reasonable length of time the bills will be turned over to the town's constable.

A large Christmas tree has been erected beside the Connecticut Power Co.'s office on the Uncasville-Palmertown highway and was lighted Wednesday evening for the first time. The tree, with its numerous colored bulbs presents a beautiful sight.

Thames lodge, I. O. O. F., had a large number of members present at the meeting held Tuesday evening in connection of the conferring of the second degree on two candidates. This was followed by a light lunch, served under the supervision of Archie Fisher.

Local basketball fans motored to Plainfield Thursday evening and witnessed the contest between the Plainfield Pros. and the House of David team.

Oxoboxo lodge, A. F. and A. M. will meet this (Friday) evening.

Nearly 30,000,000 Americans are attending school exclusive of adults who attend part time.

THE FARMER'S TALK TO FARMERS

TREND TO MECHANIZE FARMING

(Written Specially for The Bulletin)

Farming has always been a sort of "catch as catch can" job. Beyond the regular alternations of day and night and summer and winter there is nothing absolutely dependable about it.

There used to be a wood-working shop near me, and one machine in it always fascinated me. The attendant stuck a white birch log in at one end, and immediately there came out of the other end perfectly turned spools by the basket full. Or tool handles if there was no great call for spools. Or the wooden grips for a bucket bail, if there chanced to be demand for them. It was a mere log which went in. What came out depended entirely upon what the machine was "set" to produce. Feed, "set" and power were all three wholly under the control of the operator.

Farming is almost the exact opposite of this. The farmer puts in his seeds in the spring. After that, control passes out of his hands. They germinate or not, according to circumstances. If they germinate, they grow or not, largely according to their own sweet will, regardless of what he may think or do. He doesn't know whether a late spring frost will nip them, or a raid of bugs will eat them up, or an attack of blight will poison them, or a drought will burn them off.

He takes his chances and putters around with more or less futile expedients of encouragement to his plants and opposition to their enemies. Sometimes he wins out and sometimes he loses. Whichever happens depends, in the end, more on the unpredictable whims of the weather-gods than on his efforts, however well-meant and seemingly reasonable.

Then there's the soil itself. I don't know how many kinds there are listed by the experts, but there's no farm in New England which hasn't got from three to thirty-nine different sorts. One will grow grass but won't grow potatoes. Another will produce huckleberries but won't produce cucumbers. And so on and on through the whole list. Our soils are the result of so much earth-jiggling and joggling, so much scraping and scratching, so much scrambling and unscrambling, that the farmer has got to learn them, acre by acre, sometimes rod by rod, before he can hope to know which to use for what.

When I was raising garden truck, there were parts of my ten acres that would produce good peas, early ones, and of fine quality. There were other parts which wouldn't return the seed planted. The soils looked about the same, analyses I had made of them showed no marked difference. But,—one would grow peas and the other wouldn't.

The worst of it was that these pro-pea and anti-pea tracts weren't separated by straight lines and right angles. They twisted around each other and stuck tongues into each others' faces. Visitors used to wonder, sometimes audibly, why I didn't make my garden-beds more symmetrical; why rows of peas were suddenly interrupted by plantings of marrow beans, etc. The reason was that I had found it didn't pay, in even a money sense, to try to bully telephone peas into living where they didn't want to.

It's so in field crops. Fertilization and tillage are, of course, essential, but not all the fertilization and tillage any farmer can afford will make corn grow as well on one field as it will on another which it naturally takes to as a duck takes to water.

All of which goes to show that running a machine and running a farm are two quite different propositions.

Yet the present day tendency of practically all the farm doctors is to prescribe machinery for the farm. If you can't produce what you think you ought to, "get more machines." If you can't produce crops for less than the market price, "get more machines." Whatever trouble you're up against, "get more machines."

Of course, the outstanding exemplar of this modernistic trend is Campbell of Montana, who carries on a 100,000 acre farm without a single farmer working on it. His only employes are engineers and mechanics, who tend the machines which do all the work that is done. This, of course, is absolutely out of the question in New England and with any crop except wheat or perhaps corn.

Wheat requires only plowing, seeding, and harvesting. These three tasks can all be done by machinery, for they call for no special knowledge or knack beyond that of tending machinery. Corn, too, is coming more and more to be a machine product. There have long been tractor-drawn planters and cultivators and cutters. Now, it is said, the one-time popular husking contests of the corn belt are threatened with extinction by a corn-husking machine which does the work of ten men at less than the wages of one.

The very latest thing in the way of farm machinery that I have happened to hear of is an automatic milking machine recently installed in New Jersey and started off by no less a person than Thomas Alva Edison, inventor extraordinary and electrician plenipotentiary.

The machine washes, dries and milks 50 cows at once at the rate of twelve and a half minutes to the cow. All without the touch of a human hand unless upon the switch-key. Secretary Hyde of the department of agriculture attended the opening demonstration and summed up the situation in his address by saying:

"This farm is industrialized and mechanized to the nth degree. Here the cows are turned into producing machines, batteries of industrial automatics, through which the raw materials are fed from the fields to the milk bottle."

We are not informed how Old Brindle or the Mooley cow take it. In fact, we are told nothing except that, once you've paid for the machine, you save the wages of a dozen or so milkers. And you have the right to put on the milk bottle label the assertion that its contents come to the user "untouched by human hands." This seems to be a rather popular slogan. But whether it will result in getting for the automatic milk a slightly better price, per quart, is not known. Perhaps the over-capitalized dwellers in Park avenue pent-houses may decide that it is another mark of their Brahminical exclusivity to pay 25 cents a quart for a label commoner people can't afford.

These are just illustrations of the trend to mechanize farming; to put it on the same footing with wood-working machines which swallow logs and turn out spools just by twisting a button or pulling a lever.

The whole thing is based on the highly modernistic theory that the surest way to make money is to begin by spending it.

Which may have some basis in fact or may not. Certain plungers assert that it is the real gospel of business. Certain others, who haven't had so good luck with it, are now standing in the bread-lines or waiting their turns at the free soup kitchens.

Anyway, where is the average New England farmer, who has to think twice before he buys a postage stamp, going to find the money to pay for expensive machinery? And where is he going to find any sort of machinery which will work smoothly and efficiently on his side-hills and boulder-strewn little fields?

There are several differences between a Montana prairie and a North Stonington farm.

There are also differences between the man who knows soils and the man who merely understands gears and cams.

There is a still wider difference between the man who just wants to make money and the one who wants to make a home.

If the only answer to "the farm problem" is the turning of the old farm into an imitation factory, some of us veterans are inclined to be thankful that we haven't our lives to live over again.

THE FARMER.

WINDHAM

Mrs. Herbert F. Robinson sent some beautiful poinsettias from her winter home in Leland, Fla., for decoration in the Congregational church.

Mrs. Harry Moseley, principal of the grammar school, was called to Boston Thursday by the death of her aunt. Mrs. Guy Richmond substituted for her Thursday and Friday.

DeWitt Lathrop has been appointed constable for the village.

Fifteenth Anniversary

An item of interest to local people in a recent issue of a Saugus, Mass., paper tells of a reception for Rev. and Mrs. C. B. MacDuffee in recognition of the 15th anniversary of Mr. MacDuffee's pastorate of the Cliftondale, Mass., Congregational church, which was attended by about 200. At the conclusion of a musical and literary program, with addresses by neighboring ministers and friends, Mr. and Mrs. MacDuffee were given a purse of $105 in gold and Mrs. MacDuffee was presented with a bouquet of roses. Mr. MacDuffee was pastor of Windham church from 1903 to 1908 and two of his three children were born here. Mr. MacDuffee went from here to Three Rivers, Mass.

Nineteen were present at the December meeting of the League of Women Voters held with Miss Dorothy Brown with the president, Mrs. Bernard Funk of Scotland in charge. Reports of the state convention in Bridgeport were given by Mrs. Funk, Mrs. Haskins, Mrs. Amidon of Scotland and Mrs. Gladys [illegible]. The speaker was the state field secretary, Miss Sally Fanny Gleason, of Middletown. The league voted $100 to the Windham Community hospital fund. After the meeting gingerbread and coffee were served, Mrs. E. L. Watrous pouring.

Mrs. Robert Pegrum of Willimantic was a recent luncheon guest of Mrs. Charles C. Abbe.

At a meeting of the Ladies Aid society of the Congregational church, $100 was voted to the Windham Community Memorial hospital fund.

Christmas Sunday will be observed in the Congregational church next Sunday with special music at the morning service. In the evening there will be a service in the church with a cantata by the choir. Tuesday evening the Sunday school entertainment will will be held. Supper will be served to members of the school only but the public has been invited to the [illegible] later.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur [illegible] and Mrs. Henry Lincoln of Willimantic; Dr. and Mrs. F. E. Guild and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Jordan were guests of Mrs. Charles Larrabee at supper followed by bridge, Friday night.

The C. E. meeting was omitted Sunday and ten members attended the five society union meeting in Chaplin.

Miss Margaret Bixby is rehearsing with the children for carol singing Christmas eve.

The plays presented in the school auditorium by the Gloom-Chasers Dramatic club of St. Paul's church, Willimantic, were very well done. Between the acts vocal solos and duets by Mrs. Edith Grant and Mrs. George Wilcox of Willimantic were enjoyed. Music by the Willimantic symphonic orchestra gave added pleasure. The proceeds, about $20, were divided between the Gloom-Chasers and the local Woman's guild.

Mrs. Charles C. Abbe closed her summer home here Saturday and goes to her daughter's in New Haven.

Southern California produces approximately 30-tons of tomato seed yearly, or about three-fourths of the nation's supply.

NET ADVANCE IN PRICES OF STOCKS YESTERDAY AVERAGED ONE POINT

NEW YORK, Dec. 18—(AP)—An emphatic upturn in bonds was one of the most heartening developments in the financial market today.

Stocks, on the momentum of Wednesday's spectacular climb, rallied briskly, only to lose a large part of their gain when purchases made for a trading turn were sold. The net advance for the session averaged about a point, although numerous issues were up much more than that. Sales totaled 3,290,370 shares.

The recovery in bonds signified that the market's recent weakness had been due to temporary conditions which seemed to disappear quickly with the return in stocks.

Although few cared to go on record as predicting that actual bottom had been reached pending the market's action under realizing and a secondary reaction such as would normally follow so sharp a rally, it was felt that the two week decline had discounted a large part of any further unfavorable business news, particularly fourth quarter earnings.

The market's progress was fairly consistent through the early hours. At their highest levels of the day prices of some stocks were 10 to 30 points above Wednesday's lows. The sharpest reaction came in the final hour when prominent industrials lost all but a fraction of their 2 to 3 point advances, yet the market still retained enough vitality to close generally above the day's lowest quotations. An exception was the weaknes sof the coppers, with Anaconda and American Smelting sagging sharply.

While security prices were gaining courage, the leading commodities lost heart. Bar silver again went to a record low. Copper exporters pared a half cent from their quotations, the second cut of that size this week. Corn turned heavy as larger southwest offerings appeared, sagging about a cent and a half a bushel. Cotton weakened under a renewal of liquidation and final quotations were off 10 to 20 points. Wheat was unsteady, reflecting bearish government reports and a disappointing export demand. Futures closed 1-8c lower to 1-4c higher.

The weekly federal reserve bank statement showed some interesting changes. There were large gains in discounts and holdings of government securities and an expansion of more than $100,000,000 in currency circulation, part of which was seasonal.

Heavy liquidation in stocks during the past week brought a $19,000,000 drop in brokers' loans, which are down to the nominal amount of $2,008,000,000. Most of the reduction was in loans for New York city member banks' own account. The latter's loans on securities to non-broker customers rose $23,000,000.

The most spectacular stock today was Auburn, opening at 101, up 2 points. It soared to 119 3-4, as shorts took a squeezing and then fell back to 112 for a net gain of 13. Its Wednesday low was 89. J. I. Case was another wide mover, although the 12 rise was halved. Stocks like American Can, Westinghouse, General Electric and Union Carbide, finished fractionally higher after rising two or three points. U. S Steel, which had reached 141 3-4, closed at 139 3-8, off 1-8. American Telephone lost half of a three point rise.

Rails displayed encouraging strength, New York Central retained 2 points of a six point advance and Baltimore and Ohio, Atchison, Northern Pacific and Missouri Pacific were up 1 to 3 net. Union Pacific and Illinois Central, however, were heavy.

Small advances covered the list of foreign exchanges, with both sterling cables and the French franc up slightly. The Spanish peseta was a trifle heavy.

NEW YORK, Dec. 18—(AP)—The gold statement of the federal reserve bank of New York, for the week ended December 17, showed imports of $5,000,000 from Canada, $973,000 from Colombia, and $95,000 from Latin America. There were no exports and there was no change in gold earmarked for foreign account. In addition, $3,000,000 was received from Canada today and stocks of gold earmarked for foreign account increased $2,000,000.

Reports that executives of four large eastern trunk lines were ready to agree on a four party consolidation plan lacked confirmation in railroad circles today, although it was understood that progress had been made in discussions held here recently among the heads of Pennsylvania, New York Central, Baltimore and Ohio, and Chesapeake and Ohio. One version of the alleged agreement said New York Central was to get the Lackawanna, Pennsylvania the Wabash, Baltimore and Ohio the Reading and Jersey Central, and Chesapeake and Ohio the Lehigh Valley and Virginian. Pennsylvania now controls the Lehigh, but bought its holdings at a much higher price, and it was pointed out that that circumstance would be an obstacle in the way of such a consolidation.

MONEY

NEW YORK, Dec. 18—(AP)—Call money easy, 2 per cent all day. Time loans steady, 30-90 days, 2 1-2 at 3; 4-5-6 months, 3 3-4 at 3 per cent. Prime commercial paper 2 3-4 at 3. Bankers' acceptances, unchanged.

Treasury Balance

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18 — (AP) — Treasury receipts for Dec. 16 were $794,928,923.05; expenditures $318,947,386.20; balance $343,628,026.44.

THE CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, Dec. 18—(AP)—The curb market rebound from its latest bottom levels was carried further today, but it lost its momentum in the last hour.

Trading remained fairly active, the day's transfers aggregating 763,300 shares. Oils and several of the industrials and specialties made marked progress, but the list was inclined to yield to profit taking in the last hour, particularly the utilities.

Electric Bond and Share closed a fraction lower, after recording a temporary gain of 1 3-4. American Gas and Electric sold up 1 1-2, then lost its grip. Niagara Hudson showed little recuperative power, closing a shade lower. Consolidated Gas of Baltimore, Tampa Electric, Peoples Light A, and Central Public Service A, gained a couple of points, but the last named lost some of its advance. European Electric dropped 3 points to a new low at 6 7-8.

In the oils, Vacuum shot up 4 1-2 points, then slipped back 3 from the top. Gulf and Humble gained about 2 each, Standard of Ohio closed up a point, and Indiana, up 1-2. Cities Service rallied nearly a point to 16 1-4, but closed at 15 7-8. Cosden preferred, however, tumbled 19 3-4 to a new low at 10 1-4.

Among the industrial specialties, Anglo Chilean Nitrate shot up about 2 points to 11, and retained most of its gain. Deere and Lehigh Coal advanced 2, and Driver Harris 4. Aluminum company rallied 10 points.

BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, Dec. 18—(AP)—A robust rally by a wide list of railroad and other corporate domestic bonds today reversed the most stubborn and protracted decline of the year.

Impressive gains of 1 to 3 points were registered as a broad buying movement was launched which definitely turned the tide after bond prices had ebbed almost steadily for two weeks, making a long string of successive new lows for recent years.

The advance confirmed the feeling in the street that an upturn in the share market would have a favorable psychological effect on investors.

Today the buyer dominated the situation. His bidding for investment and second grade issues brought the first advance in the weighted averages in two weeks. Both the average of 10 rails and the composite was up a full point from the year's low reached yesterday. The volume of business was large although somewhat less than the heaviest turnover of days when selling was most persistent.

The broadest demand developed for railroad mortgages and advances of from 1 to 2 points were numerous and in some were larger. Bonds making a [illegible] recovery included various issues [illegible] Baltimore and Ohio, Cana- [illegible]

[illegible] Erie, Louisville and Nashville, Missouri Pacific, Nickel Plate, Pennsylvania, Southern Pacific and Western Maryland.

Virtually the entire domestic list of high grade bonds reflected the bolstering effects of the inquiry and tended to revive widely circulated reports in the financial district that organized support for the market had been decided upon.

That a pool had been formed was denied in important quarters yesterday but the report persisted that investment houses were more active on the buying side than they have been in many weeks.

The market was not without its soft spots. A few low grade rails and speculative industrials dipped to new lows for the year and the movement in the foreign list remained irregular. Some Latin Americans, notably Bolivians and Peruvians rallied sharply. German bonds joined the upward movement and the 5 1-2s and some others in the group closed more than a point higher.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET

CHICAGO, Dec. 18—(AP)—Corn fell 2c a bushel today, influenced by liberal arrivals and by reports that some corn products manufactories would shut down. Reports said industrial users of corn contended that crop shortage had been over emphasized, and not enough attention had been given to curtailment of demand owing to use of rye and other substitutes. A further weight on the market was announcement that 442,000 bushels of corn had been delivered today on Chicago December contracts.

Corn closed unsettled at nearly the day's bottom level, 1 3-8 at 1 7-8c a bushel lower than yesterday. Wheat closed irregular at 1c decline to 1-4c advance, with oats 1-4 at 3-4c off, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 15c.

COTTON

NEW YORK, Dec. 18—(AP)—Futures closed barely steady, 10 to 20 lower; spot quiet; middling 9.80.

CHRISTMAS SEALS IN SEVERAL LOCAL STORES

Announcement was made Thursday by the public health nursing department that Christmas seals can be purchased at the postal substation at the Boston store and at Pitcher and Service's store in Greeneville.

Members of the Civic's committee of the Women's City club are at Cranston's on Broadway selling Christmas seals.

Christmas seals may be purchased at Mrs. LaFreniere's store in Taftville.

MERRY CHRISTMAS
1930
HEALTH TO ALL

The Tuberculosis Seal committee wish to thank the following people for their valuable assistance during the rush of the pre-sale days:

Mrs. C. C. Gildersleeve, Mrs. Gilbert Raymond, Mrs. Charles McNamara, Mrs. Thomas A. Crowley, Mrs. Edward C. Kirby, Mrs. Alfred Allen, Mrs. Albert Streeter, Mrs. John R. Tarrant, Mrs. Shepard Palmer, Mrs. Laurence E. Millea, Miss Ruby Vaughn, Miss Rose Fisher, Miss Ruth Hamilton, Miss Ella Shannon, Mis Mary Shannon, Miss Elizabeth Pullen, Mrs. Elmer Matthewson, Mrs. Eugene Monty.

The following radio talk by P. P. Jacobs of the National Tuberculosis association is of interest at this season of Christmas seals:

"If we only had the money!" What a multitude of unfilled hopes; what a wealth of lost opportunities; what a world of despair and tragedy are comprehended in that phrase."

Every day the doctor, the nurse, the tuberculosis secretary says "If we only had the money, we could do this, that or the other thing. We could build a preventorium, we could employ those extra nurses, we could examine and X-ray the school children, we could provide rehabilitation facilities for discharged tuberculosis patients, we could carry on these much needed studies of our problem,—What couldn't we do, if we only had the money."

This is not, however, the wail of a despairing soul, nor the last gasp of a lost cause. It is rather a challenge to newer and greater opportunities, to carry on more vigorously than ever before.

The Christmas seal sale gives you and me, gives all of us at this holiday season a chance to meet this challenge. Buy Christmas seals and bring hope to those who are looking for your support of the tuberculosis campaign. Answer the call, "If We Only Had" by buying more seals this needy year than ever before.

Public Health Nursing department report for November: New patients 144, visits 1484, Rock Nook clinic attendance 116, Well Babies conference attendance 90, tuberculosis clinic attendance 22.

FOUR CUBAN CONGRESSMEN WILL REFUSE TO RESIGN

HAVANA, Dec. 18—(AP)—Four Cuban congressmen said in a statement today that demands for congress to resign in view of the present political situation will be refused because the public interest does not require it.

Their statement was in answer to Representative Carlos Manuel de La Cruz, who declared yesterday the members of congress should quit their posts.

The four congressmen said such action would establish a dangerous precedent, and that the lawmakers, while remaining loyal to the people, were also loyal to the government.

The statement was signed by Rafael Guas Inclan, president of the house of representatives, and Congressmen Manuel Tome, Santiago C. Rey and Carmelo Urquiaga.

Radiator Heating Leads

Every country has found it necessary to develop heating methods best suited to the economic conditions of the people and the climatic conditions prevailing. In the United States radiator heating has been accepted as the standard heating method and variations of radiator heating, such as hot water, steam, vapor and vacuum heating, have been developed to meet the needs of residential, commercial and industrial construction.

Nearly 2,500 men will work on bridge and grading projects planned by Minnesota this winter at a cost of $3,000,000.

LEGAL NOTICES

AT A COURT OF PROBATE HELD at Norwich, within and for the District of Norwich, on the 18th day of December A. D. 1930.

Present, NELSON J. AYLING, Judge.

Estate of Sarah L. Crompton, late of Norwich, in said District, deceased.

Ordered, That the Executor cite the creditors of said deceased to bring in their claims against said estate within six months from this date, by posting a notice to that effect, together with a copy of this order on the sign-post nearest to the place where said deceased last dwelt, and in the same town, and by publishing the same once in a newspaper having a circulation in said district, and make return to this Court.

NELSON J. AYLING, Judge.

The above and foregoing is a true copy of record.

Attest, HELEN M. DRESCHER, Clerk.

NOTICE

All creditors of said deceased are hereby notified to present their claims against said estate to the undersigned at 76 Laurel Hill Ave., Norwich, Conn., within the time limited in the above and foregoing order.

ARTHUR E. STOREY, Executor.

AT A COURT OF PROBATE HELD at North Stonington, within and for the District of North Stonington, on the 16th day of December A. D. 1930.

Present, CHARLES A. PALMER, Judge.

Estate of Romola Donn Balz, late of North Stonington, in said District, deceased.

George A. Balz of Rahway, N. J., appeared in Court by counsel and filed a petition praying, for the reasons therein set forth, that an instrument purporting to be the last will and testament of said decedent, be admitted to probate.

Whereupon, it is Ordered, That said petition be heard and determined at the Probate Court Room in North Stonington in said District, on the 24th day of December A. D. 1930, at 11 o'clock in the forenoon, and that notice of the pendency of said petition, and of said hearing thereon, be given by the publication of this order one time in The Norwich Bulletin, a newspaper having a circulation in said District at least five days prior to the date of said hearing and that return be made to this Court.

CHARLES A. PALMER, Judge.

The above and foregoing is a true copy of record.

Attest, CHARLES A. PALMER, Judge.

SEGREGATION OF PRISONERS IS PLAN AT WETHERSFIELD

Classification and segregation of prisoners at the state prison at Wethersfield is now the subject of study by the board of directors who, in their biennial report just made public urge removal of the insane from Wethersfield to the new state hospital now under construction at Newton. The transfer is recommended by both the directors and Warden Charles S. Reed, in order to secure better treatment for the insane now at the prison "and afford us further opportunity to advance our plans for an improved and more scientific administration of the prison itself."

Warden Reed, in urging removal of the insane from Wethersfield, says: "We are not equipped to properly care for these unfortunate men. They are in need of care that can only come from an institution specializing in these diseases. If given proper care in an institution for the insane, quite a considerable number, no doubt, can be cured. Prisons are not, in my opinion, the proper place to successfully treat insane men. Were it possible to transfer them to a suitable institution, we would be able to use the building now in use for them, for segregation. Too much emphasis cannot be placed on proper segregation of inmates of prisons. The throwing together of the old hardened criminal with the young and accidental criminal works destruction to the latter and gives the former further opportunity for doing harm."

Unsatisfactory Procedure

The directors in their report reiterate their comment of their preceding report, "at present the entire procedure from detection, arrest, trial, conviction and sentence is most unsatisfactory," and again offer the comment, "an inquiry into the various and conflicting elements which enter into the commission of a crime needs to be made if the problem of the crime and criminal is ever to be solved and its anti-social consequences anticipated."

The directors also renew their recommendation of two years ago that the right of parole be extended to deserving life prisoners after 25 years of imprisonment.

In a general summary of prison conditions, the directors say:

"We view as fortunate our escape from internal troubles such as overtook institutions in other states. The reason is twofold. The conditions which provoked serious outbreaks there were not existent here, on the one hand, while on the other, the relationship between officials and inmates has on the whole been cordial and cooperative. The basis of our philosophy is a firm discipline tempered by humanitarian motives."

Foresee Difficulties

"Both the directors and the warden foresee difficulties when the Hawes-Cooper law becomes effective and the directors say that if the law is found constitutional, "we shall find ourselves confronted by an actual revolution in prison management which will test the best judgment of the best minds in the state to meet."

Warden Reed recommends the legislature be asked to increase from $50,000 to $54,000 the appropriation for state pay to prisoners, due to the expected increase in the number of inmates, and that the following sums be asked for capital expenditures: $6,000 for coal pocket; $11,500 for remodeling of inmates' dining room; $5,000 for new operating room equipment for hospital; $9,000 for general plant equipment and $6,000 for household equipment.

Chaplains' Reports

The report includes the report of former Chaplain William H. Smith, whose criticism of the prison administration resulted in an investigation by a special committee. Rev. Mr. Smith made no recommendations, offering a matter-of-fact account of the administration of the library, print shop and school. With regard to the chapel, he said:

"I believe that the spiritual needs of the men are met in part by sermons, music, general talks on various subjects and wholesome entertainment. To this end I have striven to have capable speakers, trained musicians and singers, travelers and scientists take part in the general service on Sunday mornings. Their reception has been cordial."

The report of the Catholic chaplain, the Rev. George M. Grady, includes, "It is a great pleasure to be able to thank the honorable warden for his kind assistance and cooperation. He has shown every courtesy tending to make our work effective and permanent." No similar expression occurs in the report of the Rev. Dr. Smith.

Prison Population

Statistical tables in the report show the average daily resident population of the prison was 604.167 in the 1928-29 fiscal year and 651.452 for the second year of the biennium.

Admissions during the first year totaled 212, of whom 196 were committed by the courts and three transferred from the Connecticut reformatory. There were 245 admissions during the second year, including 228 from the courts, eight from the reformatory and one parole violator who returned voluntarily. During the first year covered by the report, 150 prisoners were discharged, of whom 68 were released upon expiration of their sentences, 78 paroled and four pardoned. For the second year of the period, the discharges totaled 227, of whom 79 were released on expiration of their sentences, 111 paroled, four pardoned, seven transferred to the reformatory and 14, the women prisoners, transferred to the State Farm for Women.

In physical age the largest group in both years was between 25 and 29, and in mental age the largest group each year was between 13 and 14. White natives of the country lead all others in the classifications on race and nativity for both years, with Italy, Russia and Poland following in that order for the first year and Italy, Poland and Russia for the second year.

Offenses Committed

The most common offense for which prisoners were sentenced during the 1928-29 year were burglary, statutory, 21; theft of motor vehicle, 15; burglary, 12; robbery with violence, 12; carrying weapons, 10. For the second year covered by the report, the five most common offenses were indecent assault, 16; breaking and entering 16; embezzlement, 10; carnal abuse of minor female, 9, and robbery, 9.

For 1928-29, of 199 admissions, 188 could read and write English, four were literate in a foreign language only, and seven could not read or write any language. Eleven had had no school attendance, 25 had had some high school education, 11 having had four years of high school and six had attended college, four having had four years. For 1929-30, of the 223 admitted, 203 were literate in English and 20 illiterate. Twenty-nine had attended high schools, two for four years, seven had attended trade or business school and 12 attended college, five of them for four years.

STATE HAS 351,916 SCHOOL-AGE CHILDREN

With ten towns yet to be heard from out of the 171 which make reports to the state comptroller, the enumeration of children of school age in Connecticut is shown at 321,915. This is a net loss of 1,542 in the school registration of these towns.

Fifty-six towns had previously reported a total registration of 43,625. The 105 towns since reporting a registration of 278,290 are as follows:

OBITUARY

Frank H. Edgerton

Friends were shocked Wednesday night to learn that Frank H. Edgerton, 64, had passed away about 4:30 o'clock. He had been ill about a month but had not been considered critically ill, having been able to walk a short distance in his room a few minutes before he died. He was born in South Coventry but had lived the greater part of his life in Moosup, coming here to make his home about 19 years ago. He leaves besides his wife, a daughter, Miss Hazel Edgerton, student nurse at the Homeopathic hospital in Providence, and two sisters.

Mrs. William Walters of Brooklyn was in town Tuesday at the home of friends.

PROWLERS BACK OF HISLOP STORE, NEW LONDON, THURS. NIGHT

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Dec. 18—Petty thieves are operating in this city and although there is ample evidence of the activity of the crooks there is nothing tangible to attach the thieving to those suspected. There is hardly a night that there is not a report of some robbery made at police headquarters, but other than the report having been received there is nothing reported in the way of identifying the crooks. Tonight two men were detected loitering about and wandering in the rear of the store of Hislop & Co., 159 State street, but nothing was done other than to report the loitering to the detective bureau. No description of the loiterers was furnished.

Louis Margolis, Waterford, proprietor of a plumbing shop, 670 Bank street, reported to the police tonight that while his automobile truck was parked on Mitchell court a thief visited the machine and stole various tools and plumbing implements.

OBITUARY

Edward J. Conroy

Edward J. Conroy, 29, of 11 Crescent street, son of John and Margaret Conroy, died tonight at Lawrence Memorial hospital where he had been a patient but a comparatively short time. Besides his parents, Mr. Conroy is survived by four brothers, Harry and Robert Conroy of New York and John and William Conroy, and by a sister, Miss Margaret Conroy, of this city.

A NORWICH MAN'S CAR HITS MYSTIC WOMAN

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Dec. 19—(P)—An automobile driven by Jesse J. Coleman, 61 Washington street, Norwich, hit Mrs. Bertha Nowak, a pedestrian, of 5 Velvet lane, Mystic, this morning in North Stonington. The woman sustained severe bruises and contusions. Coleman was not arrested by state police, who investigated the accident. Mrs. Nowak was walking along Greenmenville avenue, North Stonington, when she was struck by the right front fender and knocked down. She was taken to the office of Dr. A. H. Meyers, of Mystic, where she received treatment, after which she went to her home.

Mrs. Harriet Green, of Mystic, a patient at Lawrence-Memorial hospital, was dismissed late yesterday. Mrs. Theodore Crandall and infant son, Gorton, and Miss Thecla Sheflott, 17 Cliff street, also patients at the institution, were discharged today.

Rosario Giordano, of Stonington, has brought suit for $300 damages against Guiseppe and Rosa Popuro, of this city. The action is returnable before the next term of the court of common pleas.

A certificate releasing attachment against the Gilbert Warren Realty Co. of New London, by the town of Groton, borough of Groton and Groton First School district, has been filed at the office of the city clerk. Property of the realty company, corner of Broad and Cleveland streets, had been attached.

Critically Ill

The condition of John M. Mallon, 35 Brooks street, assistant tax collector, who has been critically ill for many weeks, has now become grave and it is believed that the patient can survive but a short time.

A quit claim deed was filed for record at the office of the city clerk today transferring title in a house and lot, corner of Ocean and Gardner avenues, from Everett S. Watrous to Silas and Zelma Maxson.

Harry Watchinsky, 39 Summer street, has filed a certificate at the office of the city clerk, adopting the trade name of The Washton Co. The company will deal in blankets and automobile robes.

Automobile Patrol Officer Elwood Bailey last night discovered the entrances to the Star Dairy Co., 16 Connecticut avenue, and the Turello building, McDonald street, unlocked. The officer was successful in making the two business houses secure for the remainder of the night.

HOWARD JOYCE, OUT OF WORK, MAKES SUICIDE ATTEMPT

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Dec. 18.—Despondent because of his inability to obtain work, Howard Joyce, 59, residing at the corner of Broad street and Jefferson avenue, attempted suicide early today. He is now a patient at Home Memorial hospital, where it was said this afternoon that the man would recover. Joyce, who had been employed until fall at a Fishers Island hotel, recently returned from a trip throughout the state and Massachusetts, where he sought employment. Being unsuccessful, he returned to New London, arriving home less than a week ago. Failing to find work in this city, Joyce brooded to such an extent that he became very low-spirited yesterday. Shortly after 5 o'clock this morning, Joyce arose and decided to end his existence. He swallowed a bichloride of mercury tablet, but his act was discovered almost immediately by a member of the household, who had a physician summoned. Joyce was given emergency treatment and then was taken to the hospital, where he quickly responded to treatment.

FUNERAL

Mrs. Frank B. Stevens

The funeral of Mrs. Irene E. Stevens, wife of Frank B. Stevens, formerly of New London, who died in New Britain Tuesday, was held this afternoon at 2 o'clock at Brainard lodge, Masonic temple, and was attended by a large gathering of mourners. The services were conducted by Fidelity chapter, Order of Eastern Star, and Rev. J. Romeyn Danforth, pastor of the First Church of Christ. The bearers were Walter Mahoney, William Sparks, Hobron Smith, Elias Smith, Charles Manchester and Ellery Edwards. Burial was in Union cemetery, Niantic.

OBITUARY

Miss Bridget Keough

Miss Bridget Keough, 66, for more than 15 years employed at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur B. Calkins of Granite street, died last night at Lawrence-Memorial hospital, following an illness of 12 days. She is survived by a sister, Mrs. Catherine Ryan, of Ireland; a half-sister, Mrs. Mary Lloyd, of this city. She leaves three nieces, Mrs. Charles E. Cavanaugh, of this city; Mrs. David Wyatt, Waterford, and Mrs. John Dwyer, Fulton, N. Y.; also four nephews, Edward Lloyd, Boston; John Lloyd, California; William Lloyd, Groton, and Hugh Lloyd, of this city. Miss Keough was a member of St. Mary's Star of the Sea church and the auxiliary to the Ancient Order of Hibernians.

Mrs. Ernest Pelletier and infant son, 34 Cottage street; James O'Donnell, 21 Mill street, patients at Home Memorial hospital, were discharged today.

Practising Without License

Mrs. Mary Walker, proprietress of a beauty parlor, 311 State street, was in the police court this morning charged with violation of the naturopathy statute. The case was continued to the 23rd inst., and Mrs. Walker was released upon her own recognizance. Mrs. Walker was arrested earlier in the day by State Police Officer William E. MacKenzie and upon a warrant issued by Prosecuting Attorney Max Boyer, who had received a complaint that Mrs. Walker was practicing without having a license.

MEMBER OF CREW OF O-8 HAD WILD RIDE THRU YARD

Ernest H. J. Kreth, 24, a member of the crew of the O-6, stationed at the submarine base, was charged with violation of the state motor vehicle law in driving while under the influence of liquor. The case was continued until tomorrow. Kreth was driving at a fast rate of speed on Ocean avenue last night and when in front of 576, occupied by William J. Sparks, Kreth lost control of the steering wheel. The auto, plunging across the highway and passing over the sidewalk, crossed the lawn in front of the Sparks home and then continued to the rear of the yard, where the car crashed against a garage. Caroming off the building, the auto went to the rear of the premises, where it ripped away decorative lattice-work and shrubbery before coming to a stop. Sparks reported the driving of Kreth to the police and the driver was arrested by Automobile Patrol Officer Clarence Martin.

Beatrice F. Spink, 25 Garfield avenue, was charged with reckless driving. The case was continued to Saturday next. The driver was arrested two weeks ago by Sergeant Frank Howard, upon complaint of Andrew J. Havrilla, 37 Berkley avenue.

Viola Given Another Chance

Viola Mayo Brewer, colored, wife of Lonnie Brewer, 451 Main street, was charged with intoxication and was fined $10, but execution of the sentence was suspended. Mrs. Brewer, who has been arrested many times for frequenting houses of ill fame, disorderly houses and for intoxication, drank freely yesterday and during the afternoon, while lying on a bed, fell asleep while smoking. The cigarette ignited the flimsy bed covering and when an occupant of the house discovered smoke a still alarm was sent to fire headquarters. Northwest Hose company responded and extinguished the fire with little damage. Mrs. Brewer then went to the street and when she was observed soliciting money from pedestrians, Patrolman Harold Goldberg arrested her.

Broke Into House, Stole Nothing

The residence of Eugene Callahan 51 Willetts avenue, was entered by a thief last night, but so far as can be determined no loot was taken. The crook went to the rear of the house and ascertaining that the occupants were absent he used a shovel that he found in the yard as a means of prying open a window. Entering the house a complete search for plunder was made, but without success. Mrs. Callahan, who had been absent since early in the evening, returned about 10 o'clock and upon discovering the break reported it at police headquarters. Sergeant John Courtney and Patrolman Frank Philopena conducted an investigation. When Mrs. Callahan discovered that entrance to her home had been effected during her absence, she reported that two watches had been stolen, but an hour later gave notice that they had been found.

At the annual meeting of Trumbull lodge, No. 48, Knights of Pythias, held last night, the following officers were elected: Chancellor commander, Abraham Schuman; vice-chancellor, Saul Gruskin; prelate, John W. MacDougall; master of work, George W. Goodwin; keeper of records and seal, Joseph P. Noyer; master of finance, William M. Bosworth; master of the exchequer, Thomas H. Troland; master-at-arms, Frederick Balze; inner guard, John Maus; outer guard, Morris Wilkinson; trustee for three years, Julius Lieberman.

The 700 students of Connecticut College for Women started on their holiday vacation today. Most of the young ladies boarded trains during the forenoon and early afternoon for New York and Boston, en route to their homes. They will resume studies early in January.

The annual election of Martha Washington council, No. 16, Sons and Daughters of Liberty, held Tuesday night, resulted in the following choice: Councilor, Laura Randall; associate councilor, Ella J. Tew; vice-councilor, Ida V. Saunders; associate vice-councilor, Madolin Welch; recording secretary, E. Charles Staudinger; associate recording secretary, John J. Gaskell; financial secretary, Jennie M. Clark; treasurer, Henriette M. Payne; guide, Gertrude Patrick; inside guard, Aelia Jenkins; outside guard, Martha Gaskell; trustee, Elizabeth Gardner; representatives to state council, Libby G. Hyde, Adelaide Francis and Gertrude Patrick; alternates, Ella J. Tew, Henriette M. Payne and Madolin Welch.

A large number of members attended the annual meeting of Minnehaha council, No. 33, Degree of Pocohontas, at Odd Fellows hall last night and elected the following officers for the coming year: Pocohontas, Mrs. Lillian Appleby; prophetess, Florence Connelly; Winonah, Evelyn Goosey; Powhatan, Annie Bogue; keeper of records, Rose Minault; collector of wampum, Katherine Welch; keeper of wampum, Julia Nason; trustee, Anna Lewis.

News has been received in this city of the recent injury to Y. C. Christiansen, formerly of New London, who is a patient at Providence hospital, Washington, D. C. Mr. Christiansen was in an automobile accident in Washington, but it is stated that his injuries are not of such a nature as require him to remain at the hospital a long time.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Palace Theatre

Starting tomorrow at the Palace and running for the next four days is the last word in pictures, a feature that will touch the heart strings of everyone who witnesses this great show, "Tol'able David", the immortal classic by Joseph Hergesheimer.

An all-story cast was assembled to interpret the familiar characters in this universal favorite. Richard Cromwell, an unknown boy, plays the title role. All who have seen the performance of this youngster in preview showings have declared it sensational. He is heralded as a "find," and a brilliant future is predicted for him.

The feminine lead is handled by Joan Peers. Little Miss Peers is a recent recruit fro mthe New York stage. She has firmly entrenched herself in pictures by her splendid performances in "Applause" and "Anybody's War," two Paramount features, and recently added to her laurels in the Columbia feature "Rain or Shine," in which she played opposite Joe Cook.

The supporting cast includes such distinguished players as Henry B. Walthall, Helen Ware and Edmund Breese, stars in their own right, who have headed some of the finest New York productions of recent years. George Duryea and Noah Beery are others who appear in important roles.

Rin-Tin-Tin is seen in the 7th episode of "The Lone Defender," and Our Gang comedy with news and Vitaphone completes one of the finest shows to be offered to the patrons of this popular playhouse.

Broadway Theatre

Two Americans, a London Cockney, a few Germans, Italians and Spaniards and a lot of Frenchmen, all wearing the same uniform! The most heterogeneous and at the same time one of the most famous regiments in the world—the French Foreign Legion—provides the background for "Hell's Island," the dramatic feature scheduled to play at the Broadway theatre for four days starting tomorrow, with Jack Holt, Ralph Graves and Dorothy Sebastian in the leads.

It does not take any great stretch of the imagination to suppose what exceptional possibilities this background offers to the abilities of Jack Holt and Ralph Graves. They will be seen in what is, paradoxically, a typical but entirely different vehicle from anything they have ever made.

The screen story, by Jo Swerling, derives its title, "Hell's Island" from the dread prison colony in French Guinea, in which the dramatic climax of the picture occurs. Leading up to this, however, are presented a series of incidents which cover a wide range.

The good-natured tomfoolery between the rough-and-ready soldiers of the Legion in their pursuit of each other's "dames," the exotic atmosphere and entertainment presented by a typical Algerian cabaret, the forced marches beneath the blazing Sahara sun, the whirlwind attacks of the fierce Riffs, Bedouins and Arabian tribesmen, a military tribunal and other interesting and novel events comprise the story and action of "Hell's Island."

Grant Mitchell underwent a special course in the tonsorial art for the role of Barber John in "Man to Man," the Warner Bros. version of the Ben Ames Williams story which finishes tonight at the Broadway theatre.

Phillip Holmes enacts the juvenile role in "Man to Man" and Lucille Powers portrays his home town sweetheart. The cast also includes George Marion, Otis Harlan, Russell Simpson, Dwight Frye and others.

GREENEVILLE

The many friends of Mathew Hourigan will be pleased to learn that he is resting as comfortably as can be expected after undergoing an operation at the W. W. Backus hospital.

The Greeneville T. D. sewing circle met at the home of Miss Irene Walsh on Gilmore avenue Tuesday evening with a large class. The first period of the evening was devoted to sewing of fancy work and lampshading which was followed by a social hour. Each member brought a Christmas present and these were distributed. Refreshments were served by the hostess and consisted of assorted sandwiches, cookies, cakes, candies, fruit and hot chocolate. The dining room was prettily decorated in the season's colors of red and green.

TAFTVILLE

There was a very large attendance at the basketball game and card party given under the auspices of the Shyma club at Parish hall Tuesday evening, when the local team defeated the fast Southbridge team by the score of 36 to 34. At cards later the first prize for ladies went to Miss Anna Raymond; the second to Miss Simone Phaneuf and the third to Miss Brodeur. Raymond Yerrington took the first prize for gentlemen, the second being awarded to Samuel Raymond and the third to Wilfred Pepin.

The Ladies Benevolent society of the Taftville Congregational church held their monthly meeting Wednesday afternoon in the church parlors, with the president, Mrs. Richard B. Snow presiding. After business there was a social hour and refreshments, Mrs. Snow, Mrs. John D. Sharples and Mrs. A. E. Pingree pouring.

The members of the Army and Navy club held their monthly business meeting at their club house on Dion street early in the week. It was voted to conduct a drive for new members, the charter being open until the March meeting.

NORWICH MAN ADDRESSES COUNTY POMONA GRANGE ON TRAFFIC

With nearly 250 of a total membership of 950 present, the New London County Pomona Grange, No. 6, P. of H., held its annual meeting Thursday morning and afternoon at Grange hall, Norwich Town. Morgan Adams of Groton was elected master for the ensuing two years. A feature of the meeting was an intensely interesting talk on "Traffic" by Herbert L. Richardson of this city, a New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad engineer. Mr. Richardson who is a member of the Pomona operates a train from Worcester to New Haven, through this city.

The retiring master, Arthur W. Avery, opened the meeting at 11 o'clock. After the disposal of routine business the election took place as follows:

Master, Morgan Adams, of Groton; overseer, Amos Gallup of Mystic; lecturer, Miss Clara Hyde of Pachaug; steward, Edwin L. Lewis of Pachaug; assistant steward, Harry L. Hull of Lisbon; chaplain, Charles E. Ellis, Norwich; secretary, Miss Alice Bishop, Bozrah; treasurer, E. J. Hempstead, Waterford; gate keeper, John Rathbone, Norwich; pomona, Abbie Olson, Norwich; Ceres, Rose Norcross, Ledyard; Flora, Mrs. Ellsworth Gray, North Stonington; lady assistant steward, Marion Hall, Preston; member of executive committee for three years, Arthur W. Avery.

About 12:30 o'clock a delicious dinner was served by the Bozrah grange. The menu was as follows:

Roast Ham — Mashed Potatoes
Mashed Turnips — Brown Gravy
Cabbage Salad — Apple Sauce
Rolls — Coffee
Assorted Pies

The dinner committee comprised: Mrs. Lena Bishop, chairman; Mrs. Lucy Wilcox, Mrs. Minnie Fulton, Mrs. John Collins, Mrs. Parker, Mrs. Edna Fargo, Mrs. Edwin Wheeler, Mrs. Alice Abel, Mrs. Alfred Abel, Mrs. Theodore Abel, Miss Eda Mindel, Mrs. Louis Maples, Louis Maples, Mrs. John Proctor, Edward Bishop, Arthur Fulton, Charles Rathbone and Miss Searle.

At the afternoon session a special entertainment programme was given. There was a song stunt by Leader Ida Richardson, a reading by Mrs. Abel of the Bozrah grange and a song, Christmas Carol. Then followed an original poem by Mrs. J. B. Palmer of Norwich grange and a piano solo by Mrs. Abbie Olsen of Norwich grange.

The address of the afternoon, given by Herbert L. Richardson of Norwich grange, was then heard. Mr. Richardson said:

You no doubt read on the card sent you by your secretary that I was to talk at this meeting today, and that traffic would be my subject.

Some of you will say, "Why do you choose traffic?" The answer is, because everyone is interested in traffic. We are all in some way or another a part of traffic, either buying or selling, and always helping to pay the traffic bill regardless of our occupation.

I am a locomotive engineer, and my work is moving traffic. I am a member of this Pomona. Your most capable and efficient lecturer, Mrs. Bliss, has asked me from time to time to talk before one of these meetings, choosing my subject. Traffic is paramount on the highways, as well as the railways, and seems to me a very appropriate subject at this time.

When Mr. Pelley became president of the New Haven railroad, he brought some new ideas with him, one of which was novel to us; that is, to make every employe an agent. When I first read his articles on the subject, my first thought was, What can an engineer do to secure traffic? He should be able to do more than the average employe, especially advertising the safety connected with train operation. No one is any closer to the movement of a train under all conditions, nor realizes more fully the value of new improvements brought about from time to time and year after year than the man who has been at the throttle a quarter of a century. That is one reason why I am here today to try to sell you the idea that you get better service and more safety for less money from the railroads than from any other method of transportation.

Personnel And Management

Mr. Pelley, president of the New Haven road, received most of his training and experience on the Illinois Central railroad, beginning at the bottom and gradually ascending to the top, and is now an outstanding figure in the railroad world. All officials on the New Haven road are men of years, of experience, and are well qualified for the positions they now hold; also for advancement, should any promotion come their way.

Our division superintendents are responsible for the direct operation of their particularly assigned division, and they are capable men, worthy of the positions they hold. But I wish to call your attention to one superintendent in particular, R. M. Smith, superintendent of the New Haven division, the division that serves most of New London county.

Mr. Smith entered the service as a brakeman, and, through hard work, faithful service, and loyalty, has risen gradually from the position of brakeman to that of freight conductor, passenger conductor, trainmaster, assistant superintendent, and is now superintendent of the New Haven division.

Mr. Smith is very fair in his dealings with either the public or the employes, promoting co-operation, and has the respect of all the employes on his division.

A long train today is less liable to accident or delay, or to cause accident or delay to other trains, than would be the case if divided into four smaller trains, which would have been a fair average only a few years ago.

Do not forget that along with this long freight train came the modern locomotive, which is perfectly capable of handling modern freight trains. There is no one factor that contributes to the safe operation of trains any more than the locomotive of ample capacity for the work assigned to it. All things considered, and for all kinds of service, I believe the New Haven railroad has the best locomotives of any railroad in this country.

Expense Of Running Roads

Railways suffer from the tax collector in poor years, just as well and even more than in good years, just the same as members of this Pomona do. The railways, in the year 1929, paid $420,000,000 in taxes. Capital expenditure for the Class 1 railroads in the same year, for new equipment and additions and betterments to property used in transportation service, totaled $853,721,000. Approximately 120,000,000 tons of coal are being consumed annually on locomotives on Class 1 railroads to obtain the necessary power to supply the transportation needs of the country. Consider for a moment this immense mountain of coal being loaded out to normal capacity in fifty-ton cars at the rate of one car per minute. It would take four years and seven months to finish the loading.

Passenger Traffic

Despite business depression and the general falling off in railway business, both freight and passenger, recent traffic statistics covering the first quarter of the year reveal the surprising fact that one class of railway traffic has not only shown an increase over the same months of 1929, but has reached a peak never before attained. This class of transportation is commutation travel. Comparing the first three months of 1922 with those of 1930, commutation traffic increased from 109,000,000 to 118,000,000, an increase of 9 per cent; but at the same time the reduction in railway passenger traffic, aside from commutation service, shows a loss of 46 per cent.

Why have the railways lost nearly one half of their passenger business? First, the individual, or family, car. Second, the motor coach. And, third, airplane travel.

The reason why no local passenger trains are run to or through Norwich on the New Haven road is because you own an automobile. The same reason applies as to why I am running a freight train instead of a passenger train.

I have no figures to show the number of passengers carried by the motor coaches, although it is large. For the first nine months of this year, one motor coach company, known as the Pickwick Greyhound lines, operating mostly west of the Mississippi river, carried 1,885,501 passengers. From what this one motor coach line is doing, we can form some opinion as to what the combined motor coach lines are doing.

Air transport is making rapid strides as comfort, convenience, dependability, and safety of travel are being established in the minds of the traveling public. More and more people are becoming air-minded.

The enormous trucks and trailers are growing larger, longer, and wider all the time, until it has become dangerous for cars and farm vehicles to pass. Accidents are growing more numerous. Legislation must be invoked at once, if we are to curb them.

The solution rests with the public. In realizing it, they should not forget that the railroads build, maintain, and pay taxes on their own right-of-way, and operate efficiently, with comparatively little interference to the motoring public. I believe that the public roads should be preserved for the purpose for which they were intended—use by the people who pay the major portion of the cost.

Motor Coaches And Trucks

Is the motor coach a necessity? Yes, in rural districts that are not served by trolley or steam railroads. In rural localities motor coaches are usually small, few in number, and do not constitute a real menace when you consider the number of people they serve, many of whom have no other means of transportation.

Everyone here today is interested in good roads. You hire the railroads to transport road building material at a very low rate per ton. Then, after the roads are built, you allow auto trucks and busses to use these same roads to compete with the railroads, causing you unusually large expense for repairs and you are not even privileged to use them yourself with comfort and safety. For the use of highways auto trucks and busses pay very little in this and adjoining states.

Auto coach and truck competition has caused the railways of these United States to reduce the number of men employed from two million to a million and a half, or about the number employed in 1922. If we do not have some form of government regulation for highway carriers, the railways will not earn enough money to maintain their present efficient standards; I will not have a job; and you will be completely driven from your best highways, the ones you have built and paid for.

The auto and bus companies make their own rates, competing with the railways which cannot make their own rates. They destroy your highways that were built for smaller and lighter cars, driving the private autoist and the farmer with his small truck off the highways, and making their use extremely dangerous.

The railways are strictly regulated, at great expense to themselves, in the interest of public safety. The number of persons being killed on our highways is five times as great as the number being killed upon our railways. Why, then, should not commercial carriers on the highways be as strictly regulated in the interest of public safety as the railways are?

Railway Versus Trucks

The railways do and will for many years to come, haul the heavy and bulky freight. Auto truck operators do not want that kind of freight and could not move it in quantities any great distance if they wanted to. With the speeding up of freight service, reducing delays of freight cars at terminals and also between terminals, it is very evident that where the railways operate they can and do give better service than the auto truck.

A freight train consisting of 150 cars leaving New York for Boston is many times more likely to arrive at its destination without accident or delay than is one motor truck running between the same cities.

Highway Crossings at Grade

There are 210,088 unprotected highway crossings in the United States. An improvement in the highway grade crossing situation is shown for the first eight months of this year. Total fatalities were 1,236, a reduction of 218 as compared with the first eight months of 1929. Persons injured, 3,393, a reduction of 693. Is the motoring public growing more careful at the highway crossing, or is it because fewer trains are run over the crossings, owing to the increased length of a modern train, or because a large number of highway crossings are abolished each year?

In 1929 there were 1,371 people killed in automobile accidents in the states of Massachusetts, Connecticut and Rhode Island (the three New England states in which the New Haven railroad operates), and of these 1,371 people only 23 were killed at railroad crossings, or 1.7 per cent.

For the five years, 1925 to 1929, inclusive, there were 6,272 people killed in those three states, only 197 of whom, or 3.16 per cent, were killed at grade crossings. There were 264,840 people injured, less than 500 of which occurred at grade crossings, or less than one-fifth of one per cent. In other words, even if all grade crossings in those three states had previously been eliminated (at an expense estimated at $500,000,000) there would have been at least 6,075 people killed and 264,340 people injured in automobile accidents anyway. In 1929 there was death in an automobile accident in the United States every 17 minutes and the total number of deaths was 40 per cent of the total casualties among the Americans in the World war.

There were 39 per cent more people killed in automobile accidents in the United States during 1929 than the total number of passenger casualties for the entire ten-year period from 1919 to 1929. The New Haven road has had several cases where autoists have run into the side of a train. One case, a man ran into the 34th car of a freight train; another case, a woman hit the 50th car of a freight train. At Middleboro, Mass., a freight while standing still was run into by two autoists, one from one side and one from the other side. Recently in Massachusetts three people were killed when a taxi hit the 32nd car of a 66-car train.

The Careless Driver

It has been proven by records that as a matter of fact elimination of the grade crossing does not eliminate the accident. The careless driver will have his accident whether there is a grade crossing or not. We have case after case on our records where autos have run off the side of bridges over the tracks, and where they have run into the abutments of underpasses. The grade crossings were eliminated in these instances but these accidents were not.

It is interesting to draw the comparison between the railroad crossing and the busy street intersection. They are alike in essence. If an autoist will approach a railroad crossing with the same ordinary care and caution which he should exercise in crossing any street intersection he will never become involved in a railroad grade crossing accident.

Some of you in attendance here today crossed a railroad at grade between your home and this building. Did you Stop, Look and Listen before doing so? Of all the exacting duties imposed on a locomotive engineer, the grade crossing causes him the most concern. Nearly every man who has run a locomotive for any length of time has pictures of accidents at grade crossings deeply stamped in his memory, some of them too heart-rending to relate. And they can never be erased. On my regular run between New Haven and Worcester, I pass over 60 highway crossings at grade, and there is never a day goes by that I do not see someone racing the train, taking a chance, sometimes winning by a large margin, sometimes by a small. It is nothing uncommon to see an auto pass over the track ahead of the engine by a clearing that would have to be counted in inches, not being enough to make one foot.

How would you feel if you were running a train and 60 times a day for 365 days in the year you expected to see an auto on the track ahead of you, too close to escape an accident? All the automobiles that I have ever struck came from the left. I suspect that one or more persons on the seat with the driver are sometimes responsible for the driver not seeing the approaching train from the right.

Some people think of engineers as hard-boiled, thick-skinned demons, racing madly through the country, carrying death and destruction; but the opposite is quite true. Engineers are only ordinary men, who began firing a locomotive when they were young, being promoted to engineer later. Some of them may have a thick skin, but a tender heart must have some protection.

If you happen to be crossing the track when the engine is crossing the highway, a serious accident may result. What happens in the cab of a locomotive when an accident occurs at a highway crossing? The engineer feels a little thud (even when a large engine strikes a small car); he may or may not see the car. It may not have passed far enough for him to see it, but almost automatically he shuts off steam, applies the brake, and opens the sand valve. Instantly, with a modern freight train of 125 cars, engine and caboose, over a thousand brake shoes are thrown against as many wheels, creaking, grinding, groaning, under their load, that of stopping the train.

What do you suppose the engineer's thoughts are while the train is coming to a stop? It may be night or day, he may or may not see what has become of the occupants of that car. His first thought is, Who is in that car? Is it someone in my family, or is it a neighbor or someone of his family, someone that I know? Then the second thought: If the are neither of these to me, they are to someone else.

In case of accidents at highway crossings, the engineer has to Stop, Look and Listen—stop to render aid if necessary; look at scenes he would much rather not see; listen, yes, sometimes to what he would rather not hear. All this because someone else did not Stop, Look and Listen.

When you hear an engineer making an unusual amount of noise on approaching a highway crossing, do not think of him as using the whistle to sound the notes of a love missive to some listening sweetheart, but just think of him as trying to prevent accident or injury to someone that somebody loves.

Crossing Accidents Unnecessary

All accidents at highway crossings are unnecessary, and education is the only remedy I know. The schools should teach this subject as well as any other, beginning at the kindergarten. Newspapers could do a real community service by featuring daily nearby grade crossing accidents and warning their readers of the danger in using railroad tracks as a thoroughfare, or crossing a railroad without first stopping to look and listen.

The state of Georgia sends out health literature with automobile markers. It seems to me that all states could make good use of this method to send out literature on accidents at highway crossings.

The New Haven railroad wants your traffic, either passenger or freight and whether it be large or small. But they do not want you to use the tracks for a thoroughfare; neither do they want you to enter upon the tracks except for the purpose of crossing the same, and then they ask you to Stop, Look and Listen before you cross.

JURY RETURNS VERDICT OF $5,000 IN MORTON DAMAGE ACTION

At 5:25 o'clock Thursday afternoon a verdict of $5,000 for the plaintiff was returned by a jury in the suit brought in the superior court by Olive S. Morton, administratrix of the estate of her husband, Thomas F. Morton of Waterford, against Anton R. Augusta, Jr., of Falmouth, Mass. The jury retired at 4.22 o'clock, after the charge by Judge Ernest A. Inglis. Mrs. Morton brought suit for the death of her husband who was fatally injured July 2nd when struck by an automobile operated by the defendant.

Trial of the case was started in the superior court in this city Tuesday, and the final testimony was heard Thursday morning. Michael Baldelli of New London, bus operator, testified Thursday morning that there was no bus stop at the Morton house, near where Mr. Morton was struck by the defendant's automobile.

Assistant City Engineer Kenneth Holmes of New London, was called as an expert witness to give his opinion on hypothetical questions concerning momentum.

Dr. Ross E. Black testified as to the physical condition of Mr. Morton before the accident and Medical Examiner Charles Kaufman of New London told of the injuries Mr. Morton received when he was hit.

At the afternoon session of the court the arguments were made by counsel for the plaintiff and defendant followed by Judge Inglis' charge to the jury.

POLICE ARREST DRIVERS AFTER AUTO COLLISION

Miss Alice Lucas of No. 26 Central avenue is a patient at the W. W. Backus hospital with a broken collarbone, as the result of a collision between two automobiles at the junction of North Main street and Central avenue about 10:30 o'clock Thursday evening. Miss Lucas was a passenger in a Dodge sedan driven by its owner, Bennie Rdzewske, 23, of No. 27 Second street. Other occupants of this car were Miss Helen Rdzewske of No. 27 Second street and Miss Helen Lucas of No. 282 Central avenue, one of whom received a bump on the forehead, over the left eye.

The other machine, driven by Sigmund Liskiewicz, 23, of No. 402 Central avenue and owned by Bernadette Cote of Norwich State hospital, had come out of Fourteenth street and was proceeding northerly on Central avenue, on the left hand side, it is said, and Rdzewske was driving on North Main street with the intention of proceeding along Central avenue. At the junction the two machines met and were considerably damaged, the Rdzewske car tipping over and injuring two of the four passengers.

The accident was investigated by Officer Howard Coburn, who arrested both operators on violations of the motor vehicle laws. Rdzewske had a charge of speeding preferred against him and Liskiewicz, a charge of failure to grant the right of way. Miss Alice Lucas, who sustained a broken collarbone, was attended at police headquarters by Dr. William T. Driscoll, who later took her to the hospital. The drivers will be presented in city court this (Friday) morning.

LAST DAY FOR SCOUTS TO COLLECT TOYS

Today (Friday) is the last day for Boy Scouts to collect toys. The boys have made nearly 100 calls to all parts of the city and outside of the city and there are still a number to be made. All those having toys are asked if possible to take them to the Thayer building and leave them at the elevator where they will be taken to the Boy Scout room and later collected by the United Workers.

More new toys than in other years have been secured, the largest quantity coming through the efforts of Ellis Thayer, who was able to have quite a large number contributed by manufacturers. Other local stores sending in packages have been Porteous & Mitchell, Alling Rubber, Cranston's, and Reid & Hughes. By Sunday a complete list of all those who helped in making the toy collection such a success will be published.

CARPENTERS VOLUNTEER TO HELP BUILD SCOUT CABIN

Thursday was a lucky day for Boy Scouts and their project of completing a winter cabin in time for camping during the week following Christmas. Eight carpenters who were otherwise unemployed answered the call for assistance in handling the heavier timbers and in consequence the cabin is a long way towards completion though there is still much ahead to be done.

Edward Grover, Everett Whitmarsh, Amos Russell, Joe Campion, Charles Browning, Frank Filliger, Charles Burke and Walter Wilby were the eight men who spent all or part of the day at the camp. Through their efforts the cabin was completely boarded up and the flooring for the second floor attic which will be used for sleeping quarters was laid. All the joists for the roof have also been cut and it is hoped that a sufficient number of men will go out today (Friday) to complete the roof.

Plenty of material is on hand. This includes paper for outside covering, roofing, windows, doors, slabs, etc. During the day, through the cooperation of the Edward W. Chappell Co., and W. S. Spencer, considerable more material was taken to the cabin, including 600 old bricks, a donation of Patrick F. Sweeney; a yard of sand, a donation of William Ryan; 15 large fire bricks and a sack of fire clay, a donation of the Richmond Radiator Co., six sacks of cement and a barrel of lime.

Bruno Weinert has consented to try to get a gang of masons to put up the fireplace during the week and with all the materials on hand for quick work it is hoped that quite a number of men will go out Saturday.

A dinner is being furnished by the Boy Scouts for all the men who go out each day. Thursday's dinner was composed of veal, corn, mashed potatoes, mince pie and coffee. Today's dinner will be made up of fish, two vegetables, pie and coffee. Any carpenters desiring to go out and help should get in touch with Edward Grover before 8 a. m., the time when the automobile will leave for the camp.

SAILORS FINED AND TWO GIRLS WERE HELD

On a charge of lascivious carriage, Allen J. Spencer and Everett Sisco, U. S. N., stationed at the submarine base, Bertha Lopes of Springfield and Evelyn Oullette of New Bedford, were presented before Justice of the Peace Walter M. Buckingham in Ledyard town court early Thursday evening. The two sailors were each fined $25 and costs and the Lopes g'rl, who is wanted by the New York authorities for breaking parole at a New York institution, was ordered held for them at the New London jail. The New Bedford girl was committed to the state farm for women at Niantic.

The four, arrested Tuesday evening, Dec. 9, by the state police from the Groton barracks, were living as married couples in a furnished house at Ledyard.

TWO MEN HELD ON LIQUOR LAW CHARGES

Two West Side colored men, Stanley Roberts, 28, and Russell Morgan, 21, were arrested Thursday morning about 11 o'clock on charges of transportation of liquor and are each held under $1,000 bonds for their appearance in the city court this (Friday) morning. Tipped off that the two men were riding in a south-bound trolley, Officers Clifford Crary and John Donovan waited for them on North Main street near Roath street, where they boarded the trolley. When apprehended the accused had in their possession a gallon jug filled with alleged moonshine, which, it is understood, was purchased in Greeneville and was to be delivered at the West Side. The jug was in a paper bag.

Will Admitted To Probate

Following a brief hearing in probate court Thursday morning before Judge Nelson J. Ayling the will of Mrs. Sarah L. Crompton was admitted to probate and Arthur E. Story of the Chelsea Savings bank qualified as executor. William Mabrey and Herbert J. Baker were appointed appraisers by the court. According to the terms of the will $1,000 was left to St. Andrew's Episcopal church.

THEATRE PARTY FOR CHILDREN OF NORWICH

Dr. Kopland K. Markoff, Louis J. Fontaine and Melvin Worth were appointed a committee of three to arrange for the annual Christmas theatre party for Norwich children, at the weekly luncheon meeting of the Norwich Lions' club Thursday noon at the Wauregan hotel. It is planned to hold the party, in cooperation with a local theatre, for 1,500 children, who will also receive a supply of candy.

The president, Louis M. Crandall, who was in charge of the largely attended meeting, introduced Dr. Epstein of the submarine base as the speaker. Dr. Epstein gave a very interesting account of the conditions existing on the island of Guam and told of his own personal experiences on the tropical island. He was extended a rising vote of thanks.

Much progress was reported by the president in the arrangements for the New England Lions' conference to be held here Jan 31 and Feb. 1, 1931.

Liquor thieves active in New Haven have burglarized two drug stores and made away with several gallons of whiskey and alcohol.

Stops Sea Cough

"During a storm I caught a particularly nasty cough. I croaked like a fog horn. When I pulled in that night I took some Smith Brothers Syrup. Almost immediately the cough left me—I felt better. Smith Brothers steered me out of a bad cold in a few hours." C. Weller, Pilot, N. Y.

SENATE PASSES $45,000,000 COMPROMISE DROUGHT BILL

Was Passed Without Roll Call—Now Goes to the President—$213,000,000 Agriculture Supply Bill Was Passed by the House—Public Works to Be Undertaken by the Government in the Calendar Year 1931 Will Total About $700,000,000

WASHINGTON, Dec. 19—(AP)—The first of the relief measures—an authorization of $45,000,000 for loans to farmers in the drought areas to put in next year's crops—got through congress today.

It was sent to President Hoover from the senate loaded with democratic condemnation because it failed to contain direct provision for loans for personal food. The administration opposed such a provision.

The $116,000,000 emergency construction appropriation still awaited attention as the storm of controversy finally subsided to permit senate action on the drought bill. In the lull, the measure passed without a roll call. The emergency appropriation, facing assault because of failure to contain three senate amendments, comes up in that branch tomorrow, and the senate agreed to meet an hour earlier to speed action.

The $150,000,000 appropriation asked by the farm board also comes up tomorrow, Senator Borah, republican, Idaho, blocking action on it today. He said he wanted to determine the purpose for which the board intended to use the money. Senator Black, democrat, Alabama, has proposed an amendment to prohibit the board from using any of the fund for marginal trading on the grain exchanges.

While the deadlock over the emergency relief measures was breaking, a new threat arose in the senate. The interior department appropriation bill—one of the vital measures which must be passed before March 4, if an extra session is to be avoided—encountered a filibuter from Senator Howell, republican, Nebraska.

Howell spoke for an hour and a half, using up all time available for action on the interior bill, after his request for consideration of a measure of his own establishing a new basis for settling claims against the United States had been turned down. There was no indication of a concerted effort to delay action on the regular appropriation bills.

Senators Norris, of Nebraska, and Borah, of Idaho, leaders of the western republican independents, urged the senate to accept the compromise $45,000,000 drought relief bill in the interests of speeding action on relief work.

"People have been starving while we are here talking," Norris shouted.

He pointed out that the house had voted down the senate's provision to permit food loans and said the senate conferees had gotten the best they could in the compromise.

Senator McNary, republican, Oregon, the sponsor of the senate's $60,000,000 drought bill, insisted that a provision inserted in the compromise by the senate conferees permitting the secretary to make loans for purposes "incident to" crop production would give authority ofr food loans where dire emergencies demanded.

The house was ready for the Christmas recess by nightfall but senate leaders made no move in that direction, awaiting final action on the emergency employment appropriation. The house firmly opposed the senate amendment sto the employment bill giving to the states of Alabama and Georgia the unexpended balances of road funds without requiring the states to match the money. It also rejected the amendment of Senator Couzens, republican, Michigan, requiring that local labor be employed on all the projects and paid the highest prevailing wage scale.

$700,000,000 FOR GOVT. PUBLIC WORKS FOR CALENDAR YEAR 1931

WASHINGTON, Dec. 19—(AP)—Public works to be undertaken by the government in the calendar year 1931 will total approximately $700,000,000, compared with $253,000,000 in 1928.

This figure includes that part of the fiscal year 1931 from January 1, 1931, until July 1, 1931, and the 1932 budget up until January 1, 1932.

The work is distributed among the emergency unemployment relief bill of $16,000,000 and the regular appropriation bill.

HOUSE PASSES $213,000,000 AGRICULTURE SUPPLY BILL

WASHINGTON, Dec. 19—(AP)—The $213,000,000 agriculture department annual supply bill was passed today by the house and sent to the senate.

The measure carries $125,000,000 for federal highway aid and $12,500,000 for forest roads and trails, along with substantial provisions for the weather bureau, enforcing the grain futures marketing act and counteracting crop pests and diseases of livestock.

FIVE MEN KILLED BY COLLAPSE OF SCAFFOLD

NEW YORK, Dec. 19—(AP)—Another scaffold collapse—five men died ten days ago when one broke—cost four lives today and resulted in critical injurie sto a fifth man. juries to a fifth man.

Four painters working near the ceiling of the 258th field artillery armory in the Bronx, were dropped 75 feet. With 12 other workmen they had been painting from a series of plank plat-platforms, each of which was designed to hold two men. Hurrying to descend at lunch time, the five crowded upon one platform. They fell to the cement floor amid a mass of splintered planking.

The dead were Arthur Strauss, Michael Molich, Thomas Hawley and Peter McCarthy. The first three were residents of New York, but the address of McCarthy could not be learned immediately.

Stephen Donowboski, of New York, was taken to a hospital in a serious condition.

The scaffolds from which the men were painting the curved ceiling of the armory were connected by ladders laid between them.

STEEG STEALS MARCH ON FRENCH DEPUTIES

PARIS, Dec. 19.—(AP)—For three more weeks at least France is certain to have a stable government. Premier Theodore Steeg today made sure that he would hold office that long when he read a presidential decree of adjournment suspending the parliament until the second Tuesday in January.

The opposition was astounded, for the decree took it by surprise. When the enemy recovered its composure somewhat it pointed out that the second Tuesday in January will be Jan. 13, an ominous date for the ministry.

Steeg had given no warning of his intention, and it had been reported that he wanted to go before the senate with his new cabinet in the hope of getting a larger majority than the seven votes by which he obtained a grant of power in the chamber of deputies yesterday.

There was nearly a free-for-all fight when the members realized that he had stolen a march on them.

SUGGESTS LIBERALIZATION OF THE ANTI-TRUST LAWS

HARTFORD, Dec. 19—(AP)—Liberalization of anti-trust laws, reduction of working hours and per capita wages, and the adoption of only those public and private works programs that are economic—Frank C. Partridge, president of the Vermont Marble company made these three suggestions for meeting the depression at the 21st quarterly meeting of the New England council, held here today.

The address by Mr. Partridge followed a luncheon at the hotel. Other speakers on the same program were Gov. Trumbull, John J. Pelley, president of the "New Haven" railroad, and Dr. H. E. Barnard, director of the white house conference on child health.

MANAGER OF NEW BRITAIN BOWLING ALLEY SHOT

NEW BRITAIN, Dec. 19.—(AP)—Gilman Miner, manager of a bowling alley in a local fraternal home, died late tonight shortly after he had been admitted to the New Britain hospital suffering from bullet wounds. Police had not ascertained how he had been wounded.

ERSTWHILE MILLIONAIRE WITH DOWN AND OUTERS

NEW YORK, Dec. 19—(AP)—In the city lodging house, refuge of the jobless, homeless and hopeless, is Robert Clairmont. Fifteen months ago he had a million dollars.

Heroism won him his fortune—the market crash swept it away. He inherited it from the late Sellars McKee Chandler, whom he saved from drowning.

When the crash came, Clairmont, a Greenwich Village poet, saved $3,000 from the wreck, $3,000 and $60,000 of his friends' notes on which he can't collect a dime.

Two weeks ago he came to the lodging house for shelter and food. He got it. Then he got a job in the storeroom there as clerk. He sleeps with the other down-and-outers in the barracks.

In the balmy days, Clairmont paid William C. Handy, the Negro "blues" composer, $4,000 for an evening's concert for his friends. Handy heard the other day where Clairmont now hangs his hat, so he collected some other well known entertainers and in Clairmont's honor is going to give a concert Sunday in the lodging house to the boys who have learned the true meaning of the "blues."

SENATE CONFIRMS TWO POWER COMMISSION NOMINEES

WASHINGTON, Dec. 19—(AP)—The senate today confirmed two of President Hoover's five nominees to the power commission—Claude L. Draper, of Wyoming, and Ralph B. Williamson, of Washington state—but postponed consideration of the others because of the pressure of relief legislation.

Draper and Williamson were approved by the interstate commerce committee unanimously but opposition votes were cast against the other nominees—Chairman George Otis Smith, of Maine; Marcel Garsaud, of Louisiana; and Frank M. McNinch, of North Carolina—and they face contests in the senate.

The senate approved both Draper and Williamson without record votes but Senator Wheeler, democrat, Montana, asserted that all five of the president's appointments were "mediocre."

310TH ANNIVERSARY OF LANDING OF PILGRIMS

NEW YORK, Dec. 19—(AP)—The 310th anniversary of the landing of the Pilgrims from the Mayflower on Plymouth Rock in Massachusetts will be observed Sunday in Congregational churches throughout the United States.

In announcing the commemoration, the Rev. Dr. Charles Emerson Burton, general secretary of the National Council of the Congregational churches, pointed out that the church founded by the Pilgrims in Plymouth was the first Congregational church in America.

"No greater obstacles can confront us than were faced by these first pioneers for religious and civil liberty in this continent," Dr. Burton said.

FOUND SHOT TO DEATH IN ABANDONED AUTOMOBILE

NEW YORK, Dec. 19—(AP)—A man found shot to death in an abandoned automobile in Queens today, was identified through his fingerprints as James Sabatino, 28, of Brooklyn. Police who said he had a record of three arrests on criminal charges, laid his death to gang warfare.

He had been shot three times. The car in whic hhis body was found was not far from the lonely section in which the mysterious "3-X slayer" killed two men last June.

Break In Rulers Of Soviet Uni[illegible]vt.

Alexis I. Rykoff Resigns Post Corresponding to That of Premier in Other Countries

MOSCOW, Dec. 19—(AP)—Complying with his request, the central executive committee today relieved Alexis I. Rykoff from the chairmanship of the council of peoples commissars of the Soviet Union.

He will be succeeded by Viacheslav Mikhailovich Molotoff, who is one of three secretaries of the communist party, is a member of the polit bureau and also member of the presidium of the central executive committee of the communist party.

The possibility of a shakeup in the administrative posts in the soviet government has loomed for some time, centering about Rykoff himself, whose post corresponds to that of premier in other countries.

Rykoff was seriously criticized by various organizations throughout the union because of his former "right wing" activities and the likelihood that he would request his retirement has been growing stronger.

The only other man to have held this post was Lenin himself, Rykoff having been appointed after Lenin's death.

Last spring Rykoff, with Michael P. Tomsky and N. A. Uglanov, appeared before the all-union congress of the communist party and "confessed" his sins as a member of the right wing, promising to support the party's policies in the future.

Uglanov was dropped as commissar of labor and Tomsky was ousted as head of the Soviet Trade Union, but Rykoff was able to hold on.

With Rykoff's retirement, Joseph Stalin, long powerful in the ranks of the communist party as its secretary, has further consolidated his position as the dominent figure in the Soviet Union, for he has long opposed the policies of the right wing.

Rykoff has held important posts in the soviet government ever since the communists first came into power in Russia and in 1921 was first assistant to Lenin. He was a member of the soviet mission which conferred with the allied and German diplomats at Berlin on Russian reconstruction late in 1921 and was appointed vice-president of the council of people's commissars that same year.

With Stalin and Kameneff he held high place in the councils of Lenin and it was he who headed the reorganized Russian cabinet formed in 1924.

Fell Into Crater Of Eruptive Volcano

Prof. Werner Borchardt and Assistant Perished in Boiling Lava in Sumatra

HAMBURG, Germany, Dec. 19.—(AP)—Professor Werner Borchardt with a European assistant fell into the crater of the volcano Merapi in Sumatra at the moment that it became suddenly eruptive yesterday and perished in the boiling lava.

The news of the tragedy reached the Hamburg Tropical institute from Medan, Sumatra, today.

Professor Borchardt was conducting climatological investigations and ascended Merapi which has been inactive for the past 40 years. He planned to test the emanations of heat and while being lowered by a rope into the crater of the volcano, large masses of lava suddenly belched forth.

The scientist and his companion were unable to save themselves from the devastating flood of molten lava and perished.

Professor Borchardt was about 30 years old and was regarded as one of the most promising tropical scientists of the Hamburg institute which "loaned" him to the Medan institute for a year.

He arrived at Medan in October and had since been doing research work on the influence of temperature on the circulation of the blood and kindred subjects.

MAYOR THOMPSON OF CHICAGO BREAKS WITH FORMER FRIENDS

CHICAGO, Dec. 19.— (AP)—Big Bill Thompson, Chicago's cowboy mayor, rides the campaign range again.

The famous ten-gallon campaign hat of William Hale Thompson came whirling into the mayorality ring today for th efourth time flinging back a challenge into the faces of rebellious friends.

And as he rode out upon the trail for the big vote roundup, a group of his one-time fiends gathered in another camp to rally divergent republican forces around some candidate to oppose him at the republican primaries next February. Control of the city hall during the century of progress exposititon in 1933 is the issue.

Calling his loyal ward committeemen about him, the mayor listened to their pledge of support and made answer with pithy phrases.

POPULATION OF STATE'S CONGRESSIONAL DISTRICTS

ARRESTS DUE TO CLOSING OF THE KINGSTON & CO. BROKERAGE HOUSE

HARTFORD, Dec. 19.—(AP)—The arrest of three officials of the Connecticut Trading corporation, a subsidiary of F. E. Kingston and company, on a bench warrant charging them with perjury was followed this afternoon by an intimation from State's Attorney Hugh M. Alcorn that other officials of the brokerage house will be taken into custody next week.

John H. Reid of 21 Ballard drive, West Hartford, president and treasurer of the Connecticut Trading corporation; Frank H. Smith of West Haven, vice-president and assistant treasurer; and Edmund J. Grandahl, of 234 Ashley street, Hartford, were named in the bench warrant and late in the day were brought to the state's attorney's office. They will be required to furnish $5,000 bail each by 9 a. m., tomorrow.

From authoritative sources it was learned that the arrest of these three men was but the first step in an investigation into the affairs of F. E. Kingston and company by Bank Commissioner Lester E. Shippee and State's Attorney Alcorn. Harold Kingston, a partner in the brokerage house, was questioned at the office of County Detective Edward J. Hickey, and his brother, F. E. Kingston, head of the firm, was in communication with the state's attorney's office during the day.

Mr. Alcorn appeared in Judge Brown's court at 3 p. m., and told the court "there is a brokerage firm of Kingston and company which we find is in very serious financial difficulties. They had some subsidiary or affiliated companies that they operate with, or which they used in their operations, and one of these corporations is the Connecticut Trading company. Now the three directors of the Connecticut Trading company, John H. Reid, Frank H. Smith and Edmund J. Grandahl, filed a certificate of organization in the office of the secretary of state in which they stated in the certificate of incorporation the company would begin business with fully paid in cash. It has been reported to my office by the bank commissioner, who

40 LIVES LOST IN SINKING OF STEAMER OFF DENMARK

Finnish Ship Went Down Three Minutes After Collision—The Collision Occurred at 10 O'Clock Last Night in Dense Fog—Wireless Picked Up by Lloyd's Says Passengers Are Drifting in Lifeboats

LONDON, Dec. 20.—(Saturday)—(AP)—An Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Copenhagen quotes a message from the captain of the steamer Arcturus as saying that 40 persons were drowned when the Finnish steamer Oberon sank last night off the Danish coast after a collision with the Arcturus.

The message said the collision was violent and that the Oberon sank in three minutes. There was no time to launch boats.

Dozen Persons Missing

COPENHAGEN, Dec. 19.—(AP)—About a dozen persons were missing, it was reported tonight, following the sinking of the 3,000-ton Finnish steamer, Oberon, which went down near Lessoe Trindel lightship after a collision with the steamer Arcturus. The collision occurred about 10 o'clock tonight in a dense fog, according to messages received here.

Reports Passengers Adrift

LONDON, Dec. 19.—(AP)—Lloyds shipping agency announced tonight the interception of a wireless dispatch fro man unknown source reporting that the Finnish steamer Oberon, 3,000 tons, had been sunk off the Danish coast. The passengers, according to the message, were drifting in lifeboats.

The message, apparently garbled in transmission, said the Oberon had gone down southeast of "Lafoe Trindel." This was believed to be Lessoe Trindel, an island in the Cattegat off the coast of Denmark.

TWO PICKETS GIVEN JAIL SENTENCES IN NEW HAVEN

NEW HAVEN, Dec. 19—(AP)—A man and a woman picket stationed at the Lesnow brothers shirt factory, where employes walked out Monday in protest at a threatened wage cut, were today given jail sentences.

During their hearing more than 200 strikers and agitators who had followed them from the factory when they were arrested milled about in front of the city hall. On receiving news of their sentences, the crowd moved across to the Green, where they held a lively demonstration, singing communist songs, and songs of derision directed at the police.

June Croll, 29, received 30 days on a charge of breach of the peace placed against her as a result of her alleged attempt to prevent forcibly two plant employes from entering the building today. Another 30 days was added when Judge Sheridan L. Whitaker brought up a charge of interference with police on which she appeared, with five other defendants, yesterday, and which was continued nisi to March 1.

Joseph Jackson, 21, was given 60 days on the breach of the peace charge, and likewise 30 days on yesterday's charge of interference. He is alleged to have assisted Miss Croll in the attempt to prevent workers from entering the plant. Both appealed and were released under $1,000 bonds.

Neither have been employes of the plant. While both gave New Haven addresses, Miss Croll is said to be a professional agitator from New York. Both were among eight defendants who were taken to city court yesterday and whose cases were continued.

DOROTHY SEBASTIAN WEEPS WHILE BEING MARRIED

LAS VEGAS, Nev. 19—(AP)—Dorothy Sebastian, film actress, was married today to William Boyd, also of the films, and wept during most of the brief ceremony.

"I guess it's just habit," she said, a smile breaking through.

The bride's hotel room was the setting. She explained that although publicity was a necessary adjunct to her film career, she wanted to avoid it in her matrimonial affairs.

Miss Sebastian who gave her age as 26, indicated on the license application she had been married previously and divorced in Birmingham, Ala., her birthplace, six years ago. "The name doesn't matter," she replied to a question concerning her first husband's identity.

It was the third marriage for Boyd, who is 33. The late Diana Miller, actress, divorced him in 1924. His second wife, Elinor Faire, also of the films, divorced him last year on grounds of intemperance and cruelty

DOUBT AND UNCERTAINTY AS COMMONS ADJOURNS

LONDON, Dec. 19.—(AP)—A weary house of commons adjourned today until Jan. 20 in an atmosphere crowded with doubt and uncertainty.

So many events have followed one another on the political stage with great rapidity during the last few weeks that members of all parties are puzzled as to where they stand, and only the boldest political prophets dare make any forecast as to what may happen, even immediately after parliament re-assembles.

The pact—which officially is not a pact—between liberals and Prime Minister MacDonald's labor government continues to be the keystone of the whole political situation, just as it had been the constant source of hopes, fears and rumors during the last two weeks.

MICHIGAN COURT LIBERATES LIQUOR CONTEMPT PRISONER

CADILLAC, Mich., Dec. 19.—(AP)—Frank Harrand, Michigan's "liquor contempt" prisoner, was released from the county jail here this afternoon by order of the Michigan supreme court.

Harrand had been in jail for 37 days under a contempt of court order issued by Judge E. J. Millington when Harrand said he did not know from whom he obtained the liquor which resulted in his arrest for drunkenness on Nov. 7.

Harrand was met at the jail by his wife and left immediately for his farm home. He reiterated his statement that he could not remember who furnished him the whiskey. Friends in Cadillac provided his bond of $500 pending a ruling by the supreme court on his appeal.

DANNY STANTON TO BE TRIED FOR MURDER OF JACK ZUTA

CHICAGO, Dec. 19.—(AP)—Danny Stanton, "public enemy" and alleged henchman of Al Capone, and Edgar Smith, Stanton's bodyguard, were ordered returned to Waukesha county, Wis., today to be tried for the murder of Jack Zuta, Chicago vice lord. The order followed testimony of ballistic experts that a pistol found in Stanton's possession had been used in killing Zuta.

LINDBERGH CHECKS FLAMES IN HIS PLANE AT BALTIMORE

BALTIMORE, Dec. 19—(AP)—Flames burst from the motor of Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh's red and black monoplane here today, and both he and Mrs. Lindbergh, the former Anne Morrow, showed presence of mind in checking them before serious damage was done.

The trans-Atlantic flier was twirling the propeller, aided by a mechanic, when without warning smoke and flames burst from under the cowl about the motor. Apparently gasoline and oil ignited from backfire.

Colonel Lindbergh ran to the cockpit, where his wife was seated, seized a hand fire extinguisher, opened the cowling and began squirting the chemical into the motor.

Mrs. Lindbergh was in the pilot's seat, the controls in front of her, and she shut off both the flow of gasoline and the ignition, preventing more serious danger. She did not leave the cockpit until after national guardsmen guarding the plane had run to her husband's assistance.

Colonel and Mrs. Lindbergh flew here yesterday from Washington where they attended sessions of the national air uniformity conference and were overnight guests of Dr. William H. Wilmer, eye specialist at Johns Hopkins hospital, and Mrs. Wilmer. They were preparing to leave for Newark, N. J., when the brief excitement occurred.

The fire delayed the flight about two hours. After fire apparatus at the municipal airport, Logan field had been rushed up and more chemicals had been squirted on the smoking motor, the plane was gone over thoroughly, minor repairs made, and shortly before 2 o'clock the Lindberghs roared away for Newark.

Lindberghs Back Home

ENGLEWOOD, N. J., Dec. 19.—(AP)—Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh flew back home today from Baltimore.

They landed at Teterboro airport, near Englewood, shortly before 4 p. m. and came directly to the home of Mrs. Lindbergh's parents, Senator and Mrs. Dwight W. Morrow.

PROF. EINSTEIN HAS ARRIVED AT HAVANA

HAVANA, Dec. 19.— (AP)—Professor Albert Einstein, whose theory of relativity has caused many a head to ache, forgot mathematical matters for a few hours today on his arrival from New York on the steamship Belgenland, en route to California.

He devoted the hours before sunset to a tour of Havana. Received by government officials and men high in the intellectual life of Cuba, the professor found a tropical sun giving Havana one of the warmest days in many weeks.

He said he found the weather much more to his liking than the chilly spell which he left at New York two days ago.

A round of entertainment is scheduled for the professor during the remainder of his visit here. A personal interview with President Machado tomorrow morning is included in the program.

Professor Einstein will continue on the Belgenland tomorrow afternoon. He placed himself at the disposition of newspaper men but refused to discuss European politics.

INDICTED FOR MURDER OF JERRY BUCKLEY

DETROIT, Dec. 19.—(AP)—Ted Pizzino, one-time proprietor of a night club here, was indicted by the grand jury this afternoon for the murder of Gerald E. (Jerry) Buckley last summer.

Pizzino was arrested in New York in August and returned to Detroit three weeks ago after he had lost a four months' fight to evade extradition.

He is the second to be indicted in the Buckley slaying. The other man is Joe Bommarito, reputed gangster. A third man, Angelo Livecchi is charged in a warrant with complicity in the murder. The prosecution has indicated the three men will be brought to trial shortly after January 1.

Three other men, accused by police of complicity in the slaying, are still at large.

Buckley, political commentator for radio station WMBC, was shot down in the lobby of the LaSalle hotel early last July 23.

TWO MORE INDICTMENTS IN THE "EWALD CASE"

NEW YORK, Dec. 19.—(AP)— New York's "Ewald case," involving charges that a former city magistrate paid for influence to obtain his appointment to the bench, yielded two more indictments today.

They charged Mr. and Mrs. George F. Ewald with paying their friend, Dr. Francis M. Schirp, $2,000 for his aid at about the time Ewald was named to the magistracy in 1927, and charged Dr. Schirp with accepting. It Schirp signed a Steuben society letter to Mayor Walker recommending Ewald's appointment.

CHARITY THEATRE PARTY TO BE LARGELY ATTENDED

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Dec. 19—The sale of tickets for the entertainment to be given at the Capitol theatre Sunday afternoon under the joint auspices of the Willimantic lodge of Elks and Warner Brothers theatrical interests was fast reaching a high mark today with a wide public response to this worthy objective. The entire proceeds of the entertainment will be added to the regular annual Elks' fund for Christmas baskets for the needy and in this manner the Elks hope to be able to report that not a single one of these families was overlooked or not provided for because of the lack of funds. In past years the Elks have done this work in a quiet and unostentatious way but the tremendous demands being made for charity this year brought about the enlisting of public assistance through the entertainment. Manager John R. Pickett of the Capitol theatre and a member of the Elks' lodge secured the permission of Warner Brothers for the free use of the playhouse. The services of the Knights of Columbus Boys' band have also been accepted for a concert preceding the regular program. In various stores about town and in the theatre lobby sample baskets of what will be distributed to the needy were put on display today, a placard bearing the full menu.

COLCHESTER

CONDITIONS FAVORABLE FOR NEW WATER SYSTEM

Civil engineers have been here the past few days interviewing members of the committee recently appointed to investigate the advisability of installing a running water system in the borough. Several members of the committee recently visited a number of villages about the state having water systems similar to Colchester's needs and valuable information and suggestions for the installation of a system here have thus been obtained. Blue prints are being made and definite plans for the project will soon be submitted to the committee. The preliminary survey being made to find available sites for the pumping station, artesian well, etc., shows that first class water is available to supply a possible largely increased population and furnishing a pressure well above the rqeuirements of the fire insurance exchange. The committee's investigation reveals that in view of the present general business depression, there would be a greatly reduced cost of the water installation, as contractors are now able to secure cheaper labor and water pipe is said to be lower in cost than in many years. In view of the unusually dry weather the past few years, resulting in wells drying up and an increased borough fire hazard, sentiment among borough residents is growing in favor of the installation of a water system here. The members of the water committee, several of whom are prominent local business men, are Joseph Agranovitch, Lucius C. Brown, Samuel Cutler, Joseph Dember, I. Cohen, Jack Rosen, William B. Gerhardt, Leon Broder and Albert T. Van Cleve.

For a well attended meeting of Colchester grange, No. 78, Wednesday evening, the worthy lecturer, Mrs. Robert S. Brown, had prepared a very interesting "Connecticut night" program consisting of readings and musical selections by members.

Friends of Miss Margaret E. Donovan, Bacon academy French instructor, were encouraged to see her out for a few hours Thursday, after two weeks' severe illness.

The rush of Christmas mail commenced Thursday at the local post office.

To Play Noank Tonight

Manager Samuel Slavkin of the Colchester town basketball team has had his men out the past week for intensive practice in preparation for the game to be played here this (Saturday) evening with the fast Noank Whirlwinds. The local team will probably start with the following line-up: Center, Deitch; right forward, Gyome; left forward, Fedus; right guard, Polakevich; left guard, Hurin. This is the first time the local outfit has played the Noank quintet but as his hoopsters are now working in top form Manager Slavkin feels confident of victory in tonight's contest. A return game will be played in Noank Dec. 25. The local team also has games scheduled as follows: December 24, with Sheffield A. C. of New London, in Colchester; December 31, with Willimantic West Ends, at Willimantic; January 3, with Montville Aces, here; January 7, with Montville Aces, at Montville; January 14, with Middletown A. C., here. Negotiations are underway for games with the All-Collegian girls' team, of Providence.

Girls' Team Schedule

Miss Gertrude Seger, manager of Bacon academy girls' basketball team, has arranged the following schedule of games for the season: January 17, with Norwich Y girls, in Norwich; January 15, with Nathan Hale high school quintet, in Colchester; January 22, with Norwich Y girls, here; January 27, with Glastonbury high school girls, in Glastonbury; January 31, with Williams Memorial Institute, in New London; February 19, with Glastonbury high school girls here; February 14, with Williams' Memorial Institute here; March 4, with Nathan Hale high school in Moodus. The Bacon academy girls are having daily intensive practice and one of the strongest girls' teams in many years is ready for the season's contests. The girls are profiting considerably from the expert coaching of the Academy instructors, two former college stars, Misses Margaret E. Donovan and Josephine O'Brien.

Bacon academy boys' basketball team, under the able coaching of Instructor C. V. Howell, is having daily practice in preparation for the game to be played with the alumni quintet Dec. 27. The Bacon boys feel elated over their recent easy victory over the strong Phi Delta Nu team from Norwich and with the aid of their star forward, Levine, who scored 25 points in the Phi Delta Nu game, the Bacon outfit feels confidant of a victory in the coming alumni game. Manager Sam Berman, of the Bacon team, has arranged the following games for the coming weeks: December 27, with alumni, here; Jan. 13, with Nathan Hale, at Moodus; January 21, with Lyman Memorial, at Lebanon; January 23, with Pratt high at Essex; Feb. 11, with Pratt high at Colchester; February 21, with Nathan Hale, at Colchester; February 28, with Lyman Memorial high school, here.

Mrs. Lucy B. Allen returned Friday after several weeks' visit with her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Griswold Chappell in South Manchester.

Members and friends of the local Baptist church are to hold their annual Christmas tree party in the basement of the church this (Saturday) evening.

Stafford Springs

FAKE SOLICITORS COME FROM OUTSIDE TOWNS

Officials of Strazza post, American Legion, claim that they are not sponsoring the solicitation of Stafford people by outsiders for the purpose of helping ex-service men. Several people have been solicited during the past week and many have contributed, supposing that the local post was sponsoring the movement. All money raised by Strazza post is for local purposes and is all spent in this town. This post does not go outside to solicit funds and it does not approve of outsiders coming in here to solicit.

The tinfoil committee of the Shriners' hospital for crippled children in Springfield, Mass., has placed boxes in various parts of the town to recieve foil. The proceeds from the tinfoil disposed of will be turned over to the hospital. Boxes have been placed at the post offices in Stafford Springs and Staffordville, at the office of the Rhode Island Worsted company, the Business Men's club, the Stafford Springs house, Hudson garage, Paradiso's shop, B. Schwanda and sons' factory in Staffordville, also at the stores of Phelps and Cunningham and W. E. Belcher, Staffordville.

The pupils of the elementary schools are making preparations for a musical Christmas play, to be presented in the grammar school assembly room. The play is entitled "The Shepherds' Christmas Eve."

There was a large attendance at the senior play "The Queen of Kingdom Corners," presented at Warren Memorial hall Friday evening. The play was well cast and showed careful rehearsing. Between the acts, specialty dances were given by Misses Muriel Roberts and Agnes Reister, accompanied by Ruth Reid. The male chorus of the high school, under the direction of Miss Charlotte Beckwith, also took part and Miss Mae Long was at the piano. The proceeds will go to swell the Washington trip fund.

ARRESTS DUE TO THE CLOSING OF KINGSTON & CO.

has made an investigation, that the three men have committed perjury and I therefore ask your honor to issue a bench warrant for their arrest."

The state's attorney then asked Judge Brown if he could return here next Tuesday, when, Mr. Alcorn said, there would be "other developments."

The court indicated he had made other arrangements for next week, when the court will be in recess, but said that if he is unable to come that a Hartford county judge undoubtedly would be available. It was understood that the state plans to ask for other bench warrants in connection with the investigation at that time.

The state seized books and other records of the company in the course of its investigation and these were brought to the county building this afternoon and were carefully examined before the case was laid before the court.

Bank Commissioner Lester E. Shippee stated that he intends to go into court Saturday and ask for receivership for the Connecticut Trading corporation, and also for the Connecticut Utilities corporation.

Messrs. Grandahl and Smith were identified with the latter company, and the directorate also included Eugene W. Coe, Elbert E. Church and Earle O. Cruickshank.

Assets of the two corporations are reported to be meager. Securities in the Connecticut Trading corporation are said to have amounted to approximately $1,000,000 at one time and checkup now may not reveal $100,000 worth. The assets of the Connecticut Utilities corporation were variously estimated at sums from $2,000,000 to $3,000,000. The securities on hand are said to be about $500,000.

Action taken by State's Attorney Alcorn was on information furnished by Bank Commissioner Shippee.

The Connecticut Trading corporation was an internal association of members of the F. E. Kingston and compan yorganization, the partners of the firm not appearing by name. The incorporators were John H. Reid of 21 Ballard drive, West Hartford; Frank H. Smith of 343 Blohm street, West Haven; and Edmund J. Grandahl of 234 Ashley street, Hartford.

The Connecticut Trading corporation was organized in March, 1930, with authorized capital issued consisting of 500 shares of preferred stock and 500 shares of no par value common. The sworn statement set forth that $100 a share was paid in cash for the preferred and Messrs. Reid Smith and Grandahl, under oath declared that the amount paid in cash was $55,000.

DANIELSON

AND SOME PEOPLE THINK THEY HAVE ALL THE HARD LUCK

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Dec. 19 — Stephen Kogut, resident in the Horse Hill section of the town, has encountered at least half a peck of trouble at this holiday season. Someone stole his Hudson car from where he left it parked on Maple street while he went to call on friends, and when he reported the matter to Night Officer Laird Winchell the latter ordered him into court for violations of the motor vehicle regulations. Upon examining Kogut's motoring credentials Officer Winchell found that he had been operating the Hudson under a registration issued for a Ford that Kogut formerly owned. Kogut also was without an operator's license. In the town court Judge W. Fenner Woodward fined him $1.00 for driving with an improper registration and another dollar for driving without an operator's license. With the costs, the bill came to $6.68. Kogut is still hunting around for the car, which he had left near the South Main street plant of Powdrell and Alexander.

David Cote, who was fined for having been intoxicated when he was before the town court yesterday, now emphatically denies that he talked and was the cause of Leo Ouilette of Furnace street being ordered into court next Monday to answer to a charge of keeping with intent to sell. Cote claims he does not even know Ouilette.

FUNERAL

Willis Carr

This afternoon at the Baptist church in Franklin, Mass., funeral services were held for Willis Carr, who spent his youthful years in Danielson, but who has been resident in Norwood, Mass., for thirty years. He was 54 years of age. Mr. Carr was a resident on Mechanic street while living in Danielson. He was engaged here as a printer, in the employ of the late Col. William H. Hamilton. Mr. Carr was found dead in bed on Tuesday. He leaves his wife, his mother, Mrs. Thankful Carr, now 91 years of age, and a brother, Clarence A. Carr, resident here.

Unique Stunt Packs Store

You should have been around this evening to see the men who accepted the clever invitation of a local firm of dealers in women's wear and sundry allied lines to have the run of the store, all women positively excluded, from 8 o'clock to closing time. Most men possess some psychological kink that amounts to an inhibition when it comes to going shopping in what one may term a "women's store." They just balk up on the proposition if they have to do their shopping with a lot of feminine shoppers about, while just ankering to get in and have a peek around. Willing to buy, too, and plank the old cash down for their purchases, but shy about taking the chances of being peered at too keenly by the ladies who happen to be about buying things. Strange about this also, in view of the fact that most men are not noted for their bashfulness or timidity in almost any given situation.

Tonight they had their innings—a chance to shop by themselves, but not for themselves, and presumably they got a great kick out of looking over filmy, gauzy, colorful things that are to be found in such stores as invited them to have the place all to themselves tonight. Whoopee, how they liked it! Even if they do not brag so much about it at home!

118 At Charity Dinner

Alexander Daugherty, owner of the Junction House at Plainfield, did a very fine thing Wednesday evening in arranging a dinner that was attended by 118 persons at the hotel, many of them the best known residents of the town, in the interest of charitable work in the community. The dinner was a splendid one. It was announced as a coon dinner, and there was plenty of that viand served, but there also was roast lamb and veal, vegetables in variety and a selection of desserts. Both the main and private dining rooms of the hotel were used to seat the banqueters. Following the dinner there was a social hour during the course of which the gifted Frank O'Rourke, the blind tenor who has been staying with Mr. Daugherty of late, sang. The affair was a very complete success in every respect. The entire arrangements for the dinner were made by Mr. and Mrs. Daugherty, and they proved once again their right to their reputation of being ideal host and hostess. The dinner netted $100, which will be devoted to charitable work through an effective agency in Plainfield.

Franklin street crossing is a much less dangerous one than it has been for many years past, now that the New Haven road has installed and placed in operation some flashing signal lights of the latest type. There is a set of these lights on the east side of the crossing, to the north, and another set on the west side of the crossing, to the south. In addition the signal gong that has been at the crossing for years remains in use.

Approaching trains automatically cause the new flashers to function at least 20 seconds before the arrival of a train at the crossing. Motorists are warned not to attempt to go over the crossing while the lights are flashing, either before a train reaches it or after it has passed, for there is always the possibility of a second train following.

The new lights are powerful, have been placed to show to the best advantage and should greatly reduce if not entirely eliminate the possibility of accidents at this crossing unless a driver deliberately or recklessly seeks a joust between his car and a train. The new lights flash 35 times per minute.

Plans are about completed for the distribution of Christmas cheer to needy families of Danielson and vicinity during the early days of the coming week. It was regarded as likely today that the distribution will begin on Tuesday and be completed early Wednesday afternoon. The care that has been taken this year in tabulating the families and individuals that will receive aid forecasts a more effective and equitable handling of the work than ever before. There is little chance of duplication, for the agencies that are actively interested have compared notes and information and each organization knows what it is going to do and much about what the other organizations have in mind. It is indicated that the materials for dinners that will be assembled will contemplate a generous allotment at every home where aid is to be given, and of very good things, too.

Coroner Arthur G. Bill having decided that no inquest is to be held relative to the death of Dr. F. G. Goodridge, wealthy, retired Pomfret physician, who was found dead Wednesday afternoon on his country estate there, there naturally will be no finding to be made. The case goes definitely into the accidental class.

Final rehearsals of Christmas music and Christmas programs to be given at some of the churches here on Sunday were held this evening.

Carol singers will gather at Davis park Christmas eve and will be heard in song there before going about the borough to sing for aged persons and shutins. All singers who wish to join with the carolers have been invited to do so.

James A. Levesque of Attleboro is visiting with relatives in Danielson for a few days.

Thomas U. Day, student at the University of New Hampshire, is spending the holidays recess with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. George O. Thomas.

Miss Gertrude Reynolds, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Reynolds of North Main street, and Miss Rose Heneault, daughter of Armand Heneault of Dayville, students at Mt. St. Vincent college on the Hudson, will spend the Christmas holidays at their homes in town.

Equipment to be installed at the new booster building of the A. T. and T. company on the West Side continues to be received here. The working force of Western Electric company employes over there is being gradually increased.

Two performances of the Pomfret Nativity play will be given in Pomfret hall Sunday evening. This custom was established in 1913, and has been since regularly continued. Only one of the original cast remains this year.

A pageant, The Adoration of the Kings and Shepherds, is to be given at the Westfield Congregational church early Sunday evening. Mrs. Irving W. Davis will direct. The singing will be by the girls' choir.

STATE POLICE UNCOVER CLEVER FRAUD TO SECURE ANTIQUES

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Dec. 19—After several series of complaints alleging the theft of antique furniture from homes in this vicinity, state police at Danielson barracks today uncovered the latest of crime rackets, of which they believe, a large number of people residing in this section have been made victims. The story as related by the police following the arrest yesterday of Max Katz, of Providence, on a charge of fraud, has to do with certain men presenting themselves to owners of valuable antiques, as representatives of a Providence firm of furniture duplicators. The object of the business call is to put across the idea that manufacturers — antique models are desirous of copying the original lines of the subject in possession of the antique collector in order that all features might be accurately incorporated in the reproduction.

In order to photograph or sketch the piece, the representative impresses upon his victim the necessity of borrowing the subject, removing it to the firm studio where all delicate lines are clearly recorded on the photographic plate. For this inconvenience, the antique owner is paid amounts ranging from $5 to $25, depending upon the market value of the subject. Once the heirloom is removed from custody of its owner, it is never returned, or at least those taken from these parts as yet have not found their way back to rightful owners.

One of the first victims of the fraud was Miss Nellie Stone, who resides on Sunnyside avenue. According to police two polished gentlemen presented themselves at her home last Saturday afternoon and after stating the purpose of their visit, inquired if they might "take" a valuable table of early American design, in order that they might reproduce it. Miss Stone was unsuspecting and she released her valued holding into their custody for the stated time of a "few hours".

After the period required for the photographing of the subject elapsed and the reproducers failed to return, Miss Stone became alarmed and at length was persuaded by a friend to advise the police of what had taken place.

Katz was arrested yesterday by State Police Officer Henry M. Mayo of Danielson barracks and was charged with having been a perpetrator of the act of fraud. He was presented in police court this morning, the case being continued until December 27. He is being held in default of $500 bonds.

Lieut. Ross V. Urquhart of Danielson barracks said this afternoon that the arrest of Katz will probably result in the arrest of several of his accomplices wanted by police in several communities in eastern Connecticut and western Rhode Island, where they are alleged to have secured hundreds of dollars worth of antique furniture through their attractive propositions which failed to arouse the suspicions of victims until it was too late.

PUTNAM

SENATE CONFIRMS MACDONALD AS PUTNAM POSTMASTER

(Special to The Bulletin)

WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 19—The senate today confirmed the appointment of Archibald Macdonald as postmaster at Putnam, Conn. Mr. Macdonald has been postmaster there for the past few years.

PUTNAM COMMITTEE SEEKS NEW INDUSTRIAL PLANT

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Dec. 19—The new industries committee of the chamber of commerce is carrying on negotiations with a number of manufacturing organisations in other cities, believed to be desirous of procuring plants more adequately suited to their requirements, in an effort to induce a firm to locate in the recently vacated plant of the Adams Manufacturing company on Main street. As yet no substantial propositions have been received from the concerns most recently sought. However, Arthur E. Smith, chairman of the committee is hopeful that an attractive prospect will be secured.

The plant of the Adams company has been vacant since last summer when directors of the firm completed their consolidation of machinery in the mill here, with that housed in a large plant at Shelton, Conn.

Shortly after the plant became available for rent, the industries committee began negotiations with a novelty manufacturing organization in New York, which at the time was anxious to remove to New England. Executives of the company viewed the Main street mills and adjudged them to be ideally suited to their requirements, both from the standpoint of floor space and power rights. Relations ceased and removal plans were abandoned when the firm requested that certain Putnam men interested in the proposition, undertake to float a bond issue in order that financial entanglements confronting the corporation could be satisfactorily adjusted.

Albert Deacon of Dudley, Mass., was presented in court this morning on a charge of failing to grant right of way. He entered a plea of nolo and received a fine of $5 and costs. Deacon was arrested yesterday by State Policeman R. V. Scranton of Danielson barracks.

A unique innovation that is meeting with the favor of the French speaking people of this section is the booking by theatre managers of all French versions of motion pictures. The first time that the screen of the Bradley theatre spoke a foreign tongue occurred this evening when the Chevalier film, "Big Pond" was screened before a French audience. Many theatre goers versed in the French language took particular delight in viewing the production accompanied with French dialogue.

The Christmas holidays have brought home a large number of Putnam young men and women attending eastern colleges. The recess will extend until after January 1.

William Reid, his sisters, Misses Eliza and Mauretta Reid of South Main street, were the guests Friday of their cousins, Mr. and Mrs. John Brady and Miss Eleanor Fagan of Uxbridge, Mass.

Miss Jane Haines, student at Connecticut College at New London, is spending the Christmas recess at her home in Pomfret.

Sidney King of Springfield college is spending a part of the holiday recess with his parents Mr. and Mrs. A. S. King of Center street.

The spirit of Christmas is being electrically delineated by residents of the Grove street section who have adorned their windows with sets of electric candles that beautifully radiate the holiday cheer at night.

Rev. George J. Donahue, pastor of St. Mary's Memorial church at Norwich, and his sister Miss Lillian Donahue, visited with Pomfret and Putnam friends this afternoon. Rev. Fr. Donahue, widely known in this city is a former pastor of Holy Trinity church at Pomfret.

Patrolman Joseph Page of the local police has been transferred from the night patrol force to day duty in the business section.

All public schools in the city closed this afternoon for the Christmas recess, which will extend to December 29. Services appropriate for the occasion were held in all schools. Christmas parties featured the closing exercises in the primary departments and at Putnam high school the student body this morning listened to an inspiring address given by Rev. George E. Armstrong of Danielson.

JEWETT CITY

FOOLHARDY BOY INJURED THROUGH HIS OWN ACT

Friday afternoon, William Miskiewicz, 12, of 33 Dime street, while crossing the Quinebaug viaduct at the point where the railroad right of way passes under the bridge, saw a train approaching down the line. The lad partly clambered up on the balustrade, directly over the tracks, to watch the cars go below him. The hot blast of smoke from the engine stack was blown up into his face with the result that he jumped back to the roadway just as Mrs. William Wingate was passing, driving a Hupmobile coupe. The boy was struck and knocked down. Dr. F. E. Rainville, who was called, took him to his office where he found that the mudguard and headlight had struck the boy on the head. Several lacerations and bruises were treated with the uncertainty remaining as to possible cerebral hemorrhage. Traffic Officer William Blake checked up on the accident, making no arrests, his statement being that the boy was wholly to blame. As far as Mrs. Wingate was concerned the accident was absolutely unavoidable; the boy jumped back, directly in front of her machine.

Christmas Sunday Services

Sunday Christmas music at the Baptist church will include: Morning service—Prelude, In a Monastery Garden (Ketelbey); anthem, Star of Bethlehem (Wilson); response, Glory to God; anthem, Singing of Him (Wilson); postlude, Grand Choeur (Dale). At the evening service a chorus choir will give a special service, "Christmas Memories." There will be solos by Mrs. George Cregan, Tyler Gilbert and John MacLean, and duets by Mrs. Floyd Ray and Miss Mabel Frink, Mrs. Cregan and Miss Ellen Prior. Mrs. Grace H. Manning, of Norwich, will read several Christmas selections. The musical numbers will be; Prelude, Vesper Melody (Nolte); chorus, Hark, Hark, My Soul! solo, O Holy Night, Tyler Gilbert; chorus, Still is the Starry Night; solo, Bethlehem Lullaby, Mrs. George Cregan; chorus, The Song Divine; duet, Our King Awaits, Mrs. Cregan and Miss Prior; chorus, Heralds of Light; solo, The Night Was Still, John MacLean; duet, Star of the Ages, Mrs. Floyd Ray and Miss Mabel Frink; chorus, Where is He Born? closing chorus, O Mystery of Midnight Skies; postlude, Christmas Postlude (Hosmer). Mrs. George H. Prior is chorister and Mrs. John A. Davis is organist.

Finn's tonight, mat. 3; Three Faces East, with Constance Bennett.—adv.

At the Congregational church the Christmas music will include: Prelude, Paraphrase on a Christmas Hymn, by William Faulkes; anthem, O Little Town of Bethlehem; response, Silent Night, Holy Night; offertory, Silent Night, by E. L. Ashford; postlude, O Come All Ye Faithful, by Ira B. Wilson. The music will be by a vested junior choir, Mrs. Irene Benjamin, chorister and organist.

At the Methodist church, a special Christmas service for the young people is being planned, with a Christmas sermon by the pastor, Rev. John W. Carter. In the evening a carol will be combined with recitations by the younger children. Christmas night, a social gathering with a Christmas tree will be held in the vestry.

Finn's Sunday at 7, matinee at 3; Heads Up, with Buddy Rogers and Helen Kane.—adv.

RED CROSS TO RECEIVE CLOTHING FOR THE NEEDY

At a meeting of Jewett City chapter, American Red Cross, held Friday afternoon, it was voted to give $100 to the town of Griswold to be used for needy persons. Mrs. W. A. Broadfoot was appointed chairman of a committee which will receive apparel of all kinds, in good condition, at the Red Cross room on Monday and Friday afternoons of each week. At any other time such articles may be left at Miss Rosanna DesJardin's home, 52 Main street. The selectmen, pastors, doctors, teachers, nurses, or anyone else, can make application to the Red Cross for the clothing, to be used where needed. Many people, especially children, need shoes, stockings, underwear and outside clothing, and a number of persons have such articles but do not know where to send them. The Red Cross room and Miss DesJardin's home will be the headquarters to receive such clothing. The Red Cross room will be open from 2 to 4:30 on the above stated afternoons.

The night school pupils contributed $3.70 to the Red Cross to be used for needy people, instead of having their customary exchange of Christmas gifts, at their party Thursday evening. They enjoyed carol singing and a general good time.

The officers elected to serve Faith chapter, O. E. S., for next year are: Worthy matron, Miss Edith Hinchliffe; worthy patron, Samuel R. Truesdale; associate matron, Mrs Helen Babcock; associate patron, Arthur Massey; secretary, Margery Brewster; treasurer, Mrs. Lillian Crumb; conductress, Florence Barnes; associate conductress, Mrs. Lucy Davis. A Christmas party was held at the close of the meeting.

The Ladies' society of the Baptist church met at the Baptist parsonage Thursday afternoon. Mrs. G. H. Prior presided at the business meeting. The committee appointed to serve refreshments for the roll call was: Miss Ida Foster, Mrs. Phebe Gray, Mrs. N. J. Babcock, Mrs. Thomas Brown and Mrs. Edward Raney. The program committee appointed at a church meeting is Mrs. B. R. Gardner, Mrs. E. E. Gilbert and Mrs R. W. Dearnley. The invitation committee is Mrs. J. B. Palmer and Mrs. Earle Palmer. A baked bean supper with potato salad, graham bread, relishes, rolls, cake and coffee was served to the 27 present by Mrs. E. E. Scates, Miss Foster, Mrs. F. H. Gilbert, Mrs. E. E. Gilbert and Mrs. A. D. Tripp.

Mix-up No 3 happened Wednesday evening on the Quinebaug cut-off, when William Howeson's car was sideswiped by a passing automobile, which kept going.

PLAINFIELD

Plainfield Woman's club met Thursday at the community house with an attendance of twenty members and one guest. The president, Mrs. Esther Butler, presided. After the business session a pleasing Christmas program, arranged by Mrs. Charles Hopkins and Mrs. George Weston was given, as follows: Songs by club members; solo, Mrs. Maud Krause; readings, Mrs. Alice Gallup, Mrs. B. F. Dawson, Mrs. George Weston; whistling solos, Miss Ruth Griffith, of Moosup. Refreshments were served during the social hour by the hostesses, Mrs. Exley and Mrs. May Lewis. Mrs. George Weston will entertain the club at her home at its next meeting, Tuesday, Dec. 30. As this is to be a Christmas party each member was asked to bring a ten-cent gift for the tree. The committee on decorating and filling the Christmas baskets for shut-ins will meet with Mrs. Augusta Nolan, Monday afternoon, Dec. 22.

A delicious game supper was again served Wednesday evening at Lawton inn. Most of the men had attended the game supper a week ago and had so thoroughly enjoyed it that they wished a repetition.

Was Former Resident

George Fowler, of Providence, was among guests registered at the Lawton inn during the past week. The older residents remember him as he lived here at Plainfield for a number of years. At one time he occupied the house which is now owned by Lorenze Krauss. Mr. Fowler's father was a member of the firm of Robinson & Fowler, owners of the foundry which stood at one time where the Lawton mills now stand. He has been making his home in Providence for a number of years.

FUNERAL

Edward Herbert

The funeral of Edward Herbert took place Thursday at 8 a. m. from his home, 48 Second street. Requiem mass was sung at St. John's church at 9. Burial was in St. John's cemetery. Mr. Herbert died very suddenly at 9.30 p. m. at his home. He worked all day and did not complain. He is survived by his wife, Amelia, his son, Lewis, and a daughter, Mrs. Harold Oates. Mr. Herbert was born in Boutin, Canada, 52 years ago and came to the United States 48 years ago. He has lived at Plainfield 12 years. Dougherty Bros. had charge of the funeral arrangements.

Miss Adelate Burns has left for her home in Holyoke, Mass., for the holidays.

Miss Celia Isreal is spending the week in New York.

A coon supper was enjoyed by nearly 160 guests Wednesday at the Junction house under the supervision of A. W. Dougherty. Was given for the benefit of the unemployed.

Stanley Vallette is ill with a severe cold.

Rev. William C. Prentiss left Thursday for North Brookfield, Mass., to take up his new pastorate.

The following girls were made Girl Scouts of Troop 1 at the weekly meeting held Tuesday evening at the community house: Margaret Marsden, Margery Baldwin, Dorothy Bower and Rita Handfield. Plans were discussed for the annual Christmas party which will be held next Tuesday evening; each scout is to bring a ten-cent present. Girl Scout registration cards were given out after the enrollment ceremony. The remainder of the evening was spent on Scout work.

NO. GROSVENORDALE

At Tourtellotte Memorial high school, the student body council voted to stage a benefit basketball game. The school's quintet will play Killingly. The proceeds will be devoted to the needs of the children of the unemployed of the town. Although the town has suffered little from the general depression as compared with other New England places, many families have applied for aid. Coach W. G. Colby plans to open the game with Chubbuck at center, Blanchette and D. Sherry as forwards and Captain Tefft and Merrill Seney at guard positions.

Schools of town of Thompson closed Friday afternoon for the holiday recess. The new term will open Dec. 29. St. Joseph's parochial school closed Friday afternoon, to open the new term Jan. 5th.

Mrs. Prudence Greene of Worcester was a recent guest of her sister, Mrs. Nancy Walker.

The Woman's council of St. Jean Baptiste society, the Dames de la Valtrie, held the annual election at St. Joseph's hall, Thursday night. Mrs. Philip Coderre, the president, presided.

The Luther league of the Swedish Lutheran church met Thursday night. A Christmas party was held and gifts distributed. Refreshments were served.

Miss Grace Hussey instructor at the Tourtellotte Memorial high school left Friday afternoon for her home at North Berwick, Maine, to spend the Christmas recess.

POST AND AUXILIARY PLAN CHILDREN'S PARTY

The American Legion and auxiliary will observe on Sunday afternoon the fourth anniversary Christmas program. The program and tree will be held at the community house through the courtesy of Agent J. F. Reardon. Sixty children will be guests of Oscar Swanson post. A program of Christmas recitations, songs and dialogs will be given by the children, under direction of Miss Yvonne Dion and Mrs. John P. Lewis.

WESTERLY THIRD DISTRICT COURT IN SESSION ONLY TWO MINUTES

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, Dec. 19.—A record short session of Friday morning convening of third district court with Judge Oliver H. Williams on the bench lasted less than two minutes. The high sheriff and clerk were entering the court room when the judge began calling the docket. The only other attendants were two newspaper men and two attorneys. Court matters were disposed of as follows, with the town prosecutor and prosecuting officer both absent:

Criminal docket—State, Thomas E. Brown, chief of police, vs. Harriet A. Stone, alias Evelyn Main. By agreement of counsel, continued two weeks.

Civil docket—Boston Furniture Co. vs. Philip Weber, alias. Continued one week.

Transferred from nial to active docket—Henry J. Haggerty vs. George P. Tanner, et ux, an old action brought to collect for services rendered. By request of Attorney C. E. Roche, set down for trial next Friday.

There were no new writs entered and no spectators in the courtroom.

THREE SALES OF REAL ESTATE RECORDED

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, Dec. 19.—Recorded in the office of the Westerly town clerk appear the following transfers:

Dec. 15. Walter S. Price to Louis Leone, tract of land at Watch Hill located west of Watch Hill chapel, it being a strip of land 20 feet in width on the west and north sides of land now owned by Louis Leone.

Dec. 17. William T. Smith to Clara B. Smith, his wife, an undivided one-half interest in Lots Nos. 50, 51 and 52, Melrose Heights.

Dec. 18. Samuel H. Davis, conservator of the estate of Hannah Crandall, to Angelo J. Cappucio, a strip of land ten feet in width beginning at the southeast corner of Lot No. 20, Hannah Crandall sub-division, of approximately 6,900 square feet.

Dr. Thomas E. Robinson, Westerly milk inspector and state veterinarian, acted on Thursday as a bearer at the Sherman funeral held in Portsmouth.

Mrs. H. R. Trainer has returned to Westerly from a several weeks' visit in New Jersey.

Miss Lydia F. Nichols, senior at Mount Holyoke college, South Hadley, Mass., returned on Thursday to her home to be the holiday guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas P. Nichols.

Al Bailey and daughter, Miss Cecelia Bailey, were Westerly business visitors on Thursday evening in Cranston, R. I.

Mrs. Edna H. Treat, deputy and acting clerk of Washington county superior court, was a caller in Westerly on Friday morning, where she was called as a witness in the third district court action, Chief of Police Thomas E. Brown, vs. Harriet A. Stone, alias Evelyn Main, charged with a statutory offense, and which was continued two weeks.

Judge William A. Wilcox returned to his Pawcatuck home on Friday from a several days' business trip to New York city.

Lighter Elmer S. Dailey, of New York, came up the Pawcatuck river on Friday morning with 250 tons of anthracite coal from Pier No. 18, New York, to the coal dock at the head of Pawcatuck river navigation. It was necessary for the lighter, which is equipped with an auto motor, to force its way through a coating of ice in the trip up the river.

Probation Officer Elias Emmett was a caller in Westerly on Friday morning to attend the session of third district court.

Mrs. Robert F. L. Barr was in Providence on Friday.

Fred W. Harvey and George E. Leonard were Pawcatuck motor visitors in Providence on Thursday evening.

Miss Marjorie Chapman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William R. Chapman, Mount Holyoke college senior, arrived in Westerly Thursday to be the Christmas recess guest of her parents.

Attorney M. Walter Flynn was in Providence on Friday.

J. Howard Alger, wife and son, Jarvis, of Pittsburgh, Pa., will be Christmas guests the coming week of Mr. Alger's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jarvis H. Alger, in Westerly.

The annual manger services of Christ Episcopal church will be held on next Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock when the gifts will be placed in the manger. The donations will go to St. Mary's Church Home at Fruit Hill, Providence, R. I. Rev. G. Edgar Tobin, rector of Christ Episcopal church, was in Providence on Thursday when he attended at the Cathedral Church of St. John on North Main street, with other Rhode Island clergy, the ordination of a candidate to the priesthood and to a deaconship. The ordination ceremonies were conducted by Rt. Rev. James DeWulf Perry, D.D., presiding bishop of the Episcopal Church of America.

FUNERAL

James DeBartelo

Funeral services for James DeBartelo, aged 25, popular resident of Central Park, who died Tuesday, were held Friday at 8:30 o'clock at his late home. A solemn high mass of requiem was observed at 9 o'clock at the Church of the Immaculate Conception with Rev. Henry Bruno, S. M., celebrant; Rev. J. F. Vincent, S. M., deacon, and Rev. J. B. Capesius, S. M., sub-deacon.

There was a large attendance of relatives and friends at the services and many beautiful floral pieces. During the mass, solos were sung by Miss Rose E. Bannon and Martin H. Spellman. Interment was at St. Sebastian cemetery, where the committal service was conducted by Father Bruno. An eulogy at the grave was delivered by Amadeo Fusaro.

The bearers were Demetrio Turano, Guiseppe Cozzolino, Antonio DeBartelo, Francesco DeBartelo, Giuseppe Vitelino and Beppo Gincarelli.

MONTVILLE

FLAMES BREAK OUT FRIDAY IN BAPTIST CHURCH RUINS

Several men kept watch of the ruins of the Montville Union Baptist church, completely destroyed by fire Thursday evening. A line of hose from the Palmer Bros. mill at Palmertown had to be used over a dozen times during Friday morning and up to late afternoon, to extinquish flames that broke out in different sections of the structure. This work was in charge of Yard Foreman Allen, of the Palmer Bros. mill, who was assisted by William Sisson and William Myers.

Many Attend Operettas

Two operettas, At the Court of Santa Claus by the pupils of the 1, 2, 3 and 4 grades and the Magic Nutcracker, staged by the pupils of the 5, 6, 7 and 8 grades of the Uncasville school that were presented in the school auditorium Wednesday and Thursday evenings had seating capacity both nights.

A man of 32, who resides in Chesterfield, was arrested in Waterford Thursday evening by State Trooper Frederick Johnson of Groton barracks on a charge of intoxication. He was taken before Justice of the Peace Oscar E. Church Friday afternoon and was fined $5 and costs. He couldn't pay so was taken over to the county jail in New London to work out the fine and costs.

The community Christmas tree, which stands opposite the Montville World war honor roll at Uncasville has been decorated with vari-colored lights and will be illuminated each night until after Christmas.

George Johnson, of Poquet, who has been undergoing medical treatment in the New Haven General hospital for the past six weeks, is expected to be dismissed today (Saturday) to the great satisfaction of his numerous friends.

SISTER-IN-LAW SECURES ARREST OF MRS. ELIK

(Special to The Bulletin)

MONTVILLE, Dec. 19—Mrs. [illegible] Elik, who resides on the former Sullivan place near Trading Cove was arrested by State Trooper Eric Swanson of Groton barracks on a charge of breach of peace, upon complaint of her sister-in-law, Mrs. Mary [illegible]check, of Trading Cove. The accused was presented in Montville justice court, Friday evening and was fined $2 and costs by Justice of the Peace Oscar E. Church.

"Some time ago eczema broke out on my leg. After weeks of special treatment during which time the itching and burning was so severe I could hardly stand it, I was told nothing more could be done for me. A friend of mine urged me to try Resinol Ointment, which I did. I am happy to say it healed my leg completely and I have never had any breaking out since. My husband also used Resinol for a rash on his hands with the same excellent results. We are never without it in our home." (Signed)—

THE PALMERTOWN FIRE

Aged is the story about locking the barn door before the horse is stolen. It is simply insisting upon doing something in the way of prevention before some serious loss demonstrates the need. But even though it is aged it is quite as applicable to present-day conditions.

This is fully illustrated by the destructive fire in the Baptist church at Palmertown. It was not many months ago that those who recognized the lack of fire protection in that town endeavored to have the town provide a motor-driven fire engine to deal with such fires as might develop. It was recognized that while the manufacturing plants of the town were equipped to look after their own hazards there were other fire dangers which needed consideration. The town had already had several destructive fires, and it was as the result of such warnings that increased protection was sought.

The fire in the Palmertown church demonstrates that even though reliance had been placed upon such service as the industries might furnish in fighting fires such dependence has its weaknesses. This time it was found to be in the hose, which refused to stand the pressure. Inability to get water onto the flames at the beginning was, therefore, fatal. Now Palmertown faces the construction of a new church, even as Uncasville did for the same reason only a few years ago.

It is inevitable under such circumstances that the feeling should prevail that had Montville provided the motor vehicle fire apparatus that was sought the means of checking the fire in its early stages would have been at hand, for new equipment and new hose would have stood the test.

Frequently it is the case that some serious loss or a disaster has to happen in order to present before the public the need for action of a protective or preventive character. Many a fire department has been modernized or increased through just such a manner. While the lesson may seem unnecessary and costly it is too often insisted upon and it will not be surprising if the people of Montville, if called upon to act on the provision of a fire engine today, would show that they had been convinced of its need.

DELAYED COURT ACTION

It was inevitable that there would be disappointment over the manner in which the senate foreign relations committee dealt with the question of joining the world court. There is a widespread feeling that it has been delayed too long already, that the sentiment of the country is strongly back of the idea of joining and that the senate could have found time to vote upon adherence if it had wanted to.

Those who take such a view are unquestionably justified, but they cannot fail to realize that there is a marked difference between what it is believed the senate can do and what the senate is willing to do.

It is known that there are those who are opposed to joining the court. Some of those who opposed postponing action for a year are against adherence and would have participated in whatever debate would have followed the committee report had it favored action at this session. Those who are opposed to joining the court are likewise in certain instances very apt to be lined up against the administration. In other words, they would have welcomed the opportunity to use the court for the purpose of delaying action on other and necessary business at this session. The committee understood this thoroughly and by a narrow margin decided that the delay of another year for the disposition of the court question was preferable to throwing the whole session's programme out of joint by insisting upon world court action now.

It doesn't appear that adherence is joepardized because of the delay. It postpones the benefits which would come with entrance into the court but with public sentiment favorable to joining, in fact advocating it, it appears to be only a question of time when it will be accomplished.

What might have been expected if the court matter had been brought up at this session is illustrated by the filibuster of Senator Howell of Nebraska yesterday. The attitude of putting obstructions in the way of everything else unless things demanded can be obtained has repeatedly characterized the present congress. It was possible for those opposed to the world court to throw the whole session out of joint and force an extra session. That the country doesn't want, quite as emphatically as it does want adherence to the world court, and by the course adopted nothing will eventually be lost but much should be gained.

GUATEMALA'S GOVERNMENT

Republics in Central America have long been disposed to create conditions which cause much uncertainty for their neighbors and contribute anything but a peaceful and harmonious administration of their respective governments.

Guatemala is the latest to kick over the traces and in so doing it raises the question as to the effectiveness of the treaty negotiated by the Central American countries a few years ago in which it was agreed that the five republics would not "recognize any other government which may come into power through a coup d'etat or a revolution against a recognized government, so long as the freely-elected representative of the people has not constitutionally reorganised the country."

In Guatemala conditions appeared to be going along satisfactorily until President Chacon retired because of illness. That meant the election of an acting president by the council of ministers and Baudilio Palma was chosen and his choice ratified by the assembly. This didn't please the minister of war. He wanted the post himself. He set out to get it. He was killed, but General Orellana was inspired to take his place and he grabbed the office and out went the acting president.

This ousting took place after the United States had extended recognition to Acting President Palma, who was put into office in a constitutional manner. But his control is over and it remains to be seen what becomes of the Orellana government. While this country is not a party to the Central American treaty concerning the recognition of a government resulting from a revolution, it endorses such a policy. Nicaragua knows that. How Guatemala is going to deal with it, and with the fact that four Central American neighbors are treaty bound not to recognize such a government, remains to be seen. The effort has been made to discourage the practice of resorting to revolution and coups d'etat in order to change governments in preference to the constitutional method, and a situation has now developed in Guatemala which provides a chance to test out its effectiveness. It gives not only Guatemala but the others who signed the treaty plenty to think about.

NEED IS FOR GREATER CARE

While much stress is placed upon the importance of eliminating railroad crossings in order to prevent needless deaths at such points, there are frequent news reports which disclose that it is not so much the need of removing crossings in many instances as it is to require safer driving from those who hold the wheels of automobiles.

From Lewisburg, Pa., comes the story of the killing of five young men and the serious injury of a sixth. It happened at an underpass, a point where a crossing had been avoided or eliminated at some time or other, and it was due to the fact that, being crowded off the highway by another car, the auto crashed into an abutment causing the machine to overturn and crush the occupants.

It was another one of those cases where bad judgment and poor driving on the part of the highway users was responsible. It would appear to have been the fault of the driver who got away by so encroaching upon the rights of the other car as to force it into trouble. It was one of those accidents that ought not to have happened, but that is characteristic of most all accidents at grade crossings, especially when it is possible to get a view of the tracks or the signals which guard them.

It has been repeatedly maintained that removing crossings does not encourage that safer driving which is so much needed in the highways today. Crossing accidents occur in the great majority of the cases because of a refusal to heed warnings. Accidents at underpasses, or at bridges where crossings have been eliminated, result from that same carelessness and recklessness and demonstrate the need for insisting upon more care instead of less by all users of the highways. Crossing elimination does not encourage the greater care that is needed. Deaths continue to pile up whether the highway crosses at grade, goes over or under the railroad tracks.

CHRISTMAS FIRES

Christmas is only a few days away. It will be here before many are ready for it, but there has been offered much golden advice in regard to the prevention of destructive fires through the use of inflammable material in Christmas tree decorations which ought to get considerate attention.

For the most part, it is simply a matter of thought. It is quite as easy to be careful and adopt preventive measures as it is to be careless and invite trouble. What is needed is to give heed to what is being done, recognize where danger lies and respect the suggestions which have been advanced from years of experience.

No one wants to have the great holiday marred by a fire. No one wants to experience the undesirable effects of a blaze in the home, that may mean not only considerable financial loss but being driven from home and, possibly, injuries and death. Such is not overdrawn, for it has repeatedly occurred. The distress going with such developments can be considered in advance quite as well as afterward, and when it is there cannot fail to be full regard for the importance of complying with preventive suggestions. In fact, too many have blamed themselves after fire had gotten in its destructive work for not having heeded preventive advice.

Christmas trees furnish fodder for the flames. Fires kindle quickly enough from curtains that get in the way of lighted candles and without quantities of inflammable Christmas decorations being thrown in the way. Since they all increase the hazard, the wisdom of respecting warnings concerning their use and the need of holiday precautions must be apparent. It is as easy to be careful as otherwise. The chief requirement is to remember it.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Something besides castles are being sought in Spain these days.

Even the Spanish royal household feels a bit uncertain about its castle in Spain.

According to reports, business appears to be picking up, with the gypsies, at least.

Let congress convince the country that there will be no extra session and much uncertainty will be removed.

Don't make any plans in anticipation of the 18th amendment being invalid until the supreme court has had a chance to hear the case.

The man on the corner says: Common sense appears to be available in considerable quantities but the trouble seems to be in getting it properly distributed.

THE MAN WHO TALKS

There are evident political reasons why widespread unemployment should affect, more or less, the whole of our organic body. The United States of America form a single body of citizens, bound together by very strong ties. It exemplifies Tennyson's "golden cord that passes through the heart of God," binding his children to Him in a splendid entity. It is for this reason that all the people, because they form one great political body, more or less suffer in seasons of financial depressions. There are some, of course, who feel it more keenly than others. The churches, being one great element of this society, feel this distress to a considerable extent, especially those whose membership is mostly made up of manual laborers. The appeal comes urgently from workers on missionary fields, both home and foreign, that money is greatly needed if the work is to continue. But many churches are finding it hard to meet home expenses.

In these days of financial stringency we need as a people some kind of a moral tonic to get us into the right condition to enjoy the real spirit of the Christmas season. Of course we need something more than a pocketbook whether it is fat or lean to make that day a reality to us. It would be hard to find a better prescription for our present national crisis than one written out many centuries ago, which reads thus: "I will lift up mine, eyes to the hills, from whence cometh my help. My help cometh from the Lord which made heaven and earth." These days we see many men walking the streets bent over, with sad faces, looking at the ground. They will find no help in looking down! They need to look up and perhaps they will see Sinai enthroned in the glory of God!

There is always more of an inspiration in looking up than down, and there is vastly more of life in being up than down. A few years ago the writer was called back to his native town in Massachusetts to take part in the annual Old Home week celebration. At the dinner table he was talking with some of his old friends about those he once knew. As he mentioned one name the master of ceremonies grew sad as he replied: "The poor fellow is down and out!" There you have it, "down" that means when applied to people that they have reached the limit; they are out of the race. We then talked of another man who grew up with the former, whose name was well-known as he had recently run for mayor of New York. It was quite evident that he was one of the uppercrust. These two men had equal chances when young, the difference was that the one looked down and went down; the other looked up and went up.

Why is it that the majority of people find more pleasure in looking up than down? Not only because there is more to see, but it is more beautiful and inspiring. There is more beauty in the stars than there is in a quagmire. The hill is first to get the morning light, and the last to give it up in the late afternoon. It is the mountain top that gives us the far vision, not the dark and gloomy valley. Take the splendid mountains out of the Holy Land and what have you left but Dead seas and barren wastes! What a majestic sight it was when Moses was on Sinai; our Lord on the Mount of Transfiguration, and later on Olives and Calvary! No wonder we have that wonderful saying in the Psalms: "I will lift up mine eyes to the hills, from whence cometh my help. My help cometh from the Lord, which made heaven and earth."

One thing more ought to be said about the hills, because it is the hills upon which the psalmist puts the chief emphasis. Now the hills and mountains are "round about Jerusalem" and they do vastly more for this author than to arouse his sense of the beautiful. Now the main reason why he looks up to the hills is because they give him power ("from whence cometh my help"). He then goes on to say that his strength "comes from the Lord who made heaven and earth." If there is anything in logic it is the psalmist's firm belief that in some way Jehovah is identified with the mountains, and especially those that "are round about Jerusalem." Now the city itself was situated on a lofty hill. If the psalmist found the strength of God in the mountains, how about the Christians of today who have the added vision of Olivet and Calvary? With much more reason can the Christian say "my help cometh from the hills!"

The above items are only a fraction of the things that might be said in relation to the great contribution that hills and mountains make to the general welfare of man. These I think can be surmised without stating. Now if hills and mountains are of such inestimable value to man then it goes without argument that man should do everything in his power to preserve the life-giving functions of the hills. Nobody goes to China to see its bare, unsightly ridges of bare rock. The great value of the hills is their productive power that keeps alive our economic system. We must forbid denuding the hills of their vegetation. They are not common property for supplying the public at large with Christmas trees and other evergreens. If they are so abused the time will come when they will no longer be a source of beauty and strength!

Pledges to The Hospitals

Mr. Editor: I understand that an erroneous item was printed in your paper recently to the effect that the Woodstock League of Women Voters had pledged $100 toward the new hospital for Willimantic. We do not wish to have credit for an act which we are not responsible for, and ask that you will print a correction of that report. The truth of the matter is that the Windham County League of Women Voters has pledged the sum of $100 toward the needs of the new hospital in Willimantic and the Day Kimball hospital in Putnam. Both the Windham County league and the Woodstock league will appreciate it if you will set the matter straight in your paper.

I am told that the erroneous report was under the Willimantic news in the paper of Dec. 15 or some earlier issue.

Solution of Yesterday's Puzzle

MONTVILLE'S "BLACK WALNUT" CHURCH, NOW IN CINDERS, WAS REFINISHED IN 1910

The Bulletin of Friday, May 13, 1910, contains the following account of the Union Baptist church of Montville, which was burned last Thursday:

With the church filled, the congregation including ministers from several churches in the neighborhood and old worshippers who have removed from the town, yet maintained a lively interest in local religious events, the re-dedicatory services of Union Baptist church in Montville were held on Tuesday night.

The church, bright, cheerful and attractive inside and out, was well filled and the exercises were of an interesting and uplifting nature. During the few weeks the edifice has been closed much has been accomplished. It was found at the outset of the repairing program that a new ceiling was required.

Stained Glass Shot Trees With Beauty.

With the exception of the ceiling work, all the alterations have been by local firms. While a detailed statement of the expenses is not yet ready, although promised in a short time, it is known that practically all the money has been raised by contributions and entertainments in a remarkably short space of time.

The church is beautiful, interior and exterior alike. One feature, however, which no speaker last night alluded to, is its appearance from the outside when lighted up, the effect from the stained glass, seen through the foliage of the trees, forming a pretty picture.

The principal speaker of the evening was Rev. D. D. Monro, pastor of Calvary Baptist church, New Haven, who delivered the re-dedicatory sermon. After an opening instrumental trio selection, the rendering of the opening chorus, He Lifted Me, prayer by S. F. Maine, pastor of Uncasville M. E. church, and responsive scripture reading, led by Rev. H. T. Arnold of Norwich, acting pastor of Montville Center Congregational church, Rev. D. D. Monro was introduced.

Congratulates Pastor Chappell.

Dr. Monro stated that his first duty was to congratulate the pastor, Rev. George C. Chappell, and the congregation upon the transformation which had been wrought in the church.

Dr. Monro spoke from the book of the Revelation 1: 5; "Unto him that loved us." After eloquently depicting the glory of the world, sceptres, crowns, robes and riches, all to be thrown at the feet of Christ, he asked if that were not too much power to give. A little power or prosperity was dangerous and ruinous to some. This, the speaker emphasized, was altogether impossible in regard to Christ. All human philosophers had made mistakes, but Christ never had. He stated that without the blood of Christ all churches might at once close their doors.

Following Dr. Monro's sermon, the hymn, How Firm a Foundation, was sung, and Rev. Joseph A. Elder offered the dedicatory prayer. The vocal duet, Love Divine, All Love Excelling, was most exquisitely rendered by Mr. and Mrs. Robert Latimer, accompanied by Mrs. G. C. Chappell.

Reads Dedicatory Poem.

Mrs. G. C. Chappell then read an original dedicatory poem, after which Rev. George R. Atha, pastor of the Groton Heights Baptist church, delivered an eloquent and instructive address upon The Efficient Bible School. Mr. Atha is a forceful and practical speaker. He selected six sub-topics: Gathering, Organizing, Grading, Training, Sowing and Reaping. He spoke of getting the children to the Bible school, and to the boys and girls of the Montville church he gave hearty advice on this point, adding that anything worth doing was worth doing well.

After the chorus, He Will Hold Me Fast, had been sung by the choir, Rev. W. T. Thayer of Norwich gave a short talk on The Efficient Young People's Society. The prevailing note in Mr. Thayer's address was the need of enthusiasm—not the effervescent gind, but the real, enduring quality. Superlatives were necessary; in fact, the New Testament was largely a book of superlatives and of enthusiasm. He quoted verses showing this. To have an efficient Young People's society it was necessary to have enthusiasm in Christ's work.

Many Subscribed for Repairs.

Deacon Edwin S. Henry of the church repair committee then read a brief statement outlining the steps taken since the repairs were decided upon. This work, the report showed, was first undertaken at a meeting held Jan. 20, 1910, when a committee of three, consisting of Edwin S. Henry, Norman C. Allen and Martin V. B. Brainard was chosen. At the request of the committee the pastor was asked to act as collector.

A brief statement by the pastor, Rev. G. C. Chappell, was then given. He had received 155 subscriptions outside the amounts received from the church societies by entertainments. In all his experience he had never worked with a committee which was so kind, so painstaking and patient.

Pithy addresses of greetings were given by Rev. Charles M. Reed of East Lyme Baptist church, Rev. J. R. Very of Greeneville, Rev. S. F. Maine of Uncasville M. E. church, Rev. H. T. Arnold of Montville Center Congregational church, and Rev. Brewer G. Boardman of Waterford.

Letters from former pastors and friends were next read by Church Clerk Frank H. Rogers, including words of congratulation from Rev. J. Clark Tibbits of Chester, Conn.; Rev. Joseph Butterworth of Fall River, Mass.; Rev. S. G. Hastings of National City, Cal.; Rev. Alfred S. Stowell of Bristol, R. I.; Rev. E. J. Bosworth of New Rochelle, N. Y.; and Rev. Elisha Sanderson of Sedgwick, Me.

The programme for the evening was issued in a neat folder containing a photograph of the church and also one of the pastor.

Organized in 1842.

The Union Baptist church of Montville was organized Jan. 15, 1842. The first house of worship was dedicated Oct. 4, 1842, and the present house was dedicated Oct. 3, 1866. The chapel was dedicated Dec. 28, 1893, and the church incorporated Jan. 19, 1897.

As a result of the business meeting Jan. 20, 1910, the committee named above laid out their work and in February, Rev. Mr. Chappell had received pledges for $1,000 in a short time, and was successful in raising in all besides the $100 on hand about $1,250. A metal ceiling has been put in and decorated in shades of cream, pink and green, while the side walls are decorated in old rose.

Black Walnut Finishings.

The pews and wainscoating are refinished in black walnut, new opalescent stained glass windows have been put in, and a new platform has been built in the right hand corner for the new piano. This has a brass railing and garnet curtain with a dozen dark oak chairs for singers.

A dozen chairs have been placed in the opposite corner in front for special occasions, and the aisles have been raised to the level of the main floor. A new communion table has been purchased, the pulpit furniture has been retouched, and a fine garnet carpet laid and 12 new angle lamps hung. A hardwood floor and wainscoating have been put in the vestibule.

Concrete steps with iron hand railing and a large landing have been built in front. Two new Dietz lamps have been placed outside the church and chapel.

The body of the church has been painted a light shade of green with dark green trimmings. The people have contributed cheerfully, and the church is as well equipped now as any in the county. Since the coming of Pastor Chappell the church roll has been carefully revised and five young people have been baptized. The attendance has greatly increased and the future is bright for the Baptists of Montville. With the parsonage repairs the total expense will be about $1,800.

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Dec. 19—When the ides of March roll 'round again, and Furnifold Simmons of the old north state ends his 30 unbroken years as a United States senator, one pang of parting will be spared him:

He will not leave behind him that friend of his boyhood, who for nearly 28 of those 30 years sat with him in the senate.

For Lee Slater Overman is dead.

Death intervened to decree him to the end the junior senator from his state, although he had lived to see every other man, except his old friend and colleague, who had come to the senate before him pass on.

The senate has lost a tie with the past in something more than the mere question of years of service. Overman was of the old and all but forgotten school of American statesmen.

Of Old South

Wide of girth yet erect in bearing, his snowy hair framed a face moulded by a kindly heart into lines of gentle benevolence toward all.

There has not been his like in look or manner on the senate rolls in many a year. He was of the old south, too, with grand manners and the unfailing courtesy of the day from which he came.

Yet with all his kindliness, Overman had a fighter's heart. It stirred his tongue to whiplash activity sometimes even after the years had taken toll of his vitality and often he drowsed in his senate seat.

Prophetically, it now seems, Watson of Indiana, who loves a beau geste like that, was moved last January to halt senate bickerings a moment and pay joint birthday tribute across the aisle to North Carolina's two senators.

Notes Coincidence

The coincidence of birth in the same month and year, of education, of political experience that had kept these two old friends together all the years caught Watson's fancy.

"I think a coincidence so singular, so outstanding in senate history should be noted," Watson then said.

But it remained for Senator Dave Walsh of Massachusetts to paint the picture of Lee Overman as his senate colleagues knew him, and as legions of persons saw him as they looked down from the galleries. "To me," Walsh said, "he seems to typify the picture we all have of the old roman, toga-clad senator—dignified, courtly, courteous.

"And he not only looked the part but has acted it. Every member of this body loves and esteems him as a friend, and as a strong fighter, too."

What more can be said?

BURGESS BEDTIME STORY

Stumpy is Filled With Envy

Behold how envy doth destroy
Content and happiness and joy.
—Old Mother Nature.

Very foolish was the way Stumpy, the three-legged young muskrat, felt as he climbed back on his favorite tussock beside the open water of the Laughing brook. Not in all the green forest or on all the green meadows was there a more harmless person than Jumper the Hare, yet Jumper had frightened him into a sudden plunge into the water, and all because of his coat.

"I didn't see you at all," explained Stumpy.

Jumper chuckled. "I know you didn't although you were looking right at me," said he. "It wasn't until I lifted my ears that you knew I was anywhere near."

"I didn't know it then," replied Stumpy quite honestly. "The tips of your eyes are black and your eyes are black. I couldn't see but one eye so altogether I saw three black spots. When two of these moved I didn't know but I was looking at the black tips of two weasel tails and I didn't wait to find out."

Jumper chuckled. "I'll say you didn't," said he. "By the way, how did you learn that Shadow the Weasel has a black tip to his tail?"

"I've seen it," replied Stumpy. "He was over here the other day and I saw him."

Jumper looked about him hastily and there was fear in his eyes. "Does he come here often?" he asked anxiously.

"That is the only time I have seen him this winter," replied Stumpy. "By the way, that looks to me like Hooty the Great Horned Owl headed this way. Excuse me please." Stumpy dived into the Laughing brook and the black water closed over him. It was quite a bit later that Stumpy again climbed out on that tussock. He was thinking about Jumper and wondering if Hooty the Owl had caught him. Imagine his surprise when he discovered Jumper sitting just where he had been when Hooty appeared.

"Didn't Hooty come over here after all?" Stumpy inquired.

"Oh, yes," replied Jumper. "He flew right over your tussock there and glared down at it. It is lucky for you that you were not there."

"Where were you?" persisted Stumpy, his curiosity growing.

"Didn't you run?" demanded Stumpy in amazement.

"If I had run I wouldn't be here," replied Jumper drily. "The safest thing for me to do was to sit perfectly still, which I did. I could just feel Hooty looking right through me. That is what he did, yet didn't see me. It seemed as if I must run, but I had sense enough not to. So he flew away and I'm still here."

Stumpy sighed. "I wish," said he, "that I had a white coat. It must be wonderful not to be afraid."

"Who isn't afraid?" demanded Jumper.

"Why you wasn't when Hooty the Owl came over here. You've just said that all you had to do was to sit perfectly still," replied Stumpy.

"True, that is all I had to do, but don't think that was easy," replied Jumper. "I never was more scared in all my life. I wished that I could jump into the water the way you did and thus be safe."

"But," protested Stumpy, "when all the world is white like this I can be seen for a long distance. It isn't safe for me to move more than a jump or two from open water. You—why, you can go where you please and disappear just by sitting still. I wish I had a white coat."

Jumper slowly shook his head. "No you don't. You only think you do," said he. "You are filled with envy and I know of nothing more foolish than envy. You are young and you have much to learn about the great world."

"Just the same I wish I had a white coat," persisted Stumpy.

SUNDAY MORNING TALK

Christmas

What does Christmas mean to you and I? It may mean several things. Does it mean a time of hustle and worry? A time of puzzling over what to give this one or that? Do we give a sigh when it is over or is it a bright place in the year looked forward to with joy by old and young? Is it a time when our hearts are more tender, more receptive to the Christ spirit and message? Are our hearts overflowing with love to our Saviour for all He means to us? Are we drawn nearer to Him at this season, having a little clearer vision of all that He means to us and His great love as our hearts are drawn nearer to Him? Do we receive an extra portion of His spirit and love? Are we kinder, more Christ-like in spirt and manner, more thoughtful? Do our lives radiate His spirit in all our ways in word and deed? Do those who come in contact with us feel that we have walking in the light of the Christ? And feel inspired as a result to seek the same source of help. At each Christmas season our ideals should be a little nearer those of our pattern. Is this Christ spirit carried over into the new year making our lives more noble and true, showing the true Christmas or Christ spirit each day of the coming year? Do we show the Christmas spirit by being more helpful to those about us? Making it easier for others to be their very best, and inspiring higher ideals in the lives we touch from day to day, that they may realize what it means to have the real Christmas spirit all the year.

Let each one ask, what is this Christmas going to mean? The answer depends largely on our part. We know our Saviour wants it to be the very best and happiest day of the year for each one of us. We know He will do His part if we only open wide our hearts and bid Him enter and reign supreme and fill our lives with the very best.

How much the child has to thank the Christ for. Think of the joy and love brought into their lives by the Christ. Compare the life of the life of the child before and after. What a change. How much real joy and brightness has been added to them. How even the thought of Christmas fills their hearts with joy and their faces brighten at the mention of the best loved day of all the year by young and old.

Let us do our part to make this Christmas the best possible. First, by giving our whole hearts love to the Saviour who so gladly gave Himself for us, and go forth in His spirit and strength that our lives may be not only a blessing to ourselves but all we come in contact. But above all may our lives be well pleasing in His sight, lived at all times for his glory.

O that we might so live that He may not be disappointed in us, may this Christmas be the beginning of such a life, and may each Christmas be an anniversary of a true Christ life. How much happier would be the coming years if we gave in return to our Saviour the life He has given us.

A Buenos Aires firm has presented to the government a proposal for the construction of a chain of more than 800 grain elevators. The cost would be $50,000,000.

YOUR HEALTH

How Do You Take Your Bath?

By A. D. Hovde, M. D., Hollywood.
(From Gorgas Memorial Institute)

As an aid to avoid the "catching of a cold" the manner of taking your bath is important.

You have noticed that your skin surface has a tendency to become slightly oily. This is due to the activity of certain glands, which are very numerous in the skin, depositing what amounts to an oily film covering the skin surfaces. Fatty substances do not readily transmit heat or cold. Therefore this only film acts as an insulator protecting you against the sudden changes in the temperature of the air in which you move. These glands are more active in warm weather and while you perspire.

If you use soap freely when you take your bath, as most folks do, you dissolve and remove this only film. The result is that you are easily chilled and may develop the typical symptoms of an acute cold. The way, therefore, to lesson the chances of your catching cold is to make your bath sufficiently hot to cause you to perspire, take it at bedtime and do not cool off with cold water, but rather let the perspiring go on until it naturally stops, meantime rubbing yourself down several times with a rough towel. When the perspiration has stopped you should go promptly to bed.

It may be of interest to relate here that certain persons, having vasomotor rhinitis, which manifests itself by symptoms of head colds, find much relief by avoiding the use of soap in their bath water or on their body except hands, feet, face, etc., and, surprising as it may seem, can keep just as clean by using their bath plain hot water, followed by rubbing down with a rough towel.

If, however, soap must be used—and most of us think that it must be—the safest way is to take the bath hot enough to make you perspire, and then rub yourself down several times with a rough towel as previously described. By thus bringing on perspiration you replenish, at least partly, the oily insulation removed by the soap.

Is PASTEURIZED MILK
A Fad Or A Necessity?

HAVE you ever asked yourself why most schools and hospitals serve only pasteurized milk? Have you ever considered why additional expense should be incurred to pasteurize milk? There should be some sound obvious reason — and there is Only pasteurized milk is absolutely and positively safe against diseases and germs which are sometimes found in raw milk. There is no way of telling whether the milk you use is free from such dangers unless it has been pasteurized

No wonder then that the Norwich Dairy Company will only sell pasteurized milk.

MOOSEHEART JUNIOR LEGION HOLDS MINSTREL SHOW

The James J. Davis minstrel troupe of Mooseheart Legion, No. 92, gave a very entertaining minstrel Thursday evening in Moose home, under the direction of Governess Teresa Watters. The program was as follows:

Opening chorus, by entire company; Here We Are and From Sunrise to Sunset, Interlocutor Raymond Watters; duet, The Kiss Waltz, Mary Connell and Wilfred Lariviere; quartet, Springtime in the Rockies, Irene, Dorothy and Edmund Beckman and Edward Caughey; solo, Old New England Moon, Mildred Carter; solo, Dancing with Tears in My Eyes, Louise Leone; duet, Barnacle Bill, the Sailor, Mary Connell and Lucy Leone; quartet, Let Me Call You Sweetheart, Lenora Wunderlich, Dorothy Emback, Charles Watters and Arlene Caughey; tap dance, Mildred Combies; solo, Love Starved, Mary Connell; duet, I Love You So Much, Arlene Caughey and Charles Watters; duet, If I Were the Only Boy in the World, and You Were the Only Girl, Rita Hoelck and John Watters; fancy dance, Arlene Caughey; solo, Somewhere in Old Wyoming, Louise Leone; solo, You're Driving Me Crazy, Thomas Fogarty; solo, Around the Corner, Arlene Caughey; Thomas Fogarty, impersonating Maurice Chevalier.

Duet, Hello Baby, by Rita Hoelck and John Watters; solo, Carolina Moon, by Lenora Wunderlich; quartet, Down the River of Golden Dreams, by Louise Leone, Mary Connell, Raymond Watters and Wilfred Lariviere; finale, Mooseheart Jr. Legion Stein Song, by entire company. The jokes between the interlocutor, Raymond Watters, and the end men caused much merriment, especially those directed at local people. The end men were Lucy Leone, Mildred Hoelck, Mary Haggerty, Thomas Fogarty, Lorenzo Hathaway, George Emback and Frances Ryan. A number which brought round after round of applause was the dance by little Arlene Caughey, only 7 years old. All taking part are to be complimented on the splendid manner in which they gave their numbers. Much credit is due the pianist, Lucy Di Carlo, who played for all rehearsals and for the entertainment as well. Courtesies were extended by: Cummings and Ring, Hanover and Curland, Cranston Co. and Mr. and Mrs. C. Connell, Mr. and Mrs. D. Leone, Mr. and Mrs. Di Carlo, and the Palace Barber shop. After the minstrel, dancing was enjoyed, the music being furnished by the Mohegan orchestra. Mrs. Rose Carter and Mrs. Mary Hunter had charge of the hot dogs and Mrs. Emma Beaver and Mrs. Minnie Smith had charge of the tickets.

WOMEN'S FEDERATION HOLDS ANNUAL ELECTION

Oh Come, All ye Faithful, and O Little Town of Bethlehem were the carols sung as 30 members of the Women's federation of Park church assembled for luncheon in the dining room of the Hugh Henry Osgood Memorial Friday. Mrs. John J. Rogers, chairman of the parish house department of the federation, arranged the menu which consisted of tomato bouillon, saltines, chicken a la king, molded mashed potato, jellied fruit salad, buttered rolls, jellies, coffee, assorted cakes.

With Mrs. J. A. Bidwell, Mrs. A. E. Payson, Mrs. George L. Ingalls leading the singing several choice Christmas carols were sung in a spirited manner, Mrs. C. A. Saxton at the piano. The waitresses were Mrs. John Kelsey, Mrs. Raymond B. Sherman, Mrs. W. A. Collins, Miss Alexandrine Trumbull, Mrs. Lee Roy Robbins, Miss Helen Tirrell and Mrs. Arthur Wirth.

Previous to the reading of the reports for the year Rev. Dr. Shipherd extended his best wishes and appreciation of the value of the federation as an organization of the church. Mrs. W. Tyler Browne, president of the federation, presided at the business meeting following the luncheon. Mrs. Browne uncovered a beautiful solid silver vase given to the federation by Mrs. Kline in memory of her daughter, Mrs. Bertie Kline La Tourette. In behalf of the federation this gift was accepted with sympathy and appreciation by Mrs. A. N. H. Vaughn.

Reports of the year's work were given as follows: Home service, by Mrs. Lee Roy Robbins; publicity, Mrs. A. N. H. Vaughn; missions, by Mrs. Allen Latham; parish house department, Mrs. John F. Rogers; corresponding secretary, Mrs. W. H. Douglass; calendar, Mrs. W. Manley, Eastwood; membership, Mrs. Howarth Collins; finance, Mrs. F. S. Bunnell; sewing, Mrs. H. R. Branche; custodian, Mrs. Harrison Gray; church interior, Mrs. Frank Hempstead; friendly committee, Mrs. F. W. Browning in place of Mrs. W. S. Allis, chairman; hospital, Mrs. George L. Ingalls; S. S. library, Mrs. Hibbard Norman; flower committee, Miss Alice W. Cogswell; young people's work, Mrs. J. A. Bidwell.

The report of the nominating committee as given last month by the chairman, Mrs. F. T. Sayles, was read and accepted.

The newly elected officers are: President, Mrs. William T. Browne; first vice president, (publicity), Mrs. A. N. H. Vaughn; second vice president, (mission), Miss Alice M. Cogswell; third vice president, (parish house), Miss Hannah Crowell; recording secretary, Mrs. N. A. C. Avery; corresponding secretary, Mrs. W. H. Douglas; treasurer, Mrs. Howard L. Stanton; chairman of finance, Mrs. Frank S. Bunnell; membership, Mrs. Harrison Gray; church calendar, Mrs. J. Clinton Atterbury; sewing, Mrs. Herbert R. Branche; church interior, Mrs. Frank Hempstead; friendly aid, Mrs. Wallace E. Allis; Sunday school library, Mrs. H. R. Norman; cradle roll, Mrs. Theodore Shipherd; young people's work, Mrs. James A. Bidwell; flowers, Miss Helen Tirrell; hospitality, Miss Amy Cogswell, Miss Edith Bliss; home service unit, Mrs. Raymond Sherman; hospital, Miss Alexandrine Trumbull.

SAYS JEWISH PEOPLE ARE ATTACKED ON TWO FRONTS

The present-day Jewish people are being attacked on two fronts, the physical and the spiritual, emphasized Rabbi Theodore Friedman of Stamford in his sermon at the regular Friday evening service at the Norwich Community synagogue on Church street. He spoke on the subject, Hanukka, or the Feast of the Lights. In his preliminary remarks he explained the real meaning of Hanukka.

The physical is purely an economic problem, said the rabbi, adding that never before have the American Jewry suffered such a severe setback in economics as in the past two years. He said that the Jewish people have survived such economic conditions before and overcome them successfully, so there is a hopeful outlook.

In regard to the spiritual attack upon Judaism Rabbi Friedman pointed out that whether the Jewry will answer the problem adequately and successfully is difficult to forecast, but he urged them to re-dedicate themselves to Jewish life, particularly in the life of the Jewish church, as a means of overcoming the obstacle.

After the service there was an open forum in the social room in charge of Dr. Boris J. Sohn.

POLICE RAID PLACE ON THIRD STREET

As the result of testimony given at the trial of Stanley Roberts, 28, and Russell Morgan, 21, West Side colored men, in the city court Friday morning, when they were presented on charges of violations of the liquor laws, a raid was conducted by a squad of officers at the place conducted by Boris Androvich, a Russian, at No. 12 Third street, where Roberts is alleged to have purchased the liquor.

When the officers arrived at the Third street place late Friday morning, Androvich was not there, but they seized several empty gallon jugs, a supply of pint bottles and one jug containing a small quantity of alleged liquor. The police intimated that the supply of liquor was dumped before the officers' arrival. Androvich was arrested later in the day on a charge of violation of the liquor law, being released under bonds of $1,000 for his appearance in city court this (Saturday) morning.

The raiding squad comprised Sergeant Myron O. Morgan, Patrick Shahan, Eugene Calkins, Michael Pounch and Peter Sullivan.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Edward K. Post

(Special To The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Dec. 19—Adelaide Martha Post, 78, widow of Edward K. Post, died at her home in Andover about 7 o'clock tonight. She was born in Andover, August 13, 1852 a daughter of Daniel and Martha Hayes Burnap. She leaves three sons, Welles Post of Wayne, Pa., Ernest of Collinswood, N. J., Howell, of Queens Village, L. I. and one daughter, Mrs. Grace Brown of Brookfield, Mass. There are also nine grandchildren. The deceased was a member of the Andover Congregational church.

Mrs. Charles Schlough

Lillian A. Banning, wife of Charles Schlough, died at 7:30 o'clock Thursday evening at her residence, No. 51 Dunham street, following a long illness. A native of Bozrah she was the daughter of Jabez and Mary Brown Banning and for many years was a resident of Norwich, where she was united in marriage with Charles Schlough on April 15, 1891, at Trinity Episcopal church. The ceremony was performed by Rev. A. Schmitt, then pastor.

Besides her husband Mrs. Schlough is survived by a son, C. Leslie Schlough of Dayville. She was a devout member of Trinity church and was identified with the Ladies' Aid society of the church. Mrs. Schlough's friends, who were legion, were grieved to learn of her death and extend heartfelt sympathy to the surviving members of the family.

Failed to Identify Gypsies

Mrs. Blanche Stanek of No. 24 Elizabeth street, who was fleeced out of $1,000 by a gypsy woman in this city a few days ago, went to New Haven Friday with Officer Clifford Crary, in connection with the case. A band of gypsies, arrested by the New Haven authorities in that city Thursday, were lined up for Mrs. Stanek, but she failed to identify her defrauder. It was at first thought by the New Haven police that the gypsies might have been those who fled from Norwich.

Break at School House

Thieves entered the Smith street school house some time during the night Thursday and stole a thrift stamp bank, the third to be taken from schools in the city in as many weeks. The other two schools losing banks were East Great Plain and Broad street. The amount of money in the bank is not known. The break was reported to the police Friday, soon after it was discovered.

To Be Buried in Pawtucket

The body of James Bernard Dunn, 55, who died in Preston Thursday, was prepared for burial by Undertakers Cummings and Ring and taken to Pawtucket, R. I., by automobile Friday. Burial is to be in that city. Mr. Dunn, for some time, had been employed in the Wauregan mill.

EIGHT DIVORCES GRANTED, ONE DENIED IN SUPERIOR COURT

Eight divorces were granted, one was denied and the presiding judge, Ernest A. Inglis, took the papers in another action, at an all day short calendar session of the superior court in this city, Friday. It was 5:30 o'clock when court was recessed indefinitely. The divorce action denied was that of William W. Bassett of New London against Mary E. Bassett. The court, after hearing testimony by both plaintiff and defendant, found no unfaithfulness on the part of the wife, and denied the petition. Bassett was a member of the U. S. coast guard at the time he met and married his wife. The Bassett case was the final one tried by the court and was completed at 5:30 o'clock at which time the court took an indefinite recess.

Sylvester Fox vs. Julia Machuba Fox, judgment on grounds of desertion.

Anne Kannenberg Carroll of New London, was given her freedom from Richard S. Carroll of parts unknown on grounds of desertion. They were married July 11, 1898 and desertion was alleged since Aug. 2, 1903.

Rose D. Schwartz of New London was given a decree from Nicholas Schwartz of parts unknown on grounds of intolerable cruelty. They were married July 21, 1913.

Lena Young Huntley of Waterford was given a divorce from Gideon R. Huntley of Waterford, on grounds of intolerable cruelty. They were married Aug. 28, 1916.

Asa J. Sheldon of Ledyard was given a divorce from Lizzie Colver Sheldon of parts unknown on grounds of desertion. They were married in October, 1926.

William T. May was appointed receiver of rents in the case of Raymond & Alexander Lumber Co. against Nicolo Sammataro and others of New London. An order was also entered in this case citing David Elfenbein as a co-defendant.

The Ashland Cotton Co. of Jewett City, operator of one of the largest mills in eastern Connecticut, was given permission to change its name to the Ashland corporation. The change was sought because the company now manufactures rayon goods instead of cotton.

A motion for a more specific statement was granted and motions to expunge and to separate and correct were denied in the case of Abrams against Zahacefski.

The law firm of Brown & James was allowed $250 compensation as counsel in the case of Turner against Bridgman, a Norwich house.

Permission was given the receiver of O. C. Wolfe, Inc., to continue business until Feb. 22, in the case of Monroe against O. C. Wolfe, Inc.

A foreclosure judgment for $2,032 was entered in favor of the Home Protective association against S. J. Crouch of Waterford on property located in New London. The date of sale was set for March 28. Samuel Harris was appointed the committee of sale and James A. May, Samuel Gruskin and Harry C. Brogan were appointed appraisers.

Another judgment was for $4,777.77 on two foreclosure judgments

Two foreclosure judgments were in favor of Judge John J. McGarry, administrator of the estate of his father, John McGarry, against Tillie and Hyman Siff, both of New London.

One judgment was for $4,777.77 on property located in Neptune avenue, New London, and the other was for $2,123.15 on property located in North Bank street, New London. In each instance the date of limitation was set for the first Monday in February. On the Neptune avenue property the Savings Bank of New London has a mortgage for $6,500, and on the North Bank street property Jefferson O. Bailey of Groton has a mortgage for $2,500.

BUILDING OF HUGE SCOUT FIREPLACE STARTS TODAY

Scores of Scouts are expected to go to the new Scout camp today to participate in the fun of helping the masons build the huge fireplace which will measure eight and one-half feet across and will take more than four foot logs inside. Through the effort of Bruno Weinert, several men have volunteered to spend the day in building the fireplace. Into its construction will go six sacks of cement, 50 pounds of fire clay, 15 large fire bricks, 12 small fire bricks, an angle iron, hooks for kettles, and several hundred large field stones.

While the masons are working on the fireplace several carpenters have volunteered to lay the roofing paper and put up the paper on the outside of the walls, place the doors and windows, and get the cabin in shape for the nailing on of the slabs.

The Scouts will assist by building the veranda and cutting the fir tree poles for banister work, cut a trail around the cabin past the outhouses, as a protection against fire, help the masons with the carrying of water and sand, etc. Nothing to a Scout is more thrilling than helping build a fireplace; to see the great fire place gradually grow from nothing into a huge oven, and it is expected that every Scout in the city will try to get out to assist in the work.

If the cabin can be completed and furnished in time, a day, two day, or three day camp will be held for the Scouts of Norwich during the week following Christmas with campfires around the great fire place every night.

Indications are that a number of Scout men will get out during the day and do their bit in speeding along the work of the cabin. Scouts and all Scout men are asked to bring their own food to cook. A dinner will be furnished the masons and carpenters who go to the camp with the privilege of tasting any and all food cooked by the Scouts at their own risk.

Scouts are urged to take cameras to get snapshots of the cabin as it nears completion to put in their scrap books. Scouts not haking by troops are asked to be at Scout headquarters at nine o'clock where under the leadership of John Dodge, assistant Scoutmaster, they will go out to the camp. And dads of Scouts who have Saturday afternoon off and would like to help saw and nail on slabs are asked to meet at Scout headquarters at 1 p. m., where they will be shown the way out to camp.

All members of the Boy Scout executive board are also urged to visit the camp during the day and give a hand with the work if possible. According to local Scout men the completion of a cabin at this time will do much to stimulate the program of scouting during the coming months in that it will give the Scoutmasters and Scouts a shelter which they can call their own.

When furnished, the cabin will have a capacity of between 32 and 40 boys and it is anticipated that hardly a week end will go by but what some troop will spend Saturday at the cabin.

ST. PATRICK'S GIRL SCOUTS PRESENT TWO PLAYS

Two plays, Toinette and the Elves, and A Pot of Geraniums, were presented with marked ability by members of Troop No. 5, Girl Scouts, of St. Patrick's parish, Friday evening at the church social rooms before a large audience, who showed their pleasure with well merited applause. The proceeds derived from the affair are to be used by the society in providing Christmas cheer for local children. The girls were trained by their scout captain, Mrs. Frank L. Rinella and Lieutenant Catherine Madden.

The cast for Toinette and the Elves follows: Toinette, Margaret LaRochelle; mother, Mary Haggerty; Marie, Rita Corcoran; Janette, Mary Taber; Pierre, Olga Millard; Marc, Milly Tabako; hollyberry, Charlotte Craney; evergreen, Mary Greenman; mistletoe, Lucy Greenman. Scene for first act, Kitchen of Present Home; act two, same scene one year later. Time, Christmas eve.

The cast for A Pot of Geraniums—Ethel, Marie Downing; Ann, Mildred Combies; Charlie, Clementine James; Dot, Marietta Vignot; Mims, Delores DuFresne; Aunt Alice, Victoria Millard; Marie, Alice Driscoll; Joan, Milly Tabako; Jane, Lucille Mitchell; Maud, Alice Moran. Scene of first act, Living Room of Ethel's House; act two, same scene a few weeks later.

Between the acts a number of dances were given in artistic style by these girls in costume: Virginia Hafstedt, the scarf dance; Betty McKeon, Christmas night dance; Carolyn Hamil and Vivian Bolduc, tap dance. The musical programme was furnished by June Sullivan, pianist; Anna Leone and Margaret Gormley, violins, and Barbara Wainwright, ukelele.

INCIDENTS IN SOCIETY

Mrs. Albert Lewis is in Bridgeport to spend Christmas at the home of her son, Charles Farrington Lewis.

Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin T. Hall, of Julian street, have been guests at the Hotel Montclair, New York, this week.

Miss Ruth Ayling, daughter of Judge Nelson J. Ayling, of Huntington place, arrived home Friday from Lasell Seminary, for the holidays.

SCHMELING TELLS COMMISION TO SEE JACOBS ABOUT TITLE BOUT

EW YORK, Dec. 19.—(AP)—Max meling, who won the world's vyweight title from Jack Sharkey le in a reclining position, seems rt to lose it the same way.

e New York state athletic com- ion today read his cabled reply Germany to an ultimatum order- him to sign within 15 days for a n duel with the Boston sailorman suffered a slight attack of heat r the collar. Schmeling blandly ed the august fathers to get in h with his new manager, Joe bs, who knows about such things, but said nothing about signing to fight Sharkey or anyone else within 15 days or ever.

The commission, headed by James A. Farley, refused to comment officially on the contents of the cablegram but there were indications all over the place that the solemn solons now regret the recognition extended Schmeling after his victory on a foul over Sharkey last June and are about to declare him null and void and the championship, vacated voluntarily by Gene Tunney in 1928, once more open to all comers. This is in line with similar indications from the National Boxing association.

Schmeling's cablegram, which the commission considers no answer at all to their ultimatum, was as follows:

"Gentlemen: Joe Jacobs is now my sole manager and I have just cabled him to go before your body and handle this matter. He knows what to do. Best regards."

Unfortunately for Schmeling and the heavyweight puzzle, now more complicated than ever, the commission does not recognize Jacobs as a manager because of his suspension some time ago during the controversy that surrounded the elimination of the Teuton heavyweight's original pilot, Arthur Buelow. Jacobs has filed no managerial contract on Schmeling with the commission. The fistic fathers consider Schmeling a free agent, required to speak for himself.

The commission put the pressure on two other champions who have been lax in the matter of defending their titles. Mickey Walker, king of the middleweights, and Panama Al Brown, bantamweight ruler, were ordered to sign within 15 days for title defenses on penalty of compulsory abdication.

To both Walker and Brown the commission telegraphed:

ou have not complied with the of this commission requiring pions to defend their title every onths. Unless you arrange within ys from date to enter into a conto defend your title the same will cated."

ker has not boxed in this state ... years and now is campaigning among the heavyweights. Brown was supposed to have defended his title successfully in a 15-round bout with Eugene Huat in Paris recently.

Jack Sharkey, slightly perturbed at the turn of affairs, visited the commission with his manager and received detailed instructions on the duties of a second. He wanted the information to aid him in handling Ernie Schaaf in the latter's bout with Max Baer in the Garden tonight.

The Boston tar has the backing of the commission, which insists Schmeling carry out the promise of a return match made last June, but lacks the support of promoters and critics. Sharkey has not fought since the Schmeling engagement and Young Stribling, Georgia pride, has stolen the spotlight. Promoters insist that a Schmeling-Sharkey bout would be doomed to financial failure unless the Boston battler first disposes of Stribling or Victorio Campolo in an elimination series the commission so far has refused to permit. Chicago promoters offered Schmeling $500,000 on Wednesday for a title match with ling at Soldier field in June.

PURDUE TO HAVE TRACK AND BASEBALL

LAFAYETTE, Ind., Dec. 19.—(AP)—President Edward C. Elliott announced today that through the cooperation of the Ross-Ade foundation, means have been found to permit the athletic department of Purdue university to carry out the principal part of its intercollegiate program for track and baseball for 1931.

The announcement restores track and baseball to full standing as major sports, and countermands a decision to drop the two sports because of financial conditions.

New Club At Stafford Springs.

Several of the Stafford Springs athletic organizations have merged into what is known as the "Olympic Athletic Club." Fifty members have already pledged themselves to become loyal supporters of the club which will not only go in for athletics but will also endeavor to protect and inspire community spirit. Officers recently elected are: President, Charles Ward; vice president, Raymond Houle; treasurer, Edward Ward; secretary, Oscar Pellisarri; directors, Albert Ricci, Roy Panciera, and Bruno Antognioni.

WOOD PLAYS NEW BALL TO LEAD PASADENA FIELD

PASADENA, Cal., Dec. 19. — (AP)—Craig Wood, long driving professional from Bloomfield, N. J., today hammered golf's new, larger and lighter ball for a 69, two strokes under par, to lead the first round of the Pasadena $4,000 open.

A quintet of the country's high ranking pros trailed in second place two strokes behind with 71s, with part of the 213 starters unable to finish because of darkness.

Tommy Armour, P. G. A.'s national champion from Detroit, with a chance to tie Wood as he stepped up to the 18th tee, took six strokes for a par 71. Finishing with him were Ben Richter, St. Louis southpaw; Frank Walsh, Chicago; Al Espinosa, Chicago, and Joe Kirkwood, Philadelphia.

Wood was out in 35, one under par. A birdie three on the first hole and an eagle three on the sixth gave him a spectacular start. His 34 on the home nine was made possible by a birdie two on the 13th and a birdie three on the 16th.

To Kirkwood, the trick shot artist, went the honors for the best nine hole score. Going out in 39, three over perfect figures, the former Australian came back in 32, three under. Three birdies on the trip turned the trick.

A feature of the first round of the three-day 72-hole tourney was the strong game displayed by Walter Hagen, of Detroit. Sir Walter, for years one of the leading professionals, appeared to have reached his stride, finishing with a 72 which placed him in a four-way tie for third place.

He missed a one foot putt on the 18th with a chance to tie for second.

The others shooting 72 were Ray Mangrum, Dallas, Texas; Clarence Clark, Tulsa, Okla., and Ernest Martin, Los Angeles.

Horton Smith, New York, finished well down the list with a 75. The former Missourian won the title last year six strokes ahead of the field.

While all were not able to tour the course before dark, making the surviving list uncertain, it looked like the first day qualifiers of 100 and ties would include those who shot 79.

Among those unable to finish were: Harry Cooper, Chicago, with a 38 on the trip out; George Von Elm, Los Angeles, who made a par 36 going out, and Olin Dutra, Santa Monica, with a 38. If they are able to get under 79 tomorrow none of the favorites will have been left by the wayside.

Two Los Angeles amateurs, Al Barbee and Chuck Berdow, tied for low amateur gross with 37's.

KILLINGLY WINS EASILY FROM TOURTELLOTTE HIGH

(Special to The Bulletin)

NORTH GROSVENORDALE, Dec. 19.—Killingly high, opening its basketball season here tonight, trimmed Tourtellotte high 40 to 28. Slowik and the Dascoli brothers garnered practically all of the winners' points but were ably assisted in teamwork by the rest of the team.

PLANS FOR NORTH AND SOUTH CHARITY GAME MADE

NEW YORK, Dec. 19.—(AP)—Although there was still some doubt as to what charity would get the money, plans were going forward today for a North-South football game at Ebbets field, Brooklyn, a week from Sunday.

Several of the southern stars who will play on "Stumpy" Thomason's team already are in town and expect to start practice Monday. They include Bodenger and Holland from Tulane, Brandt and Hug from Tennessee and Rose and Forquer from Kentucky. Other southern players who had accepted the invitation but had not arrived are Wyrick and Maus, North Carolina, and Phipps, Kentucky.

Jack McBride's northern team probably will include Hinkle of Bucknell, Scalzi and Buzek of Georgetown, Swede Hansen of Temple, Karcis of Carnegie Tech, French of Penn State, and Antos of Boston college all backs and Foley and Wisniewski, of Fordham Flanagan of Carnegie Tech, Lorella and Shawley of Penn State, Obst of Syracuse, Dornoff and Andrews of Marquette, Stickles of St. Lawrence, Tully of Pittsburgh, and McGann of Villanova, in the line.

Dick Gentle of Pennsylvania, Trix Bennett of Princeton and Margolis of St. Johns (Brooklyn) also have been asked to play on the northern team.

The game originally was scheduled as a benefit for the Knights of Columbus, but there is some question now as to whether that organization or the Brooklyn Elks will promote the show.

At any rate, McBride and Thomason said, the game will be played with the receipts to go to some worthy charity.

RUSSO IS KAYOED BY AL PALLADINO

NEW LONDON, Dec. 19— (AP) — George LaRocco, New York, 188, scored a technical knockout tonight in the fourth round over Bremen Eddie, of Germany, 173, in a main bout here. The fight was scheduled for eight rounds.

In two other eight rounders, Frank Boja, Germany, 160, beat Billy Tosk Florida, 155; while Al Palladino, New York, 151, knocked out Joseph Russo, Westerly, 153.

Eddie Murray, New York, 139, knocked out Will Haynes, Chicago, 135, in the second round of a six round fight.

Young Kid Corbett, New York, 127, knocked out Jimmy Jayne, in the first round of a four round bout.

[illegible] LAVIGNE CLAIMS TITLE

In a press dispatch from Burlington, Vt., it will be noticed that Midget Lavigne is reported to be the bantamweight champion of New England. Now that's news to us. The New England bantamweight championship crown is parked right up in Taftville on Al Beauregard's mantle, or it was the last time we were up in the Fancy Corner district. Where this Midget Lavigne gets the right to call himself the bantamweight champion of New England is beyond us. To be sure, Lavigne got a decision over Al Beauregard on the night of Dec. 5, but the title was not at stake, and it was so understood before the bout. Both boys weighed in over the bantamweight limit that night and Lavigne had a couple of pounds on Beauregard even at that. There was no possible way that Lavigne could have won the title that night because of these weight differences. Of course it must be understood that Vermont has no boxing commission and that the matching of fighters is far from being what it is in Connecticut. Everything seems to go up there but we are not ready to recognize Lavigne as the bantamweight titleholder of New England yet. If Lavigne is so anxious to grab off a title for himself why not let him make the bantamweight limit and come down into Connecticut and box for it. If Lavigne had been down to the weight of the class it is doubtful if he could win from Beauregard. Anyhow, this bout would make a good attraction for some club.

SOME WEIRD GAMES

Those who witnessed the first games in the grammar school basketball league at the Norton gym yesterday saw some real weird contests. But at the same time they saw what this league is going to do for the youngsters of the grammar schools. Many of the players on the school teams yesterday were playing their first games of basketball and knew very little about the game. Some had a hazy idea that it was indoor football and started to play it as such. However, the referees, realizing that the youngsters were unfamiliar with the technicalities of the game, would stop play and explain it to the boys. And here is where it was evident how much good this branch of sport is doing. The youngsters would listen and absorb the instruction rapidly and before the game was over they were playing a fairly decent game. With a little more of this coaching from Mr. Demarest and Mr. Bitgood, this grammar school league is going to be a fast little loop with plenty of rivalry between the teams.

PASSING THE BUCK

Max Schmeling just about tied the heavyweight situation into a bow knot yesterday when he informed the Solons of Sock that if they wanted to talk about title bouts and forfeitures they should go and see Joe Jacobs. Now Joe is in Dutch with the commission and they don't speak to each other on the street, because they don't recognize Jacobs as a manager. Now there's two ways open to them. They can declare the title vacated or they can reinstate Jacobs and do business with him. This New York commission is dead set on a bout between Jack Sharkey and Schmeling, and from the way it looks now that bout will be held in New York or somebody's going to lose their title.

Won't Accept Challenge

Sports Editor: In reply to the challenge we received from the Ice House Gang, the Wildcats, city champions have the following to say: First what license has the Ice House team to challenge the Wildcats or any other organized team in the town? We do not remember any team that they have defeated, but we do know that we defeated them 70 to 0 in the first game and later, with the second string men, 6 to 0. In regard to helping the unemployment fund, the Wildcats would be only too glad to help but it doesn't seem that a game between these two teams would help in any way. It was found Thanksgiving day that a benefit game between the Wildcats and the Laurel Hill A. C. netted only $7.50 from a crowd that numbered several hundred. We are glad to see that the Ice House team has strengthened with Academy players. To the regret of the Wildcats, a game with the full Academy team could not be arranged. In regard to being "yellow," we hope the Ice House Gang will not forget that we are open for challenges for hockey or any other sport in season.

Y SENIORS OPEN STATE LEAGUE SEASON TONIGHT

The Y Seniors will begin the long tramp after a state Y championship tonight at the Y gym when they tackle Middletown Y, one of their chief rivals of the 1929-30 campaign, in a tilt that promises a multitude of fireworks. The preliminary, between the Y Jrs. and the Shyma Jrs. will start at 7:45 and the main game at 9:10 so as to allow time for fans to get to the game after the stores close.

Middletown is bringing the same team here tonight that lost to the Seniors by one point in one of last winter's feature games and then went ahead and finished one place ahead of the local boys in the final league standing. Middletown was second and only had a small margin on Coach Demarest's outfit.

Probably the outstanding performer of the visitors is Wilcox, sensational forward who will be remembered for his work on that memorable evening last January when he tallied 88 points and gave the Seniors as tough an evening as they ever experienced. He was the leading scorer of the league last year and is said to be starting in just the same manner this season.

Coach Demarest expects to start Tommy Lynch and Zeke Leffingwell at the forwards tonight with Cecil Henschel at center and Red Armstrong and Capt. Howie Ludlow in the backcourt. In reserve will be Rizzuto, Tubbs, Serafin and Nadelson.

The preliminary game will furnish another outlet for an old rivalry and no doubt will keep the fans well engaged before the big battle.

PLAINFIELD AND BALTIC IN SOCCER CLASH SUNDAY

(Special to The Bulletin)

PLAINFIELD, Dec. 19.—The Plainfield soccer team will battle the Baltic team at Plainfield Sunday in a league game. These two teams battled last Sunday at Baltic, Plainfield coming out ahead, 5 to 3.

Plainfield displayed good defensive play in that game. The kickoff will be at 2:15 and a large crowd is expected.

COBB COMPARES BASEBALL OF 1930 WITH THAT OF A SCORE OF YEARS AGO

AUGUSTA, Ga., Dec. 19.—(AP)—From a perspective of 44 years, Ty Cobb looked back on baseball today and observed the game has grown less attractive.

Today was the 44th birthday of the Georgia Peach, who spent more than 20 years in major league baseball. He celebrated quietly at home with his family—a custom he has never varied since his marriage in 1908.

"To me the game seems to lack a sort of spontaneity now," he said. "The close plays, base running and other interesting features have been lessened by the orgy of home run hitting.

"Back before the days of the livery ball the outfielders played nearer the infield and figured in some fast throws and hair-line decision plays. The present game needs more competition, more close scores and harder-fought games. The lively ball has served to eliminate some of these attractive points.

"Years ago I remember when crowded stands greeted a seventh place club late in September. They were out to see real baseball, with all the old tricks of the game. Nowadays only the leaders and the first division clubs play to full stands. The others have meager attendance."

Ty had no comment to make on the draft question recently discussed at the baseball meetings, but observed the elimination of the sacrifice fly would affect the game very little.

Cobb is content now to rest and play. He's getting pleasure out of romping around with his family. This is the first real extended vacation Ty has had in years and unless a "bargain opportunity" turns up he won't be back in baseball next season.

Cobb said his negotiations with the Philadelphia Nationals had been ended.

"I've been considering other propositions but haven't found one yet that sounds good," he added.

"The selling prices of clubs are based on too high levels. I don't think it wise to buy at these prices.

"The expense end of the game has advanced far ahead of the attendance. The first division teams find the game profitable, but it isn't such good business for the others."

Although Ty is out of baseball actually, the old lure is still there in interest. He'll either go to Florida when the spring training camp trek begins or he may decide to watch some club train in California.

"I'm in good shape," he said. "I've been hunting and golfing quite a bit lately and have had lots of luck at both."

PUTNAM HIGH OPENS SEASON WITH VICTORY

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Dec. 19.—Putnam high school formally opened its basketball season in the local gym tonight with a brilliant victory over East Providence high school "Townies," the final score being 32 to 20. The Noyes-coached quintet played a winning game through every period of the tilt and at no one time had their lead threatened. The score at half time was 12 to 8, with Putnam on the long end.

Two veterans of last year's squad, Reynolds and Caccioputi, playing at forward positions, made a good showing. Ross was high scorer for the locals, rolling up a total of 14 points, the majority of which were sunk from mid-floor. Baster, Providence center, played the role of high scorer for his team by chalking up ten of the total number of points.

WALKER LOSES TITLE OF HUSBAND ON A. T. K. O.

JERSEY CITY, N J., Dec. 19.—(AP)—Mickey Walker, world's middleweight boxing champion, lost his title of husband on a technical knockout today.

He failed to come up for the final round in the fight against his wife's divorce action, and his lawyers threw in the towel.

Mrs. Walker, who charged Mickey had used her as a sparring partner, wins, in addition to her freedom, the Walker home at Rumson and the custody of their two children.

The champion was more concerned about his youngsters than anything else, and he obtained permission to see them after consenting to the granting of a decree nisi, by James F. Minturn, master in chancery.

Thomas L. Hanson, Mrs. Walker's counsel, announced she would file a petition for alimony and support for their children.

In deciding not to contest his wife's divorce action, Mickey also abandoned his counter-suit for an accounting of $105,000, which he said he gave Mrs. Walker to keep in trust for him and which he alleged sh used for herself.

Mrs. Walker has stated her husband gave her the money outright. Walker had half finished his defense when the decision not to contest the case was suddenly made. Up to that point Walker had denied his wife's allegations of extreme cruelty.

He denied he broke Mrs. Walker's nose with a punch and that one midnight, as they were being driven home, he made her get out of the automobile and walk.

Asked on cross-examinataion if he had ever seen Mickey drunk, James Duryea, the Walker's former chauffeur said:

"A man ain't drunk as long as he can say, 'Let's have another.'"

"And Mr. Walke never reached the stage where he couldn't say that?"

"I guess that's right," was the reply.

Lavigne Fought A Draw

BURLINGTON, Vt., Dec. 19.—(AP)—Midget Lavigne, of Burlington, New England bantamweight champion, fought a draw here tonight with Pinkey Silverberg, Ansonia, Conn., in a 10-round bout. Lavigne outpointed and handicapped by a closed eye at the end of the ninth round, came back to even things in the final stanza. Both weighed 118 1-2.

JUNIOR LEAGUE OPENS WITH THREE CONTESTS

Before a large gathering of enthusiastic supporters the new Junior basketball league, composed of the six-major grammar schools of the city, swung into action Friday afternoon at the Norton Memorial gym. The three games played happened to be one-sided but that didn't deter from the interest shown by the supporters.

Elizabeth street displayed good teamwork and blanked St. Patrick's, 30 to 0, in a game in which five of the six Lizzie players scored at least four points. Greeneville was too good for Broadway and won, 24 to 7, with Malogrides leading the attack with 16 points while the last game of the day saw Fitzgerald and Sheridan, brothers of Academy varsity members, lead St. Mary's to a 26 to 2 victory over the Samuel Huntington quintet. Fitzgerald tallied 14 points and Sheridan ten.

The games were run off without a hitch, the Elizabeth street and St. Patrick's and Greeneville-Broadway games being first and then the St. Mary's-Huntington tilt immediately after. Because of the holidays the next games will be played on Friday, Jan. 9, at the Norton gym.

SCHAAF BEATS BAER IN THRILLING BATTLE

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN, New York, Dec. 19—(AP)—A husky, colorful young puncher named Max Baer, welcome addition to the rising crop of youthful heavyweights, came out of the west for his first big league battle tonight and though he failed to conquer, he left his mark on 10,000 of New York's faithful and on the person of Ernie Schaaf, another sophomore from Boston.

Schaaf, as blonde and big as Baer is dark and big, won the unanimous decision of referee and two judges after ten thrilling rounds, but the plaudits of the crowd, as well as the votes of several of the ringside critics, went to the loose-muscled, grinning curly head from the Pacific coast. Baer, swinging a murderous right hand, ploughing steadily into the short, sharp punches of the cleverer, more experienced New Englander, dominated the battle for the first four rounds but wilted thereafter and was a bloody, battered figure at the end of the duel.

Baer put everything he had into the first half of the battle and then "blew up" physically as the sturdier Schaaf took everything that came his way, buckled a couple of times, but pulled himself together and came on to punch out a clear margin in the final rounds. There were no knockdowns but in almost every session, one or the other wavered and clutched under powerful belts to the head and ribs.

Although Baer headed out of California for the bright lights with a record of 24 knockouts in 27 engagements, he could not cope with the better generalship of Schaaf, whose record includes decisions over Tommy Loughran and Johnny Risko. Max never could get away from Schaaf's left jab, a punch that started his nose bleeding in the second round, nor the short right hand drives Ernie pumped to his head in the second half of the battle. In the last two rounds Schaaf's right raised a bulb over Baer's left eye that finally shut off the sight from that side.

If it hadn't been for excessive cautiousness, Schaaf might have stowed the highly-touted Californian away in the closing rounds. Several times, particularly in the seventh, eighth and ninth, Baer reeled under punches and the exhaustion of his own efforts but Schaaf jabbed him methodically, pounded his ribs in close, and took no chances with the powerful right hand Max carried close to his chest.

Baer did his best work in the first, third, fourth and sixth sessions although he wound up all but helpless, propped up under Schaaf's punches in his own corner, when the bell finally sounded in the sixth. Time and again in these rounds he smashed his right hand to Ernie's chin, saw the New Englander waver, and then cockily tossed away grand opportunities as he waited too long for another opening. After these powerful belts, Schaaf, a trickle of blood dripping from his own nose after the third round, managed to hold or jab his way around until his head cleared.

The crowd that cheered the big youngsters—Schaaf scaling 203 pounds and Baer 200—booed lustily when the decision was announced. The critics were divided in their opinions, some scoring as high as eight rounds for Schaaf and two for Baer. Others thought Baer had an edge in five with four for Schaaf and one even. The Associated Press score card gave Schaaf five—the fifth, seventh, eighth, ninth and tenth—with four for Baer—the first, third, fourth, and sixth—and the second even.

Despite Baer's punching powers, his ease and speed in moving about the ring, and his gameness, he seemed to lack the stamina necessary for ten rounds of hard fighting. He took his punishment well but in the closing rounds seemed to be carrying on chiefly on his gameness and reserve powers.

Accept Challenge

The Laurel Hill Athletics answer the challenge of the Sons of Rest, the proceeds of the game going to the unemployment fund. This game should be a big attraction as both teams would like to get another chance at the champion Wildcats of Norwich Town. Laurel Hill will meet the Sons of Rest at the Academy campus Christmas morning at 10 a. m. This game, if accepted, will see the return of Al Koziol, star left halfback; C. Taber, right halfback; Burdick, fullback, and Goepfert, directing the team at quarterback, and the strongest line of any football team of the city. The winner should be given a game with the champions. If challenge is accepted answer through this paper.

NEW LONDON, Dec. 19—The Coast Guard quintet turned back the Brooklyn City college of New York here tonight by a score of 34 to 28 in a hard-fought and very interesting contest.

Little Water In Brooks

Goldmine brook, in the vicinity of Leffingwell, is only half full as are many other brooks in this vicinity. This is unusual at this time of the year. Frank T. Maples, well known Norwich man, said Friday night, that never in the 60 years that he has been familiar with the brooks in this section have they been so low.

COMMITTED SUICIDE WHILE WIFE WAS WAITING FOR HIM

NEW YORK, Dec. 19.—(AP)— While his wife waited for him in Pennsylvania station, Victor Hilgers, 37, of Youngstown, Ohio, committed suicide by drinking poison in an uptown hotel late today.

Hilgers was found some time later when Mrs. Hilgers, alarmed at his failure to meet her, returned to the Park Plaza hotel, in West 77th street, and could not gain admittance to the room they had been occupying.

She called a hotel attendant and the door was forced.

Hilgers' body was on the bed. A note on the writing table read:

"Good-bye dear. Take care of the insurance and the money. Carl, it's all my fault, so do the right thing by Betty (Mrs. Hilgers) and see that she gets all her clothing, rings and the fur coat, as I owe it all to her. She has been my soul mate and I love her more than words can express. Good-bye, mother, good-bye, Vic. I cannot go on and this is the only way out."

The Hilgers have two children.

To a detective Mrs. Hilgers said her husband had been manager of an automobile company and they had been in New York two months.

12-YEAR-OLD BOY CONDUCTED A SCHOOL FOR FIREBUGS

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 19.—(AP)—A school for firebugs, conducted, it is alleged, by a 12-year-old boy in an abandoned saloon in West Philadelphia, was uncovered by the fire marshal's office today.

The boy accused of being the leader and teacher is George Faunt.

His three pals and pupils, who were held as material witnesses, are Eugene Abedy, 12; Alexander McLaughlin, 11, and John McGrearty, 11. The four were sent to the house of detention.

C. Thomas McNitt, deputy city fire marshal, said the arrests solved the mystery of fires in half a dozen large buildings in West Philadelphia. The boy, McNitt said, is a "natural pyromaniac" and his chief pleasure is in watching things burn. Faunt is on probation on charges of starting a number of barn fires in Delaware county a year ago.

GOVERNMENT ROUNDING UP TROUBLE MAKERS IN SPAIN

MADRID, Dec. 19.—(AP)—While calm seemed to have settled over Spain generally today after the disturbances that followed Monday's attempted revolt, the government continued to round up and arrest persons charged with fomenting the outbreak.

At Saragossa, Captain Salvador Series and Lieutenants Justo Lopez and Guillermo Marin were arrested in connection with the revolutionary movement at Jaca Dec. 12. In other cities there were arrests of politicians and others charged with stirring up trouble.

Official figures made public by the government tonight placed the casualty list during the recent outbreaks at 45 dead and 187 wounded, of whom 20 were seriously hurt. In republican circles it was said these figures were too low.

People Who Lie

By JEAN GILLESPIE

FATE SMILES ON A LITTLE GIRL WHO STRAYED FROM THE TRUTH TO MAKE HER TEACHER'S CHRISTMAS HOLIDAY BRIGHTER

"TODAY we will finish our quilt," said Miss Reed.

She held the softly padded baby quilt up for the class to admire. They had admired it a hundred times before; they had adored it from the first completed yellow-and-white square. Now they saw it in its completeness as a very creditable piece of work and they felt repaid for the needle pricks and cramped fingers they had suffered. They had sewed at first with enthusiasm, later with stoicism. All except Rosaria, the smallest child in the Second A. She had sewed to the last stitch with undiminished fervor.

Even as her chubby fingers had set each stitch painstakingly straight, she was another Betsy Ross, fashioning the flag of a nation; the girl from the fairy tale sewing shirts of nettles for her twelve swan brothers; a devout saint stitching an altar cloth. To her brown eyes it was more than a baby quilt; it was a garden yellow with daffodils and white with lilies.

"Now we will tie it with yarn, to keep the cotton from slipping," said Miss Reed. "Rosaria, you may tie the first knot."

Rosaria went up and with fingers that shook took the big needle with its white yarn tail and drew it carefully through the corner of a square. She tied a precise knot and Miss Reed clipped the thread and fluffed out the ends. Rosaria smoothed the quilt gently.

"It looks purty," she murmured. "I like it white and jellow."

"Yellow," corrected Miss Reed. Now, Soledad, you may come."

Soledad was long and skinny, with a swarthy, high-cheeked face and shoulder-length, straight black hair. She was as homely as Rosaria, with her pansy-brown eyes, short, dark, fluffy hair and sweet little heart-shaped face, was pretty. Rosaria regarded her with a fearful admiration. The bouncing vitality of the bigger girl and her horrible propensity to gossip fascinated the younger child. Rosaria knew that Miss Reed did not approve of gossip and always scolded Soledad, but that young lady talked so fast that she generally made her point before she was checked.

AFTER the last knot was tied, Miss Reed again held up the quilt to be admired and exclaimed over once more.

"And now," she said, "you remember, because it is just a few days to Christmas, that we decided that we would give this quilt to a baby for a Christmas present; and because of that other baby born on Christmas, we thought we would like to give this to a little new December baby. Who has a new baby?"

The class fidgeted and looked sidewise at one another. Rosaria twisted her hands. She hadn't heard of a new baby lately.

Herma got up and stood blushing.

Miss Reed asked: "Herma, have you a new baby at your house?"

Herma shuffled her feet and nodded. Soledad bounced to her feet.

"Teacher, she says the lie. She have the old baby; he already has one year."

Herma fell back into her seat.

"Well, a year-old baby is not exactly like a new baby," Miss Reed spoke gently. "It would be nicer to give the quilt to a real little baby. Hasn't any one a little, wee baby?"

Not a child claimed such a prize and the quilt was folded and laid away. The class passed out sadly, except Rosaria, who stayed each night to help straighten the room.

She went about her work in a distrait manner. She erased the white chalk from the blackboard, jumping up and down on her toes to reach the high spots. Next she took the wastebasket and began to collect the erasers. As she worked, Miss White, the first-grade teacher, put her head in at the door. Rosaria stopped her work to smile at her. She liked to hear Miss White talk. She sounded funny.

"Hold your breath, Goldilocks," she called to Miss Reed, "the biggest of the three bears comes tomorrow."

"Don't tell me Miss Watson is coming," said Miss Reed.

"I can't make you like it, but I'm telling you," answered Miss White.

Miss Reed clapped her hands to her head. "My stars, that woman would be fiend enough to come just before Christmas!"

"Why worry?" asked Miss White. "She probably won't do anything worse than bite a hole in you. You've got that lovely quilt to wave at her. You've writ books about it and drew pitchers of it. In short, you've proposed, planned, executed and judged. Now sit back and enjoy."

"But, listen," Miss Reed scowled. "Have I proposed to no purpose? You know we made that wretched quilt for a new baby and do you think I can find a new baby in this room? Not a new one! The newest is an old man of 1 year."

"Positively senile," agreed Miss White. "Well, cheer up, Little Red Riding Hood; maybe the stork will flap by tonight."

"Well, believe it or not," Miss Reed pounded the desk with her fist, "if I can't find a new baby to present with that quilt, my vacation will be ruined. My heart will break, I tell you, my heart will break. I'll spend Christmas in tears."

"Says you," giggled Miss White, and left.

Rosaria put the last eraser into the basket and went out to the steps to beat them, her mind troubled. She thought of what Miss White had said. She remembered Miss Watson. She was somebody that made all the teachers scurry about and have pink spots in their cheeks. And now Miss Reed had declared that her heart would break if she couldn't find a new baby for the quilt. Rosaria had the "beeg" love on Miss Reed, so that she would do anything for her. She sighed as she clapped the erasers together and from the white cloud of chalk dust that floated up from them she evolved a determination; a determination that Miss Reed should find a baby.

Going home across vacant lots where unpainted shacks sagged among the weeds and brown-skinned children stared at her, she came to her own street and her shoulders stiffened with pride as she looked at her home. It was clean and newly painted. Before it was a neat lawn; a row of poinsettias blazed along the side. Her stepfather had achieved this marvel.

Her father had died when she was very small, leaving only the house to her mother. When her mother was the bread-winner, she had neither time nor money to spend on the place. It was as shabby as any other house on the street.

But last spring her mother had married Rodriguez and he had painted and hammered and planted. At first Rosaria had been miserable and jealous of him, but as he had changed the appearance of the house by his industry, so he changed her feeling of resentment toward him to affection by his gentleness. They had become great friends.

He was coming up the street from work now and she ran to meet him and slipped her small hand confidingly into his big one. She liked to talk to him; he listened so silently and gravely and never laughed at her as her mother did. They went into the yard together and around the back to the porch.

Not content with the garden outside, he had glassed in this porch and constructed a miniature hothouse. There was no particular system about it, but to Rosaria and the man the riot of ferns, sprouting bulbs and flowering plants was immensely satisfying. They liked to dally in the inclosure till the impatient mother would come out and scold them for not coming in to dinner.

But tonight they did not linger among the ordinary plants, but went straight toward the warmest corner.

"Oh," cried Rosaria, "it has bloomed. It is purty, so purty!"

"Si," said Rodriguez, as charmed as the child, "it has bloomed."

It was an Easter lily which he had been coaxing into bloom for Christmas. It stood tall and fragile, with one bloom open and the others about to burst.

Rosaria touched the petals with the tip of her finger. "Just like white silk," she said, "and the middle, jellow like gold. Will you give it to my mother?"

Rodriguez shook his head, a smile on his gentle, olive-tinted face. "Not to the madre, chiquita, but to you. You may have it for your Christmas. You may do what you want to with it."

She clapped her hands and held her heart-shaped face up for his kiss.

"Whatever you want to do with it, you can," he repeated. "You can take it to the school and give it to the teacher, if you want."

SHE pulled him down on a box and sat on his knee. He understood about the teacher. Her mother would never have said that. She would think it was silly to have the love on the teacher so that you would do anything to keep her heart from breaking. But Rodriguez could understand. Eagerly she began on the story of the quilt and the nonexistent baby.

He listened gravely till she had finished. "Why don't you go to the church and pray to Madre Mary to make the miracle?" he asked.

Her face lighted. "Will she listen to me?"

He smiled down into the pansy-brown eyes.

"Si, she always listens to the prayers of the little children and you are such a very good little one. Pray hard and perhaps she will make the miracle and to some one in your room she will send the baby."

She got up to go, then tugged at his hand.

"Come with me," she begged.

He arose. "Si, I, too, have a prayer to make. But we must go quietly and not tell the madre. I think she sleeps."

The little church was just around two corners. It was warm and quiet and empty save for themselves. Through the stained-glass windows the mild California winter sun came in long streamers.

Near the door stood an empty crib, and close by were miniature farm animals.

"For Christmas," whispered Rodriguez. "They will put the baby in the crib and all the animals will stand about as they did in the manger."

Rosaria nodded. She remembered from last year how like a real baby the little figure had looked. But today the crib was empty, just as her old cradle stood empty against the wall in the kitchen. She sighed and slipped to her knees in prayer.

Rodriguez knelt beside her and she saw his lips moving. She bowed her head and prayed earnestly.

"Please send the Second A a baby that the heart of Miss Reed will not break." She prayed softly in a mumbling little monotone, but she prayed fiercely, too, almost pushing the words from her lips. Then she looked about at her stepfather. He still knelt, watching her with kindly, smiling eyes. But he did not laugh at her. She loved him for that. She felt that Soledad, her mother, and perhaps even Miss Reed, would have laughed at her prayer.

The next morning she came to school eagerly. When the class had filed in and taken their seats, she looked about with anxious eyes. But they were all the same dull lot of the day before. No miracle had happened to make their eyes sparkle unduly. No baby had come in the night to keep Miss Reed's heart from breaking.

Miss Reed herself did not seem so much concerned about her breaking heart this morning as she did about the behavior of the children. She assigned their lessons hurriedly; she cautioned them about this and that; she kept one eye on the door as she talked. She let Soledad spread out the finished quilt on a table; Manuel and Salvador, the class artists, pinned up pictures which they had drawn; Theresa and Herma, the crack writers, placed books which they had written about the activity in conspicuous places. Jose stacked up the packages that represented the class' efforts at making Christmas gifts to take home.

AS THE last child scurried to his seat, the door opened and Miss Watson stalked in. Rosaria as well as the rest of the children was aware, with the shrewd intuition of children, that Miss Reed was afraid of Miss Watson. That was why her cheeks went all pink and her voice sounded funny as she said:; "Children, this is Miss Watson."

"G' morning, Miss Watson," chorused the children and stared at her as if she had escaped from the zoo.

Miss Watson started to talk to them. Rosaria looked at her wonderingly. When she talked to Miss Reed her eyes were hard and cold like the little pieces of ice. When she spoke to the children her eyes melted softly and were almost as blue as Miss Reed's.

She talked about Christmas; she let them talk to her. They told her about the things they had made. They grew pleasantly intimate with her. Undeniably she had a way with her. Rosaria could have liked her if she did not scare Miss Reed so!

Manuel showed her his calendar and a painted coat hanger; Mary had sewed an oilcloth duck for her sister; Theresa had made a panholder for her mother. Every one had something to say, but no one mentioned the quilt.

Finally Miss Watson came to that herself. "Who made this?"

"We all sewed the little squares and then we sew them together," volunteered Herma. "And then each one tie a thread."

"What did you make it for?" asked Miss Watson.

Rosaria's pansy eyes turned to Miss Reed. Miss Reed looked troubled. Rosaria wondered if her heart was beginning to break.

The rest of the class was embarrassed. They felt that they had failed in not producing a baby. All save Soledad were distrait and silent. That gossip bounced to her feet.

"We made the quilt of white and jellow," she announced, "for the little new baby borned in December like the baby Jesus and there is no new baby in the Second A, so we can't use the quilt."

Miss Reed's ears were now as pink as her cheeks; Miss Watson's eyes were small bits of ice again; she raised her eyebrows superciliously. Rosaria hated her. She knew the heart of Miss Reed was breaking; she had the "beeg" love on the teacher. She would do anything in the world to keep that gentle heart intact. She would lie; she would steal; she would lie. * * *

SHE got to her feet in a rush and then found that her knees were cloth and would not hold her unless she clung to the desk with her hands. Her mouth was dry and raspy and when she opened her lips no sound came.

They were all looking at her now, Miss Watson, the boys and the girls. No, not all; Miss Reed was looking at the quilt; her heart was breaking. Her heart must not break.

Rosaria opened her lips again and her voice sounded so loud that even after she had spoken and sat down again the words went on ringing in her ears, the words she had said to keep the heart of Miss Reed from breaking.

"Yes, there is a baby; a new one. Last night my mother she get the new baby. For it she needs the quilt with the squares white and jellow."

"Yellow," corrected Miss Reed softly, and smiled.

After that a great deal more talk buzzed in the room, but Rosaria heard none of it. She had told the lie, and lots and lots of times she had heard Miss Reed say to Manuel, who trifled with the truth: "Manuel, I do not like people who lie."

Only when Soledad fixed bold, black eyes upon her and asked, "Did you get the boy or the girl baby?" did she hear, and realize that the street of lies is paved with many stones.

Soledad's suspicious eyes demanded an answer. It didn't matter which she said, so she faltered: "A boy."

At noon Miss Reed wrapped up the quilt in white tissue paper and tied it with red-and-green ribbon.

"Here, angel child," she said gayly. "That baby of yours saved my life this morning."

Rosaria took the package, though the crackling of the tissue paper was as the crackling of flames that seared her fingers. She ran home with it, dodging the eager interest of the other children. On the glassed-in porch was a small chest which her stepfather had made for her doll clothes. Into this she crammed the quilt hastily before going into the house. Her mother and stepfather both sat at the table. She might have wondered why Rodriguez was home at this hour if she had not been so occupied with her own troubles.

Her stepfather put food upon her plate and she ate a few bites and drank her milk and got up to go. It was her mother who reminded her of the party in her room that afternoon and asked if she didn't wish to wear her new yellow dress.

Yesterday the opportunity to wear that soft, yellow, ruffled dress would have charmed her. Today she let her stepfather get it down from the hanger and help her into it without a single thrill. He drew a comb through her short, fluffy hair and bade her kiss her mother goodby. She did so mechanically and did not wonder why her mother did not walk with her to the gate as usual and wave at her as she turned the corner.

She ran as fast as she could to the school; Miss Reed had told her to come in ahead of the other children and help get ready for the party. She was afraid Miss Reed might ask her about the baby, but both she and the teacher were so busy passing paper plates and napkins, cutting cake and counting cookies and candles that there was no time for any talk.

She took her seat as the other children filed in and looked at them fearfully, but they were entirely taken up with the festivities and did not notice her particularly. She began to breathe again. One more hour of school and if nothing happened in that time she was safe for two weeks of vacation. To her childish mind anything might happen in such a lengthy period to cover up her lie.

Then, just when safety was so close, Miss Reed looked up from taking the attendance and asked: "Where is Soledad?"

Where was Soledad, indeed? Only sudden death could keep Soledad away from a party—sudden death or a chance to pick up a bit of scandal. Rosaria's heart skipped; she feared the worst; the worst happened!

Soledad bounced into the room and up to Miss Reed's desk as if she had been shot from a gun.

"Mees Reed," she began breathlessly, "I am late because I go to the house of Rosaria to see the new baby. I tell her mother, 'Where is the baby?' She tell me, 'What baby?' Then I tell her, 'Why, the baby, the new one what you get in the night?'

She tell me, 'Soledad, have you gone loco?' 'No,' I tell her, 'but Rosaria she come to the school and she tell the keeds and the teacher, 'My mother, she have the new baby, what comes in the night.' Then Rosaria's mother she laugh, 'Ha! Ha!' and she tell me, 'That one Rosaria! She does the talking too much.'"

As Soledad talked, Rosaria's throat had tightened, her face had paled and now her eyes were dark pools of shame.

Miss Reed did not look at her. She spoke to the class.

"I'll tell you what I'll do, children. We'll go on with the party now, Rosaria can keep the quilt tonight and tomorrow. I'll go to see her mother."

"And if there is no baby, teacher, you will bring back the quilt?" insisted Soledad.

Miss Reed looked grave. "We'll see," she answered. "I can't believe that Rosaria would tell a lie like that. She knows I don't like people who lie."

Rosaria's eyes brimmed with tears. She had lied, but if she could only cry out and tell all of them why she had lied. But she could not; the children would laugh and not believe her; even Miss Reed might laugh and not believe.

Going home tonight was no joy. She dared not even imagine what her mother would say about the visit of Soledad. But she was temporarily spared that ordeal, for her stepfather met her at the gate with her play-clothes and her night gown wrapped in a small bundle. He told her that her mother and aunt had gone away and she was to go to the aunt's house and stay overnight with her cousins. She offered him the cake but he refused.

"Take it to the cousins," he told her.

Her aunt's brood were many and noisy, and generally she liked going there and tumbling about with them. But today there was no interest in anything they did. As soon as she could she went to bed, to lie awake long after the others had gone to sleep.

She awoke before dawn to hear her uncle stirring about in the kitchen fixing his breakfast. She waited till she heard him go out and then rose and dressed noiselessly. She would go once more to the church and pray again.

The streets were wet with fog and the December air was damp and chilly, but she did not notice the cold. At the foot of the church steps she hung back out of sight, for some workingmen were going in. Her stepfather would probably be among them, she thought. But although she looked, she did not see him. When the men were all in the church, she slipped after them.

The priest was droning the mass and she was so small and quiet that in the dark church no one noticed her. She went to the crib. The baby lay there now and all the animals stood about. She looked at the baby in the crib in despair. If she could not pray, no miracle would happen and she would have to tell Miss Reed that she had lied. And Miss Reed, on whom she had the "beeg" love, would care for her no longer. She did not like people who lied.

Rosaria sighed and put her fingers over the side of the crib and touched the cheek of the waxen babe. How like a real baby he looked! If he were laid in her own empty cradle in the kitchen and covered with the quilt of white and yellow, not even Miss Reed could tell him from a real child! Her fingers stiffened, then slipped around the small fat neck and lifted the little figure over the side of the crib.

She turned her eyes to the image of the mother. "Just for one little while could I take him?" she breathed.

Straining her wide eyes upward, she thought that the benign figure nodded and her heart gave a little skip of joy. It was all clear to her now. She wrapped the waxen infant in her sweater and looked about. No one noticed her; she was so small and quiet. The mass still droned on. She slipped up the dim aisle, past the dark pews where the men made still darker shadows. Her heart beat fast and her breath was short; she held her precious bundle tightly.

As she passed the last pew a hand reached out and clutched her. She made a sudden effort to free herself, but the hand drew her swiftly into the shelter of the pew.

"Chiquita," it was her stepfather, "what are you doing?"

Her lips trembled; she hid her suddenly wet eyes against the rough cloth of his shoulder; she let him take the bundle from her arms and unwrap it from the sweater. She heard the sudden startled intake of his breath.

He put his arm about her and brought her closer to him.

"Tell me," he commanded gently, close to her ear, "why did you take the holy image?"

Whispering, she answered: "Because no miracle happened. I tell Miss Reed that I have a baby. She comes today to see it, so I take the baby to put in my cradle under the quilt so she will not know I tell her the lie."

"Rosaria!" He was shocked. "And is your faith so weak? You have not prayed yet enough. You have not the faith."

"Oh, I have the faith," she whispered fiercely, "but I did not think to bring gifts. Maybe that is why she has not made the miracle. But now I will bring her a gift."

SHE thought a minute, then clasped her hands in ecstasy. "I know the gift that will please her. My lily! I will go now to the house and bring it back. And then she will make me the miracle, will she not?"

He smiled at her; she could just see the white glisten of his teeth.

"Si, chiquita," he whispered. "I will put back the babe for you. You go for the Easter lily."

The little girl went softly from the church and ran as fast as she could to her own home. The house looked still and hushed and empty, and she hurried up the steps.

She turned the doorknob and went in. The shades were drawn, but the kitchen felt warm and there was a smell of coffee in the air. She would put away her sweater and then get the lily and go back with it. She pattered across the dim room to the cradle. She laid her sweater on the foot, then she caught her breath. The cover was not smooth as she had left it; there was a small hump in it.

Her hand shook so that she could scarcely turn back the cover. She peered incredulously. Why, it was a baby! A little new one. The miracle had happened. Her lie was a lie no longer; it was erased from her heart as she herself erased the white chalk from the blackboard each night. She was no longer of that outcast tribe, "people who lie." She began to cry softly.

FROM the bedroom her aunt came, yawning sleepily.

"Rosaria," she chided, "is it nice to cry when God has sent you the new baby for a Christmas gift?"

"Is it mine?" she asked tensely.

"Si," said her aunt. "Youre and your mother's. A baby boy for you to take care of. But if you cry, I will take him home with me for Carmen."

"You will not," she declared fiercely. "He is my baby and you are not to touch him."

She ran out to the chest on the porch and took out the bundle wrapped in white tissue and tied with red-and-green ribbon. She brought in the quilt with its white-and-yellow squares and spread it carefully over the cradle.

"It is purty," she thought, "like the Easter lily."

That reminded her. She had a promise still to fulfill. She considered the cradle and its occupant seriously for a moment before turning to her aunt.

She spoke anxiously and a trifle patronizingly.

"You can watch him till I get back. Be so careful of him," she admonished her. "If he wakes and cries for me, tell him I will run all the way home."

Aunt Lucindy's Christmas Party

Aunt Lucindy Wilson was de best cook in de town;
She baked a Chris'mas dinner, an' she axed us to come down.
Dah wes 'possum on de table, an' it scented up de air,
An' de cullud population come a flockin' everywhere.

Pompey Smash, de cullud dandy, come dah in his Sunday bes';
Bow-laig Ben, f'om Happy Hollah, he was dah widout his ves';
Pretty Sue an' Sally Johnson, Pahson Brown an' Deacon Green—
Land! We was de happies' dahkies ole Virginny evah see!

Ought to see Aunt 'Cindy's possum—been a comfo't to yo' soul!
Sweeten 'tatahs layin' round it, lak so many lumps o' gol'!
Pie an' cake was on dat table; co'n pone, cabbage, 'simmon beer—
Does you wonder dat de dahkies flocked around f'om fur an' near?

Pahson Brown he graced de table, an' his blessin' run lak dis:
"Laud, prepah us foh dese comfo'ts!" An' he hit down wid his fis'
On dat table till de dishes rattled on de pantry she'f!
"Pitch right in!" says Aunt Lucindy. "Evahbody he'p hisself!"

Dah was eatin's f'om de ole house to de kitchen done dat day!
Bless de Laud! 'twas r'ally sinful how we laid de vituals 'way!
PPompey Smash fo'got his manners, an' good Pahson Brown eat so
Dat we almos' had to tote him home, when he got up to go.

When de pahson an' de deacon lef', we tuck a social cup;
An' Nick Henderson, de fiddlah, 'gun to chune his fiddle up.
Den we tripped de light fantastic, evahbody feelin' gay.
Nick Henderson he fiddled, an' he called off dis a way:

"Pompey Smash, down in de co'nah, shake yo' foot wid Pretty Sue!
What's de mattah, Aunt Lucindy? Is dey glue a holdin' you?
Say, you little bow legged dahky, whut ain't got on any ves',
Fling yo' co'nfields high an' lonesome wid dat gal in de blue dress!"

'Long 'bout midnight we had supper, though we didn't need it ha'f;
An' Nick Henderson tole stories dat'd make de ghos'es laugh.
Den we played games an' drunk cider—an' de mos'est uv it, too.
Evah last one uv us dahkies felt as rich as any Jew.

Den de way we went to dancin' was a scan'lus sinful shame!
But de music kep' a playin', an' ob co'se we wa'n't to blame.—

ANSWERS CLOTH QUESTIONNAIRE

Hello Everybody: I am going to tell you of the fun I had this past week. No doubt but what some other Social Corner members may have had same pleasure. Did any of you answer the cloth questionnaire for the farm bureau agent? My husband says it didn't amount to anything, probably it didn't but I called it good sport or rather, brain exercise. As I understood it five farm families in each county all over the U. S. A. are being asked to answer the 101 plus questions. For the benefit of those not asked, I'll try to give you an idea how it goes and you can work one out for yourself. It follows:

1. Article of clothing. 2. Number in use. 3. Cost. 4. Number of years' service. 5. Average cost per year. For example: 1. Winter overcoat. 2. One. 3. $50. 4. Six years. 5. $8.33 1-3.

The articles of clothing for man of house: Summer undershirts, winter undershirts, summer dress-up shirts, summer work shirts, winter dress-up shirts, winter work shirts, summer work shoes, summer dress-up shoes, winter work shoes, winter dress-up shoes, overshoes, rubbers, felt boots, rubber boots, etc. Every article of clothing that a man on the farm would wear in a year. This was done for each member of the family. Our average per year read like this: Man, $84 plus; woman, $38 plus; children, $14 plus, $6 plus and $3 plus. No madeover clothes or hand-me-downs were counted in costs. Hubby's Malory hat and sheepskin lined coat of quite recent purchase greatly swelled his average.

Other questions were: Number of yardage of new material used per year and cost; number of made-over material, cost of groceries, meat, fuel, cosmetics, charity, recreation, doctors, dentist, hair cuts, etc., per year. If you want brain exercise just try it.

Now, Maine Lover, come on, have a good laugh. Thanks for invitation, do hope it will be so I can accept before long.

E. L. M.: Wish you lived near me, as I think it heaps of fun to do up packages.

Lular Wylie: Have had trouble similar to yours and find mutton tallow the best thing. Do try it and report.

Persis: Your letter was good, do steal time to write again. I had experience similar to yours with colic and walking young, but never doped out the reason why.

Will close with this little poem. Now I cannot find the poem so will keep it for next time when I do find it. By the way, nearly burned my bread while writing this.

A merry Christmas to all is the wish of WOODSIDE.

CHRISTMAS GIVING

Dear Social Corner Editor and Readers: Unconcern and indifference to the poor and needy of today, are manifest in communities by many who have the means to make thousands happy; not only for the present, but for such time as prosperity that has been lurking around the corner arrives to give to all that are able and willing, regardless of age, the wherewith to earn an honest living for self and family.

On Sunday, Nov. 16th, I listened to Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick, of New York, over the radio in a discourse comparing the indifference of the rich to the needy unemployed laborer of today, and the tragedy of suffering through unemployment. Search all he will, he fails to find, or obtain in any way, work to feed his cold and starving family.

ANSWERS AND INQUIRIES

CLIP, HEPATICA, RURAL AUNTY WOODSIDE: Letters, cards and package sent as requested.

TWICE TWENTY, ZANY, SKIPPER, SISTER READY, AUNT SUSIE, CALLA LILY, PRACTICAL POLLY: Many thanks, season's greetings in return.

LONE STAR: Letter here for you. Please forward address.

BEESWAX: Your name has been added to the Social Corner list.

The doctor compares the present tragedy and the indifference to it to the indifference of Peter to the tragedy of the trial and crucifixion of Christ.

We have today the tragedy of the death of men, women and children through unemployment. Poverty and penury stalks abroad in nearly every city, town and hamlet, mid riches of those who have the means to alleviate suffering. They are like Peter who stood by the fire warming himself, while that terrible tragedy was being enacted in the next room.

Starvation and suffering from cold and sickness may be taking place next to the door of the millionaire who stands by the fire warming himself, unconcerned.

We will go down to the city of New York, onto Fifth avenue. It is the night before Christmas. As we pass along we peer into the window of a grand mansion; every room is brilliantly lighted; fire in the open grate emits a cheerful glow; the Christmas tree is ladened with rich and costly gifts, soon to be taken from the brilliantly lighted tree sparkling with costly trimming and distributed to the wealthy guests. The guests, with their children, are passing to and fro; an orchestra is filling the mansion with music of the highest order; good cheer of food and drink is being served and enjoyed by elegant and richly dressed guests. Children are in an anxious mood, wondering what beautiful gift is to be theirs. Happiness and comfort beams from every one present. The night is crisp and cold.

On the marble steps to the mansion near the door, shivering with cold, weak from hunger, sits a mother, hugging her half starved infant to her breast for warmth, a much worn shawl is wrapped around the child while the mother suffers from the biting cold, with no outer garment.

She rings the bell, the doorman answers the call. She takes from her trembling hand a letter and delivers it to the host. "Tell her to go, I cannot sacrifice my pleasures for a beggar," was the reply.

Morning comes, it is Christmas morn. Mother and child are found dead on the avenue near the palatial residence.

The note from this starving woman reads: "We are without fuel and food, my husband fails to find work of any kind; he was for many years foreman in your manufactory until you closed down more than a year ago, since then he has failed to find employment; please help us."

The rich man, like Peter, stands by fire warming himself.

When he goes to a certain bourn from whence no traveler returns he may be refused one drop of water to cool his parched tongue.

All wealthy men are not like the one drawn in this picture, but he is one of many who are able to assist the unemployed and needy; they stand by the fire warming themselves, others are approached and asked to assist a worthy family who are about to be evicted by a merciless landlord. The answer is, "No, I can't, my stocks have dropped to a point where my income is but $50,000 a year. I can't afford to subscribe to a gift of charity." "Yes, but the government has recently returned to you $100,000 that through a maze of figures, you overpaid your income tax, on the millions you made on government contracts during the World war," says the solicitor. "That is true, but I hold a very prominent political office and that amount I shall need to secure my nomination and election in the next campaign."

He, too, stands by the fire warming himself, while the tragedy of need and suffering is being enacted.

Some say this country is no worse off than others. Allowing it is so, what comfort is it to a starving family?

An old saying that "misery likes company" may apply in some cases, but it doesn't buy clothing, food or fuel at this time.

Never in the history of this country has there been such widespread suffering, and there has never been a more whole hearted response to the needs of the unemployed than now, by individuals, various social organizations, lodges, church communities, clubs, labor unions and others.

All suffering cannot be reached no matter how determined the efforts. Upon the whole, the necessities are being looked after and administered to, as fast and diligently as time and means will permit.

Various city governments are financing many ways that will give work to the unemployed that will bring happiness and joy to the many children who have always looked forward to the coming of Santa Claus.

Our Washington government, as soon as it decides who shall have the honor of distributing the money voted for the sufferers, will act a noble part. Christmas is not far away, don't delay!

A letter from friends in Knoxville, Tenn., says, that the bank in which they had there Christmas fund of $100 closed its doors a few days before the time of payment. Their Christmas gifts will be few if any as the husband has been out of work for 14 months.

Christmas cards will act a generous part in conveying good wishes, as they go forward with their messages of loving wishes from friend to friend, causing the heart to beat fonder. Though small in a way, they are mighty in their message of peace and good will, and to all a merry Christmas and happy New Year.

"GRANDMOTHER BROWN"

Dear Social Corner Friends: Since I resolved some time ago, to grow old gracefully and to practice that I may be a model grandmother, I have found a number of obstacles in my path. First, I don't like knitting so very well. It's too slow for me; I want to make up something that grows rapidly—a crocheted rag rug, for instance. I started to learn to play cribbage but since I have learned some of the complications of the game I am quite willing to let grandfather play with one of the children. The final straw, however, has been the reading of "Grandmother Brown's 100 years," by her daughter-in-law, Harriett Connor Brown. I never, never, if I live to be a 1,000 years instead of a 100, can reach the state of perfection ascribed to Grandmother Brown and I've decided I might as well stop trying.

The critics of the book have exclaimed again and again, "But she didn't do anything great! Nothing exciting happened to her! She wasn't remarkable!" They seem to feel that the editors who approved Grandmother Brown and the judges who awarded the Atlantic prize were without their discriminating powers at the time.

The remarkable thing is that the author, impelled as she says by her love for her husband's mother, was able to take the story of the ordinary life of an ordinary grandmother and weave it into such a book. It is rambling, there are no dramatic climaxes; it is really just the sort of a story we'd expect to hear from an old lady like Grandmother Brown told in her own words, in her own way. Hence its difference from other biographies and modern stories, and incidentally, the secret of much of its charm.

Grandmother Brown's one apparent fault, if it could be called a fault, was her mild criticism of others in such a way as to reflect glory on herself. But even this slight failing is spoken of but a very few times.

Again I repeat, I have given up, for really, what is the use of setting myself up as a wonderful grandmother when Grandmother Brown has stolen all the fame?

If there has ever been an interesting adaptation of a play written and presented in novel form, then I have yet to read it. I have just finished "Lightin'" and of all the inane things I have read recently, this is the worst. I suppose that Lightnin', the chief character in the play must depend a great deal on his acting, his voice, and the manner in which he handles it, to put the part across in the play. In the book, his droll sayings are given, of course, but they have entirely lost their original flavor, and the character is dead. The other characters are equally stupid and inert. I shall think twice before I read another such book. You see, I am still PERNICKETY.

TRAMPING FOR A JOB

Dear Sisters of The Social Corner: It is unfortunate at this time to have the appearance of a millionaire and the resources of a mendicant.

In olden days a fur coat, diamond ring, well rounded smile with occasional ability was the required slogan, but these days a decadent husband, offspring at the breast and three in stages are the pull strings.

In the free or non-profit agencies, applications from young and old are being registered by the thousands from those crowding in from the country places. All sorts of questions and emotional exercises are being asked to relieve the monotony, make a contact, fill the break and a card, but no jobs. All the "How Many's" have a nominal figure. Purgatory will never be purged by the prevarications inculcated on these cards.

While tramping for a job, fired with ambition, filed into the next agency, stepping to the desk just at the moment the clerk was closing a call, and writing the word "young." "That's my job. That's my name," I said. "Why that means a 'young girl'" said the clerk with a far away smile, so I turned away jobless.

Next, "How many words per minute," and as I laid down my paper bag lunch, preparing for the test operation, out rolled a crusted roll and a banana. "My God!" he said, "you should be in the movies instead of rushing a job." "Always carry my lunch in a bag," said I, but did not hit a job. "Lost my wallet not long since and the man who returned it wept at its contents, 40 cents, door key, pawn ticket and a check for 25 cents. But that was all he did," and I passed on.

Next, made specific inquiries as to dependents, college training, relatives on call, amount of cash on hand and in bank, etc. Couldn't even rake up a cat or a canary! Poor lone, lonely spinsters, with or without "complexes" seeking a job. Why not clasp an "incumbent" in youth, for as Tennyson truly says, "'Tis better to have loved and lost than never to have loved and lost than never to have loved at all." Might even now sell cranberries, be a night nurse, "companionate marriage," as that seems to be the fashionable remedy.

The most pathetic and hopeless cases are those who in their teens sacrificed earnings and youth on "dependents" and are now homeless, penniless, seeking a job, turned down on account of gray hair and age limit.

Tackling the world for a job can only be appreciated by those who have in reality faced the situation and endured the insults of those who either by influence, association or endowment been able to drift above the teeming multitude. Women by themselves are seldom able to make much advancement, either in youth, and never in the gray hair specification.

Finally, secured a free lunch ticket and with other stragglers fell into the bread line, where sandwiches without butter and coffee and served daily without restriction or prejudice to homeless, jobless women, irrespective of race, creed, appearance or age by a "good samaritan." (However a side seater remarked "she never could eat bread without butter.")

"How about your handwriting," inquired the next. "No, that won't do. Don't slant right." "Slant the other angle," said I. "No, only spencerian style was wanted, and no amount of persuasion would convince that my writing had a two-way slant."

Such is tramping for a job, a serious, heart-breaking expedition.

THE FICKLE CAT

Dear Editor and Social Corner Members: Having had the pleasure of attending three of the gatherings of Club No. 4, as a guest, I am taking the suggestion of Black Walnut, that I write a letter to the Corner and thus become a member.

The 12th day of December, I was visiting at a farm in Woodstock. I made the remark I wish I could get some catnip for the cat. My husband said I couldn't expect to get any this time of the year. I didn't expect to just then but I saw something green near the wood shed and it proved to be just what I wanted. When I opened the car door I discovered he had picked quite a quantity. I have been wondering whether a cat goes by feeling or can tell color. Recently I put a new cover on my couch. The cat got off of it as soon as possible. I put her back and she wouldn't stay. The next day she decided to try it and it seems to suit her. I will take for my pen name BEESWAX.

GREETINGS

Editor and Corner Sisters Everywhere: The heartiest, merriest greetings of cheer, a bright, merry Christmas, a happy New Year.

MILKY WAY

ANOTHER CHRISTMAS SUGGESTION

Dear Social Corner Readers: I have kept silent for quite a while, something very unusual for me, but nevertheless I have read all of the very interesting letters and was pleased to see the page full.

The suggestions of Christmas gifts were very good and if you would be interested in my line of work about this time I will send a 'tip'.

Last year I made pin balls for Christmas and this year I buy and dress baby dolls. The celluloid dolls from the five and ten cent stores are the size. I dress them differently. Some dolls when finished are soiled handkerchief bags or one could use them for small fancy work. But my favorite way of dressing my dolls is with pretty pieces of silk or satin. A doll dressed throughout and filled with fragrant toilet powder, makes a dandy pin cushion and powder box.

Holes must be punched in the doll's head. A hat pin if you can find such a relic is just the thing for making the holes. Punch a hole either in the doll's back or at the soles of the feet to insert the powder. Use either a small cork or a piece of adhesive tape to close the opening. I prefer the tape. All the undies are used for assorted safety pins, but around the edges of dress I use the small brass safety pins. I tie baby ribbon around each wrist and in the ribbon hang more tiny brass pins about four linked together. With another piece of baby ribbon I tie around the doll's neck, leaving a medium long loop with which to hang by the mirror.

When the doll is finished it looks like a ballet dancer with spangled dress. Of course, the more ruffles or undies, the cuter the gift.

Mother and I are busy every evening wrapping gifts. Ours are all bought or if hand made they are also nearly completed. We send our cards away early so everything won't come in a heap.

Miss New Jersey: Thanks for the letter which I received today. I went out and hunted for the partridge berry, but only found the vine. It has not berried this fall. I suppose the drought set it back. I am sorry, as I surely would have been pleased to have gathered some for you. I know you will be surprised to know I lost my pet, "Pead," you surely recognize the name. For four days we had no way of locomotion, and I felt pretty lonesome but a neighbor has let us have a dear little horse for the winter so now I can go to the village as usual. I will write to you soon.

Now, Cornerites, I will bring my letter to a close wishing one and all a merry, merry Christmas from PRAIRIE CHICKEN.

BOOK COVERS FOR CHRISTMAS

Dear Corner Members: Only four shopping days before Christmas; how many can sit back and say nothing more to buy and packages all packed? I don't see many hands. The scene is more like this one; oh dear! oh dear! what will I give this one and that one? Well, if you are handy with a needle, "most of the sisters are," you can make something that doesn't require much time, is inexpensive and every book lover will enjoy. If you have a piece of linen and a little embroidery cotton you can get busy at this book cover, you may have other material that will answer the purpose. These directions are for a book 8 1-2 inches by 5 1-2 inches and 1 1-2 inches thick. Take two pieces of linen of contrasting shades, sew top and bottom by machine on the wrong side, this done, turn right side out, overcast the two edges, turn edges over 2 inches and overcast again. If you have a transfer that you can stamp on the cover you may use that, if not, put a small cup upside down on the center of your folded cover and mark at the left and right with pencil leaving a space at top and bottom. This forms two stems for your wreath to be worked with green embroidery cotton, and at either side make leaves using the lazy daisy stitch. With a space of 2 inches at the bottom of stems work a six-petal flower with French knots for center and to either side a flower not complete, having but four petals worked the same as the center one. Make sure the center of each flower is in line with the stem, to make sure. When your spray of leaves are complete, put your cup on and make three dots in line with stems, this marks the centers. Now, with the cover folded, attach a cord to the top center, this is used for the book mark. This is made by crocheting or braiding the same color used for the flowers, only using heavy cotton. Tie the braid securely leaving the ends hang to form a tassel. Would like to have you try it for I know you will be pleased with the result.

The weather man has been good to us, no snow to stop us from going into the woods for greens and berries. It looks as though everyone had time to gather some greens for most every home has cheerful looking boxes, tubs or wreaths. It sure is a good spirit although all around us we hear hard times. I hope everyone will have a very merry Christmas and find the New Year prosperous. FIDELIS.

EXCHANGE GIFTS AT PARTY

Dear Social Corner: My thanks to our editor for the prize check I was so pleased to receive a short time ago and I assure you it will help to make someone happy at Christmas time.

Last Thursday the Putnam sisters of Club No. 4 were hostesses to a very enjoyable Christmas party at which more than 50 were present and we were glad to welcome members of some of the other clubs. Each one took a present and these were drawn by numbers, so every one received something and the children were no exception.

Butterfly got the largest package and I think I got the smallest, but the value was there just the same.

Pine Cone, our hostess to be, was unable to be with us as she was suffering quite badly from Dogwood poison. But Juinper, Lotus and Broken Blossoms carried things through in a fine way. The dinner was very well balanced and there was an abundance of nice food.

Pine Cone: Hope you are very much better at this time and as you did not get your shrubs this fall we will not forget them in the spring, which I think will be a better time to start them.

I now would like to correct a few mistakes in the accounts given in Zany's letter. As his hands are somewhat crippled I do the copying for him, so think the fault was mine. It should have been 10 pounds cheese for $1.11 instead of one and one-half pounds. And where it was cooking glass it should have been looking glass. And it was three pounds and six ounces of codfish for 16 cents, not $16. No one as yet has offered any information as to who this storekeeper may have been. There are many names in the book that are familiar to Killingly people.

Sister Rhody: I make the R. I. Johnny cakes as you do, only I add soda and sugar. We are very fond of them for breakfast with dried beef or cod fish gravy.

I am very fond of flowers and have enjoyed the letters telling about your gardens. I never have one worth mentioning but I do wish you might see my Poinsettias. One has three blossoms, each as large as a dinner plate. Have two younger plants that the blossoms are not as large and not staying on as long. Also have several other plants in bloom.

To a thrifty homemaker there is always an appeal about an article that is both useful and pretty, fashioned out of something that would otherwise be practically waste.

Woodside: You must be one of the thrifty homemakers and I got a thrill out of reading the various ways you use up feed bags. Here is another way of making a bed spread that is really dressy even if quite simple in construction and design. Use one bag for the center with halves on each side and quarters in the corners, using six bags for a medium size spread and nine for a larger, adding the extra size on the edges with the half bags. These are stitched together in the shape and size required and the seams covered with a fairly heavy rick-rack braid in white fastened on by means of French knots in each point, using what ever color appeals to you. If wanted a little more dressy some sort of a design could be made in the center, a wreath of applique flowers done in pink and blue linen, buttonholed on with contrasting floss. Make about a two-inch hem and have the ends of the rick-rack cross this to the edge and French knot these too. I make use of what few bags we have but have difficulty in getting out the lettering, husband says "what's the odds," the things wear longer and are more interesting. Now—A happy and joyous Christmas and new year to one and all is the wish of TWICE TWENTY.

CITES TWO DISTINCT CASES

Dear Social Corner Editor and Friends: Persis: Your letter was fine. I wonder if those sisters have children of their own, and if so, did they practice what they preach. It is so easy to put on paper what should be done, but quite another matter for all to practice.

I, too, disapprove of crowding the minds of our little ones, as you say Persis. Some learn without any apparent teaching, others are so slow that parents and teachers are discouraged. That does not follow that the slower mind may not outstrip the more brilliant one in later life. We all know of such cases.

I remember as a child, another playmate who was a perfect wonder. Her proud parents urged her on until it seemed unbelievable that any young brain could retain so much learning. What happened? A few years later she became a perfect idiot. The doctors all agreed it was the early overcrowding of that young brain. Another schoolmate who was as dull as she was bright, in later life held a high office for years. Their little minds should develop as nature dictates, some slow, others more rapidly. We can't improve on God's handiwork.

Another thing I practiced was never to send my little ones to bed, unhappy or in tears. Their little troubles are as great to them as our larger ones are to us. If we retire with some grievance on our mind is our sleep peaceful and dreamless? Think of this mothers, and your own rest may not be disturbed as often by their restlessness.

The old adage, "A little nonsense now and then is relished by the best of men," tempts me to tell what happened to Yours Truly some little time ago. I was one of a committee at one of our sales. While waiting for the prospective buyer, and chairs being scarce, I seated myself on one of those collapsible pasteboard cartons. All went well until in changing my position, presto change, the sides and ends of that box folded in and down I went to the bottom. The box was so deep and narrow, that only my feet and head were sticking out of the top for in my jackknife position, I fitted that box like paper on a wall. Can you see my picture, sisters? My associate helpers had to tip the box over to extricate me from my grotesque condition. Who tells the next one? PRACTICAL POLLY.

REMEMBERS GURDON CADY

Dear Social Corner Friends: As I read last Friday's Bulletin about Gurdon Cady, who died in 1897, that turned my mind back a good many years. How many of you remember when Plainfield bought the Prickney farm for a town poor farm. I believe that Gurdon Cady was the man that did that for the unfortunates. They said he made a speech that brought tears to most of their eyes. Among other things he said the rich man had the motto on the walls, "God Bless Our Home," and they auctioned this poor home off to the lowest bidder, so when they bought the farm they commenced to jolly him about his motto, "God Bless Our Home." I made the motto that hung in the poor home. It was in 1876. I think Gurdon was first selectman at that time. He took good care of his father and mother as long as they lived, built an addition on his own home so he could look out for them. My father and Gurdon Cady went to Hartford as representatives at the same time and I believe they had as good a time as any of them there. I heard the people at Central Village said it was worth twenty-five cents to hear them laugh anytime. They both laughed hearty, were two good sports and both went to their reward in 1897, a long time ago.

I was sorry I could not go to any of the Social Corner picnics last summer. I waited for the picnic at Atlantic Beach and am still waiting. I hope to meet all of my Social Corner friends at Norwich, Jan. 7, 1931, if nothing happens. Did you ever see such wonderful things as they do in Willimantic with the Memorial hospital? No one thought they could do it with so many out of work, but the memorials was what did it and everyone helped too, so we can have the hospital now. Every city should have a hospital. We have a good one now, but cannot have it much longer. The sisters have been so good and faithful they cannot beaten. We hope we can have some one as good, but time will tell. But when we get a hospital that looks like the picture of it, we will have something very nice.

ROSE LEE.

AGREES WITH OTHER WRITERS

Dear Social Corner: Just a few words this morning to assure Persis that here is one who remembers her. Also to thank her for putting into words what I wanted to, but did not feel equal to doing justice to the subject. Come again, Persis.

Now, if someone would only answer that "letter to the editor" which C. B. Willard of Groton wrote last week and say all the things I'd like to say regarding it, I'd be very much pleased.

And now, I wonder who Woodside can be. If you live near me, Woodside, we must be in the same telephone division, so why not call me up?

Olga: You surely started something when you suggested a possibility of losing the Corner page. Your letters are needed to help fill it.

Debbie: You showed us what an interesting letter you can write. Now we shall look for more.

Wishing you all a merry Christmas. BETSY BOBBET.

A Merry Christmas
TO ALL
Social Corner Members

INTERESTED IN QUILTS, BAGS AND INDOOR GARDENS

Dear Social Corner Editor and Members: Having returned to my native state, namely New Jersey, for an indefinite stay, I have not had the opportunity to read the Social Corner page since July. So last week, when I received the Norwich Bulletin and knew that I would receive it every week, the subscription to it having been given to me as a Christmas present, I was some pleased and said to myself, that I shall write a letter at once, as I have not written before in ages. So here goes.

The Christmas season is a wonderful time of the year to me. The hustle and bustle of it and especially in a large city, is very inspiring to me.

Just to go down town and through the shopping district thrills me.

Last Saturday, toward evening, we went down to Newark and to get there, we had to pass through Caldwell, Verona, Montclair, Glen Ridge and Bloomfield. Each of these communities had their Christmas trees lighted and many of the banks and public buildings were illuminated, and one felt as though they had passed through fairyland. Newark's beautiful Christmas tree was aglow with thousands of little lights. The base of the tree was covered with red lights and a little further up the tree, there were orange colored lights and so each color became lighter until at the top of the tree was one huge white light. It made a very beautiful sight and quite different from most community trees with their many colored lights.

In last week's Social Corner page, Balsam Fir spoke about an umbrella quilt and also a butterfly quilt. I have never seen either of these particular quilts and think they must be very lovely and quite unusual. I would very much like to have either or both of these patterns and would willingly pay her for them if she would care to send them to me. Just how would I get in touch with her?

Right after the holidays, I am aiming to piece a basket quilt using pink and unbleached muslin. I am very partial to anything made of unbleached muslin as it always launders so nicely.

I was very much interested in the article that appeared in last week's Social Corner page headed "Makes Good Use of Bags" and written by Woodside. I have a mania for making things out of bags, but making underwear and nighties out of bags was a new one to me, but a very good idea, I thought.

About a month ago, while out in the woods, I gathered two different kinds of moss, one being a short compact moss that I pulled off the rocks and the other was a long feathery looking moss. I also gathered some tiny ferns and upon reaching home, I took a good sized glass fish globe and put several pebbles in the bottom. Then I laid the two kinds of moss on top of the stones and then tucked the little ferns in between the moss. The top of the globe I covered with a piece of glass cut round to fit it.

I then set two miniature bisque ladies down among the ferns. One young lady is blithely holding a paper parasol over herself and she just puts the finishing touch to this cute little indoor garden or "garden of Eden," as some people call them. The beauty of these little gardens is that they will live and stay lovely indefinitely and without scarcely any care or attention. About the only thing that is necessary to do for them is to sprinkle them very lightly every three or four months. Wintergreen berries added to the garden makes it even prettier. But they are not very plentiful in these parts, so I have sent to a lady in North Stonington for some, as I know of a spot on her farm where they grow quite plentifully.

Well, friends, I will sign off for now or you all will wonder whether or not I know enough to stop, once I get started. The season's greetings to all from MISS NEW JERSEY.

TOYS AND WALL HANGINGS

Dear Social Corner: If Woodside has scraps of grain bag cloth left, she might use them in making some stuffed toys for her children. Last Friday I was feeling rather lazy after attending state grange two evenings, so I experimented with crayons and cloth. With the aid of carbon paper I transferred a picture of a squirrel onto a piece of grain bag. After outlining the design with black crayon I colored the rest of it to suit my fancy. Then I set the colors by steaming them in. I made a second squirrel in the same way and sewed the two together, leaving the bottom open for stuffing. After stuffing it, I put a piece of cardboard in the bottom and sewed it in so the squirrel would stand up. William claimed the toy as soon as it was done and when Margery got home from school I made one for her.

One of my neighbors has made some lovely wall hangings for gifts by coloring designs on cloth with wax crayons. If you have never seen any decorations of this sort you have a surprise in store for you. Besides being very effective, they are easy to make. You may buy homespun crash all stamped and with directions for coloring. Or you may transfer your design on unbleached muslin or other cloth. Window drapes, luncheon sets, cushions, table scarfs and any number of things may be decorated in this way. The process of steaming in the colors is simple and this makes the article washable. After coloring your design, place it face down on paper. Lay a wet cloth over it and press with a hot iron. Some designs may be set off by outlining them with embroidery silk.

Is it too late to wish you all a merry Christmas? SISTER RHODY.

HER ANNUAL LETTER

Social Corner Editor and Fairy God Children: The chill in the air, the frost on the window panes and the thin coating of ice on the ponds with snow birds flying around, have brought to my mind it is now time for me to write my annual letter to all my Social Corner children. The year has passed so quickly and so pleasantly I can hardly think 1930 is drawing so fast to a close. We will soon open another year and 1931 will be here.

I send my sympathy to those who have lost dear ones and to the sick I send hope of speedy recovery. I trust all will bear its peace and good will of Him who never slumbers or sleeps, but holds the world in the hollow of His hand.

To all new members I send a hearty welcome to our Social Corner family. To be one of us means friendship, love and truth, a handshake and a pleasant smile.

Trusting the good work may go on, I send a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year to all.

FAIRY GOD MOTHER

PREPARING FOR CHRISTMAS

Dear Sisters of The Social Corner: The most popular thought and interests at the present time are centered on preparing for the beautiful celebration of Christmas. Many hearts are to be made glad, most especially among the little folks of today. Parents and grandparents are repeating over and again, those efforts they did in past years. A long time friend of mine wrote me quite recently in regard to the coming holidays that in her younger life she used to be anticipating on what she was to receive, which, of course, is very natural for children, but now her plans and interests are what shall I give? I think this is the true Christmas spirit and I admire Pedestrian's fine letter of last week on this subject.

It is a pleasure for us of the class of mothers to recall the earliest Christmas days of our children. What a pleasure it was to do for them, and the recompense was to see their joy. We can all feel glad we improved our opportunities, as they came to us, for we do not know from one happy holiday to the next, what may occur.

I hope all sisters and friends may truly enjoy a merry and delightful Christmas and those who are sick and in sadness, may they receive greetings of sunshine, for there are many who do not forget. About three weeks previous to the passing away of that wonderful evangelist, Dwight L. Moody, I had the privilege of hearing him preach one of his many grand sermons. The central point of thought was "present opportunities," and in conclusion, he emphasized his own personal desire, "Give me my roses while I'm here." JENNIE, (Club 1).

SEASON'S GREETINGS FROM ANONA

Dear Social Corner Friends: Will write once more to help keep the Corner page full. Thanks to Too Late and her helpers for the good dinner we all enjoyed so much last Wednesday; also the entertainment afterwards. Was so glad to see so many out that day.

Masic: You will see us coming up the hill some fine day.

Wisteria: How these popcorn balls did go Saturday night? You sure know when and how to do it.

Beth C. and O. D.: How are you both this winter? Do you ever see Dorothy Bradford?

Old man winter is here tonight and I, for one, don't like him. Wishing you each and all a Merry Christmas and Happy New Year. ANONA.

A HAPPY CHRISTMAS

Dear Editor and Social Corner Sisters: I can only spend a few minutes to write, for my time is all taken up caring for a dear sister who is very ill.

I just thought I had to write a few lines and wish all a very happy Christmas. I cannot send cards to all my friends this year as I have neither the time nor the inclination.

Those of you to whom I owe letters will know from this why I don't write, but the first chance I have, will answer. Those that phoned I thank you, but I am not at home anyway until after 4 o'clock.

Once again I wish all a happy Christmas and;

May the spirit of the Christ child
Fill your hearts this Christmastide;
And the peace announced by angels
In your souls fore're abide.

BLACK EYED SUSIE.

HUSBAND IN HOSPITAL

Dear Social Corner: I think this would be a good time for me to write when everyone else is so busy with Christmas preparations and I am counting time with my husband in a hospital for operation to restore sight—if possible.

Who said: "Hard times is largely a disturbance north of the left ear"? Let's pretend he's right. Am sending a poem from my native state I think you'll like and I hope to write you something worth while sometime.

BEE TRUE

A CORRECTION

Dear Social Corner Editor: Will you kindly make a correction concerning a few lines misconstrued in my letter of December 6th? The last lines in said letter should have read, in all the meetings I have attended we have usually sat down to a dinner, with either a prayer or singing praises to the Father of us all.

MEADOW LARK.

NOANK

Walter Ellis has returned to St. Louis, Mo., after a visit with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William J. Ellis.

The infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Eli Schoonmaker has been named Donald Edwin.

James I. Maxson of Stonington was a business caller here Friday.

School closed Friday afternoon for the Christmas recess. A special Christmas program, consisting of carols, playlets and recitations, was presented in the various rooms. There was a tree in each room and gifts were exchanged by the pupils. In the lower grades Santa Claus distributed gifts to the younger pupils. There were a large attendance of parents and friends at the exercises.

John A. Rathbun to Wed

Invitations have been received by relatives and friends here to the wedding of Miss Carolyn Crissy, daughter of Mrs. Harlow J. Crissy, and John Alden Rathbun, son of Dr. and Mrs. Walter P. Rathbun, which will take place Thursday, Dec. 25, at 4:30 o'clock at 91 Central avenue, Fredonia, N. Y. A reception will follow at 5 o'clock at Shorewood Country club, Dunkirk, N. Y. Mr. Rathbun is well known in the village, having spent a number of summers here. He is the grandson of Capt. and Mrs. Walter P. Rathbun and Mrs. Ada Fitch.

J. R. Kelly of Providence was a caller in the village Friday.

Christmas Sunday Program

The program has been arranged by Mrs. Hope Peterson, Miss Guerinna Bracci and Franklin Rathbun.

ECHOES FROM THE LODGE ROOM

A. O. H. AUXILIARY

"[illegible] to keep up the beautiful [illegible] of our Irish ancestors," was [illegible] of an address by Miss Daisy Lord, state organizer of the L. A., A. O. H., at the installation of the officers of Meriden auxiliary last Sunday. Miss Lord told of the manner in which Christmas and St. Stephen's day are celebrated in Ireland. She added that one of the great works of the auxiliary is the keeping alive in all Americans of Irish blood a knowledge of the customs, literature and art of their Irish ancestors. The statewide membership drive of the Ladies' Auxiliary, which ends February 1, 1931, is meeting with great success. Many auxiliaries have already reported a large increase in membership.

KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS

To New Haven, the headquarters of the Knights of Columbus' employment service, come encouraging reports from all over the country. In Delaware, Right Rev. Edmund J. Fitzmaurice, bishop of Wilmington, is starting a diocesan building program which will cost more than a quarter of a million dollars and give work to many men.

In New York, each district deputy has made a survey of his district and the information has been turned over to State Deputy Walter A. Lynch. Through chapters, subordinate councils and the state council, the New York Knights are speeding up job-finding.

In Massachusetts, representatives of councils have already met with State Deputy Joseph M. Kirby and have pledged themselves enthusiastically to the work of listing jobs and the jobless and of bringing them together.

Ohio members at the request of State Deputy Ray Miller have begun a systematic listing on the unemployed also a job canvass. Subordinate councils are also developing splendid programs to meet the situation.

MODERN WOODMEN

Ionic Camp 7694, Modern Woodmen of America, at their meeting Dec. 2nd in the A. O. H. hall, elected the officers for the insuing year. A large number of members were present. These officers were elected: Consul, John Fitzgerald; advisor, George C. Shefer; clerk, William N. Sandberg; banker, William J. Banfield; escort, William R. Shaw; watchman, William Shelly; sentry, William B. Barwell; trustee for two years, George C. Shefer; trustee for three years, William Shelly. The officers will be installed at the first meeting in January. The camp meets the first and third Tuesdays of the month. A banner year is expected with these able officers at the head of the camp.

ODD FELLOWS

The regular meeting of Uncas lodge, No. 11, I. O. O. F., was held on Monday evening, December 15, with a slightly larger attendance than usual. Routine business was transacted and nomination of officers for the ensuing term were made.

At the next regular meeting to be held Monday evening, there will be an opportunity for further nominations.

ODD LADIES

The regular meeting of the Loyal Victory lodge, No. 4, I. O. O. L. M. U., was held in Steiner's hall, Thursday evening with Noble Grand Charlotte Schmidt in the chair. Two applications for membership were accepted. The officers were elected for the coming term as follows: Noble grand, Edna Schmidt; vice grand, Gertrude Alquist; elective secretary, Ethel Kendell; warden, Beatrice Arbuckle; inside garde, Dorothy Hunt. The next meeting falling on the first day of January will be postponed until the second day of January.

DAUGHTERS OF VETERANS

The regular meeting of Clara Barton Tent, No. 7, Daughters of Union Veterans of the Civil War, was held at the Buckingham, Tuesday evening, with the president, Mrs. Elizabeth J. Bogue, presiding. The meeting was very brief with a short business session which was immediately followed by a Christmas entertainment under the direction of the committee, Mrs. Edith Armstrong, chairman. Carols were sung under the leadership of Mrs. Helena M. T. Church and there were readings and Christmas recitations by Mrs. Georgiana Keen, Misses Dorothy Brinkmann, Alice Potter, Marie Brayman, Helen Curran, Lucy Gray MacDougal, Florence Tilly and Gladys Newberry.

A very merry Santa Claus appeared to help distribute the numerous gifts on the brightly lighted tree. Refreshments were served by the members of the losing teams in the Red, White and Blue contest, Miss Lucy Gray MacDougall, chairman. There were many guests from the allied patriotic orders of the city, and all enjoyed the evening of Yuletide cheer.

The next meeting of the tent will be the installation of the new officers for 1931, and all incoming and outgoing officers are asked to wear white.

MOOSEHEART LEGION

At the last meeting of women of Mooseheart Legion it was voted to hold the last meeting in December, Tuesday, Dec. 30. It was voted to hold a Christmas tree and Nona Willett was appointed chairman by Senior Regent Margaret Comire. Each member who did not draw a name is requested to bring a gift.

COMPANION OF THE FOREST

Nevins-Carver circle, No. 1235, held their regular meeting Monday evening in Foresters' hall with Chief Companion Nellie Don presiding. In the election of officers the following were elected for the coming year: Chief companion, Annabell Emback; Sub chief companion, Flora Gilchrist; chaplain, Johanna Gelino; recording secretary, Teresa Watters; financial secretary, Margaret Comire; treasurer, Mabel Goldberg; right guide, Rose Kennedy; left guide, Bridget Clemene; inner guard, Ellen Smith; outer guard, Marion Bjork. They will be installed at the last meeting in January. After the business meeting a Christmas party was held with a tree with gifts for each one present. Refreshments of sandwiches, cake and coffee were served.

UNITED ITALIAN SOCIETY

KNIGHT ELECTED PRESIDENT OF NEW ENGLAND COUNCIL

HARTFORD, Conn., December 19—Harry C. Knight of New Haven, president of the Southern New England Telephone company, was elected president of the New England council, all-New England development organization, at its annual business session here today. John S. Lawrence of Boston was re-elected treasurer of the council, and Dudley Harmon was re-elected executive vice president.

These officers were elected on motion of Edward S. French, president of the Boston and Main railroad, and chairman of the council's nominating committee.

HARRY C. KNIGHT
President S. N. E. T. Co., Elected President of New England Council

Mr. Knight is a charter member of the council, having been elected to membership by the Connecticut delegates to the first New England conference in 1925. Mr. Lawrence was first president of the council, serving for three years, and is now completing his second year as treasurer. Mr. Harmon has served as executive vice president since 1926.

Mr. Knight's election makes him the third president the council has had. He succeeds Redfield Proctor, former governor of Vermont, who is completing two terms as chief executive of the council.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Strand Theatre

The curious nicknames of the Marx Brothers, who will appear on the Strand theatre screen, matinee and evening, in their second Paramount talking comedy, "Animal Crackers," are explained thus:

Groucho Marx, who started life as Julius, got his name from the disposition he displayed when approached for a loan — or so his brothers explain it.

Harpo really is Arthur, but his performance on the harp won him his stage cognomen.

Chico once was Leonard — but he became fond of poultry.

Zeppo, or Herbert, received his name from his brothers who insist that in boyhood he resembled a circus freak of that name.

Hillcrest Theatre

In addition to Miriam Hopkins, Carole Lombard, Ilka Chase, Frank Morgan and Charles Starrett, a quartet of well-known stage and screen players are seen in the cast of "Fast and Loose" the Hillcrest theatre attraction for Sunday.

Henry Wadsworth, remembered for his excellent portrayal of the sailor in "Applause;" Winifred Harris, veteran stage actress; Harry Mestayer, formerly a Belesco star, and David Hutcheson, one of Broadway's favorite English actors, are in the cast.

An exceptionally fine group of short features help round out this program. Here's another Paramount that hasn't played Norwich.

As usual, there will be a matinee at 2 p. m., and two shows at night, at 6:30 and 8:30.

Tuesday—Lois Moran, in "The Dancers."

New barges of the Mississippi-Warrior line will receive names of famous river characters such as Mark Twain, Huckleberry Finn, Tom Sawyer, Prairie Belle and Jim Bludsoe.

MARKET WAS BUOYANT YESTERDAY, BUT THE TRADING VOLUME FELL OFF

NEW YORK, Dec. 19—(AP)—The stock market plugged along quietly today and for the third successive session was able to report progress.

Net gains, indeed, were somewhat larger on the average than yesterday's, chiefly because of a sudden buoyancy to the rails, but the trading volume fell off. Sales totaled 2,270,360 shares, or about a million less than on Thursday.

Bonds enjoyed another spirited advance, which was especially impressive in the carrier liens. Commodities steadied, with a rally of nearly half a cent in bar silver the feature.

Having lost the exuberance attending the rally, the share market settled back to view the situation a little more calmly. With a violent bull movement rather out of the question, bears declined to be pushed into active covering, although they did get busy in the rails when the spurt in that group started.

Unconfirmed reports that four of the large eastern roads were near some sort of an agreement on consolidation received wide circulation, and the market appeared to put considerable credence in them. In addition, there was a lively investment demand for leading issues whose dividends are likely to weather the depression. The net result was a 2 to 10 point advance in the rail group. Buying of the steel and motion picture shares became fairly active in the afternoon, when the day's best prices were reached, but the utilities declined to take part.

The weekly trade reviews spoke favorably of the better forward inquiry noted in the steel industry. Dun's said this progress was "a promise of better conditions to come," and tended, "in some measure to modify the unsatisfactory reports from most other quarters." As for the general state of trade, this publication noted that "holiday distribution, although active in some cases, reveals the curbing effect of the diminishing public purchasing power caused by the unusual circumstances of the economic readjustment." Taking much the same view, Bradstreet's reported that although an increasing number of markets report a buying volume equal to a year ago, the value of trade is "generally conceded to be well below last year."

The strength of the rails discouraged activity on the selling side. Gossip concerning a potential corner in Auburn Auto was discredited and the stock, ex-dividend moved less violently than yesterday, although its range was about 10 points. The net change was a 2 point loss.

Jersey Central, with a 10 point advance, led the rails. Not far behind came Norfolk and Western, 9 3-4 higher, and Union Pacific, up 7 1-2. St. Louis Southwestern, Texas and Pacific, Lehigh Valley, Baltimore and Ohio, New York Central, and Atlantic Coast Line, gained roughly, 5 to 6, while many others rose 2 to 3.

U. S. Steel climbed to 141 1-2, meeting a bid for 10,000 shares at 140 on the way. Closing at 140 7-8, its advance for the day was 1 1-2. American Can, American Tobacco "B", Eastman, General Motors, Standard Oil of New Jersey, Westinghouse, Warner Brothers Pictures, Loew's and Paramount, were in a group that improved 1 to 1 1-2. American Telephone, selling without the $2.25 dividend, made a high of 180, but lost 3-4 net. General Electric, Anaconda, Bethlehem Steel, Consolidated Gas and Kennecott, were mostly steady.

Wheat, closing 1-8 lower to 1-4 higher in the new futures, was firm, reflecting small December contract deliveries, forecasts of unfavorable rains in Argentina and a better export inquiry. Corn was up nominally. A sharp decrease in country offerings was reported. Cotton sagged 3 to 9 points.

The rise in silver rallied exchanges based on that metal, but European rates were a trifle easy. New York banks received $7,000,000 in gold from Canada and further imports are expected tomorrow. The Canadian dollar was steady.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET

CHICAGO, Dec. 19—(AP)—Rapid right-about-face action jerked wheat and corn back today after a tumble that sent July wheat down to the lowest prices since 1901. A late buying spurt, which found the wheat market temporarily bare of selling orders and was associated with incorrect bullish forecasts of a government crop report, influenced price rallies. However, the government estimates of winter wheat and rye acreage, which were received after the close indicated only a small decrease of wheat seeding and pointed to an increase of rye.

Wheat closed irregular 1-2c net lower to 1-4 higher than yesterday. Corn closed unchanged to 5-8c up, oats 1-8 at 1c advanced, and provisions from 2c setback to a rise of 3c.

BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, Dec. 19—(AP)—Bargain hunters did some more shopping in the bond market today, bidding so vigorously for recent depressed issues that the average gains were the largest of any session this year.

Seldom has the bond market seen such a strong rally as was born yesterday and continued through today's session with scores of issues rising 1 and 2 points. The most spectacular comeback has been staged by second grade railroad obligations where advances for the day averaged about 2 points and in some instances ranged as high as 5. Prime investment rails and some of the utilities which usually fluctuate narrowly were wide movers, and gains of a point were not uncommon in issues selling around par.

Turnover for the day was about $11,500,000 and while not up to the best of the week was encouraging to bond circles whose recent concern for the unexpected crash of prices has given way to renewed confidence that a rising bond market will develop next year.

Investment houses said banks and insurance companies and some individuals had become active on the buying side after being convinced that the bottom of the current decline had been reached.

Pressure against foreign bonds diminished and in some instances was supplanted by buying, especially in recently depressed Latin Americans. United States governments were steady to firm.

The rise for 30 domestic bonds in two days amount to 2.2 points. And for 10 rails, 2.7 points. As gauged by the average the advance of 1.2 in the composite average today is the best of the year.

Some of the gains in rails were unusually large.

Frisco 4 1-2s climbed 5, Spokane International 5s, six, Norfolk Southern 5s, 5 1-2, Missouri Pacific 5s, Lehigh Valley 4s, Erie 5s, Great Northern 4 1-2s E. St. Paul 5s of 1975 gained 3 to 4 points each. Convertibles moved up with stocks, about as much.

THE CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, Dec. 19—(AP)—The recovery of curb market shares progressed through a third session at a more leisurely pace today.

The list worked irregularly higher, but gains were mostly narrow. Total sales were only 520,100 shares, or about 240,000 less than yesterday's.

Firmness of Standard of Indiana, was a feature of the petroleum issues. This stock moved up a point in active trading. Vacuum gained as much, but Gulf reacted a couple of points. Cities Service sagged, but met late support, and closed steady.

Electric Bond & Share advanced to 43 1-4, and closed at 42 1-2, up 5-8 net. Electric Power Associates "A" was fairly active, rising a point. American Gas & Electric lost 2 points then rallied to close a fraction higher. United Light "B" which is rarely traded, moved up to 69 7-8, a net gain of 12 7-8. The class "A" stock, however, lost 3-4 of a point.

Better export sales of copper may have been a factor in the firmer tone in these issues, Noranda, Newmont and Mayflower Associates, all gained about a point. The coal issues, Glen Alden and Lehigh, each advanced 2 points. Western Air Express rallied a point, but Aviation Corporation of the Americas sagged as much to a new low. Deere lost 2. Powdrell and Alexander spurted 3 points in a few sales.

Among the investment trust and holding company issues, All-American General gained nearly 3, while Continental Shares convertible preferred lost 4 1-2. Pennroad gained a fraction, in sympathy with strength of the rails on the big board.

Treasury Balance

WASHINGTON, Dec. 19 — (AP) — Treasury receipts for December 17 were $304,274,413.04; expenditures $296,524,605.87; balance $351,372,832.61.

NEW YORK, Dec. 19—(AP)—Commercial failures for the week totaled 604, an increase of 42 over the 562 insolvencies reported in the previous week, R. G. Dun and Company says. For the corresponding week last year the total was 498.

Stockholders of the Diamond Match company have approved the plan for reincorporation and authorized sale of the company's assets, property and business to the Diamond Match company of Maryland, organized under the plan. A meeting of stockholders has been called for January 13 to vote on dissolution of the old company.

The recent decline in stock prices has changed Wall street's attitude toward cheap stocks. Shields and Company, members of the New York Stock exchange, announced today that clients would be permitted to carry on margin stocks selling as low as $7 a share, against $10 heretofore. In times of high stock prices, low priced issues have been regarded with suspicion, but splitups, together with the recent protracted decline, have reduced stocks of some prominent companies into what used to be regarded as the "cat and dog" class. Brokers also point out that the deflation has some issues below the value of net quick assets.

F. W. Grand-Silver stores has applied to the New York Stock exchange to list 163,856 additional common shares, of which 160,000 are to be issued in connection with the recent underwriting by a banking group of $8,000,000 six per cent, 10 year debentures, the proceeds of which were used to acquire the Canadian units of Metropolitan Chain Stores and to give Grand-Silver additional working capital.

A Letter To Santa

Dear Santa Claus:
Please bring to me
A tiny little Christmas tree.
I've never had one yet, you see,
And I just thought if I
Would write a note to you, and say,
"Please don't forget me Christmas Day,"
You wouldn't pass me by.

I wrote you last year—don't you know?
But maybe you were busy, though,
Or else your reindeers wouldn't go—
I don't know what it was,
But anyhow, you never came—
And I am sure I signed my name—
I'm Jimmy, Santa Claus!

I'm Jimmy Moore—have you forgot?
I think you have—you've never brought
One thing to me—but I just thought
If, once more, I would write
A note, and ask you please to bring
Not very much—just any thing—
Well—I just thought you might.

I'd like some toys, but I suppose
I'd better ask, instead, for clothes.
And Santa Claus, my little toes
Stick right out in the air,
And gee-ma-nee! On days like these,
I tell you what, I nearly freeze!
But no one seems to care.

I guess that's all I'd better say—
But, won't you, please, come past our way,
And give me one real Christmas Day?
Forget that we are poor!
Our house is where it always was;
Try hard to find it, Santa Claus!
That's all.
From Jimmy Moore,

Boil It Down

Whatever you have to say, my friend,
Whether witty, or grave, or gay,
Condense as much as ever you can,
And say in the readiest way.
And, whether you write on rural affairs,
Or particular things in town,
Just a word of friendly advice—
Boil it down!

For, if you go spluttering over a page
When a couple of lines would do,
Your butter is spread so much, you see,
That the bread looks plainly through.
So, when you have a story to tell,
And would like a little renown,
To make quite sure of your wish, my friends,
Boil it down!

When writing an article for the press,
Whether prose or verse, just try
To utter your thoughts in the fewest words,
And let it be crisp and dry:
And, when it is finished, and you suppose
It is done exactly brown,
Just look it over again, and then—
Boil it down!

For editors do not like to print
An article lazily long,
And the general reader does not care
For a couple of yards of song.
So gather your wits in smallest space
If you'd win the author's crown
And every time you write, my friend,
Boil it down!

Anonymous.

HUMOR OF THE DAY

Nell—The football season is here again.

Lil—Yes; I notice Bert's bought another twelve-passenger roadster.—Exchange.

Friend—Whom does your little son look like?

Happy Father—His eyes are mine, the nose is my wife's and his voice, I think, he got from our auto horn.—R. R. News.

"That haughty young man must be one of our millionaires," said the inquisitive stranger.

"No," answered Miss Cayenne. "He has all the airs, but none of the millions."—Washington Star.

Shaw—How's business with you, old man?

Pshaw—Oh, lookin' up.

Shaw—What do you mean, lookin' up?

Pshaw—Well, it's flat on its back, isn't it?—Pathfinder.

"Dearest, I love you. Since the dawn of creation, since the birth of this world, since the beginning of time, I have known and loved you. Darling, will you be mine?"

"Oh, Tom, this is so sudden."—Optimist.

"When we first got married my wife and I quarreled for a year about whether we should buy an automobile or a horse and buggy."

"How did you settle it?"

"We compromised on a baby carriage."—Exchange.

The reporter was sent to write up a charity ball. Next day the editor called him to his desk.

"Look here, Scribbler, what do you mean by this? 'Among the most beautiful girls was Horatio Lucian Dingley.' Why, you crazy idiot! Old Dingley isn't a girl—and besides, he's one of our principal stockholders."

"I can't help that," returned the realistic reporter. "That's where he was."—Montreal Star.

A whistling prodigy at the age of ten months is Ralph Emerson Hipple, of Harrisburg, Pa. The musical ability of the youngster was discovered by his mother when she investigated the source of the whistling she heard and found her son in his crib trilling dulcet tones through puckered lips. Since then he has practiced his music lesson daily without parental urging.

Mr. and Mrs. Glen Stradley, ranchers living near Colburn, Idaho, were faced with a problem early one morning when they awoke and found a 400-pound black bear perched on the foot of their bed. Mrs. Stradley said "scat," but bruin held his perch and blinked in wonderment at all the confusion. Then two shots from Mr. Stradley's rifle killed the bear.

STREET DISPUTE OVER LOAN RESULTS IN NEW LONDON ARREST

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Dec. 19.— A row over an alleged loan resulted in the arrest tonight of Nick Halifteras, 48 Reed street. He was released upon Peter Woviotis, Bank street merchant, qualifying on his bond of $100 and he will be in the police court tomorrow. Halifteras was arrested by Patrolman John Sullivan, upon complaint of William Watrous, 33 Hamilton street. Watrous said that he was walking on the street about 7:30 when he came upon Halifteras and the latter demanded $10, which, he claimed, Watrous owed him. A dispute arose and during the argument, Halifteras, it is claimed, seized Watrous by the coat collar and started beating him. During the battle, Watrous fell to the sidewalk, with Halifteras on top of him, and Watrous was struck several blows. Halifteras then went to his home. Watrous sought Officer Sullivan to whom complaint was made. The officer went to Halifteras' house and obtaining admission arrested him. Halifteras challenged the officer's authority to enter the house for the purpose of arrest, but the challenge was unheeded and the man was arrested. Watrous' face displayed a slight laceration, which, he said, was caused by one of Halifteras' blows.

The post office sub-station on Division street is now employing several extra helpers in order to handle the large amount of packages being received for forwarding during the Christmas rush. Three watchman, each performing duty of eight hours daily, are employed there. They are, Patrick McCaffrey, Frederick Malcolm and Walter Penhallow.

Struck Ansonia Officer

The police of Derby this evening requested the police departments throughout the state to be on the lookout for a hit-and-run type of driver in an automobile which carries markers, A—6505. The automobile hit an Ansonia police officer and did not stop, the driver speeding away.

FIVE CONTINUED CASES FOR HEARINGS TODAY

The session of the police court tomorrow gives indication of being a lengthy one, for there are five continued cases that will be called, in addition to one which was continued from today.

Leroy Buffington, 23, of 59 Connecticut avenue, a laborer, is charged with reckless driving. He was driving a motorcycle on Williams street the night of Sept. 24. The auto did not have a light displayed and it ran down Miss Catherine Ganey, 104 Williams street, employed as housekeeper by Edmund D. Barker, of Channing street. Miss Ganey was knocked down and suffered a fractured arm and leg, besides innumerable bruises and contusions. She only recently was discharged at Lawrence Memorial hospital.

Sterry A. Weaver, 32, of 29 Spring street, is charged with embezzlement. Weaver was arrested Nov. 28 on a warrant charging him with taking about $800 of the funds of his former employers, the Groton and Stonington Traction Co. It is claimed that during a period of last summer and when Weaver was employed as cashier by the company he appropriated to his own use the money alleged to have been stolen.

Lloyd Potter, 58 Howard street, employed as a taxicab driver, is charged with non-support. He was arrested Nov. 21.

Ernest H. J. Kreth, submarine base, is charged with driving while under the influence of liquor. Kreth was arrested last Wednesday night. He was driving southerly on Ocean avenue and near the corner of Plant street, the car suddenly went to the opposite side of the avenue, mounted the sidewalk and then across two lawns, one at the residence of William J. Sparks, 576 Ocean avenue. Continuing between the house of Sparks and a neighbor, the auto crashed against a garage and then ripped away a section of decorative lattice, besides destroying shrubbery.

Irving P. Emlott, Jr., a clerk, residing at 48 Sherman street, is charged with reckless driving, he having been arrested Dec. 12. The auto Emlott was driving on Crystal avenue hit William Kiley, 3, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Kiley, 55 Rosemary street. The child sustained severe head injuries and is still a patient at Lawrence Memorial hospital. Witnesses of the accident said that Emlott, who is employed by the Standard Oil company, was driving at a fast rate of speed.

Take Out Marriage Licenses

The following have applied for marriage licenses at the office of the city clerk: Charles E. Pendleton, Jr., factory worker, of Westbrook, and Thelma O. Daniels, factory worker, of East Lyme; Peter Salegna, 78 Blackhall street, a barber, and Angeline aYuilla, seamstress, of 45 Cutler street.

An improvement was noted today in the condition of Howard Joyce, 59, of Broad street extension, Waterford, a patient at Lawrence Memorial hospital suffering from bichloride of mercury poisoning, which form of poison Joyce swallowed yesterday in an attempt at suicide. Joyce, who committed the rash act during a fit of despondency because he was unable to obtain work, is expected to recover, although he is not out of danger.

Gurdon S. Allyn, Jr., of Mystic, is among the students of the University of Pennsylvania whose selection to the boards of undergraduate publications has been announced at the annual pre-Christmas elections. Allyn is one of six students chosen members of the business board of the Punch Bowl, the campus humorous periodical. Allyn is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Gurdon Allyn of Mason's Island, Mystic, and is a sophomore in the Wharton School of Finance and Commerce. He is also active in swimming and a member of Sigma Chi fraternity. Prior to entering the university, Allyn attended Bulkeley high school and Suffield, Conn., school, taking an active part in the student life at each school.

Vote $10 For Charity

Joynt assembly, Catholic Ladies of Columbus, voted $5 toward the Christmas tree at St. Mary's school and $10 toward charity work in St. Mary's parish at its meeting last night. The $10 will be turned over to Rev. Dr. Timothy M. Crowley for distribution. Plans were made for installation night, Jan. 15.

The laundry of Lee Sheung, 87 1-2 Broad street, was entered last night during the absence of the proprietor. The plunder obtained consisted of $20, mostly specie. Entrance was obtained by forcing a window. When Sheung returned and discovered his loss he reported the theft to Patrolman Louis Pine.

Stanislaus Anydeski, of North Stonington, was arrested in that town yesterday by State Police Officer John Smith, charged with breach of the peace. Anydeski engaged in a quarrel with Michael Cavanaugh and before the row ended, the former used several stones with Cavanaugh as the target. One of the stones shattered Cavanaugh's glass. The latter made complaint against the stone-thrower and Anydeski's arrest followed.

FATHER TRIES TO KIDNAP HIS LITTLE DAUGHTERS

Charles Lazzara, 33, of 97 Wall street, Torrington, and Anthony J. Bonasera, 24, of 30 Park avenue, Torrington, were arrested today, charged with breach of the peace in an attempt of the men to kidnap Lazzara's two little daughters. The men were locked up and will be in the police court tomorrow. Lazzara and his wife are estranged and the latter and her children are residing in New London. This morning Lazzara, accompanied by Bonasera came to this city by automobile and going to the vicinity of the parochial school of St. Mary's Star of the Sea church, awaited the arrival of the girls, who were on their way home from school. When the girls reached a point near where an automobile was waiting, Lazzara and Bonasera attempted to force the children into it for the purpose of driving them to Torrington. The cries of the girls attracted the attention of Automobile Patrol Officers William Corcoran and George Laboue. The men were then arrested.

E. Oliver Winship has sold a building lot on Ocean avenue to Thomas Occhialini.

Timothy Sullivan, of 8 Williams street; Mrs. Hyman Albert, 37 Franklin street; Daniel Miner, 153 Smith street, Groton; Mrs. John Leiper, 23 Starr street; Mrs. Raymond Bailey, 116 Smith street, Groton; Daniel Callahan, Garfield avenue; Mrs. Thomas Gatheral, 180 Crystal avenue, patients at Lawrence Memorial hospital, were discharged today.

A certificate was filed at the office of the city clerk today by Ethel Browne, of 22 Hill street, giving power of attorney to Leonora Brown.

Hunting and fishing licenses for 1931 have been received at the office of the city clerk and are now ready for issuance.

At the annual meeting of Union lodge of Masons last night, attended by a large number of members, election of officers resulted as follows: Worshipful master, Robert Heath; senior warden, Arthur M. Card; junior warden, Ralph D. Briggs; treasurer, Frederick C. Burrows; secretary, Robert H. Byles; trustee for three years, William H. Cone; trustee of trust funds, Alfred J. Phillips. The following officers were appointed: Senior deacon, Donald F. Cowan; junior deacon, James Greig; marshal, William T. Serafin; senior steward, John D. Freeman; junior steward, William D. Taylor; chaplain, Charles C. Perkins; associate chaplain, Harry B. Hempstead; organist, George H. Schofield; tyler, Hiram F. Lewis. The installation of the newly elected officers will occur on St. John's night Tuesday night, Dec. 30, and the installing officer will be State Grand Master Elbert L. Darbie, Danielson.

Miss Margaret Boordsen, employed at 223 Ocean avenue, reported to the police this afternoon that while shopping in Chidsey's, State street, a thief stole her purse which contained $8.

OBITUARY

Edward J. Carney

Edward J. Carney, 29, of 11 Crescent street, son of John and Margaret Carney, died Thursday night at Lawrence-Memorial hospital where he had been a patient but a comparatively short time. Besides his parents, Mr. Carney is survived by four brothers, Harry and Robert Carney of New York and John and William Carney, and by a sister, Miss Margaret Carney, of this city.

Commissioner of Motor Vehicles Robbins B. Stoeckel today ordered the suspension of the drivers' licenses of William Bunnell, 137 Howard street; Frank C. Hamilton, 21 Fitch avenue, and Henry E. Cushman, 9 Glenwood avenue. Bunnell was recently convicted of driving while under the influence of liquor in the Montville justice court.

Steal Christmas Wreaths

A woman who refused to reveal her identity this afternoon communicated by telephone with police headquarters and said that thieves had begun stealing wreaths from residences on Vauxhall street. She said that several wreaths that had been hung on the exterior of residences were stolen last night.

Walter L. Smith, of Chesterfield, was arrested yesterday afternoon by State Police Officer Frederick Johnson, charged with intoxication and breach of the peace. The prisoner was brought to New London and locked up. Smith became drunk during the afternoon and went to the residence of a woman named Morgan. There he became abusive and aggressive and to such an extent that Mrs. Morgan requested Smith's arrest.

Plainfield Man Freed

But two cases claimed the attention of Judge Daniel M. Cronin in the police court today. Francis X. Contu, of Plainfield, was charged with violation of the state motor vehicle law in driving with improper markers. He was arrested last night by Automobile Patrol Officer Clarence Martin. The testimony introduced was not such as to warrant Contu's conviction and he was found not guilty.

Palmer Griswold, of Broad street extension, Waterford, was charged with parking an automobile owned by Theodore Constantine, of Rosemary street, in such a manner as to block a fire hydrant, also to block traffic. He was arrested by Patrolman John Sullivan. Griswold did not appear in court and the case was continued until tomorrow.

COAST GUARD ACAD. BIDS OPENED AT WASHINGTON

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Dec. 19.—Bids for the construction of the United States Coast Guard academy, Mohegan avenue, were opened today at Washington. Sixteen firms sought to obtain the contract. The lowest bid was made by Murch Brothers Construction Co., of St. Louis, whose bid was $1,818,000. Capt. H. G. Hamlet, superintendent of the academy, was present at the opening of the bids. The cost of the academy is $2,500,000 of which amount $850,000 is already available, having been included in the deficiency bill. Included in the treasury department's budget is an appropriation of $1,640,000, which is sufficient to permit the entire construction of the academy. Recent amendment to the appropriation bill makes the remainder of the money available for use at any time it is appropriated.

SEALER CLAIMS BREAD TESTS FAR BELOW WEIGHT

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Dec. 19. —Sealer of Weights and Measures William Gunn today made complaint to Prosecuting Attorney Max Boyer that the Eastern bakeries, Pawtucket, R. I., producers of Bonus bread, were selling bread in this city that was below weight. The prosecutor has communicated with the bread manufacturers and the latter were warned that if the practice of selling below weight is continued prosecution will result. The short weight was discovered this week by the sealer of weights and measures when he visited three stores and selected three loaves from each store of Bonus bread. The bread was weighed in the presence of a notary public and with each loaf represented to contain 20 ounces, one loaf weighed but 16 1-4 ounces, another 16 3-8 ounces and a third 17 1-4 ounces.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Palace Theatre

Now playing at the Palace theatre and running through Tuesday, "Tol'able David" from the immortal classic of Joseph Hergesheimer, starring Richard Cromwell, the screen's latest sensation. A dramatic plot, fascinating situations, powerful action and a poignant quality make this the most enjoyable feature of the season.

This tale of the Virginia Mountain folk is primarily concerned with the development of a boy, who was considered just "tol'able," to manhood. When catastrophe comes to his home and he has to assume the responsibilities of a full-grown man, the young boy rises to the situation. The characterization is an inspiration. In fact, every one of the characters, which are by the way interpreted by such well-known delineators as Noah Beery, Helen Ware, Edmund Breese, Henry B. Walthal and Harlan E. Knight, are handled with finished artistry.

The title role is played by Richard Cromwell, an unknown, who was suddenly thrust into the limelight when he was chosen from many contestants to play this choice characterization. Well, judging from this performance alone, a brilliant future is in store for this boy. He plays "David" with rare charm and a keen appreciation of the famous character. The feminine lead opposite him is played with finese by Joan Peers.

Our Gang Comedy, "Love Business," two Vitaphone varieties, and the latest news go to make this the most complete bill of entertainment ever offered at this popular playhouse.

Broadway Theatre

In looking at the thrilling sand storm in "Hell's Island," the powerful dramatic production starting today for a four-day stay at the Broadway theatre, it is not the handiwork of studio technicians you are marveling at, but the devastating power of Mother Nature herself.

Six hundred people, including among them the principal players, Jack Holt, Ralph Graves and Dorothy Sebastian and Director Edward Sloman, went on location to Yuma, Arizona, for the making of the desert sequences in "Hell's Island," a story of the French Foreign Legion laid in Northern Africa and the penal colony at Hell's Island. Some of the most exciting events of the trip took place during a terrific sandstorm. This blew up quite unexpectedly, but far from causing a discontinuance of work, it served as an added impetus. Nothing could be more typical of the country depicted, North Africa, than this natural disturbance of the elements. The director was quick to realize that an unusual opportunity had come his way. Thus, while tents blew down, and those not immediately needed in scenes made for shelter, the sound truck was drawn up closer and shooting proceeded at top speed.

Jack HOLT
"HELL'S ISLAND"

To say that the technical staff worked with difficulty during this desert whirlwind is to put it mildly. So permeated was the air with the particles of sand that respiration was well nigh impossible. In order to breathe with any comfort at all it was necessary to protect the mouth and nostrils with handkerchiefs, which were tied about the head, bandit fashion. Cotton was stuffed around the rims of glasses to keep the eyes from being blinded. The camera crew, too, had its troubles. For it required no small effort on their part to keep the finely ground lenses of the decilate instruments free from the rough grains and in readiness for shooting.

Many other difficulties had to be overcome before the shooting was completed. The picture is a result of endless care and work.

GREENEVILLE

SUNDAY SCHOOL CLASS ANNUAL XMAS PARTY

The Sunday school classes of the Greeneville Congregational church held their annual Christmas tree party in the Sunday school room of the church Friday evening with a large attendance of the children and their parents. Santa Claus made his appearance and told how hard he had labored in order to have all of the gifts ready before Christmas. In the center of the room was a beautiful Christmas tree all lighted with electric lights of many colors. The room was very prettily decorated in the season's colors and colored candles were also placed in their proper places. The children received many useful gifts of books, ties, games, and boxes of Christmas candy from dear old Santa.

The committee in charge of the successful event were as follows, namely: Miss Natalie Service, chairman; Miss Esther Chapman, Miss Margaret West, Mrs. Jennie Young, Miss Harriet Anderson, Miss Alice Brown, Mrs. John McNeely, Mrs. Campbell, Miss Ida Luther, Mrs. A. Torrance, and Lloyd H. Thompson. Miss Service accompanied the singers on the piano while the announcements were made by Mr. Thompson. The program was as follows:

Hymn, Hark, the Herald Angels Sing; prayer and Scripture, by Rev. Charles H. Ricketts, pastor; recitation, John Hanks and Leonard Prentice; My Piece, Margerie Reid; We Welcome the Holly, Isabel Mitchell, Sally Morrow, Phyllis Turner, Lucille Kirker; A Touch of Christmas, Clifford Rothwell; Christmas Candles, Rosalind Hewitt; A Merry Christmas, Elinor Henderson, Myrtle Hurst, Flora Hurst; A Christmas Wish, David Brown; What the Holly Says, John Morton, Wesley Brown, Billy Buchanan, Joseph Fraser; It Came Upon the Midnight Clear, Everett Drescher; A Present for Santa Claus, Florita Pakalius; Daddy's Purse, Walter Lewis; Glad, Gladder, Gladdest, Arlene Dilworth; Early Rising, Alice Fraser; Confidence, Walter Slater; hymn, We Three Kings of Orient Are; A Trade, Caroline Hewitt; Christmas Pullman Porters, Billy Ellison, Billy Abel, William Reid, Harold Bechant, Fred Lewis; Mary's Lamb, Elaine Dickerman; A Christmas Thought, Clayton Smiley; I Wonder Why, Marguerite Dilworth; A Friend to Mrs. Santa, Ruth Fleming; O Come All Ye Faithful, Rose Morton; Helen Anderson; A Pledge to Give, Isobel Turner, Ruth Sauter, Hilda Burke; Short and Sweet, George Morrow; A Part for Everybody, Ruth Quinley; Her Choice, Ruth Abel; Merry Christmas, Betty Dickerman; hymn, The First Noel; Queer Arithmetic, Jeannie Mitchell; Christmas Wish, Elizabeth Geer; Waiting, Milton Sauter; A Strange Dream, Betty Spalding; Snowflakes, Lois Bausch; Upset, Lorraine Prentice; A Terrible Mistake, Josephine Dickerman; Happiest Gifts, Loretta Pionkowski; Closing Thanks, Rose Morton; Dramatization of "O Little Town of Bethlehem," by Miss Luther's and Mrs. Campbell's girls, under the direction of Mrs. L. Prentice.

On Thursday evening, the members of the Woman's guild of St. Andrew's church, to the number of 24, met in the Guild hall of the church for a social time and to commemorate another year of endeavor for Christian work. The proceedings began with supper, which was daintily served and much enjoyed by all present. Mrs. Annie Hall read a very witty and clever toast, in verse, which referred to everyone's good points and forgot the weak ones. This was the hit of the evening. Mrs. Charles Perry also very cleverly read a poem toast of her own composition, which was much appreciated. Rev. E. J. Norris made a brief address of welcome in which he stressed his gratitude for the loyalty and devotion of the guild members in every department of the church's work and earnestly hoped that the year 1931 would witness further achievement in their sphere of church work. The remainder of the evening was spent in games, music and clever original humorous skits devised by the members.

The Missionary society of the Third Baptist church held their Christmas meeting at the home of Mrs. Herbert I. Peckham of Great Plains Wednesday afternoon. The house was very tastefully decorated with Christmas greens, both inside and outside the home. Each member offered a Christmas poem and a thank offering was placed in a mite box. Letters were read telling of the good results and enjoyment afforded the Indians of the Crow reservation in the form of gifts which they received, such as dolls, which were dressed and given by this organization of women, who were also assisted by the young women and children of the church in spreading good cheer. The hostess, who is also the president of the society, served dainty refreshments. During the business meeting it was voted that a substantial amount be given to the holiday fund of the tuberculosis sanatorium at Uncas-on-Thames and also a gift was donated to the Christmas fund for the Salvation Army. Following the business meeting a social hour was enjoyed.

339 MEMBERSHIPS REPORTED IN COUNTY FARM BUREAU CAMPAIGN

Incomplete returns in the New London County Farm Bureau's annual membership campaign showed a total of 339 memberships signed up, according to an announcement made Friday evening by County Agent Walter T. Clark. There are still a number of workers to be heard from and indications are that the 1931 membership will be as large, if not larger than the present membership, 396. The campaign report shows the memberships signed up, as follows:

First section, F. M. Abell, chairman; Bozrah, 4; Colchester, 11; Franklin, 18; Lisbon, 10; Lebanon, 53; Norwich, 21, (partial report); Sprague, 16.

Second section, A. J. Beebe, Niantic, chairman; East Lyme, 10; Groton, 28; Lyme, 8; Montville, 14, (partial); New London, 6; Old Lyme, 4; Salem, 8, (partial); Waterford, 18, (partial).

Third section, Mrs. Marion Hall of Preston Plains, chairman; Griswold, 21; Ledyard, 18, (partial); North Stonington, 31; Preston, 46, (partial); Stonington, 13; Voluntown, 2.

FAREWELL GIFT FOR MRS. JULIA BROCK

A regular meeting of the Ladies' Auxiliary, Div. No. 54, A. O. H., was held Wednesday evening. Mrs. Catherine Sullivan spoke briefly on the membership drive, urging each member to bring in at least one new member in order to compete for a prize. Mrs. Mary McCarthy, chairman of the bean and salad supper committee, reported progress in the sale of tickets. Mrs. Julia Brock, who is to make her home in Hartford, was unanimously elected an honorary member of the auxiliary, to which she has belonged since its organization, having filled the offices of auxiliary president, county president and state treasurer, with honor and credit to the organization.

After the business meeting, a Christmas social was held. Santa Claus, impersonated by Miss Nellie Nagle, distributed presents from a brightly lighted tree. The climax of the evening was reached when a beautiful floor lamp, to which was attached an envelope containing a substantial sum of money was presented to Mrs. Brock, who was visibly affected by the mark of esteem in which she is held. She stated that every time she lights the lamp she will be reminded of the bright light of friendship and affection which actuated the givers.

Refreshments of sandwiches, cup cakes and coffee were served by Mrs. Mary Wickham, Mrs. Annie Brooks, Mrs. Catherine Sullivan and the Misses Dolly Tobin, Catherine Twomey and Jane Breen. Dancing, singing and the playing of games concluded a very enjoyable evening.

REBEKAHS TO INSTALL AT NEXT MEETING

Hope Rebekah lodge, No. 21, held their regular meeting Wednesday evening in Odd Fellows hall, with a large attendance. Routine business was transacted. The following were the elective officers chosen for the year 1931:

Noble grand, Miss Ethel Whitmarsh; vice grand, Mrs. Eliza Walker; recording secretary, Mrs. Ora C. Spencer; financial secretary, Mrs. Bertha Collins; treasurer, Mrs. Ella E. Smith. At this time the annual roll call of members was held and about 150 responded. Then followed a minute of silent prayer in memory of Sisters Jennie Havey, Bessie Raymond, Hattie Parsons and Past President Kate Segar.

At the next meeting the installation of officers will take place. Previous to the meeting a supper will be served. After adjournment of Wednesday evening's meeting Santa Claus distributed gifts to the members.

TO HOLD STATE CONVENTION IN NORWICH NEXT JUNE

The December meeting of the Business and Professional Women's club was held Friday evening with Miss Lucy Abbott at her apartment at the W. W. Backus hospital with an attendance of about 20. At the business session with the president, Miss Bernice Willey, presiding, announcement was made that the annual state convention of the Business and Professional Women's clubs will be held at the Norwich Inn some time in June as the result of a recent vote taken at the last quarterly state meeting. Following the business meeting an informal seasonal entertainment was carried out.

$25 CHECK FOR LOCAL UNEMPLOYMENT FUND

A check for $25 for the unemployment fund has been received by Mayor Lee Roy Robbins from the West End Community association, which represents about 25 per cent of the proceeds of a recent play given by the association. It had been planned to contribute 10 per cent, but the association decided to increase the amount. The check will be turned over to the United Workers.

TAFTVILLE

Final arrangements have been completed for the Christmas party to be given by Peter Gallan post, No. 104, American Legion, and its auxiliary in Ponemah hall on Sunday. The party is being held for the children of all the ex-service men of Taftville and Occum. Although the members of the committee have worked very hard during the week and have sent invitations to 275 children, it is quite possible some may have been overlooked. In this case they may secure invitations from Mrs. Thomas P. Sears of North Fifth avenue or Mrs. Albert Vetter of Norwich avenue.

The annual Christmas tree and entertainment of the Taftville Congregational church school is to be held in the church auditorium Tuesday evening. After the program there is to be a distribution of gifts from the gaily decorated Christmas tree and a visit from Santa Claus.

The T. M. T. M. club held a Christmas party this week and voted to sing Christmas carols in the various sections of the village after the church school entertainment Tuesday evening.

A number of students who are attending out of town schools and colleges are to arrive home over the week end for the holiday recess.

SECOND STREET MAN FINED FOR SPEEDING

In the city court Friday morning, Bennie Rdzewske, 23, of No. 27 Second street, was found guilty of speeding and fined $25 and costs. A charge of failure to grant the right of way preferred against Sigmund Liskiewicz, 23, of No. 402 Central avenue, was nolled. The men were drivers of machines which came together at the junction of North Main street and Central avenue Thursday evening, resulting in injuries to two passengers in the Rdzewske car.

The injured were Miss Alice Lucas of No. 28 Central avenue, who received a broken collarbone and was taken to the Backus hospital, and Miss Helen Lucas, who sustained a severe bump on the forehead over the left eye.

According to testimony given by Officer Howard Coburn, who investigated the crash and made the arrests, marks in the highway revealed that Rdzewske applied his brakes for 82 feet before the collision. Liskiewicz testified that the Second street man was traveling at a speed of 45 miles an hour previous to the crash.

COURT FINES HOYLE ON TWO CHARGES

George Hoyle, 29, of Norwich, was presented in the city court Friday morning on seven charges of violations of the motor vehicle laws, but was only fined on two counts, $25 and costs on each. These were driving a machine without an operator's license or registration. The charges nolled were no number plates, no horn, overloading, no windshield wiper and improper registration. Hoyle was taken into custody on Wednesday on Talman street by Officer Clifford Crary and at the time was driving an Attebury truck overloaded with slab wood.

NORWICH TOWN

MILO LIGHT APPRECIATES SUMMER SERVICES AT LAKE

Rev. George Warren Potter, pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal church and the Gardner lake M. E. church, recently received a letter of appreciation from Milo Light, M. A., dean of men at the State Teachers' college, West Chester, Pa. Mr. Light is owner of Camps Juanita, Adajuan, Cadabo and Tohaci at the lake. It is largely the campers from these camps that fill the church every Sunday during the summer. Mr. Light wrote, "We were all pleased with your services last summer. In fact the campers have stated that the church services were better than any time heretofore. After mailing a letter to my campers and requesting an expression of the camp, the following was in a reply. 'Every Sunday afternoon, rain or shine the camp walks to the community church where the pastor teaches reverence, truth, beauty and goodness. If anyone comes to camp sophisticated, within two weeks he will lose it and become a regular normal boy or girl.'"

Mr. Light sent a check for a generous amount toward the painting fund of the Norwich Town church and he extended an invitation to Rev. Mr. Potter to attend as a guest of honor the camp reunion and banquet to be held Saturday, Dec. 27, at Hotel Martinque.

The John Mason Troop 2, Boy Scouts, connected with the Methodist church, held a meeting Thursday evening in charge of the scoutmaster, Rev. Mr. Potter. The opening ceremony was in charge of the junior assistant scoutmaster, Arthur Bennett. A drill period was in charge of Bugler Edward Jordan. Reports were given by the committee on toys by Scout Frederick Ross. Patrol Leader Clayton Rose reported that the Flying Eagles have secured the greens to decorate the church for Christmas. Senior Patrol Leader Donald Olsen gave a report on plans for the winter camp trip to Lake Oxoboxo Monday and Tuesday following Christmas. The scoutmaster presented each scout a diary.

Methodist Christmas Cantata

At the Methodist Episcopal church Sunday evening at 7:30 the Christmas cantata, "Our Glorious King" will be sung. The cantata is in two parts and will be given under direction of the organist, Mrs. Lewis E. Aldrich. The vested choir will be assisted by Mr. and Mrs. Harry Norrington, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Irish, Miss Florence M. Bennett and Lewis E. Aldrich.

Mrs. Mary E. Stark, of Lebanon, has returned to Norwich Town to pass the winter, and is located at the home of Mrs. Edwin E. Lathrop, of Wauwecus street.

Mrs. Charles F. Geer of 76 West Town street motored to Willimantic Wednesday and called on Mrs. Flora Maine, of Pleasant street, who was a guest of Mrs. Geer on a trip to New London. Recently Mrs. Geer, in company with others, motored to Waterbury and called on her daughter, Mrs. Emma Hazelhurst, formerly of Norwich.

Edith Seaman was leader of the Intermediate C. E. society and Natalie Browning for the junior society at the meeting Tuesday afternoon in the Congregational chapel. The children who attended brought several gifts to be given away to other children for Christmas.

Had Christmas Party

In the chapel Wednesday evening, the Intermediate C. E. society held a Christmas party with the social committee in charge, Eleanor Palmer, John Laskowski, Elizabeth Browning and Olive Beebe. A feature of the evening's program was a prettily decorated and lighted tree, from from which every one present received a gift, exchanging with others. During the evening games were played and the children sang carols. The social committee served sandwiches and cocoa, also candy.

The president, Mrs. William Weaver, was hostess to Dorcas Home Missionary society of the Methodist church Thursday afternoon, the members assembling at her home on Huntington Green, for the December meeting. Mrs. Weaver presided over the meeting. Mrs. George Manning read the 8th Psalm and the Lord's prayer was repeated in unison. The reports of the secretary, Mrs. Stanton W. Brown, and that of Mrs. George Manning, the treasurer, were submitted and approved. Sewing on patch work comprised the afternoon's work.

TO ADD NEW COURSES AT STATE COLLEGE

(Special to The Bulletin)

STORRS, Dec. 19.—Some of the courses at Connecticut Agricultural college will be broadened and new ones will be added during the coming year, according to an announcement recently made by Prof. George C. White, chairman of the committee on courses of study here.

A new option has been provided in the division of home economics which will deal with textiles and art in business, the purpose of which is "the training of young ladies so they may go into the textile and art departments of department and specialty stores." This will require the addition of several new courses in home economics.

Under a new system, students in mechanical engineering will, before the beginning of their junior years, elect one of three options for their lines of study. The three options are industrial management, design, or power. The foundation for this larger scope of training was laid last year when several courses were added. More courses will be added next year.

The course of study committee approved the addition of two new courses in the modern language department. They are French Civilization and German Prose and Poetry.

The lists of courses given by the sociology and mathematics departments are being augmented so that it will be possible for students in the future to major in either of these subjects.

Three new courses will be offered by the English department. The economics, dairy and bacteriology departments will each add several new courses beginning next semester.

BOY SCOUTS SWAMPED WITH CHILDREN'S TOYS

According to the local Boy Scout headquarters the response to the call for old toys has been greater this year than ever before and the toys have been better than in any previous years. The toys received Friday included expensive hobby horses, wagons, automobiles, sleds, chairs, and several hundred non-descript toys of all kinds. Today (Saturday) the toys will be turned over to the United Workers and indications are that a number of automobile loads will be delivered.

Any persons having toys which they wish to give to the poor are asked to try to get some boy to take the toys to Scout headquarters because scores of Scouts are expected to spend the day at their camp helping the masons build the fireplace in their cabin.

GRANGE CHRISTMAS PARTY NEXT WEDNESDAY

Norwich grange, No. 172, P. of H., will hold its regular meeting Wednesday evening. A Christmas program and tree will be the feature of the evening. Each member has been requested to provide a ten cent gift for the tree and Santa will be there to distribute the gifts. In the afternoon a Christmas party for the grange children will be held from 3:30 o'clock until 5:30 o'clock.

MATIN SERVICE AT THE SALEM LUTHERAN CHURCH

In keeping with the century-old custom common to the countries of northern Europe, matin services will be held at the Salem Lutheran church, Hickory street, at 5.30 o'clock Christmas morning. A brief Swedish service will preface the complete English service. The church choir will be heard in three special Christmas numbers, among them the well-known number "O Holy Night," by Adam, and one by the Norwegian composer, Christiansen, director of the world-famous St. Olaf's choir. The Sunday school will give its annual Christmas program on the Sunday evening following Christmas day.

CANDLE LIGHT SERVICE AT UNIVERSALIST CHURCH

The annual Christmas Candle-light vesper service will be held at the Church of the Good Shepherd (Universalist) Sunday evening at six o'clock.

Edward J. Brennan, the well-known violinist, accompanied on the piano by Mrs. Brennan, will give a 15-minute recital preceding the pageant, "Pilgrims From the East." Miss Mary Gray will be soloist for the angel chorus, and the lighting of the candles will take place at 6.15 o'clock.

EDWARD ADAMS NOMINATED FOR TAFTVILLE POSTMASTER

(Special to The Bulletin)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 19—The president today nominated Edward Adams postmaster at Taftville, Conn.

Haviland Class Meeting.

Wednesday afternoon the Haviland class met with Mrs. Hans Rasmussen, No. 119 McKinley avenue. After a short business meeting the rest of the afternoon was spent in entertainment. Poems were read by Mrs. Eva Adams, Mrs. Flora Noyes, Mrs. R. H. Breckenridge and Mrs. Grace Montgomery, who also read an interesting letter from Mrs. Herbert J. Wyckoff, telling of her travels in Norway last summer. Mrs. Robert Dziomba sang two solo after which Christmas carols were sung. The hostess served delicious sandwiches, cake, home made Christmas cookies, coffee and candy. Gifts were distributed from a beautiful electric lighted tree by Santa, (Miss Erma Wetherbee) which caused much merriment.

Moving Pictures At Y. M. C. A.

At 3.30 o'clock Sunday afternoon, the very appropriate moving picture, "The Light of Faith," will be shown in four reels. Two of the principal personalities in the picture are Lon Chaney and Hope Hampton.

This picture story is a drama of today and is one that touches the present conditions of discouragement and unrest. It emphasizes the power of faith to cure the woes of mankind, and with it the Legend of the Holy Grail is most beautifully interpreted. Doubtless a large audience will attend the showing of this picture. Frederick Geer will furnish the piano music for the service.

Christmas Service

At the Greeneville Congregational church, a Christmas service will be held Sunday morning. The choir will be assisted by an orchestra. The pastor, Rev. Charles H. Ricketts, will officiate and will preach on The Advent of Spiritual Day.

Sail Today For Bermuda

Mr. and Mrs. L. Andrew Reinhard and two children, Ruth and Jean, of Bronxville, N. Y., formerly of Englewood, N. J., sail from New York today (Saturday) for a vacation of two weeks at Bermuda. Mrs. Reinhard is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Rush of this city.

IN NORWICH FIFTY YEARS AGO

Fifty years ago this week the Hopkins and Allen Manufacturing Co., then among the best known industries of Norwich, shipped 2,000 revolvers to Texas. It was a new style revolver for which there was at that time a large demand. Interesting extracts taken from the files of The Norwich Bulletin of December, 1880, are as follows:

Monday, Dec. 13, 1880—On Thursday, last, George Bromley of Greeneville, a workman at the Chelsea paper mill, caught his right hand in the machinery crushing one finger so badly that the bone had to be removed to the second joint.

Professor Vennor, the journeyman weather maker, predicts moderate weather for the next two days. Then, he says, snow falls will begin to have a marked effect upon the roads and will increase in frequency up to the close of the year.

"The Black Bottle" drew a large crowd to the Central Methodist Episcopal church last night. Rev. Mr. Jones staggered many of his auditors in showing up its contents.

On Friday night Patrick Fanning, who is between 60 and 70 years old, fell down stairs at his residence on Franklin street, sustaining injuries from which he died on Saturday night.

Mrs. Chadwick, aged 70 years, was found dead in bed at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. Ellis Taylor, at Greeneville, yesterday morning. Mrs. Chadwick was an English woman and left the old country about a year ago to join her daughter in this place.

Tuesday, Dec. 14, 1880—The first session of the Norwich Sunday school normal class was held last evening in the Central Baptist church. Of the pastors, superintendents, and teachers of our city, fully 100 were present and engaged in the exercises of the occasion with much enthusiasm.

The Japanese entertainment held at Breed hall last evening, under the auspices of the ladies of Christ church, proved a very enjoyable and unique affair.

James Goode is out of danger and will probably be about by January 1st, wishing his friends a happy New Year.

The Choral union has postponed its weekly rehearsals until after the holidays.

Ice five inches thick was cut on the basin at the new railroad wharf yesterday.

Wednesday, Dec. 15, 1880—Crystal lodge, I. O. G. T., held a festival at Temperance hall, last night, that was largely attended. Frank T. Maples recited several humorous sketches in his inimitable style, "Spoopendyke's Bathing Suit," an excerpt from Rip Van Winkle being among the best. Two short plays were excellently rendered by members of the lodge. The entertainment was highly spoken of by those who were in attendance.

The Norwich night school was moved from Steiner's building to the Rockwell block on Main street, Monday night, having outgrown its close quarters on East Main street. The number of scholars is steadily increasing. There were 42 in attendance last night.

The St. Joseph Literary and Sodality society have a fine suite of rooms in Pierce's block, which are handsomely furnished, and to which they will soon add a select library. The organization now has about 100 members and is in a flourishing condition.

Thursday, Dec. 16, 1880—The Hopkins and Allen Manufacturing Co., of this city, are making a new revolver for which there is a large demand. Last week 2,000 of them were shipped to Texas.

According to agreement, the drygoods stores of our city will keep open every evening from now until after Christmas in order to make it more convenient for all who are desirous of purchasing holiday goods.

The Arcanum club has been presented a thoroughbred pug dog by E. B. Lanman of Columbus, Ohio.

Friday, Dec. 17, 1880—A movement is on foot among the drygoods merchants of this city to close their places every night in the week, excepting on Monday and Saturday evenings, at six o'clock. It is said there are fair prospects of establishing the custom after the holidays.

The Trinity church fair netted that society $515.

The church people were winding Christmas greens last night.

The schools of the Central district close today for the holiday vacation of two weeks.

The Rev. Hugh Montgomery is to deliver a series of lectures under the forcible title of "Go."

The election of Jabez S. Lathrop, principal of the High street school, to represent the town of Norwich in the legislature, necessitates the employment of a temporary principal in his absence by the West Chelsea board of education. The committee find it very hard to get a teacher who can so capably fill the position as Mr. Lathrop, but they are now contemplating the employment of a well known female teacher who was very successful in this district, and should they employ her, the school will not be the loser.

Saturday, Dec. 18, 1880—The officers visited a place on the Greeneville road, yesterday, and made a search for intoxicating liquors. Their labors were rewarded by the finding of 13 bottles of beer and two parcels of cherry rum, amounting to four quarts. A West Side place was also searched and a small quantity of liquor and beer was seized.

The Rev. Mr. Marsland, the missing clergyman from Central Village, is employed at a grain elevator in Binghamton, N. Y., it is said, under the name of James Montgomery. His wife has gone to see him.

Persons interested in a branch association of the Irish Land league in this city will hold a meeting at St. Patrick's church at 7.30 o'clock, tomorrow evening.

The Shetucket river was closed again on Thursday night.

The annual inspection of Sedgwick Post G. A. R., was held last evening in Odd Fellows hall. The boys sat around the camp fires until after midnight discussing the fun and frolics of other days.

A DANISH MOTORSHIP RAMS LINER GEORGE WASHINGTON

Collision Occurred About Nine Miles Down the River From Hamburg, Germany—The George Washington Was Badly Damaged, But Was Towed Safely Into Port—The Bow of the Danish Ship Malaya Pierced the Stern of the U. S. Liner—Captain of the Danish Vessel Decided to Run Her Ashore—Several Collisions Reported in European Waters, Due to Dense Fog

HAMBURG, Germany, Dec. 21.—(AP)—The United States liner George Washington, inward bound, was rammed in a dense fog in the Elbe estuary today by the Danish motorship Malaya, whose bow pierced the George Washington's stern.

The noise of the collision, which occurred shortly after 4 p. m., was heard all along the riverfront but the ships could not be seen from shore because of the fog. Tugs immediately went out and found the Malaya, also bound for Hamburg, with her bow deep into the George Washington's stern.

The two vessels afterward separated. The Malaya, a vessel of 8,600 gross tons, was badly damaged, but her captain decided to run her ashore. The George Washington, although badly gashed, was less seriously damaged than the Malaya and was towed safely into port.

The collision occurred off Dockenhuden, about nine miles down the river from the Hamburg docks. A dense fog pall had lain over the Elbe estuary and beyond into the North sea since Friday and several minor collisions were reported yesterday. The Malaya, which yesterday lost her anchors off Cuxhaven, had her enginerooms flooded and there was danger of her cargo of soya beans expanding in contact with the water and bursting her sides.

The George Washington was casting anchor because of the fog when the Malaya came up from behind and rammed her. The American ship was grounded as a result of the impact, but was soon towed off.

The incoming Hamburg-American liner Deutschland, just in front of the George Washington off Finkenwarderr, also grounded by her stem and as flood tide pulled her around she had to be towed into port stern first.

Officers of the United States line said that no one was hurt on the George Washington and that the passengers landed normally at the usual dosk, Ross quay. The full extent of the damage was not early ascertained. The Danish vessel was badly damaged and probably would have sunk quickly had it not been beached.

COLLISION IN EUROPEAN WATERS DUE TO DENSE FOG

LONDON, Dec. 21.—(AP)—Fog—the greatest of all terrors of sea—which caused the wreck of the Finnish steamer Oberon with a loss of 41 lives Friday night, today had spread a thick mantle over a large area of European wters.

Reports of ships in peril hve come fro mpoints as far distant as Constantinolpe and Queenstown, Ireland.

A message from Lisbon, Portugal, said the steamer Patria sank in the fog after a collision off the Portuguese coast, carrying to the bottom four members of her crew.

Off Constantinople, an American steamer collided in a dense fog with the British steamer Rio Azul. The British ship was reported seriously damaged and the American only slightly.

The Dutch steamer Export and the British steamer Kemmel collided in a fog near Rotterdam. The Export was forced to return to port, although the British steamer was able to proceed on her voyage.

This morning the British steam trawler William Hallett lost her bearings and went ashore near Ballycotton, Ireland. The deepsea tug Zwarte Zee went to her assistance.

41 PASSENGERS AND CREW OF OBERON STILL MISSING

COPENHAGEN, Dec. 21—(AP)—With 41 passengers and crew of the Finnish line steamer Oberon still missing today, hope virtually had been abandoned for finding any additional survivors of Friday night's crash between the Oberon and her sister-ship, the Arcturus, off Laso Island.

The two brothers commanding the two ships, Captains Erik and Osel Hjelt, had exchanged Christmas greetings by radio a few moments before the crash not realizing in the dense fog that their ships were so close together.

As the fog lifted today permitting observation over the scene of the tragedy, Danish seaplanes were utilized and Finnish boats steamed back and forth seeking bodies. In the flotsam they found three empty life boats and two Christmas trees. Mariners believe a majority of those lost were trapped in their bunks and went down with the ship.

All day huge crowds thronged the quay where the Arcturus was discharging her cargo and in her battered bows saw mute evidence of the razor-like slash which sent the Oberon down.

The most pitiful figure among the survivors is Captain Erik Hjelt, commander of the Oberon, who sits in his brother's cabin with the body of his 4-year-old daughter, Elizabeth, for whom he fought a losing fight against the icy waters.

THREE DEATHS RESULT FROM KENTUCKY STABBING AFFRAY

JACKSON, Ky., Dec. 21.—(AP)—The death of Pierce Gabbard, 57, today was the third fatality from a stabbing and shooting affray yesterday growing out of a Breathitt county feud. His son, Wilton Gabbard, 29, died last night of knife wounds, and Isaac Little, 55, was shot to death.

Four youths are held on first degree murder charges in connection with the slaying.

The men under arrest are: Ed Turner, 23, and three brothers, Fred Little, 26; George Little, 22, and Herman Little, 20, all of Guerrant, this county. They will be arraigned in county court tomorrow. The Little brothers are sons of Isaac Little.

Officers arrested the youths at Isaac Little's home on Puncheon Camp creek, 16 miles east of here, last night.

AVIATOR FINDS BODY OF GANG "RIDE" VICTIM

HICKSVILLE, N. Y., Dec. 21.—(AP)—The body of the first gang "ride" victim in Nassau county in two years was found along the Long Island motor parkway shortly after noon today by Benjamin Adamowics, 35, Brooklyn aviator, and a companion.

Flying near the Long Island Aviation Country club, the flier saw the body on the ground. He landed nearby and found the man dead with several bullet wounds in his back and one near his heart.

Police said the man had probably been shot between 11 a. m. and noon. He was well dressed and about 25 years old.

On a watch and a ring were the initials "S. S." A match card from the U. S. S. Sands, of the destroyer division, was in his pocket.

NITROGLYCERIN FAILS TO PUT OUT OIL AND GAS WELL FIRE

WEWOKA, Okla., Dec. 21. —(AP)— Two five-quart shots of nitroglycerin failed late today to snuff the fire from "Old Abe," the number 2 A. B. Douglas oil and gas well, which has been belching a column of flame at the outskirts of Wewoka since early Friday.

The shots were placed and fired by the asbestos-attired Kinley brothers of Tulsa, professional oil fire tamers.

It was decided to try a third and heavier shot, probably a ten-quart charge, as soon as preparations could be made.

DEATH OF VET. WHO WITNESSED BARBARA FRITCHIE'S DEFY

LONG BRANCH, N. J., Dec. 21.—(AP)—Barzilla Hyers, 91-year-old Civil war veteran, who said he witnessed Barbara Fritchie's defiance of the advance guard of General Lee's army under "Stonewall" Jackson when it occupied Frederick, Md., September 7, 1862, died last night at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Charles Waitt.

He fought in the battles of Fredericksburg and Gettysburg as a member of Company D, 14th infantry. For years he had resided in Camden.

RESIGNATION TENDERED BY THE GRECIAN CABINET

ATHENS, Greece, Dec. 21.—(AP)— All members of the Grecian cabinet tonight placed their resignations at the disposal of Premier Eleutherios Venizelos.

Premier Venizelos formed his present cabinet June 7, 1929, but two members quit a year ago following the publication of a letter written by the leader of their party which charged the Venizelos government with leading the country into poltical anarchy.

One was Pericles Argiropoulos, minister of the interior, who was replaced by G. Sideris, and the other Dr. Pappas, minister of hygiene, whose work was taken over first by the premier himself and then by Dr. Christomanos.

Greece had a flurry of excitement in October when the government arrested General Theodorus Pangalos, former dictator of the country, and 27 others in what was alleged to have been a conspiracy to reinstate General Pangalos. Premier Venizelos was in Turkey at the time.

TEMPERANCE BUREAU SUPT. LOSES $200,000 LIBEL SUIT

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 21. —(AP)— Edwin C. Dinwiddie, legislative superintendent of the National Temperance bureau, has lost a $200,000 libel suit against the Examiner Printing company in the U. S. district court.

The suit was based on a story charging that Dinwiddie, while legislative superintendent of the Anti-Saloon league at Washington, D. C., sanctioned the misuse of $10,000 of government funds in connection with the fifteenth international congress on alcoholism. The story was published in the San Francisco Examiner and other Hearst papers in 1927. A jury late yesterday found for the defendant.

AUTOMOBILE SERIOUSLY INJURES MAN IN PORTLAND

MIDDLETOWN, Dec. 21—(AP)—William Bemerjewsky, 48, was taken to Middlesex County hospital tonight in a critical condition from injuries received when he was struck by a car driven by George R. Clinton, a justice of the peace of East Hampton.

The accident occurred on Marlborough street in Portland, near Bemerjewsky's home. Clinton said the other man walked out from the sidewalk in front of his car. At the hospital it was found he had suffered internal injuries.

CONDITION OF RAYMOND POINCARE STATIONARY

PARIS, Dec. 21.—(AP)—After a consultation lasting half a hour, physicians attending Raymond Poincare today issued the following bulletin:

"The condition of former President Poincare is stationary and still necessitates complete repose."

Dr. Boidin, who with Prof. Guillain is attending the former president, plans another visit tomorrow and another consultatiton will be held Tuesday.

Guardsmen and Deputy Sheriffs Defend Jail at St. Joseph, Mo.

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., Dec. 21. —(AP)— Efforts of a mob to storm the Buchanan county jail early today and gain custody of Raymond Gunn, Negro trapper, charged with the murder of Miss Velma Colter, 19-year-old school teacher, were foiled by sheriff's deputies, city police and a national guard tank company.

Approximately 150 men, said to have gathered from Maryville, Mo., home of the teacher, and from other nearby Missouri towns, first appeared at the jail here shortly after midnight. Sheriff John Roach talked to the mob leaders through a heavily barred door, and told them he would protect his prisoner in every way possible.

All deputy sheriffs immediately were called for duty. They were not molested upon arriving at the prison and entered the jail. City police also responded to the alarm as did the St. Joseph tank company of the Missouri national guard.

The guardsmen placed a tank equipped with a machine gun at the jail entrance.

Slowly the mob, reinforced by spectators from St. Joseph, were driven away from the jail. After about three hours police guard lines circled the building, keeping all unauthorized persons at least a block away.

Members of the mob held a meeting on a street corner two blocks away, and it was said they decided to go to Plattsburg, where reports declared the Negro had been taken.

Officers there said the Negro, alleged to have confessed attacking and beating the school teacher to death, had not arrived and was not expected. The mob also was not reported at Plattsburg, and St. Joseph officers believed the members went home, after failing to obtain entrance to the St. Joseph jail.

It was understood late today that Gunn, 30-year-old ex-convict, still was in the county jail here, but officers were reticent concerning his whereabouts. He served a term in the Missouri penitentiary for assaulting a co-ed in the Missouri State Teachers' college of Maryville.

Miss Colter, whose mutilated body was found Tuesday night in the rural school house where she was the single teacher, also attended the college.

Buchanan county officers believe prisoners in jail here can easily be guarded from any violence. The cells are in the center of the building. Seven heavy steel doors must be opened to reach the cell rooms.

300 TO 400 REPORTED KILLED BY ERUPTNION OF VOLCANO

LONDON, Dec. 21.—(AP)—A Rotterdam dispatch to the Daily Mail asserts that between 300 and 400 persons were killed in the eruption of Merapi volcano in Java last week.

Ashes and lava shot out from Merapi last week after the mountain had been comparatively quiet for 80 years, and early reports asserted that at least 90 persons were killed as a great river of white-hot lava flowed down the slopes.

Those who died were working in the fields and were surprised by the rapidity of the flow, hence had no time to escape.

Volcano itself was an awe-inspiring sight. Huge columns of smoke boiled up from the crater and flames flashed out like lightning.

Forests were set afire by the sweeping wall of lava and many villages were evacuated.

REPORTS OF REVOLUTION IN S. W. VENEZUELA

BOGTOA, Columbia, Dec. 21.—(AP)— Newspapers received reports today of a revolutionary disturbance in southwest Venezuela.

Three hundred revolutionists, well equipped, were said to have captured the town of Labatera, killing the chief and burning the city hall with its public archives.

The government troops were reported to have been taken by surprise and were unable to defend the city.

A communique issued from San Cristobal, capital of the state of Tachira, in which Labatera is situated, said the outbreak was a bandit deprecation and without revolutionary motive.

30 PERSONS ARRESTED FOR RIOTING IN BERLIN

BERLIN, Dec. 21.—(AP)—Thirty persons were arrested today for riotous behavior on "Golden Sunday," which is especially favored by Christmas shoppers as the stores are open in the afternoon.

Police had prepared for desperate action by "hunger marchers," who had threatened to relieve the bourgeoisie of their purchases and otherwise help themselves but they did not carry out their intention.

A few scuffles, resulting in the arrests, developed as small processions marched through the business streets shouting, "We're starving. Down with the government."

20 MEN BURIED BY COLLAPSE OF A HIGHWAY IN FRANCE

GRENOBLE, France, Dec. 21.—(AP) —Twenty workmen were reported to have been buried today by the collapse of part of the famous Grenoble-Lautaret highway leading to the Chambon dam, upon which they had been employed. The collapse was laid to the weight of two steam rollers.

Capture Of Escaped Maniac In Baltimore

Frank Vanderkuylen, One of the Six Men Who Broke From Matteawan Hospital

BALTIMORE, Dec. 21.—(AP)—In a small room in the western part of the city which he left only at night for a few minutes to buy food, police today found Frank Vanderkuylen, one of the six men who escaped December 4 from Mattawan hospital for the criminal insane, outside New York city.

He admitted his identity and said he had been in Baltimore since December 7 but had not eaten "a square meal in 14 days." Seven dollars was found on his person. He was taken to police headquarters and New York authorities notified.

Acting on secret information two officers, one in plain clothes, went to the rooming house this afternoon and opened the maniac's door. He was sitting in an easy chair with his back to the door looking out of a window, but he saw the officers in a mirror.

"Oh, you've got me," he said, rising. "I'll go back, but don't beat me."

Questioned at headquarters, Vanderkuylen, who is 31, said that after his escape from the hospital he left his companions because "I was afraid they would kill me." The officers were unable to learn how he reached the city but said they understood he had planned to go south tomorrow in an automobile.

He was committed to the hospital after a murder trial in New York last March for killing a bigamous wife with acid. He was found 'not guilty but insane." He insisted he could prove himself sane "if given a good lawyer."

Four inmates who dashed to freedom with him were recaptured a few days after the escape.

Tonight police said that after Vanderkuylen had talked over the telephone with the rector of St. Albert's Catholic church in New York city, he announced he would not fight extradition.

VILLAGERS ENRICHED BY A $300,000 LOTTERY TICKET

CASCAES, Portugal, Dec. 21.—(AP)— The fisher folk of the village celebrated with thanksgiving services in church this morning because luck in the form of a $300,000 lottery ticket had descended upon them.

The prize was drawn in the name of a bartender, Albert Ereira, but he previously had shared his ticket among the villagers.

When the town crier proclaimed the news the fisherfolk burst into rejoicing immediately and abandoned their nets.

Among the winners was a 75-year-old woman chestnut-seller, who became so excited that she kicked over her bucket of hot chestnuts. She exclaimed that she would spend the rest of her days in comfort.

A 16-year-old newsboy scattered his papers in the street and shouted, "I am going into business. I am going into business."

Tonight the entire population turned out to sing and dance in the streets.

Success was doubly welcome because the winners faced a poverty-stricken Christmas on account of the heavy winter storms which ruined the fishing business.

VICTIMIZED MINISTERS BY A HARD LUCK STORY

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Dec. 21.—(AP)—A man posing as a friend of Rev. Bernard C. Clausen, pastor of the First Baptist church here, in the past few weeks has toured Vermont, New Hampshire, Massachusetts and New York with his "wife" and his "brother-in-law and wife" relating a hard luck story and victimizing dozens of ministers of cash, food and fuel for his automobile.

Dr. Clausen learned of the quartet from letters sent him by victims. A description of the quartet and the license number of the automobile have been given Syracuse police and a warning broadcast throughout the state for big-hearted ministers to be on the watch.

WOULD READ SEN. NORRIS OUT OF THE REPUBLICAN PARTY

Robert S. Lucas, Executive Director of the Republican National Committee, Tells Senate Campaign Funds Committee That He Worked Against Norris in the Last Nebraska Senatorial Race—Brands Senator Norris' Ingratitude to the Republican Party as Beyond Comprehension

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21. — (AP) — Robert S. Lucas, executive director of the republican national committee, today called for a showdown on the question of party regularity in striking back at Senator Norris, republican, Nebraska, and those senate republicans demanding his own scalp for opposing Norris for re-election.

In a sharply worded statement from the national headquarters, Lucas asserted Senator Norris' conduct "has been revolting and until the leaders of the republican party not only fail to support but give their active opposition to men like Senator Norris, they are not doing their full duty to the party which has come down to us from Lincoln."

"To accept office at the hands of this party and then viciously oppose its policies, principles and leadership," he said, "brings an intolerable situation and one which must be eradicated if the party is to live."

The Kentuckian told the senate campaign funds committee yesterday he paid money out of his own pocket for literature to be used against Norris and for Gilbert M. Hitchcock, democrat, in the last Nebraska senatorial race.

While republican leaders thus far have assumed a hands-off attitude toward the Lucas incident, the western independent faction is up in arms. In a speech in the senate following Lucas' committee estimony, Senator Howell, Norris 'republican colleague, demanded that the national committee oust Lucas. Norris branded the literature employed against him as "scurrilous" and "malicious."

The bold stand Lucas took today threatens to force an issue between President Hoover and the insurgent wing of the party in one of the most involved republican quarrels since the Roosevelt-Taft scrap which split the party in 1912.

In his reply today, Lucas defended his activities against Senator Norris and said the literature he had printed here and sent to Nebraska "was not scurrilous in any way, nor did the klan or any other organization have anything to do with it."

Declaring Senator Norris, "in spite of his vicious and relentless opposition to President Hoover and his administration, now attempts to say who shall and who shall not hold positions with the republican national committee," Lucas added:

"Senator Norris supported Governor Smith in 1928 and was elected this year with the support of the democratic national committee. He should, therefore, offer any advice he has to give for a change in that direction.

"To a republican who has the good of the country and the success of the republican party at heart," he continued, "and who has any conception of loyalty to party principles and love for its traditions, the complaints now made by Senator Norris and his partisan supporters are entirely aside from fair argument and utterly without foundation.

"To a republican who has any regard for party history and respect for its leadership in the past and present which has contributed so much to the upbuilding of this country in the past 75 years, which brought us human freedom, the protection of industry and labor, and has made this nation the leading nation of the world, Senator Norris' ingratitude is beyond comprehension."

Lucas said the "regular" republicans of Nebraska "had every good reason to oppose the election of Senator Norris and I had every right to make a personal contribution to their support. This contribution amounted to approximately $850."

He had told the Nye committee he spent more than $4,000 in all, but explained all of the literature did not go into Nebraska.

"In continuation of his determined drive on President Hoover and all things republican," Lucas said, "Senator Norris is distorting the facts with reference to the support I gave the anti-Norris republican organization of Nebraska."

TO PROBE BANK ACCOUNTS OF 120 NEW YORK POLICEMEN

NEW YORK, Dec. 21.—(AP)—The searchlight of inquiry into the activities of police vice squads swung today upon the banking affairs of 120 policemen and their families, and upon 39 others, including a member of congress.

Blanket subpoenas were issued calling for information regarding the banking and brokerage business of the squadsmen and of others whose names have been drawn into the investigation being conducted by Referee Seabury.

One subpoena named Christoper D. Sullivan, a Tammany leader who is congressman from the 13th district and the oldest member of congress, in point of service, from New York.

"Uncle" Nathan Vlodinger, "Mayor of Eldridge street," also is named. It has been testified that he boasted of having made frequent loans to judges and magistrates.

Several women are named, mostly members of the families of police officers connected with the vice squad.

The investigation seeks to determine the truth of charges that members of the vice squad "framed" innocent women for personal profit: and that officers of the magistrate's courts—lawyers, bondsmen and others—were involved.

WORCESTER, Mass., Dec. 21.—(AP) —Capt. Roland F. Andrews, editor of the Worcester Telegram and Evening Gazette Traveler, author, war correspondent and soldier, died at Memorial hospital this morning of pneumonia, in his 54th year.

He had been in the hospital a week after fighting a severe cold for several weeks.

Captain Andrews had been managing editor of a Hartford, Conn., paper and editorial writer, city editor and managing editor of Waterbury, Conn., papers before he came to Worcester.

He is survived by his widow, Florence Benedict Ray, and by a stepson, Benedict Ray, member of the class of 1933 at the U. S. Military academy at West Point.

The funeral will be held at 11 o'clock Tuesday morning at the First Unitarian church, with Rev. Dr. Maxwell Savage officiating. The body will then be taken to Forest Hills for cremation. Masonic and military delegations will attend the funeral.

Roland Franklyn Andrews was born in Hartford, Conn., Sept. 29, 1877, son of Alice J. and Charles B. Andrews. He was educated at Cayuga Military academy, Aurora, N. Y., and at Cornell, class of 1900.

As a youth, he served as reporter on the Syracuse, N. Y., Herald, Syracuse, N. Y., Standard, Winsted, Conn., Citizen, and Hartford, Conn., Telegram. Later, he became managing editor of the Waterbury Republican, and city editor, associate editor and managing editor of the Waterbury American. In 1912, he left Waterbury to become editorial writer on the Hartford Times and later became managing editor of that paper. On Jan. 1, 1920, he came to Worcester.

In 1916 he married Mrs. Florence Benedict Ray, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Ray, of Hartford.

He was a 32nd degree Mason, a member of Montacute lodge of this city.

GUILTY OF EMBEZZLING MORE THAN $1,000,000

WASHINGTON, Dec 19—(AP)—Three former officials of the F. H. Smith Company of Washington were found guilty tonight by a District of Columbia supreme court jury of embezzling more than $1,000,000.

The men, G. Bryan Pitts, former president of the real estate company; C. Elbert Anadale and John H. Edwards, Jr., were remanded to jail. Sentence will be imposed later.

They were charged in four counts with embezzlement and conspiracy to destroy allegedly incriminating records. The jury found them guilty on all four counts.

The company is now in the hands of receivers. The defense admitted destruction and removal of papers but claimed those destroyed were either out-of-date or were personal records of Pitts.

The trial began three weeks ago.

OPPOSE CALLING OF GENERAL STRIKE IN CUBA

HAVANA, Dec. 19—(AP)—Representatives of railroad, marine and electric union workers called at the presidential palace today in behalf of organized workers in Cuba, to tell government officials they were opposed to any plan calling for a general strike.

Mrs. Ida Abel, Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Abel were in Hughsdale, R. I., Sunday afternoon to see Mrs. Ida Abel's niece, Mrs. Alfred Barrows, whose husband was very ill. Mr. Barrows died Sunday night. Burial was in Willimantic cemetery, Wednesday afternoon at 1.30.

Mrs. Clark Standish, who had been spending a few days in Hartford, returned home Saturday night. Mr. Standish, who is in the Hartford hospital is improving so that he can take a little solid food now.

Miss Alice Ladd, of Norwich, visited her sister, Miss Delphine Ladd, at Mrs. Elizabeth Troland's, recently.

Mrs. Mary A. Williams and Mrs. Ida Abel received word last week of the death of their niece's husband, Rev. James Carpenter of Summit, N. J.

Verson Boothby and Mark Gillespire, of Woodmont, spent Saturday night with the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Boothby.

Mrs. L. A. Main entertained Wednesday her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Benjamin, of Putnam.

Sold to Norwich Man

Mr. Longo, of Norwich, has purchased from Mr. Rinaldi the place formerly owned and occupied by Elmer Pultz.

A number of women members of the Lebanon group of the Farm Bureau Home Economics met with Mrs. George Macdonald, Thursday, Dec. 11. The Christmas box containing various articles to be made for Christmas gifts was shown. A fine variety dinner was served at noon, each one bringing something for the meal.

MANSFIELD CENTER

Christmas features all the social activities of the week. On this (Monday) evening, Spring Hill Sunday school and community will have its Christmas celebration, Tuesday at one o'clock, the children of the upper grades of Mansfield Hollow school will give a Christmas program and entertainment at Echo grange hall to which all friends of the children have been invited. Echo grange will devote the lecturer's hour Tuesday evening to a Christmas tree for which every one attending is asked to bring a ten-cent gift. There will be a program of games and amusements, including a visit from Santa Claus. The Sunday school Christmas tree and program will be held at the church Christmas eve.

Two Christmas parties were given at the parsonage the past week. Monday afternoon, Rev. Mrs. Jones entertained the women of Spring Hill. Among the gifts on the tree was found an envelope for Mrs. Jones which contained a card of appreciation and several new dollar bills. Thursday afternoon the Ladies' Aid society of this village was entertained at another party, with a tree and lunch.

At the meeting of the Church Guild held Thursday at the home of Mrs. David Clark the officers elected were: President, Mrs. Edwin G. Clark; vice president, Mrs. David Clark; secretary, Mrs. Edgar Manning; treasurer, Mrs. Ward Porter.

Small Bright Compacts

PARIS, Dec. 21—(AP)—Silver powder boxes the size of a pancake and almost as flat are being carried by Parisiennes these days.

The new vanities are highly polished and designed with a round opening the size of a silver dollar.

Loose powder is found inside, since the Paris women has scant affection for compact powder.

Placerville, Cal., known as Hangtown in gold rush days, has elected its first woman official, Mrs. Maude Horn, justice of the pease.

WINDHAM FACED WITH PROBLEM OF OVERCROWDING IN ITS HIGH SCHOOL

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Dec. 21.—In order to bring before the public the possible need of action to avoid overcrowded conditions at Windham high school next September when an increase of 251 is expected in the registration, Principal Egbert A. Case has compiled some interesting facts concerning the school enrollments and costs in past years.

Following the destruction by fire of the old high school, the present building was constructed in 1914 with a capacity of 600 students. The first enrollment in the new school was 405 and the general sentiment was that the building was too large, even with provisions for attendance from neighboring towns on the tuition basis. During the war some of the rooms were used for the Red Cross and other purposes.

The capacity of the school was reached in 1928. That year the Willimantic State Trade school movement began to relieve the congestion at the high school. The trade school served the purpose to this end for a time but this year there are 703 pupils registered at the high school and with the added capacity of 70 pupils provided by the construction of a large study room during the past summer, there is but one seat vacant.

On a conservative estimate based on a survey from local schools and the school superintendents of the surrounding towns, there will be next June 179 graduates from town of Windham schools who will be expected to enter the local high school and a total of 162 coming from the neighboring towns, a total of 341. The present senior class at the high school will graduate 90 students in June, leaving a balance of 251 pupils to be accommodated in addition to the average present enrollment.

These figures are presented as an indication that additional housing facilities will have to be made if the tuition pupils are to be accepted next year.

The average per capita cost of the high school for the past five years is the lowest in eastern Connecticut and the lowest in the state with but one exception. The school board does not pay out a single penny, all expenses being paid on order from the town treasurer. The removal of the out-of-town pupils from the local school would have the effect of raising the per capita cost for high school education in Windham because of the fact that the tuition received from the neighboring towns would thereby be eliminated. There is also the commercial aspect of maintaining Windham as an educational center for this district to be considered.

While various other forms of relieving the situation, including double sessions and taking over temporary quarters have been considered, the school board finds many substantial reasons for not recommending these. The estimated cost of an additional building is $90,000. However, the school board, through its secretary, Mr. Case, makes it plain that action rests entirely upon the townspeople.

The total cost of the present building including the new addition and furnishings is $161,000 and as near as the board can determine no other city in the state has such a low cost for a high school. The present cost of building a plant of similar design and equipment is placed at $500,000.

A citizens' committee consisting of Attorney William A. Arnold, Oliver L. Willard, Andrew C. Roux, Charles B. Pomeroy and J. E. Sullivan is to confer with the school board and discuss with this board and the advisory committee of the Taxpayers' Protective association some plan for taking care of the high school pupils in the future.

Stafford Springs

KIDDIES AND THEATRE MAN ARE TO HELP THE POOR

Joseph Wood, proprietor of Wood's theatre has a novel plan for assisting poor families in the borough. The picture which will be shown Monday afternoon will be for the benefit of the needy. All children will be admitted without cash, but they will be obliged to bring potatoes, apples, or some kind of vegetables. The accumulation of vegetables which will be received in this way will be distributed by Mr. Wood in time to be used for the Christmas dinner. Mr. Wood is being commended for his public spirit and it is expected that there will be a record attendance at the picture show. Many in Stafford Springs are feeling the pinch of hard times due to unemployment and Mr. Wood will find many families who are not only in need but who will gladly accept his offerings.

There were 17 tables of whist at the American Legion room, Warren Memorial hall, Friday evening. Prizes were won by Miss Claire Pelardy and Edward Driscoll, Louis Moder and Mrs. Joseph Morin. The committee in charge was: Chairman, Miss Mildred Labreche; Mrs. Edgar Young, Mrs. Jennie Argenta, Miss Agnes Geary and Miss Katherine Kearns. Refreshments were served and dancing followed to music by Tizianni and Sartori.

Andrew Burlick, who is employed in Hartford, is spending a few days with his parents.

Mrs. Harriet Belden, of Hartford, was a recent visitor with friends in Stafford Springs.

Miss Florence Dowling has been absent from her duties as teacher in Stafford grammar school, because of a sprained ankle.

George Turschmann, who is employed in Hartford, spent the weekend with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Max Turschmann.

Miss Florence Nothnick, of Hartford, is making a few days' visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Nothnick.

Mrs. Louis Maggia, of Moosup, is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Alfred Pochini.

Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Lavine, of Springfield, are guests of relatives in town.

William A. Smith, of Toledo, Ohio, was a recent visitor at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. Smith.

Mr. and Mrs. Antonio Bonan, of Rockville, have been visiting Mr. and Mrs. Domenico Rossi.

Christmas Sunday Observance

The Congregational church of Stafford Springs observed Christmas Sunday. At 10:30, the service began and Rev. Charles D. Kepner, pastor, gave the Christmas message. Special musical numbers included "There Were Shepherds," John A. Scott; "Mary's Manger Song," Mary Turner Salter; "Jesus Bambino," Pietro-A-Yon. Wednesday evening, Christmas eve, members of the Sunday school classes will present a pageant of "The Holy Grail," after which there will be a Christmas tree party. Sunday evening, Dec. 28, the oratorio, "The Messiah," will be sung at the Congregational church. The chorus will consist of members of the Rockville Congregational church, First Methodist church of Stafford Springs and Stafford Springs Congregational church.

The Sunday school of Grace Episcopal church presented "The Sweet Old Story," a Christmas pageant, in the church Sunday evening at 7:30. The candle lighting service preceded the pageant, the church choir with lighted candles marching down the aisle singing "Come, Thou Long Expected Jesus." They were met at the chancel gate by "The Spirit of Darkness," who extinguished the candles. This symbolized the world in its darkness before Christ came. The cast was as follows: Spirit of Darkness, Raymond Mattesen; Spirit of Christianity, Charlotte Kihl; Zacharias, George Carey; Gabriel, Lorraine Clark; Mary, Jennie Horrigan; Shepherds, George Wilcox, Russel Wilcox, John Melbourne, 2nd; Joseph, Herbert West Jr.; Angels, Eleanor Reynolds, Loretta Avery, Dorothy Kihl; Simeon, George Carey; Wise Men, John T. Melbourne George Silcox. The story was depicted in tableau form and was very impressive.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Lane are guests of friends in town. Mr. Lane formerly conducted the Lane Variety store on Main street.

Mrs. Eva Ludwig, of Hartford, is visiting her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Mullins.

Mrs. Herbert G. Wightman was a recent visitor with Hartford relatives.

URBANA, Ill.—(AP)—Every $2 invested in a ton of limestone for acid soil will return $15 or more in crop yields, says O. M. Linsley, soils extension specialist of the college of agriculture, University of Illinois.

COLCHESTER

Rehearsals are being held in preparation for the presentation of the Christmas cantata, "The Holy Child," at Colchester Congregational church, Sunday, December 28th. The cantata chorus will comprise 50 voices from Congregational churches in Columbia, Hebron, Westchester, Hartford, Gilead, Colchester and Marlborough. George Curtis Munson, director of the Hartford County Choral and Orchestral society is directing the cantata. Colchester singers taking part are: Dr. and Mrs. Arthur L. Stebbins, their sons, Edwin and Arthur, Jr., William E. Adams, Miss Doris Riley, Mrs. Cyrus E. Pendleton, William O. Seyms and Mrs. George B. Boson. Mrs. William O. Seyms will be at the organ.

A 289-pound spring pig was butchered Saturday at the Fred O. Brown stock farm.

William J. McDonald, director of athletics and instructor in English at Williston academy, Easthampton, Mass., is spending the Christmas and New Year's holidays with friends and relatives here.

Dr. Leon H. Bunyan, assistant professor of mathematics at Rutgers university, New Brunswick, New Jersey, and Mrs. Bunyan arrived Saturday to visit over Christmas and New Year's with Dr. Bunyan's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward T. Bunyan.

Bacon academy closes tomorrow (Tuesday), until January 5th, for the mid-year vacation. The grade schools close Wednesday and the new term will open January 5th.

Mrs. Arthur L. Stebbins has been substituting during the illness of the Bacon academy French instructor, Miss Margaret E. Donovan.

Fire Quickly Extinguished.

Members of the local fire company are being highly complemented for their fine work in extinguishing the fire at the Kalmanowitz house in the thickly settled section of Lebanon avenue, Saturday evening. The fire engine with its two lines of hose worked to perfection and a good supply of water in the old mill pond nearby was an important factor in the successful battle with the flames. The recently purchased 1½ inch hose was used to good advantage in extinguishing the fire, which had penetrated the roof and partitions. The damage was estimated at about $500.

FOUR PRESIDENTS' WIDOWS GIVE GARMENTS TO NEEDY

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21—(AP)—Widows of four presidents belong to the Needlework Guild of America, now helping to alleviate the unemployment situation with gifts of clothing.

Mrs. Thomas J. Preston, formerly Mrs. Grover Cleveland, is national president of the Guild. Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt is president of the Oyster Bay branch. Mrs. William Howard Taft and Mrs. Woodrow Wilson are active members of the Washington branch.

Last year the Washington Guild distributed more than 5,000 garments and expects to exceed that number this year.

JEWETT CITY

CHRISTMAS SUNDAY MARKED BY SPECIAL SERVICES

The Christmas Sunday services were largely attended at the several churches, where the decorations were more than usually attractive. Wreaths, red winter berries, and diminutive trees, with poinsettias and Jerusalem cherry shrubs, were employed in pleasing variety. Special musical programs by augmented choirs gave added pleasure to the many who made up the congregations. In the evening, carol singing, solo and concert numbers, readings and exercises combined to make up the attractive features of the Sunday before Christmas. A junior vested choir at the Congregational church, on its first appearance, sang under the direction of Mrs. Walter L. Benjamin.

Big reduction on Christmas gifts at Arremony's store, today, Tuesday and Wednesday. Prices on toys will be cut to cost.—Adv.

A full account of the fatal automobile accident which occurred at Pachaug Saturday afternoon, appeared in the Jewett City column in the Sunday Record. Trucks from the state highway department came at once to Pachaug and sanded the stretch of dangerous road where the accident occurred.

Don't forget to join the 1931 Christmas club at the Jewett City Savings bank. Interest paid on accounts kept up to date.—Adv.

Whoever would acquire a rapid fire, liberal and altogether general education within a comparatively short space of time, let him be "drawn on the jury." Besides the twelve that are actually serving in the court room on the panel, there are always a dozen or more killing time in the jury room. Among this number are to be found town assemblymen, doctors, farmers, paymasters, retired gents and the representatives from many other callings. When the atmosphere becomes sufficiently blue, with all windows carefully closed, then is the time the excused members open up Questions of law are liable for the first and general discussion. Very soon however there is certain to be heard an inquiry about horned cattle and y[illegible]ing heifers. Different kinds of tob[illegible]re extolled or condemned; then [illegible] for [illegible]ame back and what's good [illegible]ve a horse with the heaves.

Over in one corner may be heard two of the elder boys discussing the length of women's skirts, while on the other side of the table Borah and Norris are properly getting theirs, with a whole lot of information on how to run the government, and the general uselessness of a "bum" congress. And it's all free and mostly sound. At some time or other every member is required to be ready and able to express his sentiments with a considerable degree of finality. Discussions are in no way limited as to topic or opinion, with matters in plenty covering in scope from the price of corned beef and the general cussedness of the 18th amendment, to how much sugar and chopped raisins to put into a ten-gallon cask of cider to give it the proper kicking value. The other viewpoints of this august body are instantly available, and right on tap, with such of them as are actually "on the case." Then if justice is to be arrived at, it is these same men that are there to do it. And in their calm, careful consideration, they are capable and ready to properly perform one of the highest functions given to any man to perform, that of administering justice between fellowmen.

Big sale today, Tuesday and Wednesday at Zegeer's on toys, fancy boxes, box handkerchiefs, toilet sets, silk umbrellas, silk pajamas, and silk robes. It will pay you to visit our store and save money.—Adv.

Mrs. William McDowell who has been ill for three weeks is reported to be improving.

George A. Barber, of Jewett City, a member of the family at the Masonic home in Wallingford, sent to a friend in the borough four dandelions which he picked Wednesday, Dec. 17th.

Many residents of the borough and outlying districts have realized considerable income during the last two weeks in making and selling from door to door, different and attractive sorts of Yuletide decorations. The big wooded areas all through this section, where a dozen varieties of evergreens are to be found, are dry and open which has made the collection of wreath material as easy as in summer time. Although great quantities of laurel thrive on the local hillsides, yet, probably because of law restrictions, there is but sparse showing of its glossy green foliage in the holiday decorations.

FUNERAL

Willard Barber

The funeral of Willard Barber of West Warwick, was held in the Baptist church Saturday afternoon, Rev. E. E. Scates officiating. Mrs. George Cregan sang, with Mrs. John Davis as organist. Burial was in Robbins cemetery, the bearers being Leland and Lemuel Green, of Jewett City and Rhode Island relatives. Relatives from West Warwick, Hope Valley, Voluntown, Norwich and Jewett City attended the services.

Miss Delphine Beauregard went to Worcester Sunday morning, called there by the serious illness of her sister, Mrs. Gingras.

Mrs. Sherman R. Waters returned from Backus hospital Saturday to her home in Lisbon. She had been a patient there for nine weeks.

The Red Cross room will be open from two o'clock to half past four this (Monday) afternoon to receive good clothing to be used for needy people in the town. Three ex-service men's families, who, through unemployment, need assistance, are receiving aid from the Red Cross with grocery and milk orders until work can be found. One family has received aid all summer. This statement is made for the information of many who say the Red Cross does nothing to aid the needy in this vicinity.

3 SHOPPING DAYS TO XMAS

PUBLIC IS DEMANDING CONN. GRADED TURKEYS

(Special to The Bulletin)

HARTFORD, Dec. —There is probably no single enterprise which has attracted such ready acceptance by the general public as the marketing of Connecticut native fancy turkeys, according to the state department of agriculture. Although the movement has been under way little more than a year, leading turkey growers, it is explained, are finding it decidedly to their advantage to market their dressed birds according to official grades identified with the New England Quality Label.

The practice of marketing New England turkeys on a graded basis backed by official state inspection was introduced just prior to Thanksgiving last year. Its ready acceptance by the public is largely accounted for by the fact that consumers are able to identify the genuine native bird and better still, the matter of selecting the top grade of native bird is made much easier. Misrepresentation is reduced to a minimum and growers are able to capitalize on their ability to put the best turkey on the market that it is possible to purchase.

The number of graded turkeys in New England has been somewhat limited, which may partly account for the satisfactory price returns. While high class western birds were selling at retail from 35 to 40 cents per pound the local growers experienced no difficulty in disposing of their native graded birds at 60 cents per pound retail and 50 cents per pound wholesale. The demand was so great, the department states, that many of the local growers in spite of the increased number of birds in the state over-sold on the Thanksgiving market and there will be less Connecticut native fancy turkeys for the Christmas trade this year than a year ago.

S. McLean Buckingham, state commissioner of agriculture, at a recent meeting of Connecticut turkey producers, urged them to build their business on a sound foundation so that their industry might continue to expand. He pointed out that the expansion of Connecticut's turkey program depends upon strict adherence to quality requirements, a fair price consistent with high quality and the acceptance of the program by a majority of the larger producers.

Canada May Raise More Pork

TORONTO—(AP)—Great increase in pork production in Canada is predicted by Robert Weir, minister of agriculture, as a result of the declining value of wheat as a cash crop.

DANIELSON

DANIELSON TO PROVIDE LIBERALLY FOR ITS NEEDY

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Dec. 21.— Christmas week—starting out tonight with services in various churches about town, all especially commemorative of the great holiday. And what a week this is going to be in this town. Numbers of organizations are making ready to do something for those who are without the means to help themselves at this festival time of the year. There is to be plentiful supply of food for needy families. There is to be good cheer, even for those who have little to be glad about at this particular time of the year.

It so happens that this town is particularly blest in a year when industrial New England, on the whole, is down for the count. It's going to be a mighty good Christmas around these diggings, a real holiday in which the needy, as well as those who share more generously in the affairs of life, are going to realize that Christmas is here.

Distribution of baskets of good things will begin Monday. This may not be in an official way, but there are those persons who will begin to distribute Christmas cheer on the date mentioned, and organizations will be passing out baskets, Tuesday and Wednesday.

These baskets will contain an abundance of food—chicken, turkey, vegetables and what not, and it all will be fresh— the best that money can purchase.

Do You Know?—

That there's a great, big Christmas tree over at Davis park, and that it has not been set up yet, but will be Monday, and all dolled up with electric lights for Christmas eve, when the carol singers will be around and there'll be plenty of presents for the youngsters;— and that Raymond A. Preston of New York and Mrs. Earle Young of Providence were visitors today with their parents, Town Clerk and Mrs. Frank T. Preston of Broad street;—and that a lot of the good people of Danielson are secretly doing some really wonderful things for the needy of the community, and don't want anyone to know what they are about;—and that they are having trouble keeping motorists going the way they should go at that "rotary" at Brooklyn village;—and that eggs are about 20 cents a dozen cheaper than they were a year ago at this time;—and that the elected members of the legislature will be hopping out for Hartford in about two weeks, most of them wondering what it's all about;—and that you are expected to be generous with your Christmas donations to the churches, they need the money;—and, also, that there is a host of fraternal orders and other more or less social organizations around here getting ready to elect officers;—and that, for the first time, a coast-to-coast bus, Boston-Los Angeles—ran through here yesterday, with a capacity cargo of persons, apparently immune to rough punishment, riding the trail to gelatine land;—and that Judge W. Fenner Woodward and attorneys for the interested parties spent most of Saturday afternoon in the town court fooling around with a case in which the witnesses' fees amounted to more than the sum sued for;—and that this week is not going to be so profitable for many workers, put in dry dock, as it were for the time being;— and that lighted Christmas- trees are "blossoming" here, there and everywhere in Danielson;—and that this shortest day in the year would have been a nice day, good as it was, if it had been less cloudy and threatening; —and thanks because there was no snow!

Scattered through the pages of this newspaper this morning are sundry items having to do with doings of racketeers who have been operating around here over the week end. The bad boys have pulled all kinds of stunts, but none of them too tough, rated by Chicago standards. Chief John McFarland had his troubles over the week end fighting it out with the automobile drivers—and they are a tough lot on the whole—about doing what they should do with their machines, and what they should not do. Some of those who were just too rough about operation will be in court, here and there, Monday.

Gradually the working force is being increased at the new A. T. and T. "booster" building, on the West Side. Only a few men are working over there just now. The force is gradually to be increased until 25 are at work making installations that will keep them busy until at least July 1, of the coming, doubtfully glad New Year.

VOLUNTOWN

R. F. Lund of Hartford, state superintendent of nature study, spent Thursday afternoon with the seventh and eighth grades in the Center school. Mr. Lund explained to the children the advantages derived from nature study; explained how they might earn nature study certificates and showed three reels of pictures. The honor pupils of the other grades were invited to attend Mr. Lund's program.

When the seventh and eighth grades gave a party at the Center school, Thursday evening, Dec. 11, eighteen persons were present. The prize for the best stunt was awarded Edmund Jolin. The card prizes given the winner at each table were awarded, Miss Dorothy Fitch, Ernest Trudeau, Paul Laine and John Herbert.

Local users of electricity were much pleased last week on receiving their monthly bills to find a reduction in their line charge. Another reduction in the price per K. hour is promised for next month.

Christmas decorations are beginning to appear in the windows and doors of local homes, giving them a festive appearance.

Friends of Mrs. Henry Cole of Beachdale are pleased to learn that she has returned from a hospital in Newton, Mass., much improved in health.

Men in the employ of the town have recently been engaged in putting local highways in condition for winter travel.

WILLIMANTIC WOMAN IDENTIFIES KATZ AS MAN WHO TOOK ANTIQUES

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Dec. 21—The fact that antique swindling operations alleged to have been perpetrated by Harry Katz of Providence have been carried on in other parts of the state was established today with the identification by Mrs. Morgan Butler of Willimantic of an antique table, recovered by the police from Katz, following his arrest Friday, which, she said, was stolen from her last week. After reading in The Bulletin Saturday morning an item describing the arrest of Katz in connection with an antique fraud, Mrs. Butler went to the state police barracks at Danielson and described her loss, together with circumstances surrounding it to Lieut. Ross V. Urquhart. Upon assuring Lieut. Urquhart that she easily could identify her table, Mrs. Butler was shown a collection of stolen goods and without hesitation she promptly selected a ladder-back chair which she said belonged to her.

Mrs. Butler told the police that the article was taken from her custody by two men who represented themselves as agents of a firm of antique reproducers. Their purpose in borrowing the chair, she said, was to photograph its fine lines. They paid her five dollars for the few hours inconvenience that was to have been caused her through their negotiations. Mrs. Butler said she had heard or seen nothing of the men until Saturday when she learned of the arrest of Katz, who was taken into custody after it is alleged he had swindled from Miss Nellie Stone of Sunnyside avenue, this city, a highly valued antique table. Mrs. Butler later identified the Providence man as the person who presented himself at her home. Katz is being held for appearance in city court, Putnam, on December 27, when he will be arraigned on charges of fraud, growing out of his alleged theft of Mrs. Stone's antique piece, which, as yet, has not been recovered.

Lieut. Urquhart said this afternoon that police in this state and Rhode Island are continuing investigation of complaints alleging similar thefts in an effort to procure additional evidence against the man.

PLAINFIELD

Plainfield grange held its meeting Tuesday evening with Worthy Master Elmer Green in the chair. After the business session a social time in charge of the committee, Mrs. Florence Lathrop and Mrs. Margaret Randall, was enjoyed. About sixty were present, each one bringing a ten-cent gift for the tree. The children sang Christmas hymns and recited Christmas verses. The hall was decorated and there was a large tree. Popcorn balls were distributed after the meeting. The next meeting will be held Jan. 6, when the officers will be installed.

The O. J. S. will hold a Christmas party in the vestry of the First Congregational church this (Monday) evening at 7.30.

At the conclusion of the exercises little Christmas brick boxes were distributed to all.

Burial of Philip J. Palmer

The body of Philip J. Palmer of Boston, son of the late Myron Palmer, who died suddenly was brought to Hampton for burial in the South cemetery Thursday.

CENTRAL VILLAGE

Mrs. William Bogue and Miss Elena Lester, of Norwich, were visitors Thursday at the home of Mrs Bogue's aunt, Mrs. Allan Lewis.

Olney Gilleran is ill with pneumonia at the Central hotel.

MOOSUP

The Christmas tree and entertainment will be on Wednesday evening in the vestry.

Thursday afternoon the grammar schools of the town held Christmas exercises and trees. Many parents were present and enjoyed the varied and pleasing programs. After the exercises the fun of unloading the trees began. Besides gifts, each child was presented a box or package of candy.

Iowa's fire loss last year was $6,776,473, and 100 persons were killed in 5,333 fires.

PUTNAM

LOCAL PEOPLE ON LIST OF REPUBLICAN CONTRIBUTORS

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Dec. 21—Local people mentioned in the recently filed report of J. Henry Roraback, treasurer of the republican state central committee, as having made individual contributions to the central committee during the 1930 campaign are, State Highway Commissioner John A. Macdonald, John B. Byrne, vice president of the Hartford-Connecticut Trust company and former state bank commissioner, and E. C. Rogers, landlord of the Putnam Inn. All three are prominently identified with the republican party in Connecticut and are widely known throughout the state. According to the published report of the committee chairman which on Saturday, was filed with the secretary of state, Commissioner Macdonald's contribution was $300, Mr. Byrne's $150 and Mr. Rogers' $100.

Among the items of expense listed in the report were the campaign travelling expenses of Miss Katherine Byrne, vice chairman of the central committee, which totaled $500. Miss Byrne, who resides on Seward street, this city, is one of the outstanding figures in Connecticut republican politics. Aside from her duties as vice chairman of the committee, Miss Byrne during the campaign travelled to all parts of the state.

Putnam along with several other eastern Windham county towns, will send veteran democratic legislators for representation in general assembly when the 1931 session convenes in January. The subject of committee assignments at this early date, is eliciting considerable comment from the state political observers primarily because of the fact that the large number of democrats elected this year has reduced by a substantial margin, the roster of veteran legislators. Putnam representatives elected in November were Leon A. Talbot and J. Otis Fox, who served in the 1929 session. Two years ago, Mr. Talbot served on the sale of lands and congressional and senatorial districts committees. Both are rated by one political writer, as being "normally unimportant", although the latter committee may rank wel lthis year by considering a bill to redistrict the state. Mr. Fox, in the 1929 session was a member of the committee on banks, an important committee although not considered as one of major rank.

Strictly speaking all committee posts are vacant when a new session of the legislature opens, but rather more than half of the old members will continue their committee service unless orthodox tactics are waived during the period of organization.

A high mass of requiem will be celebrated in St. Mary's church on Wednesday morning in commemoration of the first anniversary of the sad and sudden death of Captain of Police William J. Jarvis which occurred shortly after 6 o'clock on the morning of December 23, 1929. The death of the beloved police official only two days in advance of Christmas, a year ago, came so unexpectedly that it served to dim in noticeable measures throughout the community, the lustre of the holiday and incorporate in its stead a note of municipal sadness. Although a year has nearly elapsed since Captain Jarvis was taken from this life, his eight years as a public servant during which he established an excellent record as an officer, executive and friend, serve as a permanent memorial to him. In police circles locally and statewide, the name of Captain Jarvis ever recurrs during conversations of policemen when events of the past are recalled. During his service as head of the city's law enforcing department, the late Captain Jarvis developed a wide circle of friendships with business and professional men and police officials that extended throughout New England, many of whom will pause for a brief spell Wednesday to attend the special service of commemoration.

A general alarm from Box 42 at the corner of Main and Bridge streets, received Saturday evening at 8:40 o'clock was for a chimney fire at the home of Mrs. Harriet M. Ross, 21 Bridge street. Sparks escaping from the chimney alarmed a passerby who rushed to the fire box and sent in the alarm that was responsible for a sudden congestion of traffic in the business section. Firemen working under the direction of Chief Alphonse Dumas quickly extinguished the blaze. No property loss was reported.

This afternoon at two o'clock apparatus at the central station in Union square responded to a "4" call for a brush fire on a tract of land in the River road section. Upon arrival at the fire, Chief Dumas discovered that the blaze had been set by the property owner who possessed a permit to clear his land in this fashion. The call for assistance it was later learned, had been sent in by a neighbor who believed the fire to be uncontrolled. Before the No. 1 engine company reached the state highway on its return run, motor trouble developed with the result that the hook and ladder company at the central station had to be dispatched to tow the disabled truck to quarters. Finding the trouble to be in a clogged gas line, mechanics while effecting repairs removed the gasoline container and emptied the contents into the gutter on Harris street. Before the fumes of the fuel had evaporated, some unknown passerby unmindfully tossed a lighted match into the street. The flow of gas instantly ignited and a screen of fire blazed up and scurried down the hill in the direction of the state armory building, in much the same fashion as a train of burning gun powder. Sensing immediate danger, a squad of firemen who were nearby, armed themselves with fomite tanks and attacked the blaze from both ends, extinguishing it before it attained serious proportions. No damage was incurred, since only the gasoline was consumed.

MANY WITNESS PRESENTATION OF POMFRET NATIVITY PLAY

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Dec. 21—The unpretentious little hall in Pomfret, where the Nativity Play, the community's celebration of Christmas, is given annually, was filled to its capacity at two performances of the famous production which was presented for the 19th consecutive year tonight. Long in advance of the hour set for rise of the curtains, people from far and near filtered into the neighboring town and once doors of the hall were opened, only a few minutes passed before the milling crowd had been converted into a seated audience. People arriving too late for admittance to the first performance were received at the Christ church during the hour intervening before the second enactment.

The pageant of Christmas was exceptionally well done this year, every character giving an especially fine portrayal of the difficult roles which have been taken from the scriptures.

In the principal roles Miss Lois Lake Ransom of New York was seen as Mary, the mother of Christ; Arthur Converse of St. Johnsbury, Vt., as the Angel Gabriel and J. Frederick Ash, as the master shepherd. Others who participated in the play were: Angelic choir, Marian Watson, Beatrice Greene, Margaret Greene, Louise Greene, Allard Melbert, Eda Piercy. The heralds, Alice Ash, John Ash. Attendants, John Greene, Ben Greene, Robert Ash, Gertrude Ash. Wise men of the east, Frank Chandler, (king of a great pastoral people), Robert Arnold, (the young king), Charles Swain, (ancient and powerful king of a mighty realm). Shepherds, Allen Averill, the blue shepherd, Irving Emlott, the white shepherd from the hills; Ellis Pritchard, the village shepherd; Edward Arnold, the trusted shepherd of much wisdom and experience; Milton Nelson, the young shepherd.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Gagnon of Main street, entertained today, Mr. and Mrs Joseph Grimley of North Attleboro, Mass.

Miss Dorothy Keefe, student at Connecticut college, New London, is spending the Christmas recess at her home in this city.

BLACK HILL

WONDERFUL CITRUS ZONE AS SEEN BY BROWNS

Writing from St. Petersburg, Florida, Mr. and Mrs. Everett E. Brown, of Black Hill, send home the following interesting notes:

We have met several Connecticut folks. One day we called on Charles Richardson, who summers at Plainfield. With him were Miss Della Newton and Mrs. Phebe Edwards. Mr. Richardson has a handsome grove which shows signs of excellent care. We found him at work in the grove the day we called. Of course we felt it a combined duty and pleasure to sample the fruit and gave it our approval.

Another day at Orlando, we stopped at a service station and were waited on by Alfred Carpenter, of Eastford, recently arrived.

Great Citrus Section.

This country is a great citrus center and has many fine groves; as well as many others which are neglected, just as apple orchards are neglected in New England. But I think that on this sandy soil fruit tree, degenerate faster than on the heavier soils of our New England states.

During the land boom Winter Park went about as crazy as any place in Florida over sub-divisions, etc., and streets and avenues were cut for miles through some of the best groves, destroying many handsome trees. Some of these streets were paved, others were not, but the trees in most cases were neglected for several years and thereby damaged. The country around Winter Park is mostly level, with quite a number of beautiful lakes which helped much to attract settlers in the pioneer days and continue to attract the transcient winter visitors today.

College A Feature.

Rollins college being located here with Hamilton Holt, of Windham county, president, makes a feature which is an additional attraction to many with children. The many lectures and entertainments, and the Carnegie library are various features of the Rollins program which draw people from the cold north. Doubtless this attraction will continue to grow in power as years go by.

Danger Of Freezing.

This low, level country adjacent to Winter Park, has always been more or less at a disadvantage in citrus culture, on account of the danger of occasional freezes, which in the pioneer days were the occassional causes of serious financial reverses to grove owners. Several citrus men with whom I talked, who have owned and now own groves in the level sections, expressed their belief, that in the future, the really successful citrus growing would be in the hands of the large operating companies, both because they could employ larger units of power in cultivation, spraying, fertilizing, etc., as well as man labor, more economically than the small grower, they also could handle the distribution end more advantageously as they could ship in car-lots and regulate distribution in many ways to better advantage.

Going To The Hills.

But the greatest advantage of the larger developments seems to be in the fact that increased modern knowledge of necessary conditions for highest results, gained by the years of experience and observation has led them to a wiser selection of soils, and they are now going into the hills of Florida, instead of the level tracts for their big plantings. They get a somewhat different type of soil with a clay sub-soil which stores up water through the season; while being on hilly ground, the drainage is so good that stagnant, soggy conditions are avoided.

The apple and peach growers in New England learned long ago to go to the hills for successful fruit growing, but we learned aso the value of drainage — both water drainage and air drainage as important for highest success. I am told told that this is equally true here, that orange trees a well as apple and peach do not like wet feet—this is somewhat true of the human family, also, but it took some time for us to learn it.

Howey In The Hills.

One bright day I spent the day with a bus load of other sunshine pilgrims at the biggest complete citrus development in America. Howey in the Hills is a wonderful sight. Mr. Howey has carried to completion four other citrus programs before this one, but this is the biggest. I can't describe it; simply talk some about it. Well, first it is 12 miles one way by 10 miles the other. To partially visualize this, measure this off in Connecticut. You have seen some of the noted Pomfret apple orchards, well, measure off over Brooklyn hills 12 miles, imagine it cleared and covered with rich, green foliage, trees, loaded with oranges and grapefruit glistening in the sunlight. Can you see it? No you can't. You have absolutely no conception of what I am trying to tell you about until you drive to the top of one of these hills as I did, and look across to another hill covered with oranges, and then drive to the top of that hill and look ahead to another hill, 12 miles of it, and all covered with golden spheres, like the golden "apples of Hesperides."

Say, I forgot to tell you these hills are the highest in Florida, 362 feet up, higher than the famous Bok Tower, where I plan to go later and hear that wonderful Belgian carillion player, who commenced his recitals yesterday.

Planting By System.

This corporation does the whole program from start to finish. Starting with the land in the rough, covered with oak and pine, clearing, cultivating, planting with trees grown with its own nursery on the rough lemon stock, and then growing for two years from the bud in the nursery before planting. All through under expert, scientific direction until finally they put the finished products in the cities, not only of America, but also in Europe. They claim that they can grow this superior product for $1.00 per box less than it can be grown in California.

New Ideas In Canning.

Another important recent factor, is the canning of the citrus fruits for shipment, and still more recent is the completion of a factory for canning and shipment of orange juice. This is done by a new process, by sterilization, etc., which makes it unnecessary to use any sweeting or preservatives. This will use up the odd sizes and smaller fruits and thereby relieve the market on better grades. This fall arrangements have been completed with a big distributor in the north, who is planning to deliver this juice in the morning to your breakfast table, in about the manner that the milk and dairies now deliver milk and cream. So, if you can't bring Mohammed to the mountain they will bring the mountain up to you, or at least, squeeze out the juice and bring that up—and by the way they are using up the pulp and skins left over and extracting essential oils for perfumery and cosmetics. They plan to can 100 carloads this year.

I haven't time to tell you about the Hotel Floridian in the grounds at Howey or the golf course, etc., nor the house on the corner on the way up which the guide, Mr. Heathcock, pointed out on the way up, "The House with seven Kitchens." Maybe I'll tell you when I get back to New England, but I have written enough for once.

PRESTON

The Ladies' Bible class of the Baptist Sunday school was entertained at the home of Mrs. George Pendleton, Tuesday afternoon, a good number being present. Following a devotional and business meeting a fine program, in charge of Mrs. Charles Pendleton and Miss Florence Pendleton, was presented, as follows: Song, Joy to the World, by all; reading, Mrs. Appleton Maine duet, Mr. and Mrs. Smith; reading, Mrs. Bentley; reading, Nellie Main; solo, Mrs. John Richardson. A Christmas tree with gifts for each was a feature of the program. Santa Claus was well impersonated by Mrs. Earl Bennett. The house was prettily decorated with Christmas greens. Fruit, jello, cookies and coffee were served by the hostess.

The grange meeting which was to have held next Tuesday evening has been postponed for one week, to Dec. 30.

Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Hall spent Tuesday with friends at Hamburg.

The leader of the C. E. meeting Sunday was Elsie Fritz; topic, How to Make Others Happy.

PUMPKIN-SIZED LETTUCE GOAL OF HORTICULTURIST

URBANA, Ill.—(AP)—To raise heads of lettuce the size of pumpkins is the aim of Charles E. Durst, University of Illinois horticulturist.

Durst believes it possible to produce strains of lettuce that will have greater adaptability to seasons, opening the way for the growing of lettuce in warmer climates.

There are more than 100 cultivated varieties of lettuce, but Durst says that the French variety of Cos lettuce is the only cultivated one which gives evidence of having quantitative factors dominant to those of the wild.

OLD HOME OF DARWIN MAY HOUSE INSTITUTE

DOWNE, England—(AP)— Darwin's old home here may house the first institute for surgical research in this country.

Lord Moynihan, president of the Royal College of Surgeons, is interested in the proposal and the college hopes to carry it out.

It is estimated $500,000 will be needed, most of the sum to be endowment. It would be run in conjunction with the new laboratories established by the college in London.

SAYS LIFE IN DEEP SEA IS AFFECTED BY SUNLIGHT

LA JOLLA, Calif.—(AP)—Sunlight influences life even in the deep sea, says Prof. W. E. Allen of the Scripps Institution of Oceanography.

Diatoms, minute living creatures of delicate color and beautiful forms, are more spiny and slender at considerable depths, he says, than those living nearer the surface.

Professor Allen holds that this attenuated form is a response to the feeble light, being the form affording the best conditions for absorbing the energy of light.

Extract Sulphur From Coal

LENINGRAD—(AP)—Discovery of a new process for extracting sulphur from natural coal and naphtha gases, which is expected to save the soviet government large sums spent on imports of sulphur from abroad, has been announced by the Chemical institute here.

NO FEDERAL AID WANTED

"I do not think our community eeds any assistance from the federal overnment to meet local burdens," was part of the reply made by Mayor Robbins to the query of Senator Walsh concerning the unemployment situation and the idea of providing federal assistance.

Mayor Holt of New London in much he same tone said that New London pects to take care of its own, as it ways has, and the situation does not ppear to be such as to apply for fedal aid.

Regardless of the number out of ork and those in need of assistance, e view that has thus been exessed by the mayors is the proper ie. The idea of rushing to the fedal government for such purposes annot be endorsed. It must be plain at if the government at Washington going to make appropriations to ke care of the unemployment situaon in the country it must meet the hole problem. It must make a disbution that will take in all states and when that distribution is made it means that the government is going to call upon those states in one way or another to meet that outlay. The government at Washington has no method of picking the funds out of the thin air any more than Norwich or New London or the 48 states of the nation. It will have to be met by putting an assessment upon the states or upon the taxpayers, but with this quite evident fact that no matter what the bill for this city or this state might be there would be no uncertainty that as much as is taken would be returned.

The unemployment situation and the demands for aid should be taken care of by the various communities. It has been done in the past and it can be done now. It can be done with a better knowledge of the situation through local efforts than through any government agency, with its red tape and large operating expenses, and the mayors who have indicated that to the inquiring senator are to be commended for their action.

REQUEST MISDIRECTED

No sympathy is to be wasted upon Senator Norris because of the opposition he encountered during the recent campaign or the fact that R. H. Lucas, executive director of the republican national committee, made a personal contribution in an effort to accomplish the defeat of the Nebraska senator.

Whatever opposition he experienced from republicans from within or outside of Nebraska was due entirely to the attitude which Senator Norris has taken for years. He has persistently fought the administration and his party. He has sought reelection as a republican only to get into office. Immediately after election he has made it plain that he was going to be anything but a republican. He stood under the party emblem because he knew it was necessary in order to be elected, but he at once became a deserter and has so acted that it would have been preferable to have had a democratic senator from that state.

In the last election there was an opportunity for him to show his true colors and stand for such independency as he has displayed. He might have been elected even if he had done so, but in that case he would have lost the standing in the senate which he has gained through his years of service as a republican. He would not have gotten the advantage on committees that accrues to him because he is listed as a republican, but it is an advantage which is more unfair than the openly acknowledged contribution by Mr. Lucas to accomplish his defeat. Mr. Lucas was inspired to contribute to the campaign against Norris because of the two-faced position which Norris has taken. Claiming to be a republican for the prestige that goes with it, while being just the opposite, flatly shows his unworthiness to be a republican and justifies contributions to aid in his defeat. If he doesn't believe in the republican party, doesn't like its platform and doesn't intend to support it, he should get out. If he doesn't get out under such conditions there is nothing really surprising about it when republicans endeavor to put him out. Having invited the opposition he received, whether it was successful or not, the political effort to awaken sympathy in his behalf furnishes the chance to emphasize what a party renegade he is. He is a glowing example of the type that bites the hand that feeds him.

Instead of asking Lucas to quit, the request should be directed to Norris. He ought to stand under his true colors.

WHAT WILL CHICAGO DO?

In the natural course of events elections roll around. In anticipation thereof preparations are made by those directly concerned and just now eyes are being turned to the mayoralty contest in the city of Chicago because of the declaration by Mayor Thompson that he is a candidate to succeed himself.

Having been mayor of the country's second largest city for three terms it might be expected that his experience would be such that there would be a demand for his renomination. That would naturally follow administrations which had been successful and which evidenced the handling of the city's affairs in a manner to command confidence and trust. But Chicago has been going through a period of criminal activity and gangster development, so that with the Thompson announcement made there can be little question as to what the racketeers think about it or how they are going to act concerning it.

Conditions in Chicago have been such as to call for a thorough housecleaning. This is not the first opportunity that has been presented to the people of that city to take matters into their own hands. They have had it before and so voted as to indicate that they were satisfied with the state of affairs and wanted it continued. If they are pleased with the results and insist upon another lease of life, they know what to do at the polls.

On the other hand, if there is any sincere desire for a clean-up in that city and there are enough voters who feel that way, the opportunity will be presented to them on election day to do something for themselves. This doesn't mean staying away from the polls. It doesn't mean presenting a divided front by allowing the opposition to be broken up into several groups so that none of them can succeed. It means getting together upon a strong, representative candidate who will assure a different type of government, better control of conditions within the city, sounder administration of finances and above all a determined fight against gangster conditions.

Whether it can be done depends upon the people of Chicago. If public sentiment insists upon a change it will be accomplished. If it is willing to place the stamp of approval upon what it has been getting and ask for a continuance of it, that is likewise obtainable. What Chicago gets in the way of city government in the succeeding administration rests entirely with the voters of that city.

PRESIDENT KNIGHT

Did the suggestion of E. Kent Hubbard that Connecticut secede from New England bring to Connecticut the presidency of the New England council?

There is nothing to prove it. It may have all been scheduled and would have come in the ordinary course of events, but it is significant that it should have resulted so quickly after the urge had been put forth.

Mr. Hubbard's proposal was not taken very seriously in his own state. It was looked upon with surprise among the other New England states. There has never been the ghost of a chance that it would be undertaken, but as the wheel of progress moves around, Connecticut, just as firmly entrenched in New England as it always has been, gets the presidency of the organization which has been displaying so much commendable activity in connection with New England affairs.

Possibly it is so that Connecticut can display a greater activity in connection with that organization and through such gain a greater benefit for itself. If that is so its newly-elected president, Harry C. Knight, who is at the head of the Southern New England Telephone company, can be relied upon to produce it. His selection gives assurance of strong leadership for the New England council and justifies the expectancy that the organization will make a worth-while record during the coming year. On the other hand, if for any reason there has not been the close cooperation with the rest of New England that there ought to be, it can be anticipated that the deficiency will be eliminated insofar as time and effort will permit. Connecticut has reason to feel that the council has chosen well and an effective demonstration of it may be expected in the next several months.

ACTION AT LAST

Twenty days after it met for its concluding session, congress put most of the finishing touches on measures which were commonly agreed upon before it met as necessary to meet emergencies. In other words, the emergencies were known to exist. There was need of some legislative action in order to meet them. The government could aid in the relief of unemployment by providing funds for more work. It could also give assistance to the farmers who suffered severely from the drought of this year.

The need of doing something was apparent, so much so that there would have been no claim of undue haste had the relief advocated been approved within a week. That was, of course, too much to expect of the existing congress, too much to hope for under the conditions existing in the senate. In spite of the need for as early action as possible congress has strung it out for three weeks and even now it is probable that there would have been political delays created except for the fact that there was a desire to go home for the holidays.

Thus action has at last been taken. The measures which the president urged have been adopted, with some changes as to the amount involved, but even now the actual voting of the money for the drought relief has gone over until January. Enough has been done, however, to make it possible to plan for such outlays in the meanwhile.

Influences in the senate did their utmost to combat the administration, but they discovered that the president was not afraid to carry his problem to the country and disclose the antics of his opponents and the efforts to make political capital out of the unemployment situation. It has taken three weeks to get action on emergency matters which ought not to have required over three days.

EDITORIAL NOTES

It is no time to let Santa Claus complain of nothing to do.

Believe it or not, we are on the homestretch to Christmas.

There is still a chance to respond to that plea to shop as early as you can.

The man on the corner says: Are the days getting any shorter than your pocketbook?

It took the senate a long time to realize the distress was being increased while it fiddled and fumed.

Every day that congress delays means just that much longer getting the machinery for relief action tuned up for effective service.

EASTERN CONNECTICUT KEEPS EYE PEELED ON GOSHEN'S RECORD STARLING FLOCK

In The Bulletin the other day the Goshen correspondent reports "the largest flock of starlings ever seen . . . there being several thousands of them."

This bird, now so common in eastern Connecticut, is comparatively speaking a newcomer here; indeed, the first mention of the species is to be found in The Bulletin of so recent an issue as that of Jan. 13, 1919, which reads as follows:

First Starlings In 1919

The first flock of English starlings have made their appearance in Jewett City borough. A flock of 20 was seen in the Baptist cemetery yesterday. These interesting birds stay here in flocks all winter. They look black at a little distance but when seen at close quarters the brownish green of their plumage is noted. They walk, do not hop, like sparrows, have a yellowish brown bill, long pointed wings and a short, square tail. They have only been in this section for a few years and were brought from England to New York in 1890

Enigma In Flight

Naturalists have often said that they would like to ask the starlings to explain just how they are able to launch themselves in air at such speed, how they figure out just how much of the wing to use in each stroke, which feathers are to be interlocked, and for just what intervals of time, and how they can check themselves so nicely in coming to an abrupt stop. Something is known of the structure and mechanisms used by the bird in its flight, even though it is not feasible for man to duplicate their methods exactly.

There are other things that can be only guessed about. When a flock of these birds in flight execute marvelous maneuvers in which the flock maintains its entity although there is some shifting about of individuals as the flock changes in form, what method of communication is used? Is there any leader in control? If so, how does a bird become the leader, through personality, speed, age, "influence," or by formal election?

Why are birds of this species so willing to tolerate the close proximity of others in feeding, even closer grouping while roosting, but tend to avoid flocks of more than a very few individuals during the summer? Are there any thought processes involved, any choice of motive, or have they just happened to find that this method is successful and have continued in the rut without considering any consequences.

Starlings are English in origin, were introduced in this country in a few small lots and have taken possession of a large territory. Naturalists say that it will probably be found easier to eliminate English histories than to keep English starlings from invading Chicago. These birds have crossed the Alleghenies and have reached Canada as well as working their way down the Atlantic seaboard. Now Englanders here about get the full benefit of their presence in winter because large numbers of birds that breed in the interior of New England assemble along our coast where the weather is sufficiently open for them to live in very large numbers. There are several kinds of native birds that stay with us year after year although these same species are represented only very sparsely or not at all 50 or 100 miles north of us. The starlings far outnumber them.

Mixed Up With Grackles

Frequently a beginner in bird study reads the description of a grackle, finds that the bird is black, fairly big, and common in the east, and then proceeds to call starlings either blackbirds or grackles. A real blackbird occurs but very rarely in Connecticut in winter. Cowbirds are a bit more frequent and grackles are also rare. In midwinter the chances are about 100,000 to 1 that the blackbird is a starling.

In a flock of these birds roving about in one's yard, it may appear that there are two kinds. There are some plumage variations but much of the difference is really due to the direction of light or its intensity. The female birds are a trifle smaller, more dingy, and have less irridescence. The males are very striking when the sun is shining brightly upon them from the right angle. The solid black plumage suddenly becomes variegated. Greens, blues and purples mix in with the glossy black.

There are spots that are very different from the other parts. Some birds have yellow bills when their companions wear brown or blackish ones. The birds are still starlings.

When seen in flight, starlings offer many cases of eye-strain and heartbreak to the beginner. They go so fast and they look so unlike sparrows, that they suggest all sorts of exotic possibilities.

It is hard to learn their method of flight or their pattern of wings and tail because of their speed, momentary appearance from various angles, and the fact that the beginner does not know what marks to look for. He has not become trained in analyzing a bird's appearance and crystallizing in concrete statements the facts observed. It is nothing but a blur at first.

Cheer up! It is not too hard to get over that condition.

Look For Long Wings

To begin, assume that all birds seen in the air are starlings. Gulls probably will be automatically recognized.

After a while one will learn pigeons but at first whenever a pigeon, crow, or gull is seen, you will be likely to proclaim it an eagle, hawk, or wild goose.

Assuming that all small dark birds are starlings, look for long pointed wings, a very quick wingbeat and drawing in of the wing, a rather heavy body tapered bluntly at both ends which appears momentarily almost without wings and then is blurred by the flashing open of the wings.

There is an impression of a direct flight in which that bluntly pointed forward end is driven headlong into the air as though it were boring its way through. There may be a flash of lighter color under the wings or there may not.

After collecting a number of such observations all catalogued as starlings, one will find that almost all of them correspond. Another group of impressions can be lumped together as views of English sparrows. The occasional "other bird" will have to go untagged.

When one can identify pigeons, English sparrows, starlings and crows repeatedly at a distance correctly, one is in a position to do some successful birding. Otherwise one will be missed repeatedly, will chase incessantly after these birds instead of spending time with others more interesting, and the notebook will be packed with incomplete descriptions of these birds which lead one to pore through the bird books, and to label the incompletely described bird with the name of some rare bird that chances partially to fit the careless description.

YOUR HEALTH

Teething

By Dr. Percy Norman Williams, Tucson, Ariz.
(From Gorgas Memorial Institute)

There is a popular fallacy among mothers that the serious constitutional disturbances which occompany delayed and difficult eruption of the temporary teeth-teething, as it is sometimes called, is due to inflamed and tender gums. While the gums do contribute to the trouble, there is another and more serious cause, which will be discussed in this brief article.

In cutting of the temporary teeth, it is a significant fact, that little or no disturbance occurs during the eruption of the six front teeth in each jaw. The shape of these teeth, called incisors, with their thin and chisel-like edges, make it possible for them to push their way through the gums with comparative ease. Back of the front teeth on each side and in each jaw, are two grinders (the molars) which usually erupt sometime between the eighteenth and twenty-fourth month. An examination of these teeth reveals the fact that they are quite different in shape from the incisors.

Because they are used for grinding and not for cutting, they show relatively large, irregular and quite uneven grinding surfaces, with deep grooves and blunt points (cusps) to assist in holding the food during the grinding process. During the stage of growth, as these teeth are pushed upward, they eventually reach a point where they may meet with considerable resistance in their contact with the gums. It is at this time that we may have symptoms which vary from mild irritability to extreme nervousness, loss of appetite, fever and convulsions.

My experience leads me to believe that the real underlying cause of these serious and sometimes grave symptoms, is not generally recognized. There seems to be a prevailing notion that there must necessarily be a change in the child's state of health during teething. This is unfortunate, and may lead to much unnecessary suffering.

Now, as to the cause of the trouble, I am going to tell you a story. Some time ago, I called at the home of a friend, who was the father of a four-year-old girl. The child was playing on the floor with a young kitten. The girl would roll a spool and the kitten would chase it. Suddenly the kitten attempted to bite the spool, and immediately stiffened and went into convulsions. As kittens are often subject to "fits" this might be considered as nothing unusual, but an examination of the kitten's teeth revealed tender and swollen gums, under which were some unerupted teeth. What really happened when the kitten bit upon the spool was that pressure was brought to bear on an unerupted tooth whose roots were not fully developed. These roots at such a time are jagged and may be extremely pointed and sharp at the lower ends. If at such a stage the tooth is pressed downward, the roots come in contact with the main nerve which passes along beneath the teeth. The pain is so intense that convulsions often result.

If for six months after the front teeth have come through, the child becomes fretful with increased irritability, and loss of appetite, it would be well to take the child to a dentist for an examination to see if the molars are erupting normally. If your dentist finds that the teeth are being held back by a tough and fibrous layer of gum tissue, he will advise that the gums be lanced to free the tooth from its abnormal state. This is a simple operation, and in a high percentage of cases brings immediate relief.

Remember that it is often difficult to trace the trouble in delayed tooth eruption. Symptoms are variable and may be laid to some other cause, but when we consider that this condition sometimes terminates fatally, we can hardly afford to neglect the child during teething.

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21 — Now comes General Summerall, at the close of more than two score years of army life, to add his bit to the belated recognition of Newton Baker's administration of the war department.

Recently it was General Harbord, pronouncing Baker the greatest of wartime war secretaries.

Now it is Summerall, in his final report as chief of staff, telling what Baker did as secretary before United States entered the war that had far-reaching effect upon the American war effort.

Summerall's report is an extraordinarily blunt statement of the near-failures in every war that cloud the pages of American military history despite the ultimate victories.

He pictures the situation that led Elihu Root as war secretary in 1903 to battle through legislation establishing general staff authority; and of the prolonged controversy that followed.

Problem For Baker

When the first national defense act was on its passage in 1916, this warfare between the general staff and the permanent bureaus of the war department cropped up anew.

A clause of that bill limited the number of general staff officers in Washington to 19.

It also, as construed by General Crowder, then judge advocate general, stripped the chief of staff of "all power to coordinate the administration of the several bureaus of the war department," Summerall says. And that with entry into the World war impending.

That was the problem Baker faced as secretary. He was supposed to be highly anti-militaristic in philosophy, yet this is what Summerall says of what he did:

"In an opinion remarkable for the lucidity of its legal reasoning as well as for the understanding it evinced of the nature of the military problem, Secretary of War Baker disapproved of the opinion of the judge advocate general."

Lauds His Work

"This courageous decision was one of momentous import for the conduct of the war then impending," General Summerall adds. "A contrary decision would have made impossible a resort to the coordinating powers . . . in which was finally found the solution to the chaotic conditions of the early period of the war."

What General Summerall has written paints Baker in a new light as pre-war secretary.

Yet knowing Baker well, the Bystander doubts his personal interest. He seems strangely modest for a public man.

There are few like that.

IN THE DAY'S NEWS

The Seine

The Seine, Paris' water highway to the sea, has been flooded until in places it has overflowed its banks, according to recent news dispatches. A bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic society describes some of the beauty spots to be seen along the river when it flows more gently.

"Most Americans journeying to Paris become acquainted with the lovely views along France's most famous river very soon after they set foot on French soil," says the bulletin. "Those who land at le Havre ride in a boat-train that parallels the Seine for almost the entire trip to Paris; while those arriving at Cherbourg and traveling by rail to the capital are in sight of the river for the last 50 miles of their journey. Less usual is the trip up the river by boat which gives an entirely different viewpoint for the Seine's beauties.

"The glorious river that leads from le Havre to Rouen and on to Paris is a stream of delights, winding tortuously among little towns, farms, the ghostly ruins of former grandeur like Jumieges, and between chalky cliffs now and again, that rise hundreds of feet above the river, or, low and beetling, shelter astonishing cave communities, whose homes are bored right into the solid rock.

"How can one describe this city of the pirates; how give a picture of the long quays beside the river, shining in the brilliant sunshine; the broad thoroughfares plowed right through the old town and lined with dull modern houses; the occasional bits of the Middle Ages that still linger here and there in some old street whose houses peep and mutter at one another across the way? Such is the dark, crooked, villainously paved Rue de St. Romain, beside the cathedral.

"The deepest interest of the traveler in Rouen lies in the lonely tower of the city's former defenses, where Joan of Arc was tried for her life—and lost. The great, cone-topped cylinder is rugged and stalwart, a perfect (restored) picture of a defensive tower of medieval times, with its wooden hoardings and machicolations. Near-by slabs, in the pavement, and upon the wall of the Old Market, mark the spot where the heroic maid paid for her patriotism by passing through the fire. And the hill of Bon Secours' beyond the city, a huge memorial to her crowns the height and looks down upon the silver-bosomed Seine.

"Above Rouen, the river sweeps away in great arcs to right and left past rich bottom-lands, checkered with cool, tender greens and warm russet browns. A whole archipelago of lovely little islands, seven of them, flecks the burnished mirror of the stream. Bushily they raise their green heads of balsamy pines and lacy populars against the sky in delicate silhouettes, and the long tows of river barges glide slowly past them like so many swollen seaserpents.

"But perhaps the loveliest spot in all the winding miles of beauty along the river between Rouen and Paris is Petit Andely. Ragged and shattered-looking, the stony hill rears proudly up above placid river and sleepy town, and squarely upon its crest looms the ruin of Richard the Lion Heart's Castle Gallant—a great, bursted keep and a few bits of massive wall. Once the castle flaunted its menacing leopard standards against the blue and white and gold of the Frankish skies; but that was before Philippe-Auguste stormed and smashed it, and smashed the townsfolk while he was doing it.

"Now, ghostly and wan, the stark ruin shimmers upon its hill, with never a single spear to glint from keep or barbican. The spears are still growing far below—the stout young poplars on river bank and island sentineling through golden days when the river is gleaming jade; in the fiery sunsets, when it mirrors back every sturdy limb and feathery frond, and all the silent blue nights, when the stars bend down to whisper and coquette and the ripples chuckle softly against the rich brown banks.

CHILD TRAINING

The Ideal Gift

Lorena Daniel Solberg

Six-year-old Junior was just at that place where life has to move pretty fast to hold a live boy's interest. It was Christmas time, and I, the fond auntie, so I wanted to give him the ideal Christmas gift. What it should be, I didn't know, but it must be worthy of such a bright, imaginative child, must be something which would really interest him and withstand the long hard usage he would give it.

It seemed to me brother did not take quite the proper interest in his son's play or else he did not understand the child mind, for he seemed to think any old thing would do for a plaything. So my gift must be carefully chosen—an ideal gift.

I chose it. Although I could not afford it, I bought him a beautiful electric train; one that would really go. I could hardly wait to give it to him and thought Christmas would never come. However, like all other mornings, it came, and Junior received the electric train.

He squealed with delight and settled down to play with it at once. He'd play with his other toys, then come back to his train.

In a few days, however, it seemed to me he played less and less with it and by the end of my visit he hardly ever touched it. Instead, he spent most of his time with a set of home-made blocks and a cheap little tin car which he played was a fire truck!

"Why, Junior, don't you like your electric train?" I asked in dismay.

"Oh sure," he answered indifferently.

"But you don't play with it," I said.

"Well, it can't do anything," he explained. "It can't do anything 'cept go and it can't be anything but just a train."

"Sorry, Sis," brother said, "but you don't understand children yet. Any child, especially an imaginative one, does not want toys to be too realistic or perfect. He prefers to make something himself or play with things he can imagine are something else if he wants to. He wants to construct. Your beautiful electric train leaves nothing for him to do; it is so perfect no one could imagine its being anything except an electric train, and he would probably like it to be an aeroplane one minute and a string of weiners the next.

"When you are choosing anything for a child, the 'ideal' gift is something which requires the use of either his hands or his head."

Did you ever think about a magnifying glass for your inquisitive question-box son? Or did you ever consider a box of all kinds of cloth, lace, and so forth, a pair of blunt scissors and a package of safety pins for the five-year-old mother? PRESENT GIFT TO THEIR FORMER SEXTON

A Christmas remembrance in the form of a gift of gold from a number of his friends in the parish was presented to Hans Rasmussen of No. 119 McKinley avenue, in appreciation of his long and faithful service as sexton, at the United Congregational church at the morning service Sunday. Mr. Rasmussen, who severed his connections with the church last spring, had been sexton for 30 years.

Immediately after members of the church school had been presented Bibles, the pastor, Rev. Alexander H. Abbott, invited Mr. Rasmussen to the pulpit. After brief remarks by the pastor, B. P. Bishop, senior deacon, presented the gift to Mr. Rasmussen and on behalf of the parishioners voiced their regret at his being obliged to resign and their appreciation of his long and faithful service.

In accepting the pleasant remembrance of his friends Mr. Rasmussen responded with appropriate remarks.

SECRETARY HILL NOT TO LEAVE NORWICH

Announcement was made Sunday afternoon by Edwin Hill, who has resigned as general secretary of the Norwich Y. M. C. A. that he does not plan to re-enter Y. M. C. A. work. He has been actively identified in Y. M. C. A. work for a period of 40 years, 17 years of which were spent in Norwich. He stated that he and his family will reside in their new home on Harland road. However, he will retain the position of probation officer, in which office he has served since his appointment in 1921, succeeding Rev. C. A. Northrup.

General Secretary Hill desired to resign from office effective Oct. 1 last, according to his letter of resignation, when he approached Herbert B. Carey, president of the association, but owing to the latter's wish he withheld his resignation. Action upon his resignation, which was received with regret, was taken at a meeting of the directors Dec. 17, having been tabled at a previous meeting in December. A leave of absence of one month was given by the directors to Secretary Hill in January, his resignation becoming effective Feb. 1, 1931.

EDWIN HILL

His letter of resignation follows:

To the president and board of directors of the Norwich Young Men's Christian association,

Gentlemen:

In August of this year, I stated to President Hebert B. Cary that I intended to retire from the work of the Norwich association and mentioned as the time of retirement October 1st, 1930.

Mr. Cary urged me not to retire, and especially not to do so at that time. In accord with his wishes, I have continued for a period, but I feel that the delayed action should now be taken.

After having served the Norwich Young Men's Christian association for more than seventeen years as your general secretary, and with due consideration, I deem it wise to relinquish my position, and therefore tender my resignation, to take effect if possible on January 1st, 1931.

It is needless to state that this step is not an easy one to take, and I do so with many keen regrets; especially is it difficult to sever the official relationship with out beloved president and the faithful members of the board of directors.

I want to take this opportunity to express to you my sincere appreciation of your patience, courtesy and constant kind consideration through all these years.

That the Norwich association may have greater prosperity in all departments, and especially in its spiritual work, than it has ever enjoyed in the past is the earnest hope of your retiring general secretary.

With much sincerity,
EDWIN HILL.

Entrance in the field of Y activities was made by Secretary Hill at Providence in September, 1890, where he was engaged for several years as assistant secretary and in other activities. After seven years spent at Manchester, N. H., Secretary Hill went to Augusta, Ga., for a stay of nine years and then to Springfield, Ill., where he remained for two years. Since September, 1913, he has been affiliated with the local Y, coming here to succeed Frederick H. Sharkey in the old building on Broadway, and later in its new location on Main street. With an exception of a short period in Providence Mr. Hill has served as general secretary of Y work during 40 years.

His decision to retire from active labor in this field was made by Mr. Hill as he felt that he had served in the same line of work for practically a life-time and desired to take a rest. His interests in the work of the Y. M. C. A. will still be retained, he said Sunday afternoon. During his long service here Secretary Hill has been to a great degree responsible for its expansion and many Norwich residents learned with regret of his passing from this work.

The Y directors have chosen Emory H. Davis, boys' secretary at the local Y, to fill the vacancy and will act in that capacity until April 1, 1931, the annual meeting date. Mr. David has been engaged in Y work for a number of years and is well capable of handing the new office. He is superintendent of the Sunday school at the Central Baptist church and has served as secretary of the Norwich Rotary club.

WEDDING

Kaempffe-Herrmann

Miss Frieda Herrmann, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Herrmann, and Gustave Oscar Kaempffe, both of Lisbon, were united in marriage at 12:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon at the parsonage of the Newent Congregational church in Lisbon. The ceremony was performed by the pastor, Rev. William J. Reynolds. The attendants were Herman Krause and Miss Annette Herrmann, sister of the bride, both of Lisbon.

CHRISTMAS SERMONS AND MUSIC IN CHURCHES OF NORWICH SUNDAY

Sacred concerts, pageants, and special Christmas messages by the pastors featured the Sunday services in many of the Norwich churches. Large congregations were the rule and the churches were most attractively decorated. Special Christmas programmes will take place in the Episcopal and Catholic churches Christmas day.

BAPTIST PASTOR SPEAKS ON "CHRIST IN CHRISTMAS"

Christ in Christmas was the subject of the Christmas sermon given Sunday morning by Rev. William James Sly, Ph.D., pastor of the Third Baptist church.

"Many people today think if they had seen what the shepherds and wise men saw at the first Christmas, they would believe. But the truth is today we see far more than they did," said Rev. Mr. Sly. "We have better grounds than they for our faith in the Christ of Christmas. If we have not seen the literal guiding star that the wise men saw, we have vastly more. We have their testimony. We have the testimony of apostles and martyrs, the best minds of the ages, and the true Star of Bethlehem. Jesus Christ Himself, shining brightly in the firmament of the world's life of today. Year after year passes but the interest in the birth of Jesus increases with every passing Christmas. A star is represented as a figure having radiating points, generally five; and for convenience of thought, we suggest five points about Christ, our Lord, which are clearly discernible today and demonstrate Him to be the Star of Bethlehem foretold a thousand years before His birth—Numbers 24:17—'There shall come a star out of Jacob'; and 'the bright and morning star' that is to shine forever in the future—Revelation 22:16; 'I, Jesus, am the bright and morning star.'

Jesus, the Hope of the World

"A star is the symbol of hope. Jesus, as the bright and morning star, is the hope of the world. His birth ushered in the day of grace at the beginning of the present Christian era and His light will shine on until the everlasting day of glory is ushered in when the fulness of time is come.' That bright and morning star shines to gladden the earth with its beams this morning. The world's darkness, ignorance, sin, superstition, lawlessness, is still widespread—but the light of Christ is sending its rays into the Dark Continent of Africa, the regions of India, China, Japan, and the corners of the earth and will shine on until the Kingdom of God (which is described as 'righteousness and peace and joy') shall be ushered in. Every Christmas season brings us a little nearer to the time 'when wealth no more shall rest in moulded heaps, but smit with freer light, shall slowly melt in many streams to fatten lower lands, and light shall spread, and man be liker man, through all the season of the Golden year.'

"'As all the radii of a circle concentrate in its center, so all the beauty, all the goodness, all the friendliness of the universe concentrate in the Christ.' As the beams of the sun constantly flow out and out and out to a world that needs warmth and light—so, this Christmas day, do the beams of the beauty of Christ's character, teachings, influence, love and hope flow out to meet the world's need—a universe of friendliness, of which the Saviour's birth is a symbol, prophecy and song. Lift up your eyes and ears and heart and know the Christ-Himself, the bright and morning star, who will guide you unerringly to all the truth of life and death and immortality. But be sure that you give him your best of worship, gifts and service—the myrrh of your mind, the frankincense of your affections, the gold of your will.

"'Have you any grudge you would like to pay, any wrong laid up for a bygone day, gather them now and lay them away—when Christmas comes. Hard thoughts are heavy to carry, my friend, and life is short from beginning to end; be kind to yourself, leave nothing to mend—when Christmas comes.'"

ELEVEN BIBLES PRESENTED AT UNITED CONG. CHURCH

At the Christmas morning service at the United Congregational church Sunday morning Bibles were presented to 11 members of the church school, who have been baptized and are eight years of age. The following were the children who received Bibles:

Howard Blackburn, William Graham Bode, Barbara Wulf Elliott, Lilly May Gorton, Ruth Elsie Heberding, Rita M. Krohn, Robert H. Lyon, Virginia M. Mosesian, William E. Shanley, Jr., Elizabeth Shepard, Terry Gene Sinay.

The following were received into the fellowship of the church by confession: Gertrude Louise Beausoleil, Louise Evans, Dorothea P. Stevens, Joseph Bergoff Edwardsen, Frank Hilton Kennedy, Stuart Leslie Parmelee, and Paul Leonard Smith.

As a part of the beautiful Christmas decorations the wreath on the pulpit was given in memory of Rev. Joseph H. Selden by his sister.

The pastor, Rev. Alexander H. Abbott, gave a special Christmas sermon, taking for his subject, "To You This Day is Born a Saviour."

MAKE ROOM FOR CHRIST IN YOUR INTERESTS

At the First Methodist Episcopal church, Norwich Town, the pastor, Rev. George Warren Potter, took for the text of his Christmas sermon, St. Matthew 2:2 "For we have seen His star in the east, and are come to worship Him." He said in part: "Let us look for a moment at the shepherds who were abiding in the fields. They were among those waiting for the consolation of Israel. The simplicity of their minds, the quiet of their occupation, the stillness of the midnight hours made them fit recipients for the first tidings of an infinite Saviour. These we are told saw the Saviour first. Then the sages, the wise men from afar, had the next sight of the new born king. It was a small gathering around that manger of long ago but it was a representative group. The humble bearers of burden were there, the ox and the ass. The shepherds and the wise men, the learned and the foolish, and over all the star of Bethlehem.

"The wise men came to worship a baby and after 2,000 years we have men who today call themselves wise who do not worship the Christ. Today we are not asked to worship a baby, we have a glorified risen Saviour, one who has conquered even death. We have the wonderful record of the life He lived on earth to prove to our minds and hearts that He was and is the Saviour. The one and only one who could and did reveal to us our relation with the Father God.

"How should we worship Him today? By going into the things of the world with all our life and vitality and then on the day appointed as a memorial to this Babe of Bethlehem manger —this risen Saviour —going into his Temple with the frayed-out ends of our energy and laying it upon His altar? By spending the holy day riding over the country? By staying away from God's temple all day and reading trashy literature? By accepting positions or offices in the temple and giving no time or thought to them? By refusing to give of our earthly substance to send the story of Christmas to millions living in darkness? By going into God's temple on Sunday and going through the form of worship and then out into the world on Monday lying and slandering and cheating?

"Are these the forms of worship that are acceptable to this Babe of Bethlehem? No, a thousand times no. Let us cast out from our lives all that would interfere with true worship, have only His image in our hearts.

Make a fresh pilgrimage to the Bethlehem manger this Christmas. Bring Him your best gifts—your best gift—yourself. Make room for Christ in your interests. Let Him be born anew in your heart. For we are come to worship Him."

The vested choir, under the direction of Mrs. Lewis E. Aldrich, sang two anthems. The choir was assisted in the Christmas music by Mrs. Harry Norrington who sang the solo parts. The selections were "Cradle of Bethlehem," by I. H. Meredith, and "Christmas Time is a Sharing Time," by E. A. Lorenz.

The church was beautifully decorated with small cedar trees, laurel and evergreen garlands and red berries, and wreaths. The decorating was done by Mrs. Harold Rose, Virginia Ward, Muriel Rose and Florence Gembel. The decorating greens were secured by the Flying Eagle patrol of the John Mason Troop 2, Boy Scouts, in charge of Patrol Leader Clayton Rose.

The Christmas cantata, which was to be given at the evening service, was postponed until Jan. 4th, on account of the illness of a number of those taking part.

The C. E. meeting was led by Arthur Bennett and Clayton Rose, who spoke on the topic, "Joy to the World."

CHRIST CHILD GOD'S GIFT TO THE WORLD

"The Christ Child was God's gift to the world and He is our Christmas gift, the greatest gift of eternal worth ever given," said Rev. William Penner, pastor of the Taftville Congregational church, in his Christmas message at the church Sunday morning. The topic was, Christmas Spirit. He spoke in part as follows:

"Behold, I bring you good tidings of great joy which shall be to all people." Does it not seem as if this angelic message is vibrating with new meaning during these festive days? "Good news," that is the meaning of the Gospel. The Christ Child was God's gift to the world and He is our Christmas gift, the greatest gift of eternal worth ever given.

In order to gain access to the true Christmas atmosphere we must go back to the great event itself as recorded so beautifully for us in the Gospel record (Luke 2:1-20). Among the events of history this event stands uniquely alone. It has been made immortal by brush and pen. We need only to study paintings like Corregio's "Holy Night," Bouguereau's "Adoration," La Rolle's "Nativity," or in the field of literature to read Milton's "On the Morn of Christ's Nativity," or any of our beloved Christmas hymns to realize the lofty inspiration which it has given to great souls for generations. Like these artists, if we would properly enter into the sacred significance of this event, we must put ourselves into the place of its characters and allow our imagination free play.

The two things that stand out most prominently as elements of the Christmas spirit are the sacredness and the joy connected with the coming of the Christ Child. We find the sacredness emphasized in the most beautiful of our Christmas hymns, "Holy Night, Peaceful Night."

The good will and cheer of Christmas is based on that spiritual joy which came into the world with Christ. But unless we experience this joy all outward display of decorations and greetings and gifts will leave us empty. This joy Watts expressed so well in his hymn, "Joy to the World, the Lord is Come."

SAYS CHRIST IS THE LIGHT OF THE SOUL

A large audience attended the interesting service at the local Young Men's Christian association Sunday afternoon. The gymnasium was practically filled. After the scripture reading and prayer the audience joined in the singing of a hymn, after which the beautiful and impressive moving picture, "The Light of Faith" was shown in four reels. The picture was really a modern interpretation of "The Golden Grail," and the beautiful photography added much to the lesson taught by the picture. During the service Secretary Edwin Hill gave a brief talk. He spoke in part as follows: "We are thinking in these days of the Christmas, and what it means to us. A radio announcer in New York this morning at the children's hour, said, "In the long ago when the Christ was born, there was but one lone star that told of the arrival in the world, but now the whole world is filled with the light of His spirit." How very true this is; Christ is truly the Light of the world. Light is a most wonderful thing; what would we do without light? Suppose it was always night; it would be terrible; in fact we would not live very long. No sunshine, no crops. As the natural sun is the light of the natural world, so Christ is the light of the soul. Every time you write a letter, you date it from when? From the birth of Christ; you write 1930, meaning that number of years since He was born.

I want to ask you young people, what is your attitude to this great Christ? You cannot ever have a friend like Him. Why not study His life and read what He said. Hear Him say, "I am the light of the world," and again, "I came not to have you serve Me, but I came to serve you"; still again hear Him say, "Come unto Me all ye who are weary and heavy laden and I will give you rest." Make him your friend. Frederick Geer furnished music for the service.

LARGE CONGREGATION AT PARK CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH

Sunday was an exceptional day at Park church. The church was most tastefully decorated. Special music was given by the choir to a generous-sized congregation.

The morning theme was "The Advent." The pastor, Rev. Theodore M. Shipherd, D. D., said: The New Testament emphasizes the birth of Christ in the gospel of Matthew, in the gospel according to Luke. Mark makes no mention of it. John does not speak of it. St. Paul seems to give no special value to the event and Jesus himself never refers to it. Two decades ago this was much discussed and historians freely asserted that the full realization of this critical judgment would take away the best of the Christmas spirit. It was freely asserted that the birth, as pictured in Matthew and Luke was in grave doubt as an historical fact.

Time has answered the question in a most interesting way. The fear of losing the beauty of Christmas because doubt was thrown upon its historicity has quite gone. This is, we see, most natural. The fact of the moving star, the shepherds, the wise men, Mary and the babe, as we picture them, may be called in question by any one who wishes to do so. But there is something more than fact here, there is a value, a worth which nobody in his senses questions for a moment.

It is the worth and value of Christ, as we think of Him today, which we pour into our picture of His birth. Therefore the value of His birth is more than any facts about His birth and for centuries men and women have been building a romance, if you choose, which is more than the fact. Music, poetry, beauty and every art have sought to make a great value more clear. The value being always more than the fact. The concerns of all seers and artists are not so much with facts as with values.

We do well to recognize facts and to pay them their due. We may not defy them.

Winter is a fact. The chill in the air, the ice upon the lake, while the earth turns to stone. Winter is a fact. Friendship is a value and winter may not affect nor change it.

So gravitation is a fact, you may cope with it but you cannot defy it. Gravitation is a fact. Honor is a value, it is more than a fact.

It is the superb area of values which religion conspires to foster and magnify. And at Christmas it breaks through and asserts itself until we know that we are in some real sense the lovers of God's own values.

CHRISTMAS MESSAGE BY CENTRAL BAPTIST PASTOR

Rev. Dr. David A. Pitt at the Central Baptist church Sunday morning had for the theme of his sermon, Anticipation Less Than Realiaztion, and spoke from the text I Corinthians, 2:9, Things which I saw not and the ear heard not and which entered not into the heart of man, whatsoever things God prepared for them that love Him.

The Christmas message to his congregation was given under the title of "What Christmas Means To Me," based upon a verse from the second chapter of Luke, I bring you good tidings of great joy which shall be to all the people. The message was given as follows:

For me Christmas means good tidings regarding God. One needs to recall the winter when Jesus came. The coming of Jesus was like the coming of spring which brought to the world the warm, loving conception of God as the heavenly Father. Christmas means a Christlike God, the God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ.

Again, Christmas means the possibility of becoming Christlike men. "As many as received Him to them gave He the right to become children of God, even to them that believe on His name." God's Christmas purpose seems to be to raise up a great family of children who will be like Christ. The most marvelous part of the good tidings is that God purposes to raise up such a family out of all sorts and conditions of men. "Whosoever will may come." Christmas, then, means good things to all the people, to all classes and conditions at home and to all nations and races abroad.

Lastly, Christmas means for me the hope of a Christlike world, a Christlike world here and the hope of a still more Christlike world hereafter. Men as far apart as Bernard Shaw and Ghandi are telling us that they see no way out of the world's troubles but the way of Jesus.

The areas of the world where life seems most worth living are the areas that have been most completely leavened with the teaching and spirit of the Man of Nazareth; areas of loving and co-operative service rather than areas of selfish, competitive struggle. "And like the pesenrce of a rose, He makes the whole world sweet." I believe this leavening process will go on until the whole lump of the world's life is leavened. Then shall we have the Christmas spirit at its best the whole world roun dand the whole year through.

Trusting that this is your Christmas creed also, will you not join me in purpose for a year of Christmas living?

BEAUTIFUL DECORATIONS AT FIRST CONG. CHURCH

"Promise of Fulfilment," was the theme of the Christmas message by Rev. Charles E. Reeves, at the First Congregational church Sunday morning. Rev. Mr. Reeves, who assisted the pastor Rev. Wilfrid M. Wilton during the morning worship also offered the morning prayer. The text was Matthew 2:6, And thou Bethelem, in the land of Judah, art not the least among the princes of Judah: for out of thee shall come a Govenor, that shall rule my people Israel.

A program of Christmas music was aranged by Organist Herbert L. Yerrington. For the anthem, the choir sang, There Were Shepherds, by Alfred Judson. The church was attractively decorated for the Yuletide season under the direction of a committee of young women, Misses Ida Beebe, Rose Durr, Louise Sterry, Elizabeth Avery, Doris Seagraves, and Mrs. Wilton.

Several small evergreen trees of the juniper species were arranged on the platform, also at the front and sides of the platform. In front of the pulpit on a table were boughs of white pine intermingled with poinsettia. A vase of pink rose buds was conspicuous on a stand at one side of the pulpit and the side posts were twined with ropes of evergreen. In the vestibule was a large decorative basket of white pine and red berries. The pastor expressed words of gratitude to the committee for the excellent arrangements.

During the announcements for the week, mention was made that the Thursday evening prayer service would be ommitted because of it being Christmas. The Congregational Christmas tree entertainment by the Sunday school, will be held Tuesday evening in the chapel. An invitation was extended to parents and friends to attend and listen to the program to be carried out by the children. There also will be the usual distribution of gifts.

CONCERT AND SONG PLAY AT METHODIST CHURCH

Two features of the Sunday evening service at Trinity Methodist Episcopal church, Rev. Joseph Cooper, pastor, were the Christmas concert and Christmas song play, "Bring a Torch," in tableau, which were presented in impressive style. The subject of the pastor's sermon was "Shall America Sign the Protocols and Enter the World Court?" The Christmas song play was carried out with the congregation participating and Misses Jeanette, Isabella and Bertha Elsmith assisting.

The members of the choir, who presented the programme, follow:

Sopranos— Isabel Rodier, Charlotte Geer, Marie Pierson, Ida Sautter, Myrtle Browning, Florence Murphy, Agnes Fenton, Henrietta Frink, Mary Phillips, Mary Sautter, Edna Judson, Grace Purvis, Betty Carr.

Altos—Evelyn Wheeler, Ebba Pierson, Lois Leffingwell, Cora Freeman, Florence Carr, Myrtle Phillips, Esther O'Mara, Edith Wheeler, Lucy Kelley, Dorothy Ladd, Madeline Plaskett, Ruth Purvis, Marjorie Wheeler.

Mrs. Walter M. Buckingham is choir leader.

TWO-ACT PLAYLET AT THIRD BAPTIST CHURCH

At the Third Baptist church Sunday evening the young people of the church gave a very interesting Christmas program before a large congregation. A two-act playlet introduced the program with the following taking part: Miss Elsie Laycock, Minnie Haydon, Lillian Hill and Marilyn Lund. The program was as follows: Song, by the choir, Glad Tidings hymn; Scripture and Lord's prayer; song by the choir, A Vale of Bethlehem; One Wish, beginners' class; Christmas Time, recitation, Louise Halsch; Ring Out Glad Bells, recitation, Lewis Quinley; We Three Kings of Orient, Lee Quinley, Leroy Sebastian and Clayton Gallup; Grandma's Christmas, recitation, Phyliss Raven; If, recitation, two boys and two girls; A Little Christmas Doll, recitation Eileen Hill; Twinkle On High, recitation, Althea Haydon; Away in a Manger, recitation by the pupils of the primary department; If I Were Me, Santa Claus, recitation by Frank Laycock; A Christmas Wish, recitation, Mabel Talley; A Strange Dream, recitation, Donald Raven; choir selection, "Praise Him Eternally"; recitation by the members of Mrs. Laycock's class; Our Gifts, recitation, Clayton Gallup; offering song by the ladies' trio; remarks by the pastor, Rev. Mr. Sly. Announcements were made by Henry Sebastian. Selection by the choir, "Come and Seek the King, hymn; benediction by the pastor, Rev. Mr. Sly. Miss Doris Lund was chairman of the entertainment committee.

THE THREE-FOLD JOY OF CHRISTMAS OBSERVANCE

In his Christmas sermon Sunday morning at the Church of the Good Shepherd, Universalist, Rev. A. N. Foster, the pastor, spoke upon the text, John III, 19, "Light is come into the World," using for his subject, "The Three-Fold Joy We Share at the Christmastide." Rev. Mr. Foster said in part:

"The Christmas observance seems indeed to become more general every year. At every turn, the courts of justice, the children at school, the

ONLY SUNDAY EVENING HOURS FOR INDOOR GOLF

On orders issued by City Attorney Charles W. Cassidy, the police Sunday afternoon notified The Castle Garden Golf course at the Majestice building to close up until 7 o'clock in the evening. Hereafter the three miniature Golf course at the Majestic building open for business Sundays until 7 p. m., the same hour at which the local theaters are allowed by law to open.

The Sunday closing order against the golf courses is the result of a complaint by a prominent Norwich citizen. Warned of the forthcoming order the proprietors of the other two courses agreed to close Sundays until the evening hour. The Castle Garden course, however, opened Sunday for business, as usual. Sergeant Myron O. Morgan, under orders, went to the golf course about 3 o'clock and notified the manager to close.

FUNERAL

Mrs. William H. Barrows

The funeral of Mrs. William H. Barrows was held at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon at the funeral home of Henry Allen and Son, Main street, the services being conducted by Rev. Joseph Cooper, pastor of Trinity Methodist Episcopal church. Many relatives and friends including people from Boston, Providence, Mystic, Stonington, New London and other places were in attendance and there were many beautiful floral tributes. Burial was in Yantic cemetery, where the committal service was read by Rev. Mr. Cooper. The bearers were friends of Mrs. Barrows including Gurdon L. Bidwell of Norwich.

Mrs. Barrows, who was previous to her marriage Harriet Barnes, was born in Mystic, but for the greater part of her life lived in Norfolk, Va., whence she went to Providence last May to live with her son, Raymond. Besides her husband she is survived by her son and a number of sisters. Her husband in his early life was a resident of Norwich. Mrs. Barrows died Thursday at her son's residence, No. 32 High Service avenue, North Providence.

W. C. FOWNES, JR, NOTED GOLFER, IS TO QUIT ON PHYSICIAN'S ADVICE

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Dec. 21—(AP)—A veteran has been ordered to put aside his arms in the interest of his physical well-being.

Not a veteran of warfare with guns, but an old-timer in strife with driver, midiron and putter.

W. C. Fownes, Jr., whose family name is synonymous with golf in Pittsburgh, and generally recalled wherever the ancient game's foremost followers assemble, has been advised by his physicians that a heart ailment precludes further golfing.

Fownes, ill at his winter home at Pinehurst, N. C., is now 53 years old, and into those years have been crowded a lot of links activity as well as endeavor for the welfare of the game.

He played first in national amateur championship competition in 1901—the year W. J. Travis won at Atlantic City—and has appeared in virtually every similar event since, including the 1930 tournament at Merion.

In 1910 he won the national amateur title at the country club, Brookline, Mass., in a field of 203 starters. The years 1905, 1907, 1914 and 1919 found him in semi-finalist roles.

The amateur was played at Oakmont, Fownes' home club here, in 1919 and he was defeated in the semi-final round by that golfer of golfers, Robert T. Jones, 5 and 4. S. D. Herron, also an Oakmonter, defeated Bobby that year in the final, 5 and 4.

The next time the amateur was brought to Oakmont, in 1925, Fownes was defeated by Jess Sweetser in the first round, 5 and 3.

Fownes captained the American amateur team in the international matches for the Walker cup against Great Britain in 1921 and 1922 and was a member of the 1924 group.

He has won a dozen western Pennsylvania amateur and open titles, in addition to serving the United States Golf association as president in 1926-1927.

Prior to his retirement a few years ago from active business, Fownes was one of the leading industrialists of the district. He assisted in organizing the Midland Steel company and the Seamless Tube company and had various other interests.

And while Fownes has been ordered to give up golf, another prominent veteran of the greens, E. M. Byers, also a Pittsburgher, is reported critically ill at Asheville, N. C. Byers, likewise a business man with golf as his hobby, won the United States amateur championship in 1906 at Englewood. In recent years he has dropped from the golfing limelight.

THIRTY GAMES IN INTERCOLLEGIATE LEAGUE

NEW YORK, Dec. 21—(AP)—The 1931 schedule of the Eastern Intercollegiate Baseball league, calling for 30 games, was announced tonight by Ellwood W. Kemp, Jr., of Columbia, secretary-treasurer of the circuit.

Columbia, Cornell, Dartmouth, Pennsylvania, Princeton and Yale again will play ten league games each, a home-and-home round-robin series. Yale and Columbia will open the season at Baker Field, New York, April 8.

The champion Dartmouth team negotiated with Columbia for a June date in Hanover but Columbia, because of its early commencement, was unable to play so late in the season. As a result Dartmouth will meet Columbia in a double-header in New York May 16 and the Lions will not visit Hanover at all. In return, Columbia will play two games at Hanover in 1932.

The schedule was adopted at the annual winter meeting of the league's executive committee here. Several changes in the baseball code will be recommended to the baseball committee of the National Collegiate Athletic association. Just what the suggested changes were the executive committee did not reveal.

Represented at the meeting were Columbia by Reynolds Benson and Ellwood W. Kemp, Jr.; Cornell, Romeyn Berry; Dartmouth, Harry R. Heneage; Pennsylvania, Dr. Walter L. Cariss and William H. Hammett; Princeton, Dr. Charles W. Kennedy and Jerome Bradley; Yale, John H. Cates.

The schedule:

April 1, Yale at Columbia; 11, Dartmouth at Yale; Cornell at Pennsylvania; 18, Columbia at Yale; 25, Princeton at Columbia, Cornell at Dartmouth, Pennsylvania at Yale; 27, Dartmouth at Princeton; 29, Columbia at Pennsylvania.

May 1, Cornell at Columbia; 2, Cornell at Princeton, Yale at Pennsylvania; 6, Columbia at Cornell; 8, Pennsylvania at Dartmouth; 9, Yale at Dartmouth, Princeton at Cornell; 13, Columbia at Princeton; 16, Cornell at Yale, Dartmouth at Columbia (two games); 18, Princeton at Dartmouth; 20, Dartmouth at Cornell; 23, Princeton at Pennsylvania; 25, Yale at Cornell; 30, Princeton at Yale.

June 1—Pennsylvania at Columbia; 6, Pennsylvania at Princeton; 12, Pennsylvania at Cornell; 13, Yale at Princeton, Dartmouth at Pennsylvania.

TWO VIRGINIA TEAMS TO JOIN EASTERN LEAGUE

ALLENTOWN, Pa., Dec. 21—(AP)—The Eastern Baseball league next season will expand into Virginia to include two southern cities, Richmond and Norfolk. It was agreed by directors of the circuit at a meeting here which started yesterday afternoon and ended today.

Actual granting of franchise rights to Richmond and Norfolk probably will be made at a meeting of the Eastern league in New York city, January 4, when two other clubs also will be admitted to the circuit.

Eight teams started the 1930 season, but four of these, Hartford and New Haven, Conn., Providence, R. I., and Pittsfield, Mass., withdrew in July, leaving Allentown, Albany, N. Y., Springfield, Mass., and Bridgeport, Conn., to finish the season.

President William Carey said the applications of Richmond and Norfolk had been favorably considered, and that the franchises probably would be awarded at the January meeting.

Just what two other clubs will be admitted to complete the 8-team circuit could not be learned, but President Carey said he had applications from seven other cities. These are Trenton, N. J., Reading, Pa., Wilmington, Del., Syracuse, N. Y., Hartford, Conn., Camden, N. J., and New Haven, Conn.

W. H. Bradley, former president of the Virginia State league and at one time owner of the Richmond franchise in that circuit, represented Richmond. W. W. "Win" Clarke, who managed the Harrisburg club in the New York-Pennsylvania league when it won the league championship in 1929, represented Norfolk. Neither Norfolk nor Richmond has been represented in organized baseball since the Virginia league disbanded in 1928.

BUTLER ADVOCATES PUTTING SPORTS ON EQUAL BASIS

NEW YORK, Dec. 21—(AP)—Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia university, in his annual report today suggested a permanent endowment by alumni "to bring to an end the importance of gate receipts and put baseball, golf, rowing and football on an equal basis."

Calling attention to current criticism of the manner in which intercollegiate athletics, especially football, are conducted, Dr. Butler said:

"The enormous cost of football and the enormous revenues produced are a constant and justifiable source of academic as well as public criticism.

"If all colleges would consistently restrict themselves to participants of undoubted academic qualifications and without any financial inducement or assistance to participate in athletics, the situation would be simple. Upright institutions are punished on the playing fields.

"The public knows little or nothing about all this and assumes that a student is everywhere a student and that there are no elements of differences between the contestants save skill.

"An outright, adequate and permanent athletic endowment by the alumni would at one strike bring to an end the importance and influence of gate receipts and put baseball, golf, rowing and football on an equal basis."

He suggested an athletic league of nations might be needed to end the abuses he sees threatening the whole scheme of intercollegiate athletics.

Until something is done, he added, "Columbia must remain one of those colleges which pays the penalty, if penalty it be, of insisting on the primacy of intellectual ideals and intellectual accomplishments."

WINTER SPORTS CARNIVAL AT PLACID THIS WEEK

LAKE PLACID, N. Y., Dec. 21—(AP)—Skates, skiis and snowshoes jingled and clattered into this Adirondack resort tonight for the opening tomorrow of the tenth annual college week winter sports competition.

Making his initial appearance in a major racing event for this season, Jack Shea, of Lake Placid, North American speed skating champion, will skate for his college, Dartmouth, in the two mile and a quarter mile races. These two events represent two units of the eight counted in granting the President Harding trophy.

In the ski jumping contests, the west has sent Lloyd Ellingson, of St. Olaf college, Minnesota, intercollegiate jumping champion and winner of the Marshal Foch trophy three last year. The Intervale's Hill, to be used in the 1932 Olympic events will be used for the ski jumping on New Year's day. Among others entered for this year's ski jumping contest are E. J. Blood, New Hampshire; S. Rowland Morgan, Jr., Williams; J. Dwight Perley, Penn State, and Joseph J. White, New Hampshire.

Norman Whitten, star snowshoe man from Bates college, has entered for the two mile race which he has won for two successive years.

A series of three hockey games will be played between teams of the U. S. Army and Williams college.

Among the colleges entering teams for the several competitions are Dartmouth, New Hampshire, Williams, McGill, Ottawa, Penn State, Maine, Bates, Bowdoin, St. Olaf and Clarkson.

FLYWEIGHT TITLE AT STAKE AGAIN THIS WEEK

NEW YORK, Dec. 21—(AP)—The Christmas holidays cut sharply into the national boxing schedule this week but fail to hinder Madison Square Garden from staging a flyweight championship title.

Frankie Genaro, National Boxing association title-holder at 112 pounds, and Midget Wolgast of Philadelphia, recognized king of the weight in New York and Pennsylvania, will clash over the championship route of 15 rounds at the Garden Friday night.

Wolgast won recognition here and in Pennsylvania when he won an elimination tournament staged at the Garden last spring. Genaro, a ring veteran of 29, captured the crown in the eyes of the N. B. A., two years ago when he won a Canadian elimination tournament defeating Frenchy Belanger, title-holder, in a challenge match.

Wolgast is only 21 and one of the fastest men in the ring. He is not a damaging puncher but generally succeeds in bewildering his opponents with the storm of leather he tosses their way.

Other bouts on the national schedule include:

Monday—At Chicago, Edgar Norman, Norway, vs. Willie Oster, Boston, eight; at Rochester, N. J., Jackie Brady, Syracuse, N. Y., vs. Abe Lichtenstein, Rochester, welterweights, ten.

Tuesday—at New York, Broadway arena, Ruby Goldstein, New York, vs. Willie Garafola, New York, welterweights, six; at Indianapolis, Walter Pickerd, Indianapolis, vs. Meyer (K. O.) Christner, Akron, O., heavyweights, ten.

STRONG'S TEAM WINS FROM GIANTS IN POST SEASON TILT

NEW YORK, Dec. 21—(AP)—Ken Strong led his Stapleton football team to a 16-7 victory over Benny Friedman's New York Giants in a post-season game for the professional championship of New York. The two teams, during the regular National Football league, had split even in two games.

Strong booted a field goal from the 30 yard line in the first quarter and took a kickoff and ran 95 yards to a touchdown in the third period. Stapleton's other touchdown was made by Stein in the second period, Strong kicking the goal. Moran took a pass in the third period and ran 55 yards for the Giants, touchdown, Friedman kicked the goal.

THE NEW GOLF BALL

Contrary to all predictions of the layman the professional golfers seem satisfied with the actions of the new size golf ball which goes into use the first of January. For the first time since the new golf ball was announced it was used exclusively in the Pasadena open which was completed yesterday with Tony Manero winning top money. At the beginning of the tourney practically every one, the amateurs and the pros alike, were skeptical as to how the new, bigger and lighter ball would behave. There was more interest in this factor of the game than in the outcome of the tournament. Much to the amazement of the galleries as well as to the players themselves there was very little difference in the distance in the driving and the iron shots and the scores were comparatively the same as with the smaller and heavier ball. The birdies were just as frequent and Old Man Par took just as much of a licking and the results left the skeptics very bewildered. Of course it must be admitted that the tournament was played under the most favorable of weather conditions. There was little or no wind and the course was dry and fast, factors giving the new ball the best of breaks. All this is gratifying to the advocates of the new ball.

But has it had its most severe test? How is it going to affect the scores when played into the teeth of a gale on a rain drenched course? We played the new ball considerably during the past summer and found it good at times and then not so good. Perhaps it was more our fault than the fault of the ball. Anyway we found that was mighty difficult to get distance when driving straight into a head wind. The ball had a tendency to climb fast and drift back. With a strong cross wind there was a decided hook or slice, depending on the direction of the wind. And in the rain there was practically no roll to the ball at all, especially on the putting greens. We are of the skeptical class and wont be convinced that the new ball is the equal of the old until the ball has been thoroughly tried out under adverse weather conditions.

INDIANS HOLD LEAD OF FOUR POINTS IN CAN.-AM.

BOSTON, Dec. 21—(AP)—The Springfield Indians, despite the recall of Joe Jerwa and Jack Beattie to major league clubs, continue to make a runaway of the Canadian-American Hockey league race. The Indians established a record for the five club circuit last night when they won their tenth consecutive victory at the expense of the Boston Tigers.

Providence, last year's champions, continue in second place, two full games behind the Indians. None of the other three clubs are in a position to threaten the leaders.

The official standing, including games of December 20, follows:

	W	L	T	Pts
Springfield	10	0	0	20
Providence	7	2	2	16
New Haven	4	6	1	9
Boston	4	9	0	8
Philadelphia	2	8	1	6

At The Elks Tonight.

Tonight at the Elks' club the two leading teams of the club will bowl for first honors. These are Team No. 3 captained by Dan Driscoll, and Team No. 2 captained by Saul Budnick, and a great match is expected as it means first honors for the winning team. Capt. Driscoll has much faith in his team and it is understood that a large side bet has been made between the two teams. While Capt. Budnick has really made no prediction as to the outcome, he says his team is as good as any at the club. The lineups follow:

Jewish Five.	Five Horsemen.
Israel Budnick	Bill Hyman
Nelson Polsky	(Tiny) Osten
Harry Blum	Walter Kilroy
Saul Budnick	Dan Driscoll
Sidney	Al (Scoop) Heneault

Al Heneault has promised the two teams to have his ten-piece orchestra on hand to furnish music for the night's entertainment.

Arrows Trounce Eagles

NEW HAVEN, Dec. 21—(AP)—Philadelphia took a fast, free scoring hockey game from the New Haven Eagles here tonight by a score of 5 to 3.

Forbes, New Haven star, appeared off his usual form as the invaders repeatedly scored through him. Nichols and Andrews played outstanding games for Philadelphia.

TONY MANERO WINS FIRST MONEY IN PASADENA OPEN WITH CARD OF 287

PASADENA, Cal., Dec. 21—(AP)—Tony Manero, New York professional, today stepped out with a par cracking final round to collect first money in the Pasadena $4,000 open.

The bronzed Italian turned in a consistent card of 73-71-74-69—287 for the 72 holes, to lead Mortie Dutra, of Long Beach, Cal., by two strokes, and walk off with top prize of $1,000.

Dutra came to the final green with a 72, needing a putt for a tie. He required three strokes to sink the new ball. His score was less consistent with 76-69-71-73 for a 289.

Tied for third were Al Espinosa, of Chicago, and Herman Barron, of Portchester, N. Y., with 290. Horton Smith of New York, who toured the course in 280 last year to win first place, was forced to be content with a 292 along with Walter Hagen, Detroit. They collected $112.50 each for their efforts.

Dutra's share was $600. Espinosa and Barron received $375 each.

Sir Walter's showing was distinctly better than last season, when he finished in the first 20 for only $50. After the tournament he said he was content with his showing and admitted he was pointing for the bigger money affairs early in January.

Manero's 69 was two under par, and equalled the best score for 18 holes during the three days of play. He slumped to a 74 during the morning round, his worst of the tournament, but collected four birdies on the final tour.

While Smith was a dozen strokes over his score of 1929, the average golf in this year's tournament was equal to that of a year ago, despite the fact the much discussed larger but lighter ball was used for the first time in tournament play.

The former Missourian led the field by six strokes last year.

Fourth place resulted in a four-way tie with Tommy Armour, Detroit, P. G. A.'s National champion; Ray Mangrum, Dallas, Tex., Frank Walsh, Chicago, and Willie Hunter, Montebello, Cal., collecting $231.25 each, with 291 totals.

Johnny Dawson, Chicago, led the amateurs, by finishing with a 299, a stroke better than his nearest simon pure contender, Russ Thompson, Glendale, Cal.

Early leaders ran into difficulties during the closing stages of the play. Craig Wood, 1928 winner from Bloomfield, N. J., after scoring a 69 the first day, slumped with 78 on the second, turned the morning eighteen in 76 and rallied with a par 71 to tie for sixth with 294.

Ernest Martin, Los Angeles pro, who topped the field by a stroke yesterday, was unnerved when he hit a spectator in today's morning round and blew up. He had 73-71 the first two days, but finished with a 76-78 for a 297 and collected only $50 for his share.

Leading final scorers:

Tony Manero, New York, 73-71-74-69—287—$1,000.

Mortie Dutra, Long Beach, Cal., 76-69-71-73—289—$600.

Herman Barron, Portchester, N. Y., 74-70-75-71—290—$375.

Al Espinosa, Chicago, 71-73-72-74—290—$375.

Ray Mangrum, Dallas, Tex., 72-72-72-75—291—$231.25.

Tommy Armour, Detroit, 71-75-73-72—291—$231.25.

Frank Walsh, Chicago, 71-75-76-69—291—$231.25.

Willie Hunter, Montebello, Cal., 77-71-72-71—291—$231.25.

Horton Smith, New York, 75-72-73-72—292—$112.50.

Walter Hagen, Detroit, 72-75-71-74—292—$112.50.

Ralph Guldhal, Dallas, Tex., 73-77-71-73—294—$50.

Craig Wood, Bloomfield, N. J., 69-78-76-71—294—$50.

Olin Dutra, Santa Monica, Cal., 79-70-76-69—294—$50.

Joe Kirkwood, Philadelphia, 71-74-76-73—294—$50.

W. H. Cox, Brooklyn, 74-73-70-77—294—$50.

Harry Cooper, Chicago, 74-73-75-73—295—$50.

Chet Beer, Bakersfield, Cal., 75-72-76-73—296—$50.

Fred Morrison, Glendale, Cal., 78-74-71-74—297—$50.

George Von Elm, Los Angeles, 74-74-73-76—297—$50.

Ernest Martin, Los Angeles, 72-71-76-78—297—$50.

Lew Waldron, of Boston, with 79-73-79-76—307, was out of the money.

Enright May Go to Georgia

ATLANTA, Ga., Dec. 21—(AP)—The Constitution says it has "reliable information" that Rex Enright, assistant coach at North Carolina, has been offered the job as backfield coach for the University of Georgia.

He would succeed Frank Thomas, who next year goes to Alabama.

PROS CLAIM THEY SEE LITTLE DIFFERENCE IN PLAYING NEW BALL

PASADENA, Cal., Dec. 21—(AP)—The new golf ball, the only one after January 1, has won its first skirmish with the men who earn their living playing it.

The revised larger and lighter ball was ruled standard equipment for the Pasadena open tournament and only pelletsh earing teh mark of 1931 were permitted. Results were favorable to the new model.

However, the final verdict from the professionals will not be returned until a tournament is played when the wind is blowing. The Pasadena tourney was played in calm weather.

The scoring showed no change as a result of the change in balls. There were about the normal number of birdies, just as few eagles, and the run of the mine pars as in days of yore, when the ball was smaller and heavier.

The usual division of opinion developed among the players. Some thought they could not putt as well as before, and claims were made that the new ball was "rimming the cup" too much, but golfers seldom agree on any part of the game. The consesus was in favor of the over-size ball.

"I don't see that the new ball is any harder to pla tyhan the old one," said Walter Hagen, the old master. "Anyway, it's here and it doesn't make any difference what we think about it."

Tommy Armour, Professional Golf association champion, spoke up in defense of the latest edition.

"I like ti," he said. "My shots through the fairway are better, especially the irons. Yes, it's a pleasure to play it."

"No one was surprised to hear that Mortie Dutra, Long Beach, Cal., pro, liked it. He had a round in 69.

Tony Manero, who has played lots of golf in many places, was not prepared to condemn the new ball but he admitted a mental complex.

"I know it won't go as far as the old one and I have been trying to hit it harded than I should," he said.

Harry Cooper was short with his putts and wondered if it was the fault of the ball or his putter, but Johnny Dawson, who went to the semi-finals in the British amateur, said he liked to play it.

Horton Smith's diagnosis awaits confirmation by Professor Einstein.

"The new ball is harder to putt," and the tall pine transplanted from Missouri to New York.

"The weight is not centralized as it was in the old one and this ball is more apt to rim the cup."

Fellow pros suggested this involved relatively and it was fortunate perhaps, that Einstein was on his way to California.

Golf fans who can hit any golf ball, new or old, into a trap or the rough, said they saw little difference in the distance or direction of the ball leaving the players' clubs.

Spectators who have played the Brookside course, scene of the tournament, many times, suggested that the charge of being a bad putting ball was perhaps unjustified. They said the cups were in tricky places on the greens.

Players who participated in tournament golf only by following the stars watched the performance of the new ball with interest. Many of these never will break 100 with any size or weight ball, but they have hopes. All agreed with Hagen: "Anyway, it's here."

WASHINGTON STATE TEAM TAKES NO CHANCES IN WORK

BERKELEY, Cal., Dec. 21—(AP)—Coach "Babe" Hollingbery's Washington State college Cougars, en route to Pasadena to meet the University of Alabama in an inter-sectional football match New Year's day, stopped here today to work out with the western all-star team. Tonight the Cougars departed for Los Angeles.

The western all-star team, made up of Pacific coast, mid-western and Texas college stars, is preparing for the Shrine benefit game next Saturday against a similar team of eastern players.

Except for Glenn Edwards, star Washington tackle, the Cougars presented their regular first string lineup in today's workout, which consisted chiefly of dummy scrimmage and touch tackle.

Edwards, who was injured in a game several weeks ago against Villa Nova, may be unable to start against Alabama in the Rose Bowl classic. Hollingbery gave the team only a light workout, "to shake the stiffness out" of the players after their train trip here from Portland, Oregon.

AMERICANS BEAT FALCONS IN FREE-SCORING GAME

NEW YORK, Dec. 21.—(AP)—Running up their highest score of the season in a wide-open National Hockey league game, the New York Americans defeated the Detroit Falcons tonight, 6-4. The victory put the Americans back into third place in the Canadian division.

After two close periods the Americans went on a scoring rampage early in the third and scored three goals in succession, one of them a gift from Carson Cooper of Detroit, who accidentally shot the puck into his own net. Refusing to be halted by a 6-2 lead, the Falcons came back and scored two more counters in the minute of play.

Frank Carson, third string American wing man, and Larry Aurie of Detroit shared the scoring honors, each getting three goals. McVeigh, Patterson and Burch scored New York's other three counters, and Evans made Detroit's final goal.

VELVETMEN WIN FAST GAME FROM PUTNAM

Sunday afternoon at J. B. Martin field, the Velvetmen defeated the Putnam soccer team in the Eastern Connecticut league tilt, 3 to 1. Erickson, Thompson and Roehead counted for the locals while Fenton saved Putnam from a whitewash by scoring on a penalty shot. Thompson's goal was on a spectacular long shot.

The Martinmen are leading the circuit and have lost but one game this season.

SHYMA TEAM WILLING TO PLAY FOR CHARITY

The Shyma basketball team of Taftville came forth Sunday evening with the announcement that they will accept the offer of the Y Seniors to play a benefit game for the city's needy. Coach J. Howard Demarest announced in Sunday's Record that they were willing to meet any club for charity.

The date of the game has not been arranged but the scene of action, in all probability, will be the Y gym. There is no doubt but what this tilt will draw a banner outpouring of the fans for it will be played for a worthy cause.

What A Game!

Saturday night at the Elks' alleys a special match took place between Capt. Henry Bamber's team and Capt. Benny Mandel's team, the losers to treat the winners to a turkey supper at the new Norwich inn. The first game was taken by Capt. Bamber and the second game by Capt. Mandel's team. The third and deciding game came out a tie, both teams bowling 423 pins. After much excitement and heated arguments the team decided to roll the fourth and deciding game which was taken by Capt. Mandel by a 2-pin margin. The stars of the match were Al (Lucky) Heneault, who bowled 150 in his last string and Sollie Budnick, who bowled 152 and won his teammates a turkey supper.

Lineup of the teams:

THE THREE-FOLD JOY OF CHRISTMAS OBSERVANCE

thronging marts of trade all remind us of the anniversary of joy and pride and hail its coming with preparation. The Christmas observance by all classes of people seems a significant contrast to the attitude reflected in the context for at this season men seek light rather than darkness—if we say that is exceptional, the beauty of such is none the less real.

"The joy of the observance is threefold; first, the joy of Santa Claus, with the scenes of the decorated tree, the mirth and laughter and the bestowal of gifts; second, the joy found in the service of Divine worship when, in song and verse, we retell the story and find comfort in the cherished beliefs of the Christian legends; and how beautiful is the poetic story of the watching shepherds, the crowded inn, the lowly manger and the blessing of the Wise Men from afar. Our joy, however, transcends the doctrinal, the technical and the literal; it is deeper, based in human nature. Third, we have joy because Jesus brought light into the world; the world darkened by ignorance and by spite and prejudice and by perplexity. Into such a world, Jesus brings the light of normal truth and spiritual aspiration. There can be no greater gift to mankind than this of the prophet's insight and courage; recognition of this is back of movement—all but universal—to show abundant honor to the name and character of Jesus.

CANDLELIGHT SERVICE AT THE UNIVERSALIST CHURCH

The annual Christmas candlelight vesper service was held at 5 o'clock Sunday evening in the Church of the Good Shepherd (Universalist). A large and appreciative audience heard the 15-minute violin recital by Edward Brennan, assisted at the piano by Mrs. Brennan. The following numbers were beautifully rendered: Chanson Sans Paroles, Herman Heller; Canzonetta, Dante Carrasini; Sweet Lavender, Clarence Wheeler; Bygones, Rapple and Axt.

At 5:15 o'clock to the music of the First Noel by the unseen choir the 12 candle lighters with long tapers lighted the hundreds of candles. Then followed the angel chorus singing "It Came Upon the Midnight Clear," which opened the pageant, "Pilgrims of the East," in six episodes.

The cast was as follows: Angel Gabriel, Alice Parsons; first angel, Mary Gray; attendant angel, Virginia Givanen; Mary, Betty Pike; Joseph, Herbert Lawrence; cherubs, Muriel Clisbee, Eleanor Clisbee, Janice Jackson, Virginia Klingman, Cecil Klingman, Mildred Banning; shepherds, Charles Parsons, Charles Barnes, Oliver Armstrong, Jr.; wise men, Harry Bjurstrom, George Clisbee, George Bell; angels, Hattie Fowler, Marian Jervis, Lorna Maynard, Eleanor Pike, Ann Stockdale, Dorothy Parsons, Helen Williams, Marian Maynard, Ruth Banning, Evelyn Barnes.

The accompaniment for the pageant was given by Mrs. Beatrice Mitchell, the organist, and Rev. A. N. Foster, the pastor, was the reader. Mrs. A. N. Foster was director of the pageant.

BEAUTIFUL PAGEANT AT PARK CONG. CHURCH

The Christmas pageant, "Oh Come With Us Adoring," was beautifully and impressively presented Sunday afternoon at Park Congregational church before a congregation that filled the church to capacity. The characters were appropriately costumed and portrayed their parts exceedingly well. The musical portion of the pageant was supplied by Miss Annie Taft, organist, and the lighting effects were provided through courtesy of Charles W. Taggart, general manager of the gas and electric department.

The cast follows: Concealed reader, Rev. Theodore M. Shipherd, D.D., the pastor; Mary, Catherine Bunnell; Joseph, Charles Saxton; cherubs, Nancy Prentice, Susan Wirth, Marilyn Crowell; angels, Eunice Ingalls, Elizabeth Shipherd, Ruth Richardson, Rosanna Page, Miss Driscoll, Doris Drescher; pilgrim, Lyle Fillmore; travelers, George Ingalls, Philip Johnson, Eben Learned, Arthur Collins, John Richardson, David Morton; shepherds, Russell Edmonds, Culver Floyd, Harold Hansen; wise men, Stuart Hynds, William Agnew, Neil Finlayson; Isaiah, Kenneth Church; candle lighters, Muriel Hynds, Helen Clapp; gift bearers, Leonard Johnson, Robert Wirth, Weston Goodenough.

The general committee in charge of the pageant comprised Mrs. Theodore M. Shipherd, chairman; Mrs. Samuel E. Smiley, Mrs. George L. Ingalls, Mrs. Gurdon L. Bidwell, Mrs. Robert W. Perkins, Miss Alexandrine Trumbull, Miss Annie Taft and Lyle Fillmore.

SEARCH FOR THE BEST SAYS METHODIST PASTOR

"The life of Jesus Christ is the most provocative life that becomes a source of power in shaping other human lives in conduct and character," said Rev. Joseph Cooper, pastor of Trinity Methodist Episcopal church, in his Christmas message at the church Sunday morning. In his sermon he said in part as follows:

The Magi were one of the divisions of the Persian race of Medes. They were priests of the truly great Zoroaster, the leader and prophet of Persia. The Hebrews had come into contact with the Medes during their exile in Babylon and both peoples were influenced by each other in their religious views. The Hebrews had some dim idea of the doctrine of immortality before that contact but they were encouraged to develop those views under the stimulus of the Magi's teachings. Astrology, the forerunner of astronomy, became the special study of these Magi. To them the heavens were like a book of secrets from which they could draw a knowledge of man's life and destiny. The appearance of a bright star suggested some unusual happening upon the earth such as the birth of a great personage.

Under the impetus of that idea they started out to find that great life. They found what they were looking for. The inward urge prompted the outward search. They followed the external light because of the gleam within their own minds. We seek the thing we hope to find. We see what we go to see. All of us create our own goals. If we hitch our wagons to a star we seek the highest thing we can seek for and are likely to reach something infinitely higher than if we had hitched our wagon to a tallow candle.

Do we really want to find the Christ, to see Him and to know Him, then let us follow the holy light we find within ourselves and it will certainly lead us to Him.

The splendor of the star suggested the grandeur of the search they were undertaking. To these men it pointed to some truly great soul. There was nothing mean or selfish about their searching curiosity. They saw a great life behind the star. The sublimity of the symbol pointed to something even more sublime. It is the high thing that lifts our souls on high. The effects of our worship depend upon the object of our worship. To worship a beast is surely to become bestial. To worship a stone can only narrow and stultify the mind. We become like the thing we choose to love and adore. "Our souls are subdued to what they work in." We must look high to reach high. The upward look is always the look of faith, of adoration, of love. We should encourage ourselves in the search for the best things. To be satisfied to be second rate is to fall far below both our privileges and possibilities.

The Star-life is seen in beautiful music. The Christian faith has given the world the finest music for the expression of all its religious moods and feelings.

Danbury Priests Honored

Rev. James E. O'Brien, P. R., of St. Peter's church, Danbury, former pastor of St. Mary's church, Stonington, and Rev. Edward J. Plunkett, the new pastor of St. Joseph's church, in the same city, who is a native of Norwich, were tendered a reception Tuesday in K. of C. home, Danbury, by the members of McGivney council, K. of C. A large assemblage of members greeted the two priests.

Greeneville Cong. Church

The Christmas service Sunday morning at the Greeneville Congregational church had a large attendance. Rev. Charles H. Ricketts, the pastor, gave a very inspiring address appropriate to the season. His subject was "The Coming of the Spiritual Day." The musical program was under the direction of the church organist, Mrs. Watters.

WESTERLY

TAFTVILLE MAN RELEASED UNDER BOND OF $250

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WESTERLY, R. I., Dec. 19.—George U. Smith, 26, of 33 Hunters avenue, Taftville, charged with drunken auto driving, when a Chevrolet oil truck, owned by his brother, Wilfred Smith, of 5 Beach street, Taftville, was smashed in running off a Stonington highway on Saturday night, was released Sunday morning. A $250 cash bail was taken by Stonington Town Court Judge William A. Wilcox on Sunday morning at the Liberty street courthouse at which lockup Smith was lodged on Saturday night when arrested by Officer Arthur Whitmarsh of the Groton barracks. He was summoned to appear at the regular Tuesday morning session of Stonington town court. A companion, Richard Coleman, of Taftville, who was in the truck cab with Smith at the time of the truck leaving the highway, continued a patient on Sunday at the Westerly hospital. As the result of the cab being smashed in the crash Coleman sustained seven or eight deep cuts and lacerations, which Dr. Michael H. Scanlon, assisted by Dr. C. Grant Savage, took 28 stitches to close. He was picked up by Miss Mary Cronin and taken to the Westerly office of Dr. Scanlon and from there was removed to the Westerly hospital.

Presenting themselves with only tags for their admission and identification over a hundred girls and boys were present on Saturday evening when a Christmas tree and party was held for them by members of the Democratic club of Westerly in Mechanics' hall on Broad street. The children who attended the party were selected by the Westerly chapter of the American Red Cross, the People's Mission and Father Bruno of the Church of the Immaculate Conception.

During the evening toys, oranges, candy and a large quantity of clothing, shoes and rubbers were distributed among the children. A member of the committee stated that articles valued at more than $300 were given away. The party was in charge of a committee headed by Mrs. Edward Sawyer, chairman, and Mrs. John Fuscaldo, treasurer.

OBITUARY.

Edward A. Brown.

On Saturday night occurred the death of Edward Allen Brown of William street, a resident of Westerly for the past 30 years, at the Margaret Edward Anderson hospital. He had been in ill health for some time and confined to the hospital about five weeks.

The deceased was born in Hopkinton 64 years ago, the son of Clark E., and Hannah E. Brown. He was educated in the schools of that town, coming to Westerly shortly after his marriage 30 years ago. He is survived by his wife, Bertha Brown, and a daughter, Mrs. Florence Sylvia, both of 29 William street.

At one time Mr. Brown conducted a livery stable on Coggswell street and for some time previous to his illness he was employed by the state highway department.

Arrested For Speeding.

Saturday night Geraldine Gentile, a weaver, residing at 114 High street, Westerly, was arrested on the Westerly-New London road by a trooper from the Groton barracks. The driver was reported speeding at the rate of 70 miles an hour.

The operator will be arraigned in the Stonington court on this (Monday) morning on two charges, one of operating an automobile without a license and the other of speeding.

107 PET CANARIES AID BLIND SINGER

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Dec. 21—(AP)—A young lyric soprano, blind since birth, trains for her concert tours with the aid of 107 pet canaries.

In a white, airy room of her home, Miss Catherine Schneider, when she is not on the road, sings with the songbirds as she goes about her work of caring for them.

The singer has found the birds have temperaments comparable to divas. They prefer classical music, Miss Schneider says, and are quick to follow her when she trills a bit of "La Boheme," or "Il Trovatore."

Sometimes when their singing has not satisfied them they refuse to eat, she says.

Often, when their mistress is away on a concert tour, they lapse into periods of silence, or sing halfheartedly.

A chance meeting with a blind couple in Cleveland 14 months ago induced Miss Schneider to raise canaries. She began with six birds.

SAVONA CLAIMS LIQUOR WAS FOR CHRISTENING OF HIS NEW HOUSE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WESTERLY, R. I., Dec. 19.—Joseph Savona, apprehended by Westerly police following a very wet raid at his place on the Bradford road, near Waite Corners on Saturday night and lodged in the Westerly police station, was arraigned in a special session of third district court on Sunday at 10.30 a. m. before Judge Oliver H. Williams.

On complaint of Westerly Chief of Police Thomas E. Brown, Savona was charged on Dec. 16th with the unlawful sale of intoxicating liquors to Norman L. Behneke. He pleaded not guilty, saying that he had the stuff and a new house which he intimated to the court was for the purposes of a proper christening and added that he wanted "about a month's continuance of the case for trial." Judge Williams declared that so much time was not need nor even the two weeks' time later asked for, and set thial date as next Friday, Dec. 26th.

Chief of Police Brown informed the court that Prosecutor Ferguson would be away at that time for the Christmas holidays. "Let him have somebody here to attend to it for him," returned Judge Williams, "the bond is $500 for his appearance at that time."

Frank Falco, owning property at Bradford with his wife, was then accepted as surety, and the accused, charged with possession and exposing for sale of intoxicating liquors, departed the Union street courtroom in company with his brother, Salvadore Savona, alias "Shorty, the Barber," whose place was fruitlessly searched by a police raiding party on Saturday night at 18 Canal street.

A number of local people attended a performance given by the Fitch players of the Robert E. Fitch high school in the high school auditorium Thursday evening.

Basketball fans are planning to attend the game between the local Whirlwinds and Colchester, at Colchester, tonight (Saturday).

Mr. and Mrs. John B. Tourjee were in New London Friday.

MONTVILLE

TAYLOR—PARKER WEDDING AT UNCASVILLE PARSONAGE

Saturday at 8 p. m., at Uncasville M. E. parsonage, Rev. Otis Lee Monson, pastor of the M. E. church, united in marriage Miss Mildred Parker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Parker, of Gay Hill, and Clarence Taylor, son of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Taylor, of Palmertown. The bridesmaid was Miss Agnes Taylor, sister of the groom, and the best man was Harold Babcock. The bride was attired in a gown of blue chiffon, with hat to match, and carried a bouquet of roses. The bridesmaid wore blue crepe de chine, with hat to match, and her bouquet was of lilies of the valley. Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride for members of the family and intimate friends. The gifts to the bride were numerous and beautiful. After the reception, Mr. and Mrs. Taylor left for a wedding trip and on their return will reside at the home of the groom's parents, at Palmertown.

FIVE MASSES CHRISTMAS AT THE CATHOLIC CHURCH

At the four masses Sunday in St. John's church, Uncasville, Rev. Father Thomas Lynch and Rev. Father Terence P. Finnegan offered the holy sacrifice. A class of 25 children received first holy communion at the 8:30 mass. The mission for the members of the parish who speak Polish will begin this (Monday) morning at 7:00 and again the pastor urged all the Polish members of the church and their friends to make this mission. Wednesday the vigil of Christmas is a fast day. Confessions will be heard Wednesday afternoon beginning at 3 o'clock and in the evening beginning at 7. The masses Christmas morning will be at 6:30, 7:30, 8:30, 9:30 and 10:30. The first mass will be a solemn high mass; the children will sing at the 8:30 service. The last mass will be a high mass.

BAPTIST SERVICE HELD IN SCHOOL AUDITORIUM

God's Promise was the theme of the Montville Union Baptist church service Sunday morning at 10:45. It was held in the Palmertown school auditorium by the pastor, Rev. Raymond J. Bates. Sunday school was held at noon. The 6:30 p. m. C. E. meeting and the 7:30 p. m. services were omitted.

Holiday Rush at Postoffice

The three postoffices in the town were kept busy Friday and Saturday. The Christmas rush is expected to reach its peak today (Monday) and Tuesday. Local postoffices will be closed all day Thursday, Christmas day, and there will be no deliveries that day.

REVIEW OF BUSINESS AND INDUSTRY

NEW YORK, Dec. 21.—(AP)— Last minute patching of some of the holes in the Christmas stockings buoyed spirits in business and financial circles during the past week to a level more appropriate for the holiday season.

Sharp declines in commodities and securities were arrested, and in the bond market, particularly, substantial recovery was achieved. The decline in bonds had been distinctly discouraging, inasmuch as this market has been habitually a sustaining factor in times of depression.

Business statistics, in the main, reflected little but the expected seasonal trends in December. It was notable, however, that steel mill operations held steady at a little under 40 per cent of capacity, after several weeks of declines; freight car loadings, as reported for the first week of the month, showed a larger than usual gain after the Thanksgiving holiday week, and electric power production was well sustained.

Reports of the volume of retail trade were irregular, but several cities reported movement of a volume of merchandise comparing favorably with that of a year ago. Merchants, however, continue to report a decided preference for the cheaper lines of merchandise, and in the main, slower business in luxuries and novelties.

The fresh pressure against commodity prices early in the week carried cotton to a new low for the past 15 years, and silver metal to a new historical minimum. The nearer deliveries of wheat still reflected successful stabilization, but the July delivery sagged to the lowest price since 1901, in sympathy with heaviness of Winnipeg. Copper was reduced 1-2 cent to 10 cents a pound, but the further decline stimulated foreign buying.

Most of the weekly steel trade reviews found that prices of steel products were being well sustained, and consumers were showing increased interest in contracting for first quarter delivery. It is expected that ingot production may be restricted further during the holiday weeks, when inventories are taken. Some observers felt that a reduction to 35 per cent of capacity would be logical, but expect the seasonal upturn in January may carry operations up to about 60 per cent.

The Annalist preliminary index of business activity for November was announced at 76.5, the lowest since 1908, but indications are that it is now at the level at which consumption is believed to be certain to overtake production, and the recovery to begin. Furthermore, it should be explained that this index does not indicate that the volume of business has fallen anywhere near the levels of 22 years ago, or even near that of 1921. It merely indicates the extent of deviation from the normal rate of growth over a long period.

The Atlantic states shippers advisory board estimates that commodity shipments in the Atlantic states during the first quarter of 1931 will show a decline from the like period of 1930 of only slightly more than one per cent, which is relatively favorable, in view of the fact that shipments were maintained on a fairly high level during the early months of this year.

Automobile output is now believed to be about on a par with the low levels of December, 1929, and seasonal improvement is expected during the early months of next year. Automobile manufacturers have been purchasing substantial amounts of raw materials. Seasonal slackening is reported in furniture manufacturing, lumber, textiles and various miscellaneous lines.

Traffic Standard Set

HARRISBURG, Pa., Dec. 21—(AP)— A "standard" of traffic has been set by the state highway department, requiring stop-and-go lights only at intersections where the peak load exceeds 500 cars an hour and more than 125 cars entering from side roads.

Wheat loadings at the port of Galveston totaled 3,698.233 bushels in September, an increase of 1,108.633 bushels over the same month a year ago.

NEW YORK, Dec. 21—(AP)—The general perspective with regard to the railroad situation has grown seriously distorted, says Moody's, which assigns the industrial depression as the vital cause of low railroad earnings. Such factors as autobus competition, pipeline expansion and government regulation were cited as having been vastly overemphasized by the majority of commentators. "Within the next ten years," Moody's says, "the railroads will be able to improve their properties, give excellent service and pay dividends."

Municipal financing scheduled for award during the week totals $25,358,763, against offerings last week of $17,473,049, the bond buyer reports. Awards for the week include requirements of 140 communities, the largest of which is $15,000,000 State of Louisiana 4 1-2 per cent bonds to be sold Saturday. Other large issues include $4,500,000 New Orleans 4 1-2 per cent bonds to be placed Monday.

A notice issued to noteholders announced formation of a committee to protect the interests of American Fuel & Power Co Five-year secured 7 per cent convertible gold notes, due July 1, 1934. In asking holders to deposit their notes, the committee points out the need for action in view of the appointment of a receiver of Kentucky Fuel Gas Corp. and Inland Gas Corp., the common stock and voting trust certificates representing common stock of which have been pledged under the trust agreement under which the notes were issued.

Offering is scheduled tomorrow of $3,000,000 City of Providence, R. I., 4 per cent highway and school bonds, due serially Jan. 1, 1932 to 1951, inclusive, at prices to yield from 3 to 4 per cent according to maturity.

PARIS FAVORS LOOSE GOWNS— SNUG-FITTING SKIRTS GO

PARIS, Dec. 21—(AP)—The Mode Directoire, which Napoleon's picturesque empress made famous, has placed its stamp on star-light styles.

These days the directoire gown, high-waisted, full-skirted, soft-hanging, as designed by Molyneux and other Parisian couturiers, is often seen wherever smart Parisiennes gather by night.

As a result, the tightly swathed svelte hip-line is gradually giving way.

Evening skirts no longer hug the hips tightly.

In the directoire models they sweep from the high waistline in soft plaited or gathered folds, much more simple in cut, though subtly more intricate in effect than the snug fashion.

Not a few of them trail the floor, while others just brush the instep, and they give la femme the langourous grace for which husbands and sweethearts have long been clamoring.

Many of the directoire models favor the lingerie neckline, with the shirred bodice attached to shoulder straps, while occasionally the round neck is in evidence.

The high-waisted belts are generally simple in design—a smooth band of the same material as the dress an inch and a half wide—occasionally finished with a buckle or brooch. The gowns are shown in many colors and tints.

Reductions in gas and electric rates of California public utilities amounted to more than $10,000,000 during the last fiscal year.

MYSTIC

Saturday evening, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Everts, of Noank, Mrs. Everts, worthy matron for the year 1930 of Charity chapter, O. E. S., entertained the officers and committees at supper and for the evening. At 6:30 the supper, consisting of chicken a la newburg, potato croquettes, peas, cabbage salad, cranberry sauce, pickles, lemon meringue pie and coffee, was served. The tables were decorated with the season's colors, green and red, and each person had a small favor basket of assorted nuts. The place cards were pictures of Santa Claus. The evening was spent with music, games and cards. Robert Byles and Mrs. Hazel Oles won the prizes and Miss Eleanor Scaplan and Charles C. Dodd were given the consolation awards. The officers presented a chest of silver to Mrs. Everts and members of the committees gave various gifts. Mrs. Everts presented each woman guest with a reed tray and to Mrs. Alice Clark, the incoming matron, a large reed tray, all the work of herself. To the worthy patron, she presented a silver cigar cutter. The members of the various committees and the officers have all worked very harmoniously with their worthy matron during the past year. Present were Mr. and Mrs. L. Girard of New London, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Byles, Mrs. Emily Small and Mrs. Florence Edgecomb of Groton, Mrs. Joel Kenyon of Poquonoc Bridge, Mr. and Mrs. Charles C. POETRY

Psalm 92

It is a good thing to thank thee
And praise thy Name, O Lord;
O God of highest majesty,
Who reigns at home, abroad.

To tell thy kindness, love, at dawn
Of morning's early light;
To tell thy truth when day has gone
And fall the shades of night.

Praise God who reigns o'er earthly kings,
With sweet and tuneful flute,
On instrument of many strings,
Upon the harp and lute.

For thou hast made me to rejoice
Through all thy works and ways,
And I with instruments and voice
Will gladly give thee praise.

O Lord, thy works are glorious,
Thy wonders never sleep,
Thou watchest wisely over us,
Thy thoughts are very deep.

—By the late Charles Nevers Holmes.

Memories Of Santaland

It comes through the shadows and dreaming.
It soars through the day and the night;
Santa Land flamed in a picture
That burns with a beauty so bright!

The map will be useless to show it,
The road there is blurred till you see
Through the faith of the child and its glow lit
Like candles of dream on a tree!

But an older and memoried fellow
May help you to find it through song—
Put on your wings, Punchinello,
Let us help the poor travelers along!

It's a country of fairies and figures
Of elfin and magic delight—
That Santa Land back of the hollows
Of the moonless and mystical night!

—Baltimore Sun.

HUMOR OF THE DAY

"I can't make heads or tails of this time-table."

"Let's go up and ask the engineer what his plans are."—Boston Transcript.

"What is a critic, dad?" the small boy asked of his actor father.

"A critic, son," replied the player thoughtfully, "is a man who can take a clock apart, but doesn't know enough to put it together."—Portland Express.

A man was crossing a one-way street and cautiously looked in both directions.

"What are you looking both ways for?" laughed a friend.

"Well, I wanted to see where I was going to land if I got hit."—Portland Express.

Waiter—Mr. Brown's left his umbrella again. I believe he'd leave his head if it were loose.

Manager—I dare say you're right. I heard him say only yesterday he was going to Switzerland for his lungs.—Pathfinder.

At a dinner-party a very absent-minded professor was seated next to a charming woman.

"Don't you remember me, Professor," she smiled. "Why, some years ago you asked me to marry you!"

"Ah, yes," said the professor; "and did you?"—Optimist.

However unreasonable customers are, business men have found that it pays to go the limit to please a customer.

A woman entered a grocer's shop and asked for some good cheese. The grocer showed her some which did not please her. She wanted some particularly "lively" cheese. He showed her the remainder of his stock, but she wasn't satisfied. She wanted it still more "lively."

At last the grocer, losing patience, called sarcastically to his assistant:

"John, unchain number seven and let it in."—Santa Fe Mag.

The longer a girl stays in college, the more she is likely to smoke, according to a survey of Smith college students' smoking habits. Of a total of 620 freshmen, 249 do not smoke, while of a total of 460 seniors, only 117 do not smoke.

The glider art is to be added to Boston university's curriculum. Prof. H. N. Carleton, wartime aviator, and Professor Myron S. Huckle, of Massachusetts Institute of Technology, are building a glider which will be used for the instruction of a class of some thirty students.

Our word quarantine, from the Italian word or ortyf, harks back to the middle ages, when plague sufferers were isolated for forty days, that precise period being chosen because it was the duration of Christ's lonely stay in the desert, and not for any scientific reason.

New Jersey state troopers read on the automatic telegraph printer at Eatontown; "Automobile of Mayor Frank Dorsey, Perth Amboy, stolen in Perth Amboy 4 o'clock this afternoon. Believed—" A great racket out in front. A banging and a smashing and a cracking of glass. The troopers extricated the driver from the wreckage and held him for theft and reckless driving. The automobile was Mayor Dorsey's.

On a farm near Gladstone, Va., A. A. Babcock has a coon dog named Red and a collie, Pete. The latter failed to show up one evening. After several days it was noticed that Red was carrying away bones and scraps given him. Babcock followed him one day and saw Red go to a stone quarry and drop the food into a hole. In the bottom of the hole, forty feet deep, was Pete. He had fallen in and could not get out.

AUGUSTA, Ga., Dec. 21—(AP)—E. W. Dodge, 79, of Augusta possesses a coat of arms presented in 1302 by the then reigning king of England to Peter Dodge, a major in the British army. The coat of arms was given for valiant service.

"Gift" For Queen Mary

LONDON, Dec. 21 —(AP)— Queen Mary is giving herself a Christmas present this year. It is a miniature of her latest grandchild, Princess Margaret, and is being executed by her special commission. It will be the fourth of a series of tiny portraits of her grandchildren.

Harem Veil

PARIS, Dec. 21—(AP)—The harem veil is the last word in wedding finery for the modern Parisienne.

Several of the newest wedding costumes include tulle veils which sweep the length of the train in the back and fall over the wearer's face to her knees.
